Mission Statement

Mission Statement

The mission of the University of Richmond is to educate in an academically challenging, intellectually vibrant, and collaborative community dedicated to the holistic development of students and the production of scholarly and creative work. A Richmond education prepares students for lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a diverse world.

Organization and Accreditation

Organization and Accreditation

Five academic schools and two colleges form the University of Richmond, with authority and responsibility vested legally in the Board of Trustees and the president of the University. The several colleges and schools award no degrees individually, but all degrees for work done in any one of them are conferred by the University of Richmond.

The University enrolls approximately 2,900 full-time undergraduates, 92 percent of whom live on campus; 600 full-time law and graduate students; and 1,300 part-time students, largely from Richmond and the surrounding community.

SACSCOC ACCREDITATION

The University of Richmond is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) to award associate, baccalaureate, master, and doctoral degrees. The University of Richmond also may offer credentials such as certificates and diplomas at approved degree levels. Questions about the accreditation of the University of Richmond may be directed in writing to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, GA 30033-4097, by calling (404) 679-4500, or by using information available on SACSCOC's website (www.sacscoc.org).

To request a copy of our letter of accreditation, contact: Office of Institutional Effectiveness, 118 UR Drive, University of Richmond, VA 23173; Phone: (804) 484-1595; FAX (804) 484-1596.

AACSB ACCREDITATION

The Robins School of Business is fully accredited at the undergraduate and graduate levels in Business and Accounting by the Association for the Advancement of Collegiate Schools of Business International (AACSB).

ABA ACCREDITATION

The University of Richmond School of Law is fully accredited by the recognized standardizing agencies in the United States. It is a member of the Association of American Law Schools; it is on the approved lists of the American Bar Association and the Virginia State Board of Bar Examiners; and its Juris Doctor degree is fully accredited by the Regents of the University of the State of New York. Although each state has its own requirements for admission to the bar, a law degree from the School of Law qualifies the holder to seek admission to the bar in any state in the nation and in the District of Columbia. Additional information about accreditation may be found at abanet.org/legaled/resources/contactus.html.

VIRGINIA STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION CERTIFICATION

The University also is approved by the Virginia State Board of Education to offer teacher licensure programs.

COUNCIL FOR THE ACCREDITATION OF EDUCATOR PREPARATION

The University of Richmond's initial-licensure level and the advanced level programs are accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY ACCREDITATION

The University of Richmond's chemistry program is accredited by the American Chemical Society.

Computing Facilities

Computing Facilities

The University of Richmond has a strong commitment to prepare students to work in technology- and information-centered environments. The University provides computers, software, and specialized equipment for student use in labs, public areas, classrooms, and residence hall lounges. The entire campus is blanketed with a high-speed wireless network that provides students, faculty, staff, and guests with secure access to a wealth of resources.

The University maintains a robust network infrastructure. The wireless network supports mobile computing in every building on campus, and provides coverage in most outdoor locations and public gathering spaces. Information Services maintains University-owned systems loaded with up-to-date versions of the latest software tools and anti-virus software. All users must have an active University computer account to log into any lab machine. To help ensure the security of the University systems and network, the University requires all users to change passwords regularly in order to maintain an active account. Policies regarding the use of technology and information resources are posted on the Information Services Policies website.

The ground floor of Jepson Hall houses many computing resources, including a general purpose computer lab open to all faculty, staff, and students. In addition, there are two classrooms with PC workstations, three classrooms with Mac workstations, and a new state of the art, active learning classroom space equipped with 24 laptops, and wireless presentation capabilities associated with all seven display locations. Each classroom is also equipped with full multimedia capabilities, including HD projection, and touch panel technology for video and audio source control. When classes are not in session, the Jepson Hall computer classrooms are open for student use. Jepson Hall is also the location of the Computer Help Desk, a resource that provides assistance with computing-related issues for the entire campus. A listing of the current hours of operation for all of these resources may be found on the Information Services website.

The Technology Learning Center (TLC) is a unique resource located on the second floor of Boatwright Memorial Library. It is devoted to servicing specialty software and multimedia needs of students, faculty, and staff. This area offers PC and Mac workstations equipped with high-end Web development, multimedia (including the Adobe Creative Cloud), animation, 3-D modeling, and audio-video recording and editing software. Scanners, high quality printers, large-format plotters, digitizers, and digital video and still cameras also are available. In addition, the TLC contains a photography studio, a small recording studio, and a One Button studio. The TLC is staffed by experts who can help students, faculty, and staff effectively use the specialized tools.

Technology training for students, faculty, and staff is available in a variety of formats, including books available through the Library catalog, more than 17,000 online video courses from LinkedIn Learning (lynda.richmond.edu), and one-on-one training sessions, which are available through appointments at the TLC. TLC hours of operation and current technology training classes may be found on the Information Services website.

Confidentiality/Privacy Rights/Right to Know

Confidentiality/Privacy Rights/Right to Know

University of Richmond procedures and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) prohibit the unauthorized release of confidential information about individual students. However, directory information is not considered to be confidential and may be published or otherwise released. Directory information includes: name; addresses, including permanent, campus, local (off-campus), email, and campus computer network (IP) address; associated telephone numbers; date and place of birth; school or college; major and/or minor fields of study; degree sought; expected date of completion of degree requirements and graduation; degrees conferred; awards and honors (e.g., dean's list); full- or part-time enrollment status; dates of attendance; previous institutions attended; participation in officially recognized activities and sports; weight and height of members of an athletic team; and photograph. A full list of information considered directory information is available on the Office of the University Registrar's website at registrar.richmond.edu/ferpa/statement/index.html or by contacting the Office of the University Registrar. Students may opt to have their directory information withheld. To exercise this option, the appropriate form must be obtained from the Office of the University Registrar, completed, and returned to that office. Once filed, this form remains in effect until withdrawn by the student in writing to the Office of the University Registrar. For further information, contact the Office of the University Registrar.

Note: Code of Virginia 23.1-405(C) restricts the disclosure of a student's email address, physical address, or telephone number to parties outside the University under the exception in the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) for directory information unless the student has approved the disclosure in writing.

Rights with Respect to Education Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. These rights include:

1. Access to Education Records: students have the right to inspect and review their education records within 45 days of the day the University receives a written request for access. Students should submit their request to the Office of the University Registrar and specify the record(s) they wish to inspect. Arrangements will be made for access and the student notified of the time and place where the records may be inspected.
2. Request for Amendment of Education Records: students have the right to request amendment of their education records if they believe the records are inaccurate. They should write the University Registrar, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate. If the University decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the University will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.
3. Disclosure of Education Records: students have the right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.

One exception which permits disclosure without consent is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interest. A school official is a person employed by the University in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person or company with whom the University has contracted (such as an attorney, auditor, or collection agent); a person serving on the Board of Trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility.

Upon request, the University discloses records without consent to officials of another school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

4. Right to File a Complaint: Students have the right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the University of Richmond to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office U.S. Department of Education 400 Maryland Avenue, SW Washington, DC 20202-4605

The University's complete policy statement can be found on the University Registrar's website at registrar.richmond.edu/ferpa/statement/index.html

Note: Because of the access afforded by a University ID, this number is not considered directory information and will not be released without a student's consent except in situations as listed above. Students should treat the University ID as confidential-it should be protected and not carelessly shared with others. It will be used for a student's entire time at the University of Richmond, so it should always be treated in a confidential manner.

Right To Know

In accordance with the Student Right To Know and Campus Security Act, the University of Richmond makes graduation rates available to all current and incoming students. These figures can be found on the University's website at ifx.richmond.edu/research/fact-book.html.

Environment and History

Environment and History

The University of Richmond campus consists of about 50 major buildings of Collegiate Gothic architectural style set amid 350 acres of lawns, lake, and woodlands. The beautiful and harmonious setting has been recognized nationally by college guides. Richmond's history began almost two centuries ago with Richmond College, founded in 1830 by Virginia Baptists as a college of liberal arts and sciences for men. Around this nucleus were established the T.C.

University of Richmond

Williams School of Law (1870); Westhampton College, a college of liberal arts and sciences for women (1914); the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, for advanced study in the liberal arts and sciences (1921-2009); the E. Claiborne Robins School of Business, for undergraduate and graduate study in business (1949); University College, University College, now known as the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, for evening, summer, and continuing education (1962); and the Jepson School of Leadership Studies, the first school of leadership studies in the United States (1992). In 1992, the academic missions of Richmond College and Westhampton College were combined in a separate school, the School of Arts and Sciences. Richmond College and Westhampton College provide special programming and leadership opportunities in student life.

Richmond benefits from a heritage of ethical and religious values, a residential character, and a commitment to liberal and general education through intimate schools and colleges joined into a substantial whole.

Undergraduate Financial Aid

Financial Aid

The University of Richmond recognizes that some students and their families are not able to meet the entire cost of their education. To assist them in the process, the Office of Financial Aid administers institutional, federal, and state assistance in the form of grants, merit scholarships, loans, and student employment. Applicants for financial aid must be enrolled or accepted for enrollment in a degree program at the University and, for most types of aid, must be working toward their first bachelor's degree.

The Richmond in Reach program is the University of Richmond's need-based financial aid program. It is designed for those families who are unable to pay the full cost of a college education and is available to eligible, full-time undergraduate students who are U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Through this program, Richmond meets 100 percent of demonstrated eligibility for need-based aid for all undergraduate students. Applicants for need-based financial aid must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), the CSS Profile and submit copies of student and parent federal tax returns to the College Board's IDOC service. Some aid applicants will also be required to submit the Noncustodial Parent Profile. Prospective first year students should submit the FAFSA, CSS Profile, and student and parent tax returns to IDOC by the University of Richmond's deadline date of February 1st. The deadline for transfer student financial aid applications (FAFSA, Profile, and tax returns) is the same date as the admission application deadline. The deadline for financial aid applications (FAFSA, Profile, and tax returns) for returning students is May 15th.

Generally, to be considered for need-based aid, an applicant must be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident, must be enrolled or accepted for enrollment on at least a half-time basis in a degree or certificate program, and must demonstrate financial need. Full-time enrollment is required for institutional aid. Financial aid from the University of Richmond is available to students through their eighth semester of enrollment (prorated for transfer students) and students must meet certain standards of satisfactory academic progress as outlined below. A new financial aid application must be filed each year. If a family's financial situation remains about the same each year, then the financial aid eligibility will also remain about the same. However, as a family's financial situation changes, there may also be changes to eligibility for financial assistance.

Students who are eligible for need-based aid, who are enrolled full time, and who meet the application deadline are offered a financial aid package that fully meets their demonstrated need. Part-time students may be considered for loans and the Federal Pell Grant. The University of Richmond's policy is to fully meet the demonstrated need of its students who submit all required financial aid forms by the stated deadline. Students who demonstrate need but fail to meet the deadline will lose a percentage of their need-based grant and need-based scholarship aid. Therefore, their need will not be fully met. We assess a 10% reduction in need-based grant/scholarship aid for applications received up to two months after the deadline. Applications received more than two months late will receive consideration only for limited federal need-based grants and Direct Loans, but not for any other need-based aid.

Number of days application is late:	Need-based grant eligibility reduced by:
Up to 60 days	10%
61 or more days	No longer eligible for Richmond need-based grant. Limited federal aid is available.

For complete information regarding need-based aid, visit financialaid.richmond.edu.

International students are eligible to apply for need-based financial aid. Richmond is need-aware when reviewing admission applications from non-U.S. citizens. However, we will meet 100% of the demonstrated need for international students who are admitted and this aid will be renewed through the student's eighth semester of enrollment. International students who do not receive financial aid when they are admitted may apply for a limited amount of need-based aid in subsequent years. These students' need will not be fully met.

The University of Richmond has a robust merit-based aid program for prospective students. Merit-based scholarships are provided in recognition and support of noteworthy academic achievement. Merit-based scholarships are generally awarded independently of any assessment of need, although it is possible to qualify for a combination of need- and merit-based aid. All applicants for admission are considered for the Richmond Scholars Program provided they have submitted a completed admission application by December 1st. The Richmond Scholars award is equivalent to tuition, room, and board. Various other merit scholarships are available. Visit financialaid.richmond.edu/prospective/merit-based/index.html for more information and deadlines. Limited merit scholarships are available to currently enrolled students.

The Virginia Tuition Assistance Grant is for full-time undergraduate students who are residents of Virginia. In 2020-21, grants were awarded in the amount of $3,750. Applications are available on the University of Richmond website at <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/types-of-aid/virginians/grant.html>. The deadline is July 31.

Financial aid awards made for an academic year may be used for study abroad if the student enrolls at one of the universities with which the University of Richmond has a direct exchange agreement. Financial aid for enrollment in approved non-Richmond programs is limited to loans and federal grants.

Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy

Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy

According to federal regulations and University of Richmond (UR) policy, students must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) to receive federal financial aid and institutional financial aid. Some private loan programs also require SAP. Evaluation of students' progress for financial aid purposes is made annually at the end of the spring term to determine financial aid eligibility for the following year (summer term, fall term, and spring term).

The standards of academic progress outlined here are for the purpose of evaluating eligibility to continue receiving financial aid. They do not replace or modify academic standards required for continued enrollment at the University of Richmond nor do they replace or modify NCAA standards for athletic scholarships.

Undergraduate

Institutional Financial Aid

Institutional financial aid is available during the fall and spring terms; institutional aid is generally not awarded for summer term. Some institutional aid programs, such as merit and athletic scholarships, have different academic and/or other requirements than those listed below. Such requirements are conveyed to recipients when they are selected for such programs.

Receipt of institutional financial aid requires all of the following:

- full-time enrollment (3.5 units or more),
- a minimum UR cumulative grade point average (GPA) based on term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students) as follows:

At the end of term:	Minimum GPA
2	1.8
6	2.0
8	2.0

- meeting the SAP requirements for federal aid (see below), and
- appropriate progress toward completion of degree requirements by the end of the eighth term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students).

Students may be considered for institutional financial aid through their eighth term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students). Only fall and spring terms are counted toward the eighth term limit (prorated for transfer students); summer term is not counted.

The following chart provides suggested benchmarks for the minimum number of units that should be earned at the end of the specified term in order to complete degree requirements by the end of the eighth term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students). Only fall and spring terms are counted. Units earned at UR as well as transfer work accepted toward UR degree requirements are counted. Students should work closely with their advisor to ensure that they are on track for graduation within eight terms (prorated for transfer students):

At the end of term:	Minimum Units Earned
8	35

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional financial aid at the end of the spring term will not be eligible for any additional institutional financial aid in subsequent terms of enrollment until the standards are met. Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for institutional aid. A student's appeal must include at a minimum the following information: why the student is not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional aid, what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation, what is the student's plan to complete degree requirements, and any supporting documentation. The student will be notified of their SAP status based on the merits of the appeal. If the appeal is not granted, the student will be notified of the decision and will be financially responsible for their educational expenses.

Federal Financial Aid

The Higher Education Act requires that colleges and universities establish minimum standards of Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for students receiving federal aid. When assessing SAP for federal financial aid, the University will review all terms of enrollment at UR as well as transfer work accepted toward UR degree requirements, regardless of whether or not the student received financial aid during those terms.

SAP is checked annually at the end of the spring term. Students must meet both of the following requirements to meet the SAP requirements for federal financial aid:

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including transfer work and pass/fail courses), and
- have achieved a cumulative grade point average based on units earned as follows:

University of Richmond

Units Earned	UR Grade Point Average
.25 to 6.86	1.80
6.87 to 14.00	1.90
14.01 or more	2.00

In addition, students must complete the requirements for a bachelor's degree within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. That is, as the undergraduate degree program requires 35 units to complete, the maximum number of units attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 52.50 units, including transfer work and pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D, or P. Incomplete coursework, withdrawals, and course repetitions impact SAP in the following ways.

- Incomplete coursework (grade = Y) is not included in the GPA or in the number of units earned but is counted as attempted units.
- Temporarily incomplete coursework (grade = I) is included in the GPA and in both earned and attempted units.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in the GPA or in the number of units earned but are counted as attempted units.
- Repeated courses are counted only one time as earned units. However, units for each course taken, including all repeated courses, are counted as attempted units. All grades earned in repeated courses will be calculated in the cumulative GPA.

Return of Financial Aid When A Student Withdraws

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, and Federal Direct PLUS Loans, and the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, Federal TEACH Grant, and the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

The amount of Title IV funds the student earns up to the withdrawal date is based on a daily proration determined by dividing the total number of calendar days completed by the total number of calendar days in the semester (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days). This calculation must only be done up to the 60% point in time for the semester. After the 60 percent point in time, the student is considered to have earned all of the Title IV funds awarded for that semester.

Unearned Title IV funds must be returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount that has been disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement to the student. Unearned funds up to the amount of total institutional charges (tuition, room and board) multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds are returned to the Title IV programs by the University of Richmond. The student must return any portion of unearned funds not returned by the school. Only 50% of unearned grants funds must be returned. Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms.

Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, TEACH Grant for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

Undergraduate Financial Aid

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. The amount to be returned to the non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week, the student is considered to have earned all of the non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, nonfederal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a financial aid advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

For further information about the various financial aid programs, contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438 or email finaid@richmond.edu with questions about need-based aid, or check our website at financialaid.richmond.edu.

Graduate Business Financial Aid

Financial Aid

The University of Richmond offers graduate students various forms of financial assistance from federal and institutional resources. Financial aid recipients must be enrolled or unconditionally accepted for enrollment on at least a half-time basis in a degree program at the University. Details on the specific aid programs are outlined below. For more information, contact the Financial Aid Office (telephone: (804) 289-8438, email: finaid@richmond.edu, or <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/grad/index.html>)

Federal Loans

The Federal Direct Loan program allows graduate students to borrow federal loans in the form of Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loans and the Federal Grad PLUS Loan to assist with educational expenses. Generally, to be considered, applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents, be enrolled at least half-time in a degree program, and be making satisfactory academic progress. To apply, the applicant must submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at least six weeks prior to the start of the term.

Student Employment

On-campus employment opportunities may be available to graduate students enrolled at least half-time through the Federal Work-Study program (FWS) or the University Work Program (UWP). FWS is a need-based program. Students interested in this program must complete the FAFSA and demonstrate eligibility for need-based aid. The UWP program is available to students who do not apply for or qualify for need-based aid. For more information and for job opportunities, please visit the student employment website at studentjobs.richmond.edu or contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438 for more information.

The standards of academic progress outlined here are for the purpose of evaluating eligibility to continue receiving financial aid. They do not replace or modify academic standards required for continued enrollment at the University of Richmond.

SAP is checked annually at the end of the spring term. Students must meet both of the following requirements:

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including transfer work and pass/fail courses), and
- have achieved a cumulative grade point average of at least a 2.7

In addition, students must complete degree requirements within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. That is, as the MBA degree program requires 45 hours to complete, the maximum number of hours attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 68 hours, including transfer work and pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D, or P. (MBA students who began the program prior to fall 2013 may be required to complete additional hours to earn their degree. The 150% maximum timeframe will be based on the hours required.)

Incomplete coursework, withdrawals, and course repetitions impact SAP in the following ways:

- Incomplete coursework (grade = Y) is not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but is counted as attempted credit. Temporarily incomplete coursework (grade = I) is included in the GPA and in both earned and attempted credit.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but are counted as attempted credit.
- Repeated courses are counted only one time as earned credits. However, credits for each course taken, including all repeated courses, are counted as attempted credit. All grades earned in repeated classes will be calculated in the cumulative GPA.

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for financial aid at the end of the spring term will not be eligible for any additional financial aid until the standards are met. Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for aid. Appeals will be considered for the following circumstances: the death of a relative of the student; an injury or illness to the student; or other special circumstances. A student's appeal must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the SAP standards and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation.

Successful appeals will lead to one of two SAP statuses: Financial Probation or Eligible for Financial Aid. A student may be placed on 'Financial Probation' for the subsequent enrolled term if it is determined that he/she can regain eligibility after one term. A student may be found 'Eligible for Financial Aid' based on an academic plan that outlines future academic progress for the student as established by the Director of Financial Aid. The student will be notified of their SAP status based on the merits of the appeal. If the appeal is not granted, the student will be notified of the decision and will be financially responsible for their educational expenses.

Master of Science in Management

According to federal regulations and University of Richmond (UR) policy, students must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) to receive federal and institutional financial aid. Some private loan programs also require SAP. Evaluation of students' progress for financial aid purposes is made at the end of each term to determine financial aid eligibility for the following term.

Standards of academic progress outlined here are for the purpose of evaluating eligibility to continue receiving financial aid. They do not replace or modify academic standards required for continued enrollment at the University of Richmond.

Students must meet both of the following requirements:

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including pass/fail courses)
- have achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average (GPA), at the end of each term, of at least a 2.7.

In addition, students must complete the requirements for the MSM degree within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. That is, as the MSM degree program requires 32 hours to complete, the maximum number of hours attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 48 hours, including pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D or P.

Incomplete coursework, withdrawals, and course repetitions impact SAP in the following ways:

- Incomplete coursework (grade = Y) is not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but is counted as attempted credit.
- Temporarily incomplete coursework (grade = I) is included in the GPA and in both earned and attempted credit.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but are counted as attempted credit.
- Repeated courses are counted only one time as earned credits. However, credits for each course taken, including all repeated courses, are counted as attempted credit. Both grades will be calculated in the cumulative GPA.

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for federal financial aid at the end of each term will not be eligible for any additional financial aid until the standards are met. Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for aid. Return of Financial Aid When A Student Withdraws

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, and Federal Direct PLUS Loans, and the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, Federal TEACH Grant, and the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

The amount of Title IV funds the student earns up to the withdrawal date is based on a daily proration determined by dividing the total number of calendar days completed by the total number of calendar days in the semester (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days). This calculation must only be done up to the 60% point in time for the semester. After the 60 percent point in time, the student is considered to have earned all of the Title IV funds awarded for that semester.

Unearned Title IV funds must be returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount that has been disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement to the student. Unearned funds up to the amount of total institutional charges (tuition, room and board) multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds are returned to the Title IV programs by the University of Richmond. The student must return any portion of unearned funds not returned by the school. Only 50% of unearned grants funds must be returned. Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms.

University of Richmond

Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, TEACH Grant for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

Graduate Business Financial Aid

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. The amount to be returned to the non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week, the student is considered to have earned all of the non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, nonfederal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a financial aid advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

Law Financial Aid

Financial Aid Overview

The University of Richmond offers law students various forms of financial assistance from federal and institutional sources. To be eligible for aid, students must be enrolled or unconditionally accepted for enrollment on at least a half-time basis in a degree program at the University. Details on specific aid programs are outlined below. For more information, contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438, by email at finaid@richmond.edu, or review our website at <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/law/index.html>.

Need/Merit Scholarships

The Law School considers all admitted students for merit scholarships. Grants and scholarships may be awarded on the basis of need and/or merit to entering full-time students. Students who receive them for their first year will receive them in subsequent years as well as long as they remain enrolled in good academic standing and are meeting Satisfactory Academic Progress (see below). Students who enter Richmond Law without a scholarship award will be re-evaluated at the end of the student's first year based upon 1L GPA. There are very limited additional internal scholarships after a student's first year.

FAFSA

Students applying for financial aid in the form of grants, loans, and work-study opportunities must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Students must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents, enrolled on at least a half-time basis, and making Satisfactory Academic Progress. Students must be enrolled full-time for grant assistance. The deadline is February 25 for prospective law students and May 15 for returning law students. The FAFSA is available online at <https://studentaid.gov/h/apply-for-aid/fafsa>. For more information regarding these programs, visit <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/law/index.html> or contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438 or at finaid@richmond.edu

Loans

The Federal Direct Loan program allows law students to borrow federal loans in the form of Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loans and the Federal Grad PLUS Loan to assist with educational expenses. Generally, to be considered, applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents, be enrolled at least half-time in a degree program, and be making satisfactory academic progress. There are also private loans available. Visit <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/law/loans/index.html> or contact the Office of Financial Aid for more information.

Student Employment

On-campus employment opportunities are available to law students enrolled at least half-time through the Federal Work-Study program (FWS) or the University Work Program (UWP). FWS is a need-based program. Students interested in this program must complete the FAFSA and demonstrate eligibility for need-based aid. The UWP program is available to students who do not apply for or qualify for need-based aid. Earnings will depend on the wage rate and the number of hours worked. Typically, first year law students are discouraged from working. The American Bar Association prohibits law students from working more than 20 hours per week while attending classes. For more information, contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804)289-8438 or visit <https://studentjobs.richmond.edu/>.

Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy

Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy

According to federal regulations and University of Richmond (UR) policy, students must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) to receive federal financial aid and institutional financial aid. Some private loan programs also require SAP. Evaluation of students' progress for financial aid purposes is made annually at the end of the spring term to determine financial aid eligibility for the following year (summer term, fall term, and spring term).

University of Richmond

The standards of academic progress outlined here are for the purpose of evaluating eligibility to continue receiving financial aid. They do not replace or modify academic standards required for continued enrollment at the University of Richmond nor do they replace or modify NCAA standards for athletic scholarships.

School of Law, JD Program

Institutional Financial Aid

Institutional financial aid is available during the fall and spring terms; institutional aid is generally not awarded for summer term.

Receipt of institutional financial aid requires all of the following:

- full-time enrollment (9 hours or more)
- a minimum UR cumulative grade point average (GPA) on hours earned as outlined below:

Hours Earned	UR Grade Point Average
1 to 55	2.00
55 to 86	2.10
87 or more	2.20

- and meeting the SAP requirements for federal aid (see below).

Students may be considered for aid through their sixth term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students); summer term is not counted.

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional financial aid at the end of the spring term will not be eligible for any additional institutional financial aid in subsequent terms of enrollment until the standards are met. Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for institutional aid. A student's appeal must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional aid and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation. The student will be notified of their SAP status based on the merits of the appeal. If the appeal is not granted, the student will be notified of the decision and will be financially responsible for their educational expenses.

Federal Financial Aid

The Higher Education Act requires that colleges and universities establish minimum standards of Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for students receiving federal aid. When assessing SAP for federal financial aid, the University will review all terms of enrollment at UR as well as transfer work accepted toward JD degree requirements at UR, whether or not the student received financial aid during those terms.

SAP is checked annually at the end of the spring term. Students must meet both of the following requirements:

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including transfer work and pass/fail courses) and
- have achieved a cumulative grade point average, depending on the number of units earned, as follows:

Hours Earned	UR Grade Point Average
1 to 55	2.00
55 to 86	2.10
87 or more	2.20

In addition, students must complete the requirements for a law degree within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. That is, as the law degree program requires 87 hours to complete, the maximum number of hours attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 130.5 hours, including transfer work and pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D or P.

- Incomplete coursework (grade = Y) is not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but is counted as attempted credit. Temporarily incomplete coursework (grade = I) is included in the GPA and both earned and attempted credit.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but are counted as attempted credit.
- Repeated courses are counted only one time as earned credits. However, credits for each course taken, including all repeated courses, are counted as attempted credit. All grades earned in repeated courses will be calculated in the cumulative GPA.

School of Law, LL.M. Program

Institutional Financial Aid

Receipt of institutional financial aid requires all of the following:

- full-time enrollment (9 hours or more) during each term in which the student receives aid,
- a minimum UR cumulative grade point average (GPA), at the end of each term, of 2.0, and
- meeting the SAP requirements for federal aid (see below).

Institutional aid is available to students through their second term of enrollment. Institutional aid is generally not awarded for summer term.

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional financial aid at the end of each term will not be eligible for any additional institutional financial aid in subsequent terms of enrollment. Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for institutional aid. A student's appeal must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional aid and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation. The student will be notified of their SAP status based on the merits of the appeal. If the appeal is not granted, the student will be notified of the decision and will be financially responsible for their educational expenses.

Federal Financial Aid

University of Richmond

The Higher Education Act requires that colleges and universities establish minimum standards of Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for students receiving federal aid. When assessing SAP for federal financial aid, the University will review all terms of enrollment at UR, whether or not the student received financial aid during those terms.

SAP is checked at the end of each term. Students must meet both of the following requirements:

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including pass/fail courses), and
- have achieved a cumulative grade point average (GPA), at the end of each term, of 2.0.

In addition, students must complete the requirements for the LL.M degree within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. That is, as the LL.M degree program requires 24 hours to complete, the maximum number of hours attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 36 hours, including pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D, or P.

Incomplete coursework, withdrawals, and course repetitions impact SAP in the following ways:

- Incomplete coursework (grade = Y) is not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but is counted as attempted credit. Temporarily incomplete coursework (grade = I) is included in the GPA and in both earned and attempted credit.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but are counted as attempted credit.

Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms.

Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, TEACH Grant for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. The amount to be returned to the non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week, the student is considered to have earned all of the non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, nonfederal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a financial aid advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Financial Aid

Financial Aid

In addition to SPCS scholarships, there are other sources of financial assistance available to students in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. Generally, a student must be enrolled or unconditionally accepted for enrollment on at least a half-time basis (six credits per term) in an eligible degree or academic certificate program in order to be eligible for consideration for financial aid. In addition, the student must be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident (or other eligible non-citizen) and must be making Satisfactory Academic Progress (see below) toward his/her degree or academic certificate. For detailed information about the various financial aid programs, visit <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/spcs/index.html> or contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438.

Federal Grants and Loans

Federal financial assistance is available in the form of Federal Grants and Federal Direct Loans. Federal Pell Grants are provided to low-income undergraduate students who have not already earned a degree but who are working toward a degree. Federal Pell Grant recipients must be enrolled for at least three credits per term. The Federal Pell Grant does not have to be repaid. Federal TEACH grants are also available to students who complete or who plan to complete coursework needed for a career in teaching, and who agree to serve for at least four years as a full-time, highly-qualified teacher in a high-need field in a school serving low-income students. The four years of service must be completed within eight years of graduation. Failure to comply with the requirements of the program result in the TEACH grant being converted to a Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan, with interest accruing from the date the grant was disbursed, that must be repaid in full. Students enrolled in a graduate certificate program are not eligible for the TEACH Grant.

Federal Direct Loans are loans for students who are enrolled in an eligible degree or academic certificate program for at least six credits per term. Annual loan limits vary from $5,500 to $20,500 depending on grade level and dependency status. Subsidized Direct Loans are available to undergraduate students who demonstrate financial need; the federal government pays the accrued interest on these loans while the student is enrolled at least half time (six credit hours). Unsubsidized Direct Loans are available to both undergraduate and graduate students regardless of demonstrated need; students are responsible for accrued interest on these loans. The Direct Grad PLUS Loan, a credit-based loan, is available to graduate students.

To apply for Federal Grants and Federal Direct Loans, students must submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at studentaid.gov. Please note that if you will need financial assistance in order to pay for your tuition charges, then the required applications must be completed at least six weeks prior to the start of the enrollment period. Applications will only be reviewed for those students who are registered for classes. Students will receive an email notification from the Office of Financial Aid when financial aid is available to be viewed on BannerWeb. Students who wish to borrow Federal Direct Loans are then able to accept or decline all or a portion of the loan(s) via BannerWeb. Financial aid is generally disbursed to the student's account at the beginning of each term. If financial aid exceeds billable charges, then the student has a credit balance and is due a refund. Refunds will not be issued until at least two weeks after the first day of class for each term. Title IV aid recipients may receive a partial refund by the first day of class.

Private Loan Programs

These are educational loans from private lenders. The maximum annual loan is the Cost of Attendance, as established by the Office of Financial Aid, minus any financial aid that the student may receive. Richmond will only process a private loan for students enrolled at least half-time (six credits).

These are credit-based loans and a poor credit history will prevent borrowing under these programs. Interest on these loans begins to accrue on the date of disbursement, and interest and principal payments begin after graduation, withdrawal from school, or enrollment at less than a half-time course load (6 credits/term). There are many different private loan products on the market. You may use any lender of your choice for private loans.

Virginia Tuition Assistance Grant

The Virginia Tuition Assistance Grant (VTAG) is available to full-time undergraduate students who are residents of Virginia and who are enrolled in a degree program. The VTAG application may be obtained online from the Financial Aid website. Deadline for applications is July 31 for the following academic year.

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including transfer work and pass/fail courses), and
- have achieved a cumulative grade point average of at least a 2.0

In addition, students must complete degree requirements within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. For example, if the program requires 120 hours to complete, the maximum number of hours attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 180 hours, including transfer work and pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D or P.

Graduate

SAP is checked annually at the end of the spring term. Students must meet both of the following requirements:

- have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including transfer work and pass/fail courses), and
- have achieved a cumulative grade point average of at least a 3.0

In addition, students must complete degree requirements within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. For example, if the program requires 30 hours to complete, the maximum number of hours attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 45 hours, including transfer work and pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, D, or P.

Incomplete coursework, withdrawals, and course repetitions impact SAP in the following ways:

- Incomplete coursework (grade = Y) is not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but is counted as attempted credit. Temporarily incomplete coursework (grade = I) is included in the GPA and in both earned and attempted credit.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in the GPA or in the number of credits earned but are counted as attempted credit.
- Repeated courses are counted only one time as earned credits. However, credits for each course taken, including all repeated courses, are counted as attempted credit. All grades in repeated courses will be calculated in the cumulative GPA.

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for financial aid at the end of the spring term will not be eligible for any additional financial aid until the standards are met. Denial of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for aid. Appeals will be considered for the following circumstances: the death of a relative of the student; an injury or illness to the student; or other special circumstances. A student's appeal must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the SAP standards and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation.

Successful appeals will lead to one of two SAP statuses: Financial Probation or Eligible for Financial Aid. A student may be placed on 'Financial Probation' for the subsequent enrolled term if it is determined that he/she can regain eligibility after one term. A student may be found 'Eligible for Financial Aid' based on an academic plan that outlines future academic progress for the student as established by the Director of Financial Aid. The student will be notified of their SAP status based on the merits of the appeal. If the appeal is not granted, the student will be notified of the decision and will be financially responsible for their educational expenses.

is treated as a late disbursement to the student. Unearned funds up to the amount of total institutional charges (tuition, room and board) multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds are returned to the Title IV programs by the University of Richmond. The student must return any portion of unearned funds not returned by the school. Only 50% of unearned grants funds must be returned. Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms.

Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, TEACH Grant for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Financial Aid

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. The amount to be returned to the non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week, the student is considered to have earned all of the non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, nonfederal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a financial aid advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

For further information about the various financial aid programs, contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438 or email finaid@richmond.edu with questions about need-based aid, or check our website at financialaid.richmond.edu.

Veterans Benefits

Veterans Benefits

Students eligible to receive tuition benefits administered by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) must apply for benefits through the VA. Once the VA application process is complete with the VA, the following paperwork will need to be submitted to the University of Richmond's VA Certifying Official via mail, fax, email attachment, or in person:

Certificate of Eligibility - After you have applied for and been approved for benefits, you will be issued a Certificate of Eligibility from the VA.

Veterans Educational Benefit Agreement Form – Available online or in person at the Registrar's Office.

In addition to the tuition benefits offered under the Post 9/11 GI Bill program, the University participates in the Yellow Ribbon program. For details regarding eligibility for the Yellow Ribbon program at Richmond, go to <https://financialaid.richmond.edu/types-of-aid/other-sources/yellowribbon.html>. For further information regarding VA Benefits at the University of Richmond, please visit <https://registrar.richmond.edu/registration/programs/veterans/index.html>.

The Virginia State Approving Agency (SAA), is the approving authority of education and training programs for Virginia. The SAA investigates complaints of GI Bill beneficiaries. While most complaints should initially follow the school grievance policy, if the situation cannot be resolved at the school, the beneficiary should contact our office via email saa@dvs.virginia.gov.

GI Bill® is a registered trademark of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). More information about education benefits offered by VA is available at the official U.S. government Web site at <http://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill>.

Deposits

Deposits

Upon acceptance for admission at the University of Richmond, a $300 general fee deposit is required. An additional $300 housing deposit is required if on-campus housing is requested.

Students planning to continue in the upcoming school year are notified around January 15 to remit the housing deposit if on-campus housing is requested. This deposit of $300 is payable as specified on the Student Housing website.

The housing deposit is nonrefundable if student participates in the housing selection. If there is a past due balance on your student account any deposit you make for a future term may be transferred to your student account to cover the outstanding balance.

Invoices

Invoices

Monthly invoice notices are e-mailed to each student's University of Richmond e-mail address, and invoices are accessed through BannerWeb. In order for parents and guardians to receive the monthly invoice, the student must sign them up as an Authorized Payer on QuikPAY.

In addition to tuition, housing, and food, miscellaneous charges such as library fines, parking tickets, and Health Center charges are also included on the student's account and are invoiced monthly.

Due Dates

Undergraduates and Law

Fall semester invoices will be due the first Monday in August.

Spring semester invoices will be due the first Monday in December.

You are responsible to meet all payment deadlines even if you do not receive an invoice.

SPCS and MBA

A student will be dropped if payment for classes is not received by 5 p.m. on Friday the first week of term or if arrangements for payment are not on file with the Student Accounts office. A student is still responsible for meeting all payment deadlines, even if an invoice has not been received. If a student is dropped due to nonpayment, he/she is still responsible for tuition and fee charges according to the University Refund Policy. Payment is due upon registration for classes added on or after the first day of term.

Summer School

Tuition payment is due by the first day of term. Room and meal charges are billed to the student account and due by the date on the invoice. You will still be responsible to meet all payment deadlines even if you do not receive an invoice.

Account Holds

Any charges unpaid by the due date on the current invoice will result in a hold on your account and prevent registration or transcript activity. The hold will remain on the account until payment is received.

SPCS/MBA-The University offers 3-month or 4-month installment plans. There is no interest or finance charge assessed on the unpaid balance due to the university. There is a $35.00 nonrefundable enrollment fee per semester. The Monthly Plan is not available for courses offered during the summer terms.

International Payments

The University of Richmond has partnered with Flywire to give our students a streamlined and secure method for making international payments. Visit Flywire to get started or sign into BannerWeb and click on Student Services/Pay Tuition and Fees. Simply select International Payment as your Payment Type, and you will be securely transferred to the Flywire site where you can pay by bank transfer, international credit card, e-wallets (such as PayPal and Alipay), or other online methods. Flywire provides around-the-clock multilingual customer support via live chat, email, and telephone. International students can pay by credit card through BannerWeb or through the Guest Payer portal.

University of Richmond does not accept overpayments on student accounts. Please transfer only the amount due on your student account.

SpiderCard

Students may use their SpiderCard accounts to pay small balances of $200 or less owed on their student account.

Payment Policies

Failure to pay in full by the first day of the term unless a payment arrangement is on file with Student Accounts, will result in a late fee being applied to your account.

If you have a hold on your account, the hold may not be released until the next business day. Please contact Student Accounts with any questions.

A late payment fee will be assessed on any unpaid balance. Students who fail to make satisfactory arrangements for their semester fees by the close of the business on the first day of the term will be charged a late payment fee of up to $70.

A veteran or eligible person who is entitled to use Post 9/11 GI Bill® (Chapter 33) or Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment Services (Chapter 31) benefits will not be subject to any penalty, assessment of late fees, denial of access to classes, libraries, or other institutional facilities, nor will they be required to borrow additional funds to satisfy their financial obligations in the event of a delayed payment from the Veteran's Administration.

No credit is given for a term's work nor a degree conferred until all charges have been satisfactorily settled. Failure to make satisfactory financial arrangements can result in delay of graduation, denial of registration privileges, removal from classes, withholding of transcripts and/or referral to a collection agency or attorney.

If the University deems it necessary to engage the services of a collection agency or attorney to collect or to settle any dispute in connection with an unpaid balance on a student account, the student will be liable for all collection agency and/or attorney's fees, reasonable expenses and costs incurred. Accounts referred to a collection agency are reported to a credit bureau(s).

Withdrawal Policies and Refunds

Withdrawal Policy

If a student withdraws from classes or is dropped from the University of Richmond for whatever cause, a refund of tuition and class fees shall be made in accordance with the refund schedule applicable to your resident college (see left menu for specific policy).

Refunds are made in the following order:

- To any financial aid the student has received;
- To any balance owed to the University;
- To the student.

University of Richmond

*Please Note: The refund policy for summer school is different than the refund policy for fall and spring. Please refer to the Summer School Refund Policy for any questions.

The University of Richmond complies with all federal regulations governing recipients of federal Title IV funds. Information regarding financial aid refund policies is available from the Office of Financial Aid.

Credit Balance Refund Policy

Credit balances are refunded to the student. Excess funds can be refunded to a parent or held for future charges if requested in writing.

Refunds are issued by check or direct deposit. With a check refund, it is the student's responsibility to ensure the address on record is correct. With direct deposit, your refund is automatically deposited to the bank account you specify, eliminating trips to the bank and the risk of your check being lost or stolen. It may take up to two business days for a direct deposit to post to your bank account according to the policies of your bank. To participate, log onto BannerWeb here and choose Manage/Sign Up for Direct Deposit. When you are finished, click submit and your direct deposit form is sent automatically to Accounts Payable. Please email any questions about direct deposit to Accounts Payable at APIinbox@richmond.edu.

Refunds to parents can only be issued by physical check.

Refunds are generated from actual credit balances. No refund can be issued based on pending financial aid or other expected adjustments.

Refunds generated from a personal check payment (including echeck payments) will be held for a minimum of 10 business days from the date that the check payment was received.

Any special fee associated with a particular course is nonrefundable after the first day of class.

Withdrawal Refund Policy

Active Duty Withdrawal Policy

Active Duty Withdrawal Policy

If a registered student is called to active duty during the course of a semester (defined as the first day of classes through the last day of semester exams), the student has the following options:

Weeks 1-7: Add/Drop period. The student can drop the course and receive a 100% tuition refund (less any financial aid which the student may have received from the University).

Weeks 8-15: After the eighth week of classes, the student has a choice of withdrawing without penalty from the University and receiving 100% tuition refund (less any financial aid, which the student may have received for the semester), or taking a non-punitive incomplete (Y) in all registered courses. If the student chooses 100% tuition refund, they will be dropped from all registered course. Y grades must be agreed to by the instructor(s) and student.

Last semester before graduation: If a student is called to active duty in his or her last semester before graduation, the student should contact the dean of his/her school to determine if graduation requirements can be completed.

A prorated refund for residence hall and meal plan fees will be issued to students, based on the date of their last day on campus. If a student leaves on active duty without giving notice, the school will determine the last date of occupancy or meal usage.

Withdrawal Refund Policy

Graduate Business Refund Policy

Graduate Business Withdrawal and Refund Policy

Students are matriculated by semester. If a student withdraws from classes or is dropped from the University for whatever cause, a refund of fees for a fall or spring semester shall be made in accordance with the University's refund policy, based on the following schedule. This schedule is adapted for summer terms.

The amount of the refund is based on the date that written withdrawal notification is received in the Office of the Dean. Any special fee is nonrefundable after the first day of class.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, Federal TEACH Grant and the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

The amount of Title IV funds the student earns, up to the withdrawal date, is based on a daily proration determined by dividing the total number of calendar days completed by the total number of calendar days in the semester (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days). This calculation must only be done up to the 60% point in time for the semester. After the 60% point in time, the student is considered to have earned all of the Title IV funds awarded for that semester.

Unearned Title IV funds must be returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount that has been disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement to the student. Unearned funds, up to the amount of total institutional charges (tuition, room, and board) multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds, are returned to the Title IV programs by the University of Richmond. The student must return any portion of unearned funds not returned by the school. Only 50% of unearned grants funds must be returned. Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms.

Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, TEACH Grant for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. The amount to be returned to the Non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week the student is considered to have earned all of the Non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, non-federal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a Financial Aid Advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

University of Richmond

Refund Schedule

The amount of the refund is based on the date that the written withdrawal notification is received in the Office of the Dean. Any special fee associated with a particular course is non-refundable after the first day of term.

Withdrawal on or before the first day of term	100% less deposits
Withdrawal during the first week of term	100%
Withdrawal during the second week of term	70%
Withdrawal during the third week of term	50%
Withdrawal during the fourth week of term	25%
Withdrawal during the fifth week of term	25%
Withdrawal during the sixth week of term	25%
Withdrawal after the sixth week of term	None

Withdrawal Refund Policy

Law Withdrawal/Leave of Absence and Refund Policy

Law Withdrawal/Leave of Absence and Refund Policy

Withdrawal

Students may voluntarily withdraw from the Law School at any time. Students who wish to withdraw voluntarily should notify the Associate Dean for Student Services and Administration in writing of their decision. A student who wishes to return to the Law School after withdrawing must apply for readmission through the regular admission process. A student will not automatically retain any scholarships awarded prior to withdrawal.

Because a withdrawal can impact a student's financial aid for the term in which they withdraw as well as eligibility for financial aid in future terms should they be readmitted, we strongly urge students to consult with the Financial Aid Office before withdrawing from the Law School.

A student's withdrawal will not preclude the initiation or continuation of any School of Law Honor Code or University Standards of Conduct investigation or proceeding.

A law student who withdraws during a semester may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund Policy set forth below. Withdrawal may also affect a student's financial aid eligibility for the semester as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy.

Leave of Absence

Students who have completed at least one semester in the School of Law and who are in good standing academically and financially may request a leave of absence. Requests must be in writing and submitted to the Associate Dean for Student Services and Administration, and must state an adequate reason for the request. In determining whether to grant the request, the Dean's Office may require adequate documentation. Leaves are ordinarily granted for one academic semester and rarely granted for longer than two academic semesters.

The grant of a leave of absence does not extend the time limits for completion of the J.D. degree and students requesting leave must demonstrate that they will be able to complete their degree within the allowed period of study. The law school will not accept academic credit for work completed at another school during a leave of absence without the prior written approval of the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

Because a leave of absence can impact a student's financial aid for the term in which they take a Leave of Absence as well as eligibility for financial aid when they return, we strongly urge students to consult with the Financial Aid Office before requesting a leave of absence.

Students who have been awarded scholarships who wish to retain their scholarships upon their return must specifically request this in their written leave request. Such requests are ordinarily granted.

Any student who has been absent for longer than an approved leave of absence or who interrupts his or her course of study without an approved leave of absence will be involuntarily withdrawn and must reapply through the regular admissions process.

A student's Leave of Absence will not preclude the initiation or continuation of any School of Law Honor Code or University Standards of Conduct investigation or proceeding.

A law student who takes a leave of absence during a semester may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund Policy set forth below. A leave of absence may also affect a student's financial aid eligibility for the semester as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy.

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws or takes a leave of absence. The amount of Title IV funds the student earns, up to the withdrawal or leave of absence date, is based on a daily proration determined by dividing the total number of calendar days completed by the total number of calendar days in the semester (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days). This calculation must only be done up to the 60% point in time for the semester. After the 60% point in time, the student is considered to have earned all of the Title IV funds awarded for that semester.

Unearned Title IV funds must be returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount that has been disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement to the student. Unearned funds, up to the amount of total institutional charges (tuition, room, and board) multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds, are returned to the Title IV programs by the University of Richmond. The student must return any portion of unearned funds not returned by the school. Only 50% of unearned grants funds must be returned. Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms.

Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, TEACH Grant for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a law student who is withdrawing or taking a leave of absence based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. The amount to be returned to the Non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week the student is considered to have earned all of the Non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, non-federal loans, agency scholarships.

Study Abroad Withdraw or Change: Policies and Procedures

Students who commit to participate in a UR semester study abroad program and then withdraw from the program, or change programs post-commitment, are subject to the Withdrawal Policy and Procedures. If there is a question about the withdrawal or change policy, students should speak with their IE study abroad advisor at the University of Richmond.

Students pre-approved by the International Education office to attend a non-UR semester program abroad who are considering withdrawing should contact the program providers for information regarding the institutions' withdrawal policies, procedures and refunds. With the exception of extenuating circumstances, the $1,500 administrative fee charged by the University of Richmond to students participating in an approved non-UR semester abroad program is non-refundable.

Summer School

A student who withdraws during summer term may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund Policy. Please find withdrawal refund timetable below. Withdrawal may also affect a student's financial aid eligibility for the term as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy.

Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant, and the Federal Teach Grant.

The amount of Title IV funds the student earns, up to the withdrawal date, is based on a daily proration determined by dividing the total number of calendar days completed by the total number of calendar days in the semester (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days). This calculation must only be done up to the 60% point in time for the semester. Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the tuition adjustment periods as listed below. The amount to be returned to the Non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the tuition adjustment period, the student is considered to have earned all of the Non-Title IV aid.

Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/scholarships, non-federal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a Financial Aid Advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

Spiritual Life

Spiritual Life

The mission of the Office of the Chaplaincy is Inspiring Generous Faith; Engaging the Heart of the University.

The Office of the Chaplaincy consists of five full-time staff members and eighteen affiliated campus ministers. Together, we focus on five strategic goals to advance our mission:

- Creating structures of inclusion for the diversity of faith traditions present on campus.
- Including our eighteen partner campus ministries more robustly in the mainstream of campus life.
- Providing pastoral care to all members of the university community, particularly students.
- Developing programming for students to pursue spiritual renewal, reflection, and critical engagement with their own experience and that of others.
- Animating conversations of meaning across many lines of difference to cultivate our highest ideals of responsible living and learning.

Some of our yearly highlights include the Pilgrimage program to Israel; our Multifaith Student Council; the Weinstein-Rosenthal Forum on Faith, Ethics, and Global Society; our One Book, One Campus program; our Consider This dinner series; the annual Iftar, Seder, Thanksgiving, and December Candlelight services.

In addition, a wide range of worship and fellowship opportunities are offered such as weekly Catholic Mass; Kairos, a Christian contemplative service; Shabbat services; Muslim prayer; and Zen Meditation. Additional worship and study opportunities are offered through our campus ministry team.

Visit our website for detailed information: chaplaincy.richmond.edu.

The Office of the Chaplaincy is located in the Wilton Center, between Cannon Memorial Chapel and Tyler Hanes Commons. We look forward to meeting you.

University of Richmond Religious Observance Calendar

University of Richmond

The University is a secular institution that values a diversity of religious expression. The University is also an active community with a wide range of personal commitments and academic and extracurricular activities.

Planning for academic and extracurricular activities should be done with sensitivity to the diverse religious commitments of the community and an awareness of religious holidays. Scheduling large-scale, one-time academic or extra-curricular events on a religious holiday should be avoided whenever possible.

Any student may be excused from class or other assignments because of religious observance. A student who will miss an academic obligation because of religious observance is responsible for contacting his or her professor within the first two weeks of the semester. The student is responsible for completing missed work in a timely manner.

Faculty are expected to be mindful of potential conflicts with religious observances and should make reasonable accommodations when students' religious practices conflict with their academic responsibilities.

The religious observance calendar is meant to serve as a scheduling guide. It lists significant holidays from the five largest global faith traditions. However, it is not comprehensive and students may choose to observe a holiday from any tradition not included on the calendar. For information about additional holidays from these and other faith traditions, see interfaith-calendar.org.

The holidays listed are those which occur when the University is open.

Academic Opportunities & Support

Academic Advising

An important part of a liberal arts education at the University of Richmond is the relationship between a student and his or her academic advisor. All full-time faculty members in the undergraduate schools and some experienced staff members serve as advisors. While some professors advise only majors in their programs, most advise both majors and students who have not yet declared a major. The ratio of students per advisor is intentionally kept low so students can benefit from personal attention as they plan their academic program.

While the University believes that the responsibility for decisions and actions resides with each individual, advisors are available to answer questions about the curriculum and choosing courses and to help students navigate their years at Richmond. They can assist students along the path to choosing a major, examining career choices, and deciding on research studies or internships. Many graduates report that their advisor was a highly valuable resource to them, and many advisees and advisors remain in touch after the student has left the University.

In addition, the Academic Advising Resource Center (AARC) is available to assist both advisors and advisees with any questions or concerns. For more information about academic advising, contact the AARC at advising@richmond.edu.

School of Professional & Continuing Studies students are urged to use this service since information about programs and University regulations is important to your academic success. To make an appointment with an advisor, call the School (804) 289-8133. Visit the Academic Advising page for advising assignments and additional information.

Academic Skills Center

The Academic Skills Center, located in the administrative wing of Boatwright Library, provides academic skills support to University of Richmond students. Operating from an holistic vantage point, the Center incorporates counseling and academic skills techniques (e.g., exam preparation, critical reading, critical thinking, note-taking, information processing, concentration, time management, etc.), that address the academic performance of students and their social adjustment to the University environment. The Center offers free tutoring in a variety of subjects (e.g., calculus, chemistry, accounting, etc.) to students through its Peer Academic Skills Tutoring program. Both individual and group tutoring options are available. Call (804) 289-8626, visit asc.richmond.edu or come by the Center for more information.

Weinstein-Jecklin Speech Center

Practice and preparation can make the difference between a satisfactory speech and a memorable one. Video recording, review, and peer consultation are available at the speech center to assist students in the development of their oral presentations. Administrators, faculty, and staff rely on the speech center as well to prepare for workshops and to record small group discussions for classroom purposes. The student consultant staff assists client peers with mock interviews, symposia presentations, brainstorming, or conference panel practice sessions.

Faculty and trained undergraduate students conduct consultations daily at the speech center; practice sessions are available evenings and weekends by appointment. Reservations are made through the speech center's Web site at speech.richmond.edu. The speech center is located on the fourth floor of Weinstein Hall between the departments of rhetoric and communication studies and journalism.

Honor Societies

Honor Societies

Many honor and professional societies have chapters at the University of Richmond.

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest undergraduate honor society in the United States. The Richmond chapter, Epsilon of Virginia, was founded in 1929. Phi Beta Kappa members are selected from the Schools of Arts and Sciences and Leadership based upon academic achievement.

Beta Gamma Sigma is the national honor society for business students. The University of Richmond chapter was founded in 1965. Faculty members select students for membership based on distinguished academic record.

Omicron Delta Kappa is the national leadership honor society. Chartered in 1921, Richmond's ODK chapter recognizes academic achievement, leadership, and membership positions

Golden Key National Honour Society recognizes and encourages scholastic achievement. Richmond's chapter was chartered in 1990 and provides academic recognition, leadership and community service opportunities, and educational programs for its members.

Mortar Board is a national honor society that recognizes college seniors for distinguished scholarship, leadership, and service. Membership is open to rising seniors by invitation.

In addition to these campus-wide honor societies, many departments sponsor campus chapters of national honor societies in their disciplines. Information regarding departmental honor societies can be obtained from individual departments.

will Program will is a nationally recognized program for students interested in exploring gender and social justice issues both in and out of the classroom. The program combines a minor in WGSS with leadership opportunities, activism, community engagement, and career preparation.

will is about:

- CHANGEMAKING – Cultivating leaders who make a positive difference, in ways large and small.
- THEORY TO PRAXIS – Using a WGSS lens to analyze and challenge inequities.
- INTERSECTIONALITY – Foregrounding an intersectional approach in all aspects of the program, both in and out of the classroom.
- GENDER EQUITY – Centering a space to foster community, critical conversation, and action for women, transgender, and non-binary students.
- COMMUNITY – Building inclusive community through effort and intentionality.

The will program is open to women, transgender, and non-binary students. Applications are accepted during the summer (August 1 deadline) and in the fall (October 1 deadline) from first- and second-year students. To learn more, please visit the website.

Beginning August 2009, the University will offer several unique living and learning communities designed to enhance student learning beyond traditional methods. Sophomore students will be invited to live in special learning communities in Lakeview Residence Hall that revolve around a central theme. Residents take a credit-bearing class together that meets in a classroom/kitchen area located on the first floor of Lakeview Hall. Students are actively involved in experiential and social activities outside of class time with the professor. Themes may include politics, second language, outdoor adventures, civic engagement, and literature. Questions can be directed to the vice president for student development.

Master of Business Administration

A student is expected to make steady progress toward completion of the graduate business program. A student who, over a period of 12 months, fails to complete a graduate business course at the University of Richmond, unless given approval in writing by the program director, will be suspended from the program. A student who has been in the program for more than one semester and whose GPA falls below 3.00 will be notified in writing by the program director that they are on probation. A student must have a GPA of 3.00 or better to graduate from the program. Note that GPAs are not rounded but are truncated to two decimal places.

A student who fails to complete the requirements for the degree, as stated in the catalog at the time of entrance, within five years of the date of original entry will be suspended from the program. Reinstatement to the program after five years requires permission of the Graduate Council. If an extension of time is granted, the student will be required to satisfy the degree requirements in effect at the time of reenrollment.

Class Attendance

Each student is expected to attend all meetings of all classes, including lectures, seminars, laboratories, and workshops, in which he or she is enrolled. The specific attendance policy in each course, however, is determined by the instructor of the course, subject to the section on University holidays below. The specific attendance policy for each course will be announced to the students and distributed on the course syllabus at the beginning of each semester.

Faculty members will honor an official notification from the appropriate dean that a student is to be excused from participation in a University-sponsored event, such as choral performances off campus, intercollegiate athletic events, or judicial hearings at which the student must be present. A student generally will be held responsible for all work of a class or laboratory missed during an absence. Acceptance of any excuse for an absence, other than those excused by the appropriate dean, and any provision for makeup, will be at the discretion of the instructor, provided it is consistent with the announced policy for the course and with the University holiday schedule below. Missed classes, work, tests, and/or excessive absences with or without good cause may result in a poorer grade, or failure, in the course.

Generally, absences that may be excused by faculty members include accident or illness, death or serious illness of a family member, bona fide religious holiday observance, or participation in other University activities such as field trips. Students should make arrangements with their instructors as far in advance as possible for the make-up of any missed work. Students experiencing difficulty in making reasonable arrangements for make-up work may see their dean.

Students enrolled in business school courses must attend at least 75 percent of the class meetings, regardless of the reasons for absence, to be eligible to receive credit for the course.

Course Load

Course Load

Most MBA students will enroll in seven to nine credits per semester.

Graduate School of Business Academic Procedures

Credit and Grades

Credit and Grades

The graduate business programs use the semester hour credit value and the four-point grading system as applied to a normal A-F grading scale.

A semester hour is the value of one class hour of work a week through the semester. Grade points are given to each semester hour according to the following scale:

A+	4.0	B+	3.3	C+	2.3	D+	1.3
A	4.0	B	3.0	C	2.0	D	1.0
A-	3.7	B-	2.7	C-	1.7	D-	0.7
F	0.0	I	0.0	M	0.0	V	0.0

These letter grades may be accompanied by a (+) or minus (-) to indicate a relative position within the grade category. The grade point average is calculated by dividing the total number of grade points earned by the total number of GPA units. The grade point average is represented to two significant decimal figures and truncated, not rounded. Each of these totals is accumulated term by term. Students may not choose to take a class pass/fail in the MBA program. However, certain classes (e.g., the opening residency) may be offered on a pass/fail basis. Special grades also are used as follows: V-failing due to excess absence; W-withdrawn passing; M-withdrawn failing; and X-grade unavailable. The V and M count as F in the grade point average computation.

An unclassified MBA student (not working toward a degree) may opt to have one or more normally standard-graded courses graded on a pass/fail basis. In each case, the student must receive written approval to enroll on a pass/fail basis from the course instructor. The level of performance necessary to earn a pass grade in a student-opted pass/fail course is C+ or better. A passing grade will be recorded as P on the permanent record. The credit will be added into credit earned, but will not affect the grade point average. A failing grade will be recorded as F on the permanent record. The credit will affect the grade point average. To opt for pass/fail grading, a permission form must be obtained from and returned with appropriate signatures to the Office of the University Registrar by the end of the 10th day of classes. The student must first register for the course and then file the permission form. Once the form is submitted to the University Registrar, the decision may not be reversed. All unclassified students will be bound by the Graduate School's attendance policy, which requires attendance at 75% or more of the class meetings in order to be eligible to earn credit for the course.

Graduate School of Business Academic Procedures

Evaluation

Evaluation

Instructors establish grading criteria for their courses and prepare and submit the final course reports (using the grades defined under Credits and Grades) to the University Registrar for recording. In the event of a question about the accuracy of the recorded grade, a student should direct inquiries to the instructor and/or the Office of the University Registrar.

It is recognized that each class and each student in a class has unique characteristics that the instructor alone is in the best position to evaluate; consequently, except in unusual circumstances, formal appeals concerning the evaluation on which a grade is based are not appropriate.

If unusual circumstances appear to have existed which could have affected the evaluation, the student should first bring the matter to the attention of the instructor (if available). If that informal inquiry is impossible, or if its results are disputed, the student may next bring the matter to the attention of the department chair and the instructor, jointly. In the event of continued dispute, the student may formally petition the dean of the student's school who, in consultation with department faculty, may present the matter to the appropriate academic council for a decision.

Graduate School of Business Academic Procedures

Incomplete Work

Incomplete Work

Two other letters are used in reports for graduate business students. I and Y mean that course work has not been completed by the end of the term. The I, which counts as a failing grade in the grade point average, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed unjustifiable by the instructor. The work is to be made up by the date the instructor specifies, but no later than the midterm point of the next regular term. If the work is not made up during the grace period, the I will be converted to F unless the instructor has submitted to the registrar a written request for delay until a specified date, which has been approved by the director. The Y, which does not count as a failing grade, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed justifiable by the instructor. There is no deadline for completion of the work unless the instructor so specifies. In the case of an I or Y, once the make-up grade is received, it appears to the right of the incomplete grade on the student's permanent record. In any case, it is the student's responsibility to make arrangements for and progress toward the completion of an incomplete course.

Graduate School of Business Academic Procedures

Religious Observance Policy

Religious Observance Policy

The University is a secular institution that values a diversity of religious expression. The University is also an active community with a wide range of personal commitments and academic and extracurricular activities.

Planning for academic and extracurricular activities should be done with sensitivity to the diverse religious commitments of the community and an awareness of religious holidays. Scheduling large-scale, one-time academic or extra-curricular events on a religious holiday should be avoided whenever possible.

Any student may be excused from class or other assignments because of religious observance. A student who will miss an academic obligation because of religious observance is responsible for contacting his or her professor within the first two weeks of the semester. The student is responsible for completing missed work in a timely manner.

Faculty are expected to be mindful of potential conflicts with religious observances and should make reasonable accommodations when students' religious practices conflict with their academic responsibilities.

The religious observance calendar is meant to serve as a scheduling guide. It lists significant holidays from the five largest global faith traditions. However, it is not comprehensive and students may choose to observe a holiday not included on the calendar.

The holidays listed are those which occur during the academic year when the University is open. Please see the academic calendar page to view religious observance dates.

Registration

Registration

In registering for courses, it is presumed that students enrolled in advanced-level courses will have the necessary academic background.

Students shall register each term according to the instructions published by the graduate business office and the University Registrar. A calendar is published concurrently with pertinent dates.

Students are able to register for classes through BannerWeb, a secured website that may also be accessed over the Internet through the Registrar's Office homepage.

Through BannerWeb, students can register for classes, drop classes, view their class schedules, view grades for a specific term, and view their unofficial University of Richmond transcript. Students are responsible for all activity on their BannerWeb account including PIN maintenance, registration, and security. If a student has questions or needs assistance with any aspect of BannerWeb, he or she should contact the Office of the University Registrar at (804) 289-8639 or registrar@richmond.edu.

Once registered, students may change their registration (add/drop) according to the published schedule. Students must contact the Graduate Business Programs Office to add/drop a class after registration has closed. For a regular term, generally adds and withdrawals without academic record may be made during the first two weeks of classes. After that time only withdrawals-with-record are possible. The grade to be recorded during the withdrawal-with-record period is left to the instructor's discretion. To initiate changes in registration, the student should contact the graduate business office promptly.

Registration Holds

Registration Holds

The following holds will prevent students from registering (students can access BannerWeb to check holds): Admissions Office, Cashier, Dean's Office, Library, Long-Distance (Student Account Hold), Parking Services (Student Account Hold), Student Credit Service, Perkins Loan in Repayment, Registrar's Office, Student Health, and Student Accounts. For further information on these types of holds, contact the office from which the hold originated.

Graduate School of Business Academic Procedures

Repeated Courses

Repeated Courses

Coursework may not be repeated for credit toward graduation except as sanctioned by the University; however, particular coursework may meet more than one requirement for graduation. An example of a sanctioned repeat-for-credit is the subsequent registration for a course in which the content changes from term to term, such as special topics or independent studies. Also, certain courses in a major or program may have to be repeated if the grade earned the first time does not meet requirements; in such a case, the credit will be counted only once but both grades will be calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

Courses taken on an audit basis cannot be repeated for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Except in clear situations, the Office of the University Registrar should be consulted before registration to learn if a proposed repeat is sanctioned for credit or if sanction is possible.

All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record. The grade for a course repeated at the University of Richmond becomes a part of the grade point average if the grade otherwise would be included in the computation.

Graduate School of Business Academic Procedures

Transfer Credits

Transfer Credits

It is expected that all work for the MBA degree will be completed at the University of Richmond. Under certain circumstances, a maximum of 9 semester hours may be accepted in transfer credit. All coursework transferred must be completed at a graduate school accredited by AACSB at the time the coursework is completed.

Written approval by the director must be obtained in advance if a student desires to take coursework elsewhere for transfer credit. Upon completion of the approved coursework, credit will be allowed only if a grade of B or better is earned and after an official transcript documenting the fact is received by the Graduate Business Programs Office directly from the institution giving the instruction.

Students who have a degree in accounting, economics, or another business subject may be exempt from taking the Core Course covering that subject. For example, a student with a degree in Finance may be exempt from MBA 510 Financial Management; a student with a degree in accounting may be exempt from MBA 501 Financial and Managerial Accounting. Under such circumstances, the student will be required to take elective course(s) to replace the credit hours of the Core Course from which the student is exempt. Written approval by the Director must be obtained in advance if a student desires to substitute elective coursework for a Core Course requirement.

Withdrawal from the University

Withdrawal from the University

Students who plan to withdraw from the University of Richmond must submit an official withdrawal letter to their Dean. The Dean's Office will notify the appropriate offices of the student's withdrawal from the University of Richmond including the actual withdrawal date.

MBA Admission

Applicants must meet the specified admission requirements to be eligible for admission to one of the programs offered by the Robins School of Business. However, meeting these requirements does not ensure acceptance. Acceptance is determined by the Associate Dean for Graduate and Executive Education in consultation with the Robins School's Graduate Council. Equal opportunity for admission is assured to all applicants subject to qualifications, space, and class-size limitations.

Application for admission to the MBA Program or the JD/MBA program must be made on the MBA application form. A $50 nonrefundable fee must be submitted with the application.

Applicants for the JD/MBA program are required to meet the admission standards of both the MBA program (as set forth in this bulletin) and the University of Richmond School of Law. Applications must be made separately to the MBA program and to the school of law. A bulletin and application form for the school of law may be obtained from: Director of Admissions, University of Richmond School of Law, University of Richmond, Virginia 23173.

MBA Admission Requirements

MBA Admission Requirements

Applicants for the MBA are expected to have at least two years of relevant work experience after completion of the baccalaureate degree. The two-year work experience requirement is waived for JD/MBA students. Before an applicant will be considered for admission, the following documents must be on file in the graduate business office:

1. A completed application form available on the MBA website
2. $50 application fee made payable to "University of Richmond"
3. Official transcripts of all college and university work attempted from each college and university attended. Each applicant must hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university and have an acceptable grade point average (GPA) on all college and university work. An applicant whose prior experience in higher education includes work taken at a non-United States college or university may be required to have the academic record evaluated by an independent credentials evaluation service. In addition, non-United States citizens are required to submit additional documents to meet U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service requests. Such students should contact the director at least six months prior to the application deadline to determine if a transcript evaluation will be required and/or what additional documents must be submitted.
4. Official score report for either the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) or the GRE. The score must be no more than five years old at the time of application. Information on the GMAT may be obtained from www.mba.com, and information on the GRE may be obtained from <http://www.ets.org/gre>. In recent years, the average GMAT score for incoming students has been approximately 605.
5. Current resume

Official documents verifying college and university work and test scores must be sent from the institution or agency responsible for the information directly to the MBA Office. Note: Students whose native language is not English, or whose collegiate-level instruction was not in English, must submit a TOEFL score report with a score of at least 600 on the paper based test or 100 on the Internet based test. If submitting an IELTS score, it must be 7 or higher. Information about the TOEFL may be obtained from the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey 08541 or ets.org/toefl. International Students It is advised that international applicants contact the MBA office to discuss application requirements.

In addition to the other requirements for admission to The Richmond MBA, the following is required:

1. Copy of Passport and Visa
2. An evaluation of your undergraduate diploma and transcript by Global Credential Evaluators if your degree was obtained outside of the U.S. (gceus.com). It is necessary to request a course-by-course evaluation and a calculated GPA. (An applicant whose prior experience in higher education includes work taken at a non-United States college/university is required to have the academic record evaluated by an independent credentials evaluation service)
3. Completed Certification of Finances form with official bank certification and I-20 authorization form. Submit the I-20 Authorization Form and the Certificate of Finances Form to the MBA office.

Students are admitted in both the spring and fall semesters. All application materials must be in the MBA Office by the deadline posted on the MBA website to be considered for admission for the upcoming spring or fall semester. The address for all application materials is:

Potential MBA Applicants

Potential MBA Applicants

Thank you for your interest in the Richmond MBA. We hope you will consider joining our talented and motivated student body, which includes professionals from a variety of organizations across central Virginia. Our MBA students hold undergraduate degrees from leading universities and have an average of five to seven years full-time work experience prior to enrolling in the program. The average Graduate Management Admission Test score of recently admitted classes was 600 and the average undergraduate grade-point average of recently admitted classes exceeded 3.1.

In addition to the MBA program, we offer a JD/MBA program in conjunction with the University of Richmond School of Law.

Each course in the MBA curriculum is designed to help students develop a strategic mindset. Our classrooms are filled with rich discussion focused on the major challenges of businesses today. All classes take place during the evening in the Robins School's state-of-the-art classrooms on our picturesque campus. The faculty of the Richmond MBA includes award-winning teachers and scholars who provide individualized attention in small-class settings.

The Richmond MBA includes many innovative features not found in most part-time programs. These include an opening residency that centers on a live case study, an international experience that includes a consulting project with a foreign firm, and a capstone project that allows students to conduct meaningful research in conjunction with a local organization just before graduation. These features, coupled with core and elective courses across the business disciplines, equip the Richmond MBA student with the decision-making tools necessary to become an effective leader.

Please feel free to contact the MBA Office if you have any questions.

1. The application fee is $50 and must be submitted to our office via check. The application fee is waived for all applicants who attend an information session.
2. Undergraduate Degree in a Non-Business Field. The MSM is designed to provide business fundamentals to those with undergraduate degrees in liberal arts and STEM disciplines. As such, applicants with prior business degrees are not eligible for admission.
3. Unofficial Transcripts. Applicants must hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university and meet current standards for undergraduate grade point average (GPA). Unofficial transcripts of all college and university work attempted from each college and university attended are required for admission consideration. For international applicants or U.S. applicants who attended an international college or university, your undergraduate degree must be the equivalent of a U.S. four-year degree.
4. GMAT/GRE, for fall 2023 applicants, the GMAT/GRE requirement is waived.
5. A current resume is required and should be submitted with the application.
6. Statement of Purpose. In approximately one page, please describe your interest and motivation for pursuing this degree. How has your academic and/or professional background prepared you for this program? How does this degree fit into your career goals?
7. Letter of Recommendation. Two letters of recommendation are required. At least one faculty recommendation is encouraged. Recommendations from family members are not accepted.
8. Office Visit/Information Session. All prospective students are encouraged to visit The Richmond MBA office for a one-on-one conversation about pursuing a degree.

We host regular virtual information sessions during which you will learn more about our program, meet other prospective students and schedule a class visit for a first-hand experience. Registration can be done on the MScM website.

Academic Progress for J.D. Students

Academic Progress for J.D. Students

At the end of the second semester (one year) of law study:

- A student who fails to attain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.00 shall be required to withdraw from the law school. If the cumulative grade point average is at least 1.85 but less than 2.00 the student may be allowed to return after an absence of one year.
- At the end of the fourth and each subsequent semester of law study, a student who fails to attain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.10 shall be required to withdraw from the law school.
- A cumulative grade point average of at least 2.20 is required for graduation.

Conditions

Any student who has failed to attain the requisite cumulative grade point average will be required to withdraw immediately from the law school, even though he or she has enrolled in the next semester's courses (including summer session courses). A student who fails to attain the cumulative grade point average necessary to continue studies in the Law School may petition the Law School Admissions Committee to review the case. The petition must be filed in writing and addressed to the Dean of Admissions not less than sixty days before the beginning of the semester or term in which the student seeks to be readmitted to the Law School.

The point at which a part-time student must attain the requisite grade point average shall be the time at which he or she has completed the substantial equivalent of the second semester of study and the substantial equivalent of the fourth and succeeding semesters of study. Such students will be notified in advance by the associate dean of the times at which the stated cumulative grade point averages must be met.

A student who has been required to withdraw under the 2.00 criterion stated above will not be readmitted to the law school with advanced standing. In the rare event of readmission, it is as an entering first year student with no credit for prior work. Nevertheless, the prior work will continue to be shown on the permanent academic record, but the grade point average will include only the course-work attempted after readmission.

Note: A failed first-year course must be retaken in the semester in which the course is next offered.

Class Attendance

Class Attendance

General Policy on Class Attendance, Punctuality, and Preparation

The classroom experience is an indispensable part of a student's legal education, and every student is accordingly required to come to every class fully prepared and on time. The professor shall be responsible for monitoring compliance with this policy, for determining whether a student's failure to comply is excused, and for determining the consequences of an unexcused failure to comply, and shall advise the class of his or her approach to these matters at the beginning of the semester. Students who need an excused absence due to a religious observance should notify the professor in the first two weeks of the semester, consistent with the University's Religious Observance Policy.

Minimum Attendance Requirement

Any student who fails to attend at least 75 percent of a course's required sessions or their equivalent (as determined by the professor, in consultation with the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and in conformance with the University's Religious Observance Policy) will not pass the course. This requirement applies regardless of whether the absences are excused and regardless of any individual professor's attendance policy (although an individual professor may impose a more demanding requirement for his or her course). In appropriate circumstances, students unable to satisfy this requirement may be granted a leave of absence and full reinstatement upon their return. Students should keep track of their own attendance, and a student who is having difficulty meeting this requirement, or who anticipates such difficulty, should meet immediately with the Associate Dean for Student Services and Administration or the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs to discuss the possibility of a course withdrawal or a leave of absence from the law school.

English as Second Language (ESL)

English as Second Language (ESL)

The policies listed below apply to those students who entered Richmond Law in Fall 2019 or later. Those students entering prior to Fall 2019 should contact the Associate Dean of Students for guidance.

University of Richmond

English as a Second Language (ESL) Classification

Any student who submits Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or International English Language Testing System (IELTS) scores is automatically considered to be ESL. TOEFL or IELTS scores are typically required of any student who completed either their undergraduate degree or other advanced degree at a non-English speaking institution.

Exchange students whose home institution's language is not English and/or whose primary language is not English are considered ESL.

However, students may apply for an exception to the application requirement that they submit TOEFL or IELTS scores if they can show other significant experience(s) in an English speaking environment, i.e. several years of work experience in an English-speaking professional job. Requests for exceptions from prospective LLM students are reviewed by the Director of International Programs. Requests for exceptions from prospective JD students are reviewed by the Associate Dean of Admissions. Students who are granted this exception to the submission of language scores are not considered ESL.

Students who receive the exception for submission of language scores during the application process, but who wish to be considered ESL while enrolled, may request an exception to the ESL policy. LLM students will direct their requests to the Director of International Programs, JD students will direct their requests to the Associate Dean of Admissions. Students who did not submit a language score during the application process will only be considered ESL in exceptional circumstances.

Students born outside of the United States and whose primary language is not English but completed their undergraduate or other advanced degree at an institution whose primary language of instruction is English are not classified as ESL. Students who fall into this category but who wish to be considered ESL while enrolled may request an exception to the ESL policy in the same manner described above.

Special Testing Arrangements for ESL Students

ESL students receive the following special testing arrangements while enrolled at the Law School:

ESL exchange students and ESL LLM students receive time and a half on all tests, including midterms and final examinations.

ESL JD students receive time and a half on all tests, including midterms and final examinations, during their first year of academic study, time and a quarter in their second year of academic study, and no additional time in their final year of study.

Access to a basic translation dictionary; legal translation dictionaries are prohibited. The form of dictionary allowed depends on the exam.

- If the exam is open internet, then students may use a web-based dictionary, a dictionary downloaded to their computer, or a hard-copy dictionary.
- If the exam is closed-internet but open-computer, the student may use a dictionary downloaded to their computer or a hard-copy dictionary.
- If the exam is completely closed, the student may use a hard-copy dictionary only.

Recording Arrangements for ESL Students

ESL students are permitted to audio-record class meetings with a personal recording device with the permission of the professor or to access existing Panopto recordings of class meetings with the permission of the professor.

Requests of ESL students for permission to record class meetings are coordinated by the Associate Dean of Students, who will communicate with professors regarding these requests. ESL students granted permission to record will sign a recording agreement indicating they understand recordings are not to be shared with any other individual or posted on any platform. They are for the student's personal academic use only. Any violation of this recording agreement is a violation of the honor code. A signed copy of the agreement will be kept in each student's file.

Examinations

Examinations

Unless announced otherwise by the instructor, the length of an examination will be one hour for each semester hour of credit carried by the course. A student who finds that he or she will be unavoidably prevented from taking an examination at the time scheduled may receive permission to take the examination at a later date, if such fact is communicated to the dean or associate deans (academic affairs or student affairs) before the time at which the examination is scheduled. Unless excused by the dean or one of the associate deans, a student who fails to take an examination in a course for which he or she has registered will receive a grade of F in that course.

Law Academic Regulations

Examination Procedures

Examination Procedures

A. Honor Code

Students are bound by the Law School's Honor Code by virtue of their matriculation at the Law School. The Honor Code applies to the taking of all examinations. Students observing conduct that might involve a violation of the Honor Code must report the incident to the Honor Court Grievance Committee.

B. Anonymous Grading Number

All students are assigned an anonymous grading number. Grading numbers are updated annually and emailed to each student's @richmond.edu email address in the fall. It is the student's responsibility to know their current grading number and to use it on examinations as requested.

Students with questions regarding their grading number should contact the dean's suite.

C. Exam4 Software

Most examinations require the use of Exam4. Students are required to download and use Exam4 as instructed by university administration and course professors. It is the student's responsibility to ensure their computer complies with Exam4 system requirements. Students are expected to attend, either in-person or remotely, an Exam4 training session before taking their first graded examination. It is the responsibility of the student to know how to use the Exam4 software; failure to understand how to properly use Exam4 is not a situation for which relief will be granted.

Students with questions regarding Exam4 should contact computer services.

D. Final Examinations

1) General

The procedures set forth below should not be varied by individual faculty members. Relief from them in extraordinary cases should be sought from the Associate Dean or the Dean.

No student may deviate from these procedures or the examination schedules without approval in advance from the Associate Dean or the Dean, unless illness or some other emergency makes it impossible to obtain advance approval. In the event of illness or other emergency which makes the taking of a final examination impossible, the Associate Dean or Dean must be notified as soon as possible. The emergency must be a situation or circumstance beyond the student's control.

Failure to take a final examination on the assigned date during the assigned time will result in a grade of "F" for the course, unless relief has been granted by the Associate Dean or Dean, as provided in this section.

Make-up final examinations will be administered only in exceptional circumstances. In order for a make-up examination to be authorized, the student requesting it must demonstrate good cause to the Associate Dean or Dean.

Course professors may administer scheduled examinations, flexible examinations, or take-home examinations. All first-year course final examinations are scheduled.

2) Scheduled Final Examinations

The following procedures govern the taking of scheduled final examinations. Scheduled final examinations are proctored on a designated date, at a designated time, and distributed from a specific location. The Examination Schedule indicates those examinations administered on a scheduled basis. All first-year course examinations are scheduled examinations.

a) Scheduled Examination Schedule

Examination dates, starting times, and rooms will be specified on the examination schedule provided by the Dean's Office (the "Examination Schedule").

b) Place of Scheduled Examinations

Unless otherwise specified by the professor, scheduled examinations may be taken at the student's library carrel or in a classroom specified for taking the scheduled examination. Students must take scheduled examinations inside of the law school building. Scheduled examinations may not be taken in library study rooms or organizational offices.

c) Collection of Completed Scheduled Examinations

When the time allowed for completion of a scheduled examination has expired, students must immediately stop writing or typing, upload their exam answer, and turn in the paper examination as directed by the exam proctor.

3) Flexible Examinations

All examinations not indicated as scheduled examinations on the Examination Schedule posted by the Dean's office are administered as flexible examinations, unless the professor has indicated that the examination will be a take-home examination.

a) Procedure for Distribution and Collection of Flexible Examinations

Flexible examinations must be taken on one of the ten flexible examination days listed on the Examination Schedule. Flexible examinations will be distributed in the Dean's Conference Room (201) on flexible examination days after 8:30 a.m. by the flexible examination room proctors.

All flexible exams must be returned to the flexible exam room before 5 p.m. daily. It is the student's responsibility to make sure they pick up their exam with enough time to complete it before 5 p.m., i.e., a three-hour long flexible exam can be picked up no later than 2 p.m., a four-hour long flexible exam can be picked up no later than 1 p.m., etc.

Flexible examinations must be returned by 12:30 p.m. on weekend flexible examination days.

The time period for picking up flexible examinations will not be extended, however; if there is a line of students to pick up examinations at the end of the stated time period, the time period will be extended to allow all students in line to pick up an examination.

There will be an automatic time/date stamping clock in the Dean's Conference Room (201). Students must stamp the examination taken with the time and date upon leaving the room, and with the time and date of return when they return the examination to the flexible exam room proctors in 201. Students are responsible for ascertaining the completion time allowed for each examination they are taking. Students are responsible for insuring that both time stamps (pick-up and return) are clearly visible. Failure to comply with this requirement may result in a grade penalty.

b) Place of Flexible Examinations

Unless otherwise specified by the professor, flexible examinations may be taken at the student's library carrel or in a classroom specified for taking flexible examinations. Students must take flexible examinations inside of the law school building. Flexible examinations may not be taken in library study rooms or organizational offices.

c) Late Examinations and Five Minute Grace Period

All students are afforded a five minute grace period in which to return their exam. The five-minute grace period is intended to give students time to go to and from the Dean's Conference Room.

University of Richmond

Flexible examinations returned to one of the flexible examination room proctors in the Dean's Conference Room that are stamped with a distribution and collection time within the completion time allowed for the examination, plus a single five-minute grace period, are not late (e.g., a three hour exam with a pick-up time stamp of 9:05 a.m. would be considered late after 12:10 p.m.).

A flexible examination is late if it is not returned to the flexible examination room proctors within the completion time plus the five-minute grace period. Whether or not an examination is late will be determined solely by reference to the times stamped on the examination by the time/date clock. It is the student's responsibility to be sure both time stamps are legible.

If an examination is late, the student must meet with Technology Services at the direction of the Associate Dean. Technology Services will attempt to extract the version of the exam that existed at the time the student should have stopped typing from the student's laptop, and this version of the exam will be provided to the instructor for grading. The instructor may also impose an additional grade penalty for failure to follow directions.

If Technology Services is unable to retrieve the correctly timed version of the exam, or if the exam is of the type that does not use exam software, a grade penalty relative to the amount of time the student's exam was late will be imposed.

If it is determined that a student was either grossly negligent or intentionally went over time on an exam, it is an Honor Code violation and will be referred to the Honor Code Grievance Committee.

Grade penalties and final grades are assigned at the discretion of the course instructor.

d) Discussion of Examination

Students may not discuss a flexibly administered examination during the two-week period, even with other persons who have completed that particular examination. Any discussion of examinations is a potential violation of the Honor Code and should be reported to the Honor Court grievance committee.

e) Relief Due to Illness or Other Emergency

Relief will not be granted on account of sickness or emergency unless the student will actually have been deprived of a sufficient number of examination blocks to take all of his or her examinations on an every-other-day basis.

4) Take Home Examinations

Take home examinations must be specifically designated as such by the course professor. If a professor does not specify that the course examination is a take-home examination, and the examination is not scheduled, the examination is a flexible examination. No take home examinations utilize the Exam4 software. If Exam4 is utilized, the examination is either scheduled or flexible.

a) Procedure for Distribution and Collection of Take-Home Examinations

Take-home examinations may be picked up or returned on any flexible examination day between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., with the exception of a weekend examination day when examinations may only be picked up or returned between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. It is the student's responsibility to ascertain the amount of time they have to take a take-home examination and to ensure they are able to return their take-home exam during the appropriate hours on a flexible examination day.

For example, a student should not pick up a 48 hour take-home exam on a Friday, because the following Sunday when the exam is due is not a flexible examination day and hence the exam cannot be returned at that time. Failure to turn in a take-home examination within the examination's designated time frame will result in a grade penalty.

b) Place of Take-Home Examinations

Unless otherwise specified by the professor, take-home examinations may be taken anywhere other than in rooms designated to be used for scheduled or flexible examinations.

Students should complete take-home examinations inside the law school building to ensure access to computer services and the dean's office in case of a technological or other issue.

c) Late Examinations, Discussion of Examination, and Relief Due to Illness or Injury

The same procedures and penalties applied to flexible examinations are applied to take-home examinations. See 3) Flexible Examinations, c) Late Examinations, d) Discussion of Examination, and e) Relief Due to Illness or Other Injury.

E. Midterm Examinations

Examination procedures for midterm examinations are set by the course professor. In the absence of instruction from the course professor, procedures default to those stated in this document as they relate to final examinations.

F. Computer Breakdown

If a breakdown or other crisis arises in the operation of a computer during the course of an examination, a student is to notify the Dean's Office immediately. In that way, the time and nature of the problem can be noted and appropriate relief may be made for the problem at that time.

G. Student Seeking Accommodation for a Disability

Students with a disability or a possible disability should contact the Associate Dean of Students as soon as possible.

Grade Appeals

Grade Appeals

A faculty member may change a submitted grade only in cases of a clerical (mathematical) or transcription error. If a student believes such an error has occurred, the student should communicate directly with the professor. If the professor agrees that such an error has occurred, the professor will notify the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and explain the error. If the Associate Dean agrees that a clerical or transcription error has occurred, the Associate Dean will notify the Registrar's Office to authorize the change. Note: This policy does not allow a faculty member to change a grade based on reassessment of the quality of a student's examination or paper.

In cases of extenuating circumstances or exam irregularities, the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs retains the right to change a student's (or students') passing grade(s) to a P.

If a student has received a failing grade in a course based on an examination or paper, the student may request that the Associate Dean submit that examination or paper to another faculty member for review. The final decision for the course grade rests with the course instructor, but the course instructor shall give consideration to the review process. A request for such an evaluation must be made by the student within 14 days after the grade is posted by the Registrar. Only final grades of F, based on an examination or a paper, are eligible for this review; failing grades due to incomplete work or failure to meet the school's attendance policy are not eligible.

Grading Policy

Grading Policy

Grade Point Average:

- Every class must satisfy the grade point average requirement. The only exception is classes with only one student, such as Independent Study.
- In calculating the required grade point average, an instructor may (but is not required to) exclude any grade below a C-.
- For all classes other than clinics, the grade point average must be 3.30 ± 0.10 (i.e., 3.20 to 3.40).
- For clinics, the grade point average is based on that class and the two prior offerings of the same class, and must be 3.30 ± 0.30 (i.e., 3.00 to 3.60).

Grade Distribution:

- For classes of sixteen students or fewer, there is no required grade distribution.
- For classes of more than sixteen students, the grade distribution must be:
 - 20-40% A or A-
 - 25-45% B+
 - 10-30% B
 - 5-25% B- and below

The Associate Dean for Academic Affairs has limited discretion to allow faculty to deviate from the foregoing requirements.

In order to encourage enrollment in small classes, J.D. students may change two grades, one during their second year and one during their third year, to "Pass." Such a change is permitted only under the following conditions:

- The grade to be changed is a C+ or higher.
- The grade is not from one of the required first-year classes and is not from a class that satisfies the Professional Responsibility graduation requirement.
- The total credits converted to a "Pass" over a student's law school enrollment may not exceed seven credits.

LL.M. students may convert one letter grade into a "pass" during their tenure as an LL.M. student, provided that the grade is not (1) in a course that is required to obtain an LL.M. degree, (2) in a course of 5 credits or more or (3) a C or lower.

The opportunity to change a grade is subject to a deadline established by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (typically, within two weeks after all final grades have been released for a given semester). For purposes of this policy, the summer semester is considered part of the following academic year.

Law Academic Regulations

Grading Systems and Reports

Grading Systems and Reports

The following grades with grade point values are in effect at the University:

A+	--	B+	3.3	C+	2.3	D+	1.3
A	4.0	B	3.0	C	2.0	D	1.0
A-	3.7	B-	2.7	C-	1.7	D-	--
F	0.0	I	0.0	M	0.0	V	0.0

Other grades which may be given are P, which shows credit has been earned in a pass/fail course; S and U indicate satisfactory or unsatisfactory performance in a pass/no-credit course; and W, which indicates that the student withdrew from a course without academic penalty. Marks indicating failure, and counted as such in the grade point average, are F, M (withdrew from a course with a failing average), and V (failure because of excessive absences). The X indicates that the grade has not been received from the instructor.

Z shows that the course was audited. A student auditing a course is expected to meet all requirements for the course, except the final examination or papers. No grade or hour credit is earned for audited courses.

I and Y grades mean that coursework has not been completed by the end of the term. The I grade provisionally counts as a failing grade. It is given when the reasons for the incomplete involve student culpability, but the instructor and associate dean determine that an F is not warranted. The work is to be made up by the student's graduation date or at such earlier time as specified by the instructor and associate dean. If the work is not made up during this grace period, the I will be converted to an F. The Y grade, which does not count as a failing grade, is given when the instructor and associate dean determine that the reasons for the incomplete do not warrant an I grade. If a student does not complete such coursework within the 60-day period, the Y grade will be converted to an F, unless an additional extension is approved prior to the expiration of the 60-day period by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs in consultation with the student and instructor. In the case of an I, once the make-up grade is received, it appears to the right of the incomplete grade on the permanent record. In all cases, it is the student's responsibility to make arrangements for and progress toward the completion of an incomplete course.

Performance in the Clinical Placement Program is evaluated on a pass/fail basis. Performance in the In-House Clinics (Disabilities Law Clinic and the Delinquency Clinic) is evaluated using the letter-grade scale above.

Grades for courses taken under the various cooperative programs are recorded by the law school as a pass if, based on the above grading scale, a grade of C (2.0) or better is earned; otherwise they will be recorded as a failure.

The grade point average is determined by dividing the total number of grade points earned by the total number of academic hours attempted in law school courses that have grades to which grade point values are assigned. Each of these totals is accumulated term by term. The grade point average is represented to two significant decimal figures and truncated, not rounded.

If a failed course is repeated, the grade earned in the repeat and the failure are both included in the grade point average. When the final grade for a course in which an I was given is recorded, the occurrence will be shown on the permanent record, and the grade point average will be recomputed to remove the effect of the I and to include the final grade. For purposes of computing grade point averages, the credit hours earned for work recorded on a pass/fail basis are not included in the hours attempted, if a pass is received. The credit hours for any such work recorded as a failure are included in the hours attempted. Consequently the credit hours for work recorded as a pass have no effect on the grade point average, but a failure in such work would adversely affect the grade point average.

Note: A cumulative grade point average of at least 2.20 is required for graduation. Students admitted with advanced standing must consult the associate dean to determine the manner by which their cumulative grade point averages will be calculated for class standing purposes. Students may review their status and progress with the associate dean or in the Office of the University Registrar. Grades are available after the close of each term via the Internet by using BannerWeb (<https://bannerweb.richmond.edu>). Students will need their student ID and PIN.

Grades are deemed correct unless notification to the contrary is received by the University Registrar within three (3) months after the close of the term specified.

Order of the Coif Honors

Order of the Coif Honors

The purpose of the Order of the Coif is to encourage excellence in legal education by fostering a spirit of careful study, recognizing those who as law students attained a high grade of scholarship, and honoring those who as lawyers, judges and teachers attained high distinction for their scholarly or professional accomplishments.

Students are eligible for election to the Order of the Coif if (1) they have completed at least 75 percent of their law studies in graded courses at the University of Richmond School of law and (2) their grade record ranks them in the top 10 percent of all graduating students.

Law Academic Regulations

Religious Observance Policy

Religious Observance Policy

The University is a secular institution that values a diversity of religious expression. The University is also an active community with a wide range of personal commitments and academic and extracurricular activities.

Planning for academic and extracurricular activities should be done with sensitivity to the diverse religious commitments of the community and an awareness of religious holidays. Scheduling large-scale, one-time academic or extra-curricular events on a religious holiday should be avoided whenever possible.

Any student may be excused from class or other assignments because of religious observance. A student who will miss an academic obligation because of religious observance is responsible for contacting his or her professor within the first two weeks of the semester. The student is responsible for completing missed work in a timely manner.

Faculty are expected to be mindful of potential conflicts with religious observances and should make reasonable accommodations when students' religious practices conflict with their academic responsibilities.

The religious observance calendar is meant to serve as a scheduling guide. It lists significant holidays from the five largest global faith traditions. However, it is not comprehensive and students may choose to observe a holiday not included on the calendar.

The holidays listed are those which occur during the academic year when the University is open.

Transfer Work

Transfer Work

Transfer students or students who academically visit another law school (with permission) may apply no more than 31 hours of coursework done at another law school toward satisfaction of the J.D. degree. (Transferring credits toward the LL.M. degree is not permitted.) In order for work to transfer, courses must be taken at an institution accredited as degree-granting by a recognized regional accrediting body for higher education and accredited by the American Bar Association at the time the coursework is completed. The coursework must be taken for a grade and, in order for the work to be transferred, a student must receive a C (2.0) or better in each course.

Credits earned while a student is enrolled in the LL.M. program may not be transferred to the J.D. degree program and do not count towards a J.D. degree. Students who are enrolled in the LL.M. degree program may apply for admission to the J.D. program and the requirements for admission to the J.D. program are the same for LL.M. students as they are for any applicant. Applications from current LL.M. degree students will ordinarily be considered in the spring semester after fall grades have been released.

Transfer students will not be ranked within their respective classes. Instead, transfer students will receive a number corresponding to their position in the class if they had been ranked.

Law Academic Regulations

Visiting Another Law School

Visiting Another Law School

Students who wish to earn credit towards the J.D. degree while visiting away at another ABA accredited law school must first receive special permission to do so from the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Permission to visit at another law school will not be granted as a routine matter. Requests for such permission must be supported by a demonstration of compelling circumstances. An administrative fee will be charged to the student by the University of Richmond for each semester in which the student visits away at another law school.

Students choosing to visit must also, of course, apply to the law school they wish to visit. Most law schools will require a letter indicating that the student is in good standing and that the University of Richmond will accept transfer of credits. Upon approval of a visit, this letter may be obtained from the Associate Dean (Academic Affairs). Upon acceptance as a visiting student at another school, the Richmond student must immediately inform the Associate Dean (Academic Affairs) of the acceptance so that University and Law School records will indicate the change in status. Failure to notify of acceptance may result in the University of Richmond billing the student for the coming year's tuition.

Any student who visits at another law school must have all courses approved by the Associate Dean (Academic Affairs) prior to enrollment. Students who visit must also provide the Associate Dean (Academic Affairs) with an official transcript following completion of each semester of work.

Visiting students are expected to return to Richmond and attend graduation as required of all students. The Dean's office should be contacted to arrange to pick up the cap and gown. Visiting students should also be aware that if their transcript does not arrive in time to be certified as a May graduate (generally the third week in May), the student's graduation will be delayed until August.

Law Academic Regulations

Auditing Courses

Auditing Courses

With the approval of the student's academic advisor, dean, and the instructor of the course, a student may register for a course on an audit basis. The regular rate of tuition is charged, and the audit course is counted as a part of the student's semester load. A permission form must be obtained from and returned with appropriate signatures to the Office of the University Registrar by the end of the 10th day of classes. Once the form is submitted to the University Registrar, the decision may not be reversed. An audited course cannot subsequently be taken for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Law Academic Regulations

Leave of Absence

Leave of Absence

Students who have completed at least one semester in the School of Law and who are in good standing academically and financially may request a leave of absence. Requests must be in writing and submitted to the Associate Dean for Student Services and Administration, and must state an adequate reason for the request. In determining whether to grant the request, the Dean's Office may require adequate documentation. Leaves are ordinarily granted for one academic semester and rarely granted for longer than two academic semesters.

The grant of a leave of absence does not extend the time limits for completion of the J.D. degree and students requesting leave must demonstrate that they will be able to complete their degree within the allowed period of study. The law school will not accept academic credit for work completed at another school during a leave of absence without the prior written approval of the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

Because a leave of absence can impact a student's financial aid for the term in which they take a Leave of Absence as well as eligibility for financial aid when they return, we strongly urge students to consult with the Financial Aid Office before requesting a leave of absence.

University of Richmond

Students who have been awarded scholarships who wish to retain their scholarships upon their return must specifically request this in their written leave request. Such requests are ordinarily granted.

Any student who has been absent for longer than an approved leave of absence or who interrupts his or her course of study without an approved leave of absence will be involuntarily withdrawn and must reapply through the regular admissions process.

A student's Leave of Absence will not preclude the initiation or continuation of any School of Law Honor Code or University Standards of Conduct investigation or proceeding.

A law student who takes a leave of absence during a semester may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund Policy. A leave of absence may also affect a student's financial aid eligibility for the semester as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy.

Registration

Registration

Students shall register according to the instructions that are provided for each term. A student will not be permitted to attend class until his or her name has been entered on the official roster of that class by the University Registrar and arrangements satisfactory to the University have been made for that term's fees.

A student may register late, add courses, or opt for audit status in a course through the 10th class day of the semester provided that the specified approvals are obtained and fees, if any, are paid.

A student may withdraw from courses without academic record through the 10th class day of the semester. Withdrawals after this time will be shown on the academic record, and the student must present an adequate reason, receive the approval of the associate dean, and follow any specified administrative procedures including the payment of fees, if any.

Second- or third-year students may not register for more than 17 semester hours in any semester.

Registration Holds

Registration Holds

The following holds will prevent students from registering (students can access BannerWeb to check holds): Admissions Office, Cashier, Dean's Office, Library, Long-Distance (Student Account Hold), Parking Services (Student Account Hold), Student Credit Service, Perkins Loan in Repayment, Registrar's Office, Student Health, and Student Accounts. For further information on these types of holds, contact the office from which the hold originated.

Law Academic Regulations

Repeated Courses

Repeated Courses

Coursework may not be repeated for credit toward graduation except as sanctioned by the University; however, particular coursework may meet more than one requirement for graduation. An example of a sanctioned repeat-for-credit is the subsequent registration for a course in which the content changes from term to term, such as special topics or independent studies. Also, certain courses in a major or program may have to be repeated if the grade earned the first time does not meet requirements; in such a case, the credit will be counted only once but both grades will be calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

Courses taken on an audit basis cannot be repeated for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Except in clear situations, the Office of the University Registrar should be consulted before registration to learn if a proposed repeat is sanctioned for credit or if sanction is possible.

All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record. The grade for a course repeated at the University of Richmond becomes a part of the grade point average if the grade otherwise would be included in the computation.

Law Academic Regulations

Withdrawal

Withdrawal

Students may voluntarily withdraw from the Law School at any time. Students who wish to withdraw voluntarily should notify the Associate Dean for Student Services and Administration in writing of their decision. A student who wishes to return to the Law School after withdrawing must apply for readmission through the regular admission process. A student will not automatically retain any scholarships awarded prior to withdrawal.

Because a withdrawal can impact a student's financial aid for the term in which they withdraw as well as eligibility for financial aid in future terms should they be readmitted, we strongly urge students to consult with the Financial Aid Office before withdrawing from the Law School.

University of Richmond

A student's withdrawal will not preclude the initiation or continuation of any School of Law Honor Code or University Standards of Conduct investigation or proceeding.

A law student who withdraws during a semester may be entitled to a refund of certain charges as outlined in the Refund Policy set forth below. Withdrawal may also affect a student's financial aid eligibility for the semester as outlined in the federal Return of Title IV Program Funds Policy and the Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy.

Graduation with Honors

At the end of law school study, students who attain in the range of the following cumulative grade point averages are eligible to graduate with the designated honors:

Cum Laude: 3.40-3.59

Magna Cum Laude: 3.60-3.79

Summa Cum Laude: 3.80-4.0

Filing of Application

To graduate, a student must file a degree application and comply with the graduation attendance policy. Degree applications must be filed in the Office of the University Registrar by the second Friday in September for anticipated completion in the coming May or August or by the second Friday in February for anticipated completion the following January.

Attendance at Graduation

Students are required to attend the commencement ceremony for the award of the degree in person except by decision of the University not to do so. A student who expects to have a degree awarded at the spring commencement may request absentia status from the graduation ceremony by explaining in writing the circumstance which prevents participation. Students who have a degree application on file and anticipate summer completion of degree requirements are also expected to participate in the spring graduation ceremony. Students who expect to complete degree requirements in January may participate in the spring commencement either prior to or following their January completion. If a winter or summer degree candidate does not intend to participate in the ceremony a written statement requesting absentia must be submitted. The request for absentia must be received by the University Registrar no later than eight working days before the ceremony. The registrar will notify the degree candidate of the status granted by the University. Unless approved for absentia status a candidate for graduation who does not participate in the commencement ceremony does not graduate. Such candidate may graduate by again filing a degree application and by following the appropriate graduation attendance policy.

J.D. Admissions Requirements

Our J.D. degree is a full-time program that combines sophisticated legal theory with numerous opportunities to put theory into practice.

J.D. Transfer & Visiting Students Admissions Requirements

Transfer Students

The Office of Admissions welcomes transfer students each year for the J.D. program. In order to be eligible for transfer, you must be a student in good standing at an ABA-accredited law school. Most successful transfer students are in the top half of their law school class. Our review process is holistic and considers all the information you submit, but we pay particular attention to your performance in the first year of law school.

Visiting Students

Typically, a few students are admitted each year as visiting students after the second year of study at another law school. Students interested in visiting the University of Richmond School of Law should follow the instructions for transfer students. Additionally, the letter from the dean of the law school you are presently attending should state that your current law school is willing to accept grades earned at the University of Richmond School of Law as credit toward your degree.

Two-Year J.D. for International Lawyers Admission Requirements

Lawyers with a first degree in law from outside the United States who are admitted to our program receive one year's credit toward their Juris Doctor degree. This enables them to graduate in two years but still to receive the same J.D. degree that our three-year students receive.

Two-year students are fully integrated into the J.D. program. They take the regular first-year curriculum required of all J.D. students and in the second year select from an extensive array of elective courses and seminars.

LLM & LLM/MBA Admission Requirements

University of Richmond

relevant optional sections may delay the processing of your application. In order to be considered, an must be transmitted, and your application file must be complete with all supporting documentation and additional requirements. Applicants are encouraged to apply as early as possible, and may apply prior to receiving a reportable LSAT or GRE score. Richmond Law does not charge an application fee.

2. Transcripts

Registration with LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS) is required. After registering for CAS, you must have transcripts sent to LSAC from ALL undergraduate, graduate, or technical institutions you have attended (as a matriculated or non-matriculated student), whether or not a degree was earned. This includes any dual credits earned in high school, college-level summer school, all transfer credits, etc. Applicants are advised to wait until they have completed at least six semesters of undergraduate work before requesting transcripts. Even after application, you should update your transcript with LSAC as more semesters of coursework are completed. Please note that the J.D. program requires that, at minimum, a Bachelor degree or equivalent has been earned prior to the start of your J.D. coursework.

3. LSAT

Students must register and take the exam through LSAC. While applications can be submitted prior to receiving LSAT scores, they will not be evaluated until an LSAT score is received.

4. GRE in lieu of LSAT Policy:

The University of Richmond School of Law will accept the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) under the following conditions:

I) GRE scores are considered only when an applicant does not have a reportable LSAT score.

1. You must request an official GRE score report be submitted to the University of Richmond School of law from ETS.
2. If an applicant has a reportable LSAT score on file at any time during the admissions process, the GRE score will not be considered as part of the process.
3. If an applicant has been admitted with a GRE score, receipt of a subsequent LSAT score will result in a reevaluation of the applicant's file, and the Admissions Committee may reconsider the admissions decision and/or any scholarship award offered.

II) Applicants must submit all GRE scores from the past five years. Both total and individual section scores are required. The Admissions Committee will evaluate scores from all sections of the GRE. Scores older than five years from the anticipated year of matriculation will not be considered.

III) Applicants are encouraged to take the LSAT, unless there is a specific reason to prefer the GRE. The GRE may be considered and weighted differently than the LSAT for purposes of admission and scholarship allocation. Applicants who choose to apply with only a GRE must submit a brief explanation of their decision to do so.

5. Résumé

The résumé may be of any length and should provide chronological information about your academic background, work experiences, extracurricular or charitable activities, and accomplishments.

6. Personal Statement

Your personal statement should be approximately 1-3 pages written in your own words on a topic of your choice that will provide additional insight into your experiences, qualifications and interests. While there is no required topic, if you are unsure of a topic, you may consider sharing why you are interested in pursuing a law degree or what your anticipated career goals & interests are at this time. We encourage you to provide information about yourself not otherwise found in your application and distinct from any other written statements or addenda to be submitted as part of this application (see below). Please note that everything in your personal statement must be entirely your own original work and may not be produced in any part with ChatGPT or any other artificial intelligence or large language model system.

7. Optional Supplemental Statement

Recognizing that applicants may have more to share beyond their required personal statement and other contents of their application file, we offer this option to submit a supplemental statement. This statement is not required and no applicant will be penalized for choosing not to submit one.

Richmond Law believes that a legal education is more than just learning the law. Diverse life experiences, viewpoints, and values inside and outside of the classroom will enhance discussions, challenge students in their own perspective, and ultimately prepare them better for their legal career. Please consider sharing significant life experiences, challenges, perspectives, or identities that have shaped you as a person and may influence your contributions to our community and the legal profession.

Note that any written submissions must be entirely your own original work and may not be produced in any part with ChatGPT or any other artificial intelligence or large language model system. If you choose to submit a supplemental statement, please include it in the appropriate "Attachments" section.

8. Addendum

An addendum must be submitted to address any legal, character and fitness, or educational issues associated with your application. If there are multiple issues, each should be addressed in its own addendum. There is no required format.

9. Letters of Recommendation

Applicants should use the Letter of Recommendation Service offered through CAS. Two letters are required; up to four will be accepted. We encourage at least one letter of recommendation come from a professor who can address your academic abilities unless you completed your undergraduate work more than five years prior to your application. Note: Letters of recommendation are held in confidence. The submission of your application constitutes your waiver of any and all rights to review letters of recommendation retained by this law school.

Letters are used for law admissions purposes only.

10. TOEFL Waiver for International Applicants

International applicants are expected to demonstrate fluency in the English language. Candidates for whom their native language is not English are required to take either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) exam. All scores must be submitted through LSAC; paper copies of scores are not accepted.

International applicants who believe they are fluent in English or have completed their undergraduate (or other advanced degrees) at an institution where the primary language of instruction is English may request a waiver of the English language testing requirement. Applicants must submit a written statement indicating their level of proficiency and how they achieved it, i.e. either through school instruction or work experience in an English-speaking professional job.

J.D. Transfer/Visiting Admission Requirements

J.D. Transfer & Visiting Students Admission Requirements

1. Application - The submitted application must be completed in full, with all required and any relevant optional questions answered in order to be considered. Failure to do so may delay the processing of your application. All applications MUST be submitted through the Law School Admissions Council (LSAC).
2. Transcripts - Registration with the LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS) is required. After you register for the CAS, you must have a transcript sent to LSAC from each undergraduate, technical school, graduate, and law institution you have attended (as a matriculated or non-matriculated student), whether or not a degree was earned. This includes any dual credits earned in high school, college-level summer school, and all transfer credits, etc. This must also include an official transcript showing your grades and class standing at the end of the first year of law school. Either the transcript or required Letter of Good Standing must indicate your class rank or the reason that no rank is provided.
3. Letters of Recommendation - Applicants should use the Letter of Recommendation Service offered through CAS. Although Letters of Recommendation are not required, we strongly encourage at least one Letter of Recommendation, preferably from a professor at your current law school. Up to four letters will be considered. Note: Letters of recommendation are held in confidence. The submission of your application constitutes your waiver of any and all rights to review letters of recommendation retained by this law school. Letters are used for law admissions purposes only.
4. Letter of Good Standing - The appropriate Dean or Registrar of the law school you are presently attending must send a letter to the Richmond Law Admissions Office stating that you are in good standing and eligible to continue your studies there. Letters of Good standing may be sent directly to the Admissions Office. Either the Letter of Good Standing or required transcript must indicate your class rank or the reason that no rank is provided.
5. Résumé - The résumé may be of any length and in any appropriate format for a professional résumé or CV. It should provide chronological information about your academic background, work experiences, extracurricular or charitable activities, publications, and accomplishments.
6. Personal Statement - The required personal statement should be approximately two pages in length and can address any topic you deem relevant that will provide additional insight into your experiences, qualifications, and interests. We encourage you to provide information about yourself otherwise not found in your application. We do not recommend explaining any legal or educational issues associated with your application here. If needed, please address these issues in an addendum. We do encourage addressing why you wish to transfer or visit. Please note that everything in your personal statement must be entirely your own original work and may not be produced in any part with ChatGPT or any other artificial intelligence or large language model system.
7. Optional Supplemental Statement - Recognizing that applicants may have more to share beyond their required personal statement and other contents of their application file, we offer this option to submit a supplemental statement. This statement is not required and no applicant will be penalized for choosing not to submit one.

Richmond Law believes that a legal education is more than just learning the law. Diverse life experiences, viewpoints, and values inside and outside of the classroom will enhance discussions, challenge students in their own perspective, and ultimately prepare them better for their legal career. Note that any written submissions must be entirely your own original work and may not be produced in any part with ChatGPT or any other artificial intelligence or large language model system. If you choose to submit a supplemental statement, please include it in the appropriate "Attachments" section.
8. Addendum - An addendum must be submitted to address any legal, character and fitness, or educational issues associated with your application. If there are multiple issues, each should be addressed in its own addendum. Brief optional addenda may also be useful to explain LSAT score discrepancies, grade inconsistencies, gaps in work history, or to provide context for reviews on any topic you feel is relevant to their decision. There is no required format.
9. Other Statements - Richmond Law considers whether a student comes from an underprivileged socioeconomic background, is a first-generation college student, has a disability, or is from a group underrepresented in the legal profession. We encourage any additional statements you wish to provide.
10. TOEFL Waiver for International Applicants - International applicants are expected to demonstrate fluency in the English language. Candidates for whom their native language is not English are required to take either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) exam. All scores must be submitted through LSAC; paper copies of scores are not accepted.

International applicants who believe they are fluent in English or have completed their undergraduate (or other advanced degrees) at an institution where the primary language of instruction is English may request a waiver of the English language testing requirement. Applicants must submit a written statement indicating their level of proficiency and how they achieved it, i.e., either through school instruction or work experience in an English-speaking professional position.
11. GRE Takers - Applicants who were admitted to law school with a GRE score in lieu of the LSAT, must submit both their GRE score(s) and an explanation of why they took the GRE in place of the LSAT. Both total and individual scores must be reported.
12. Academic Course Descriptions - Transfer students must submit an official course description for all law courses that you have completed or will complete prior to enrolling at the University of Richmond School of Law. These course descriptions are required to have your first year law transcript assessed for transfer credit. They will be used in determining which course credits will transfer in and which degree requirements have been met. This will help you and your academic advisors plan your 2L course schedule.

Two-Year for International Lawyers Admission Requirements

Two-Year J.D. for International Lawyers Admission Requirements

1. Application - J.D. applications MUST be submitted electronically through the Law School Admission Council (LSAC). Please carefully complete all required sections and relevant optional sections. Failure to do so may delay the processing of your application. In order to be considered, an application must be transmitted and your application file must be complete with all supporting documentation and additional requirements. Applicants are encouraged to apply as early as possible.
2. Transcripts - Registration with the LSAC Credential Assembly Service (CAS) is required. After you register for the CAS, you must request transcripts from ALL undergraduate, graduate, or technical schools you have attended (as a matriculated or non-matriculated student), whether or not a degree was earned. 7. Addenda - An individual addendum must be submitted to address each specific topic regarding any legal matters, educational dismissals, or character and fitness disclosures within your application. Brief optional addenda may also be useful to explain LSAT score discrepancies, grade inconsistencies, gaps in work history, or to provide context for reviewers on any other topic you feel is relevant to their decision. There is no required format.
8. Optional Supplemental Essay - Recognizing that applicants often have more to write about than what is contained in the personal statement, Richmond Law offers the opportunity to submit an optional supplemental essay. This essay allows you to provide additional information not otherwise included in your application. You may choose only one of the essay prompts, and it must be labeled as such. Your essay should be no longer than one page in length, and more than one supplemental essay will not be considered in your application. Note that any written submissions must be entirely your own original work and may not be produced in any part with ChatGPT or any other artificial intelligence or large language model system.
 1. Describe a challenge you see in the legal world and what you would hope to do as a lawyer to fix it.
 2. What is a time you changed your opinion on something important and how did that change happen?
 3. Discuss an accomplishment, event, or realization that sparked a period of personal growth and a new understanding of yourself or others.
 4. Tell us about a personal mentor who has impacted your life.
9. TOEFL Waiver for International Applicants - International applicants are expected to demonstrate fluency in the English language. Candidates with a native language other than English may be required to take either the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) Exam. School of Professional and Continuing Studies Earning Credit

College Level Examination Program (CLEP)

College Level Examination Program (CLEP)

The School of Professional and Continuing Studies awards credit based on acceptable performance on specified tests of the College Level Examination Program. Generally, a student may not attempt credit by examination for a course in which a failing grade was received or for a basic course in those areas in which acceptable college credit has been earned at a more advanced level. For information about general and subject examinations, contact the School of Professional and Continuing Studies.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Earning Credit

American Council on Education (ACE)

American Council on Education (ACE)

ACE's College Credit Recommendation Service reviews and offers college-level credit recommendations for many training courses, apprenticeship programs and examinations. An official ACE Credit Recommendations Transcript must be submitted directly to the School of Professional and Continuing Studies for review of the equivalence and transfer. For more information on ACE or to order a transcript visit their website.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Earning Credit

Advanced Placement Program (AP)

Advanced Placement Program (AP)

The School of Professional and Continuing Studies participates in the Advanced Placement program of the College Board. Students who successfully completed AP examinations prior to their entry in a college-level program may have official scores submitted to the University for review. Scores submitted within 10 years of completion of the examination will be considered for the equivalence and transfer of credit. To order test scores contact the College Board.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Earning Credit

International Baccalaureate (IB)

International Baccalaureate (IB)

The School of Professional and Continuing Studies may award credit based on acceptable performance on higher level exams of the International Baccalaureate program. For more information on the IB program or to have your scores sent to the University, visit ibo.org.

Independent Study

Independent Study

An independent study is a course taken with faculty supervision for knowledge enhancement beyond the courses offered in a particular area of interest. In rare cases, when scheduling or other conflicts exist, a regular course may be taken as an independent study. Independent study courses may be used in the Areas of Study and General Distribution and may be used to enhance courses in the major. Consult with your academic advisor before applying to earn credit by independent study.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Earning Credit

Transfer Credit

Transfer Credit

Courses offered in transfer will be evaluated for acceptance provided the work was taken at an institution accredited as degree-granting by a recognized regional accrediting body for higher education at the time the coursework is completed. A grade of or equivalent to C (2.0) or better must have been earned in the particular course. Course work accepted in transfer shall be applied to specific degree requirements subject to the discretion of the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. CLEP exams are considered transfer credits. Note: Credits accepted for transfer do not transfer the grade and grades are not applicable to Grade Point Averages at the University of Richmond.

The School of Professional and Continuing Studies generally does not accept credits earned with a Pass/No Pass designation.

No transfer credit shall be formally accepted or recorded until the University has received an official transcript directly from the records office of the institution that offered the course work. If course work is being transferred from more than one institution, a transcript must be received from each institution. It is the responsibility of the student to be aware of the unit of credit awarded when enrolling at another institution for the purpose of transferring credits. Transferable work completed on the quarter hour system will be accepted at two-thirds of a semester hour.

Transfer credits will be accepted during the semester prior to graduation only with prior approval.

University of Richmond

Note: Courses offered in transfer will be evaluated for acceptance provided the work was taken at an institution accredited as degree-granting by one of the following regional accrediting associations at the time the coursework is completed:

- Higher Learning Commission (HLC)
- Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools/Commission on Higher Education
- New England Association of Schools and Colleges/Commission on Technical and Career Institutions
- Northwest Association of Colleges and Schools/Commission on Colleges
- Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges
- Western Association of Schools and Colleges/Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities
- Western Association of Schools and Colleges/Accrediting Commission of Community and Junior Colleges

Transfer Credit from Non-U.S. Institutions

Students who have attended institutions outside of the United States are required to provide official transcripts (mark sheets) to the School of Professional and Continuing Studies and to have these official transcripts evaluated by one of the educational credit evaluation services listed on the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES) website. An official copy of the evaluation must be sent directly to SPCS from the evaluation service. Visit our International Admissions page for additional information.

A listing of acceptable evaluators is available through the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES) on their website www.naces.org. In addition, the University of Richmond will accept evaluations from the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers (AACRAO). Information is available from their website www.aacrao.org.

The service must supply an official transcript evaluation according to the following guidelines:

- High school transcripts need a document to document evaluation.
- Applicants to graduate programs need a document to document evaluation, including cumulative GPA.
- Applicants for undergraduate programs with possible transfer work will need a course by course evaluation, including cumulative GPA.
- Applicants must provide the original mark sheets form. (If the student does not want to part with the originals, they can present the originals in person to the SPCS office to be photocopied.)

SPCS will check with the service to be sure that the evaluation was completed using the same mark sheets provided by the student.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Earning Credit

Undergraduate Portfolio Assessment of Prior Learning

Undergraduate Portfolio Assessment of Prior Learning

Students may also earn academic credit by portfolio assessment of prior learning in selected courses for most disciplines in the SPCS. This involves developing a learning portfolio that demonstrates college-level learning that has occurred on the job or during training, through volunteer work, or by other means of educational experience. By preparing and submitting a learning portfolio, SPCS students can earn up to 15 semester hours toward a bachelor's degree. Three hours of portfolio credit may be applied toward the major. Students are eligible to submit portfolios upon official admission to a degree program in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies and with the prior written approval of the Program Chair in the discipline to be assessed. A selected list of courses that qualify for portfolio credit is available from the Office of Enrollment Management and Student Services or the Program Chair of each discipline.

A portfolio is a formal written communication made up of an introductory essay, a detailed narrative on a specific course and documentation. Portfolios have been successfully submitted in leadership, journalism, English, speech and many other disciplines. Sample portfolios are available for examination in the SPCS office.

Portfolio assessments require that students enroll in ADED 200U Experiential Learning and Portfolio Preparation. This course serves as an elective and provides students with the necessary information to evaluate their experiential learning, match the learning to a course and to prepare a portfolio for evaluation. Following completion of the course, the student will be able to make a decision about whether to proceed in earning credit in this manner. Students who have completed the course are eligible to submit portfolios for more than one course throughout their academic careers at the University.

Students who have completed ADED 200U and wish to earn credit by portfolio assessment register for ADED 201U - Portfolio Submission and Assessment - during the regular registration period and pay the non-refundable assessment fee of $200. Portfolios can be submitted at any time during the semester in which the student is registered for ADED 201U; however, the following submission dates determine when credit is awarded:

- For credit earned in the fall semester, portfolios must be submitted by October 15.
- For credit earned in the spring semester, portfolios must be submitted by February 15.
- For credit earned in the summer semester, portfolios must be submitted by June 15.

Qualified faculty members, with expertise in the particular discipline and selected in consultation with the appropriate Program Chairs, review the portfolios. The assessors will recommend credit based on the extent and depth of the student's learning as demonstrated in the portfolio. The review process may include an interview with the student. After reviewing the assessors' recommendations, the Senior Associate Dean for Academic Programs will make the final decision regarding credit.

Once the credits have been awarded, students will be billed $200 per semester hour. Portfolio credits will show a grade of "P" as a passing grade and the specific course in which credit was assigned. Portfolio credits do not carry a letter grade and therefore do not affect the grade point average.

Class Load

Normal Class Load

The University of Richmond School of Professional and Continuing Studies operates on the semester system. A normal course load for students who are employed full time is six semester hours. Some students find it possible to pursue nine semester hours. Your academic advisor will help you determine the appropriate schedule.

During the Fall and Spring semesters, students may not take over 18 credit hours without the dean's approval.

Students may enroll in no more than a total of 18 credit hours during the entire Summer Term without the dean's approval.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Registration

Changes

Changes (Add/Drop & Withdrawal)

Changes in registration (Add/Drop, withdrawal) must be initiated by the student within the deadlines specified in the academic calendar. Ordinarily, a student may not withdraw from a course after the end of the seventh week of classes except for medical reasons.

Course Drop (using BannerWeb) before the end of the second week of classes is not shown on the academic record. Withdrawal after the end of the second week through the seventh week of classes carries the grade of "W" (withdraw passing/no evaluation).

All withdrawals after the second week of class must be requested in writing to the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. The withdrawal date will be the date the written request is received.

Students who stop attending class without notifying the School of Professional and Continuing Studies office will receive the grade of "V" (failure due to excessive absences) regardless of the last date of attendance and are responsible for payment of any fees due.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Registration

Audit

Audit

Normally, courses are taken for grade and academic credit; however, a student may take a course as audit. The audit reserves a place in the class for the student, but there are no attendance requirements nor credit given at the end of the term. The audited course is shown as such on the permanent academic record with a grade of "Z" for Audit.

Students who wish to audit a course or courses register and pay in the usual manner. After registering, the Audit Form must be completed to change a course from credit to audit status. Audit forms are available from the Registrar or the School of Professional and Continuing Studies office. The completed form must be filed in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies office by the end of the 10th day of classes. Once filed, the audit status is not reversible. Students who took a course as audit (grade of 'Z') may not later take the same course for a standard grade.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Registration

Graduate Study

Graduate Study

Upper level undergraduate students may be approved to enroll in a limited number of graduate courses for either undergraduate or graduate credit purposes, according to the following criteria:

For Undergraduate Credit

SPCS undergraduate students may enroll in SPCS graduate-level coursework for undergraduate credit, provided they meet the following criteria:

- an overall GPA of 3.0 or above;
- the written approval of their program director; and,
- demonstrated ability to succeed in course work at the graduate level, based upon a combination of prior experience and/or formal college education

Note: Specific programs of the School may require additional criteria.

For Graduate Credit

SPCS undergraduate students may enroll in SPCS graduate level coursework for graduate credit, provided they meet the following criteria:

University of Richmond

- satisfactory completion (including transfer) of at least 100 semester hours of coursework toward the baccalaureate degree;
- an overall GPA of 3.3 or above; and,
- acceptance into a graduate certificate program as a regular student by its standard procedures.

Until students have completed a bachelor's degree, no more than three courses may be taken for graduate credit and not more than two courses may be taken in any given semester.

Although a student who is accepted in this option may be enrolled in undergraduate and graduate courses simultaneously, the undergraduate and graduate transcripts will be kept separately. Courses taken for graduate credit under this option will not apply to the bachelor's degree.

Note: Specific programs of the School may require additional criteria.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Registration

Repeated Courses

Repeated Courses

Coursework may not be repeated for credit toward graduation except as sanctioned by the University; however, particular coursework may meet more than one requirement for graduation. An example of a sanctioned repeat-for-credit is the subsequent registration for a course in which the content changes from term to term such as Selected Topics (ST) or Independent Studies (IS). Also, certain courses in a major or program may have to be repeated if the grade earned the first time does not meet requirements in such a case, the credit hours will be counted only once but both grades will be calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

Courses taken on an audit basis cannot be repeated for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Except in clear situations, the Office of the University Registrar should be consulted before registration to learn if a proposed repeat is sanctioned for credit or if sanction is possible.

All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record. The grade for a course repeated at the University of Richmond becomes a part of the grade point average if the grade otherwise would be included in the computation.

Tuition will be charged on each attempt at the current rate at the time of registration.

English Course Repeat Policy

A student who fails or withdraws from the same required ENGL class twice can take only that ENGL class in the following semester. If the student is still unable to pass the class, s/he will be permitted to take only that class in subsequent semesters until s/he passes it.

Holds

Registration Holds

The following holds will prevent students from registering (students can access BannerWeb to check holds): Admissions Office, Cashier, Dean's Office, Library, Parking Services (Student Account Hold), Student Credit Service, Perkins Loan in Repayment, Registrar's Office, and Student Accounts. For further information of these types of holds, contact the office from which the hold originated.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Course Administration

Class Attendance

Class Attendance

Each student is expected to attend all meetings of all classes, including lectures, seminars, laboratories and drills, in which he or she is enrolled. The specific attendance policy in each course, however, is determined by the instructor of the course, subject to the section on University Holidays. The specific attendance policy for each course will be announced to the students and distributed on the course syllabus at the beginning of the course.

Faculty members will honor an official notification from the appropriate dean that a student is to be excused for participation in a University-sponsored event, such as choral performances off campus, intercollegiate athletic events, or judicial hearings at which the student must be present.

Academic events sponsored by the University under supervision of faculty advisors include, but are not limited to: theatre/dance and musical performances, debate, mock trial, model UN, conference attendance, ROTC field leadership exercise, and Oldham scholar travel. Because such events and varsity athletic competitions are recognized as integral to the educational experience, the appropriate coordinate college dean (for undergraduate students in the Schools of Arts & Sciences, Business, and Leadership Studies) or student advisor or dean (for SPCS undergraduate and graduate students) will provide official notification of student participation in these activities. It is also the student's responsibility to request such notification and to deliver it to the faculty member as early as possible in the semester. Faculty members will honor notification from the college deans that a student is to be excused for participation in a University-sponsored event. All other absences will not be officially announced by a dean, but may be excused at the discretion of faculty. Examples include, but are not limited to, class field trips, illness, funerals, and family functions. The University encourages students to weigh the consequences of missing class and other sponsored academic or varsity athletic events, and to make their choices accordingly.

A student generally will be held responsible for all work of a class or laboratory missed during an absence. Acceptance of any excuse for an absence, other than those excused by the appropriate dean in the previous paragraph, and any provision for make-up, will be at the discretion of the instructor provided it is consistent with the announced policy for the course and with the University Holiday Schedule. Missed classes, work, tests and/or excessive absences with or without good cause may result in a poorer grade, or failure, in the course. Students enrolled in School of Professional and Continuing Studies courses must attend at least 75% of the class meetings regardless of the reasons for absence to be eligible to receive credit for the course.

Generally, absences that may be excused by faculty members include accident or illness, death or serious illness of a family member, bona fide religious holiday observance, or participation in other University activities such as field trips. Students should make arrangements with their instructors as far in advance as possible to make up any missed work. Students experiencing difficulty in making reasonable arrangements for make-up work may see their dean.

Class Meetings

Class Meetings

Class meeting times and schedule revisions are noted in the Schedule of Classes, and class locations and any corrections are noted on BannerWeb.

Seldom are classes canceled. If cancellation due to severe weather is necessary, a notice will appear on the television or be on WRVA radio encouraging students to call the University hotline at (804) 289-8760.

Grading Policies

Grading Policies

The level of students' performance in class work and examinations is indicated by letters. A (excellent), B (good), C (average), and D (poor) indicate that the work has been passed. The foregoing grades may be accompanied by a plus (+) or minus (-) to indicate a relative position within the grade category. Z shows that a course was audited. S and U indicate satisfactory or unsatisfactory performance in non-academic courses or in a noncredit course. W indicates that the student withdrew from a course with a passing average. Marks indicating failure and included as such in the grade point average are F and V (failure because of excessive absences). The X indicates that the grade is not available from the instructor. The assignment of grades is the sole right and responsibility of the instructor. Grades of D are not assigned in graduate course work

I and Y mean that coursework has not been completed by the end of the term. The I, which provisionally counts as a failing grade, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed unjustifiable by the instructor. The work is to be made up by the date the instructor specifies, but no later than 45 calendar days (grace period) from the last day of the term in which the I was given. If the work is not made up during the grace period, the I will be converted to F, and cannot be changed. The Y, which does not affect the grade point average, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed justifiable (passing, but for medical or personal reasons the student is not able to complete the work) by the instructor, or at the end of the first term of a course that continues into a succeeding term. Y grades must be rectified by making up the incomplete work by the end of the succeeding term, unless special arrangements have been made with the instructor, or the instructor will assign an F. In the case of either an I or Y, once the make-up grade is received, it appears to the right of the make-up grade on the permanent record. In all cases, it is the student's responsibility to make arrangements for and progress toward the completion of an incomplete course.

Grades are deemed correct on the permanent record unless notification to the contrary is received by the University Registrar within three (3) months after the close of the term specified.

The assignment of grades is the sole right and responsibility of the instructor. It is recognized that each course and each student in a course has unique characteristics that the instructor alone is in the best position to evaluate; consequently, except in unusual circumstances, formal appeals to others concerning the evaluation on which a grade is based are not appropriate. Instructors establish grading criteria for their courses and prepare and submit the final course reports (using the grades defined under Grading Policies) to the University Registrar for recording.

If the student believes that an error has been made in the grade assigned, the following process will apply:

1. The student must first contact the instructor to discuss the matter.
2. If the issue is not resolved with the instructor, the student may contact the Program Chair to discuss the issue.
3. If the grade is not resolved at the Program Chair level, the student then contacts the Associate Dean for Academic & Student Affairs, who will determine if and what further action needs to be taken to decide the matter.

Transcripts

Transcripts

Most colleges and universities require an official transcript to consider transfer credit. Before requesting a transcript, please review the official transcript request policy on the Office of the University Registrar's website. Student records, including the academic transcript, are protected by the FERPA privacy act. Only the student may request a copy of his or her academic record. Family or friends are not permitted access to student records without the written consent of the student.

Transcripts and documents from other institutions are the property of the University of Richmond and, as such, are under the control of the Office of the

University of Richmond

University Registrar. Under federal policy, a student has the right to view the documents in his or her file; the University is not required to provide (or allow the making of) copies of these documents. Transcripts submitted to the University of Richmond for admission or credit transfer become the property of the University of Richmond and cannot be returned to the student or forwarded to other institutions. Requests for a paper copy or an electronic copy of an official transcript must be made in writing and may be requested online, in person, by mail or fax, or by scanned completed/signed copy of the request form. All requests require the student's signature before they can be processed.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

The following policies and procedures govern academic standing in SPCS academic programs.

- Undergraduate Programs
- Graduate Programs
- Courses in Directed Research
- Changing Degree or Minor
- Evaluation Criteria
- Graduation
- Withdrawal from the University

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

Undergraduate

Undergraduate Programs

Students are expected to achieve in the classroom and make steady academic progress. Good standing is defined as earning at least 2.0 grade points for each academic hour attempted. A student is automatically placed on Academic Warning (AW) when the student's cumulative grade point (GPA) falls below a 2.0 at the conclusion of any term of attendance: fall, spring, or summer. A student on academic warning should take active steps to improve academic performance. A student remains on AW for one term of attendance, at the end of which time the student must obtain a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0. Failure to achieve this GPA results in the student being placed on Academic Probation.

A student is placed on Academic Probation (AP) when the student's cumulative GPA falls below 2.0 for two consecutive terms of attendance. Students on AP are expected to improve their cumulative GPA within two consecutive terms of attendance. A student who achieves a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0 is removed from Academic Probation. If a student fails to meet the minimum of a 2.0 GPA, he/she will be suspended from the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. Once placed on Suspension (SP), a student may reapply for admission after one full academic year from the term of suspension.

Students with a cumulative GPA of less than 1.0 after two consecutive semesters are automatically suspended from the School of Professional and Continuing Studies. Once suspended, a student may reapply for admission after a minimum of one full academic year.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

Graduate

Graduate Programs

Maintenance of Overall Grade Point Average (GPA)

To qualify for the Master's degree in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, a candidate must complete the curriculum satisfactorily, with a cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 'B' (3.0) at the time of graduation, and the completion of the curriculum requirements within five years of starting the program. Grades assigned in the program and grading standards will be the prerogative of individual departments.

Maintenance and Intervention for Satisfactory Progress

Students falling below prescribed academic standards for the program in any semester will be placed on Academic Warning, with special advising intervention from the Office of Enrollment Management & Student Services. Notification of this status will be provided to Program Chairs. Students falling below the minimum standards for the program in two or more semesters will not be permitted to continue in the program, and will be suspended. Students may appeal the suspension for failure to maintain prescribed academic standards directly to the Dean who will appoint a committee comprised of the Senior Associate Dean and two Program Chairs to review the appeal and recommend a final decision by the Dean. This appeal must be made in writing to the Dean and received within two weeks of the last day of the term of suspension. If permission is granted to continue, no more than two courses (six semester credits) may be repeated.

Application for Re-admission

Students who have been suspended from the program for failure to maintain satisfactory progress may apply for readmission after the lapse of three academic years. Applicants for readmission must meet current admission requirements and readmission is not guaranteed.

Graduate Course Credit

Graduate credit is allowed only for courses approved for graduate credit in which grades of 'B-' (2.7) or better are received. No credit toward graduation will be given for a SPCS graduate course in which the student earns a grade lower than 'B-' (2.7). Students enrolled in graduate programs in the School are expected to maintain at least a 'B' (3.0) average to remain in the program. A student who earns less than 'B-' (2.7) in two graduate courses will not be permitted to continue in the degree program.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

Directed Research

Courses in Directed Research

University of Richmond

Courses in Directed Research are intended for students who wish to further develop their skills in research. Each student accepted to participate in a Directed Research course will work directly with a full-time faculty member on a research project chosen by the faculty member. It is expected that such collaborations between the student and faculty member will lead to notable conference papers, and/or jointly authored research articles. Students will be made aware when Directed Research courses are available via an e-mail announcement from their respective departments. In most cases, one student will be chosen at the undergraduate and graduate level to participate in the course each semester according to faculty availability. Students will be selected based on their writing and research skills and their potential to contribute to the research project. Once chosen to participate in this research opportunity, his/her academic advisor will assist the student in registering for the course.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

Change Degree or Minor

Changing Degree Program or Minor

Students wishing to change the degree and/or major into which they were originally accepted must submit the request in writing. If approved, the degree requirements will be those of the most recent catalog and an updated audit sheet will be provided to the student with acknowledgment of the change. A meeting with the student advisor may or may not be required.

To Apply for a Minor

A student must complete the Declaration of Minor form available in the SPCS office or online. The minor will appear on the official transcript and all classes in the minor must be completed at the University of Richmond.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

Evaluation

Evaluation

Instructors establish grading criteria for their courses and prepare and submit the final grades (using the grades defined under Grading Policies) to the University Registrar for recording. In the event of a question about the accuracy of the recorded grade, a student should direct inquiries to the instructor and/or the Office of the University Registrar within three months of the specified semester.

Review Grading Policies for additional information about evaluation, including procedures for addressing errors in assigned grades at end of term.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Academic Standing

Graduation

Graduation

To graduate, a student must file a degree application with the Office of the University Registrar. The University graduation ceremonies are held in May. Students planning to complete BSPS, BALA, Certificate, Graduate Certificate or Master's degree requirements in the coming May or August must file a degree application by the last Friday in October. Students planning to complete degree requirements in December should file a degree application by the first Friday in February.

Students will be notified through SpiderBytes, the University's e-communication tool, to apply for the upcoming December, May and August graduations by the deadline date. Students who plan to complete requirements in the Summer School (for undergraduate students no more than 6 hours) participate in the May ceremony as prospective August graduates.

Degree applications are available online via BannerWeb at specified times or on the Registrar's website.

Note: Transfer work will be accepted during the semester prior to graduation only with prior approval. CLEP examinations are considered transfer credits.

Graduation Attendance Policy

Students are required to attend the commencement ceremony for the award of the degree in person except by decision of the University not to do so. A student who expects to have a degree awarded at the spring commencement may request absentia status from the graduation ceremony by explaining in writing the circumstance that prevents participation. Students who have a degree application on file and anticipate summer completion of degree requirements are also expected to participate in the spring graduation ceremony. December School of Professional and Continuing Studies degree candidates are expected to participate in the graduation ceremony the May following degree completion. If a winter or summer degree candidate does not intend to participate in the ceremony a written statement requesting absentia must be submitted. The request should be addressed to the University Registrar and should be received no later than eight working days before the ceremony. The University Registrar will notify the degree candidate of the status granted by the University. Unless approved as absentia, a candidate for graduation who does not participate in the commencement ceremony does not graduate. Such candidate may graduate by again filing a degree application and by following the appropriate graduation attendance policy.

August degrees are conferred as of the date specified in the academic calendar, and diplomas are mailed to those qualified. December degrees are conferred as of the date specified in the academic calendar. Diplomas for December graduates are mailed to students who have previously participated in the commencement ceremony. Those who will be participating in a future ceremony will receive their diploma at that time.

Note: No degree is conferred if the student's responsibilities to the University have not been met. These responsibilities include, but are not limited to, such matters as the payment of fees, parking fines and library fines, and the return of library books.

Degree With Honors (Latin Honors)

General academic honors of three ranks are awarded only to graduates receiving baccalaureate degrees on the basis of their cumulative grade point average of work completed at the University of Richmond.

- Cum Laude: 3.20-3.49
- Magna Cum Laude: 3.50-3.79

University of Richmond

- Summa Cum Laude: 3.80-4.00

Withdrawal

Withdrawal from the University

Students who plan to withdraw from the University of Richmond must submit an official withdrawal letter to their Dean. The Dean's Office will notify the appropriate offices of the student's withdrawal from the University of Richmond including the actual withdrawal date.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Secure Login

Higher Ed Opportunity Act (HEOA)

The Higher Education Opportunity Act (HEOA) requires that institutions offering distance education or correspondence courses or programs have processes in place to ensure that the student registering for a course is the same student who participates in the course or receives course credit. The Act requires that institutions use one of the following three methods:

- A secure login and pass code
- Proctored examinations
- New or other technologies and practices that are effective in verifying student identification

Secure Login and Pass Code

The University of Richmond (UR) meets these requirements by assigning a secure login and password to each student. All students registering for a course through our administrative system are assigned unique identification numbers, which correspond with a specific username for each student. Each student establishes his or her own password using the Password Policy, available on the Information Services website (is.richmond.edu). As part of this policy, all students are required to change their password once each year.

In addition, the UR email policy requires all faculty communication with students regarding UR business be conducted via the official UR email account, which also requires a secure login. Review the Official University Communications policy on the Information Services website (is.richmond.edu).

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Admissions Policies

Timeframe

Timeframe

The acceptance of a student for admission into the School as a degree-seeking student (master's, bachelor's, certificate, or graduate certificate) remains in effect for a period of 12 months from the date of official notification by letter. Following acceptance, a student must enroll in the term of admittance, excluding summer. If that does not occur, the student becomes "inactive" in Banner and must contact the Office of Enrollment Management and Student Services to be re-activated during the first 12 months of admittance. After the 12-month period, the student must re-apply to the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, pay the application fee, and if additional college work has been completed, submit additional transcripts.

University of Richmond

English Proficiency

Applicants whose native language is not English, or whose collegiate level or secondary level instruction was not in English, must demonstrate English proficiency by examination prior to admission to and/or enrollment in the School. The University may require additional evaluation for language proficiency through testing or individual interviews for students with scores near the minimum score.

TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) requires a score of at least:

- 550 on the paper-based test
- 213 on the computer-based test
- 80 on the internet-based test

IELTS (International English Language Testing System) requires a score of 6.5 on the test.

Information on the TOEFL may be obtained by visiting the TOEFL website, ets.org/toefl. The TOEFL score must be no more than five years old at the time of application.

Information on the IELTS may be obtained by visiting the IELTS website, ielts.org.

Ineligibility to Return to a College or University

A student who is not eligible to return to another college or university may not attend any degree or certificate program, even with unclassified status, until a minimum of one semester has elapsed. Official transcripts from all institutions previously attended by such a student must be filed in the Office of the Dean.

Past Sexual Offense Conviction

Virginia law requires all public and private two-and-four-year institutions of higher education to electronically transmit information about applicants accepted for enrollment at each institution to the State Police for comparison to the Virginia Criminal Information Network and National Crime Information Center Convicted Sexual Offender Registry. If the University is notified that an admitted student has committed a sex offense, the admitted student is subject to the admission being revoked.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Admissions Policies

Inactivity

Renewing Active Student Status

Students who do not register for a fall or spring term become inactive during that semester and must contact the Office of Enrollment Management and Student services to be reactivated. Students who are reactivated are subject to the SPCS Catalog requirements in effect at the time of original matriculation.

If the student has not enrolled in a course within 12 months, the student must re-apply to SPCS following the policy identified in Timeframe.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Admissions Policies

Admissions Committee

Admission/Registration Committee

A standing committee will be appointed to deal with issues of student admissions, enrollment and registration from among SPCS staff and faculty. Members will include the Senior Associate Dean (who will chair the committee), the Director of Student Services and Enrollment Management, a Program Chair representing the student's program area (if applicable), an Academic/Career advisor, and the Associate Dean for Administration, as needed.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Admissions Policies

Non-Degree Seeking

Non-degree Seeking Admissions

General

Applicants who do not meet priority application deadlines for a given term may be able to enroll as a non-degree seeking student, depending on the completeness of the applicant's admissions file.

Undergraduate

Students may earn 12 semester hours at the undergraduate level within the school as NDS or Unclassified students, after which they will be encouraged to declare a major or explore options with a student advisor.

Those enrolled as NDS students may take no more than nine (9) undergraduate semester hours during a single term.

Graduate

Students who wish to pursue non-degree graduate coursework in the School may enroll in a maximum of nine (9) semester hours of study at the graduate level provided the following conditions are met:

- Students must submit a completed Non-degree Seeking Application.
- Students must provide an official transcript from the regionally accredited college/university that conferred their baccalaureate degree, prior to registering for any graduate course.
 - Does not apply to students working in an education setting seeking to earn graduate education credit.
 - Students working in an education setting should register for professional development for educators courses.
- Students must meet all prerequisite requirements of the course/courses in which they wish to enroll.
- Students must obtain written approval from the program chair of the program in which enrollment is desired.

University of Richmond

- Students understand that credits obtained as a non-degree seeking graduate student may or may not apply at a later time to a graduate degree program in the School.

The program chair may elect under special circumstances to permit a student to take more than nine hours of graduate credit for transfer to another institution of higher education, provided the student can document evidence of admission to a graduate program of study at that institution and acceptance of these credit hours toward the program. Additionally, the program chair reserves the right to make exceptions to this policy deemed appropriate to his/her program area.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Undergraduate Admissions

Bachelor's Degrees

Admissions to Bachelor's Degree Programs

Minimum requirements for admission to the Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts (BALA) or Bachelor of Science in Professional Studies (BSPS) degree program are:

- An earned high school diploma or GED
- A 2.0 average on any attempted college-level work

To be admitted, applicants must submit the following:

- A completed online bachelor's degree application (with application fee)
- Original transcripts from all college-level work attempted (or evidence of high school graduation or GED)

Admission placement requires ACCUPLACER Reading Comprehension and Sentence Skills test scores and an admission decision meeting with a student advisor. All incoming bachelor's degree applicants must take the ACCUPLACER Reading Comprehension and Sentence Skills tests for placement.

Applicants are notified about scheduling a testing session after submitting the undergraduate application.

- Test scores are used to route applicants into an appropriate course of study that best enables academic success.
- Student advisors will review ACCUPLACER test scores and admission pathway to determine if accepted students will place into ENGL 101U, ENGL 201U, ADED 300U or ADED 301U. Academic advisors will provide admission guidance and options after receiving applicant test scores.
- Test scores are good for one year. Applicants may provide evidence of ACCUPLACER scores earned within the last 365 days for consideration and placement.
- An applicant may opt to retake the placement test once at his or her own expense of $10. Applicants may register through their academic advisor for a retest on the next scheduled placement test date. The highest test score within a given session will be considered.
- Students whose ACCUPLACER scores are deemed by their advisor not to qualify them for ENGL 101U or higher will be given the opportunity to take the noncredit course, English Foundations. At the end of English Foundations, students who re-take the ACCUPLACER but still do not achieve a score high enough for placement into ENGL 101U will be permitted to take English Foundations one additional time. No student may take the course a third time without permission from the Associate Dean for Academic & Student Affairs.

Non-native English speakers may be required to submit valid TOEFL scores.

Admissions Decisions

The School uses a selective admissions process to evaluate applicants. The most important predictor is an applicant's ability to do college-level work. As such, the School offers several undergraduate admission pathways depending on college experience, writing aptitude and GPA.

1. Well Qualified Transfer Admissions

Applicants who have recently completed college-level study at a regionally-accredited community college or four-year institution may be candidates for well qualified transfer admission (WQTA). WQTA applicants are given priority and must successfully demonstrate the following:

- Minimum 24 semester hours of transferable coursework completed in the past 10 years
- Minimum 2.5 GPA on all previously attempted college coursework
- Earned a 'B' or better in English Composition and a 'C' or better in college-level math
- Earned satisfactory ACCUPLACER scores

2. Online Interdisciplinary Studies Admission

Applicants to the Online Interdisciplinary Studies program must successfully demonstrate the following:

- At least 45 semester hours of transferable college credit
- Minimum 2.0 GPA on all previously attempted college coursework
- Maintain a 2.0 cumulative GPA on all attempted coursework at the School
- Earned satisfactory ACCUPLACER scores

3. Transfer Admission

University of Richmond

Applicants who have completed some college-level study at a regionally-accredited community college or four-year institution but do not meet the minimum requirements for WQTA may qualify for transfer admission (TA). TA applicants must successfully demonstrate the following:

- Minimum 3 semester hours of transferable college-level coursework
- Minimum 2.0 GPA on all previously attempted college coursework
- Earned satisfactory ACCUPLACER scores

4. Non-Transfer Admission

Applicants who have never studied at the college level or do not meet the minimum requirements for TA will only be considered for non-transfer admission (NTA). NTA requires applicants to complete foundation coursework at the School pursuing part-time study (registering for no more than nine semester hours) while completing these requirements. NTA applicants must successfully accomplish the following:

- Complete all foundation coursework with a grade of 'C' or better in the first 3 semesters at the School
- Maintain a 2.0 cumulative GPA on all attempted coursework at the School
- Earned satisfactory ACCUPLACER scores

Students admitted to any undergraduate or degree program, without prior college experience, may enroll (register) in a maximum of nine (9) semester hours of credit in the first semester of study in SPCS.

Admission Notifications

Applicants will be notified of admissions decisions by letter, generally during an interview with an academic advisor. If admitted to a degree program, the admissions letter will include a University ID to be used in establishing a BannerWeb account and network ID.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Undergraduate Admissions

Undergraduate Certificates

Admissions to Post-Bachelor's Undergraduate Certificates

Students seeking admission to the Certificate of Applied Studies (CAS) must have earned a bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited four-year college or university with a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher. The CAS is available in the following areas:

- Data Analytics
- Information Security
- Information Systems
- Paralegal Studies

Admission requirements:

- Completed undergraduate certificate application including the $35 application fee
- Official transcripts in sealed envelopes from each university and college attended
- TOEFL scores if the applicant's native language is not English

General Requirements

General Requirements

Admission to Graduate Programs

Transfer of Graduate Credits

Up to six semester hours of graduate credit may be transferred toward a graduate program in the School. Transfer credits may be accepted only from another regionally accredited institution of higher education. In order for graduate academic credits completed prior to admission into a graduate program to be considered, credits: (1) must have been completed within the past five years with a grade of 'B' or better; (2) must not have been used to satisfy requirements for another degree or certificate at the University of Richmond or another institution of higher education; and (3) must be approved by the Program Chair. Possible transfer credits completed while in the program must receive prior approval by the Program Chair. Except by waiver, no more than six hours may be transferred into a graduate program.

Graduate Admission Process

Students seeking admission to a graduate certificate or a master's degree program must complete the following:

- File a Graduate Application with the School and submit the non-refundable $50 graduate application fee
- Have official transcripts from all colleges and/or universities where college work was attempted forwarded directly to the School
- Have three (3) letters of recommendation sent directly to the School (requirement differs for Graduate Certificate in Teacher Licensure Preparation and Master of Teaching)
- Have official TOEFL scores sent (when applicable)

Official documents verifying college and university work and test scores must be sent from the institution or agency responsible for the information directly to the School.

Letters of recommendation should be substantive regarding the applicant's potential to be successful as a graduate student and professional in their field. Letters from past or current supervisors and professors are preferred, and those from professional peers and coworkers who can offer meaningful input about the applicant's abilities and potential may be appropriate as well. Letters from friends, family members, and subordinates are discouraged.

Additional requirements vary by graduate degree programs. See the section that follows for the graduate program to which you are applying.

Non-degree Seeking Admissions

Admission as a Non-Degree Seeking (NDS) Student

General

Applicants who do not meet priority application deadlines for a given term may be able to enroll as a non-degree seeking student, depending on the completeness of the applicant's admissions file.

Undergraduate

Students may earn 12 semester hours at the undergraduate level within the school as NDS or Unclassified students, after which they will be encouraged to declare a major or explore options with a student advisor.

Those enrolled as NDS students may take no more than nine (9) undergraduate semester hours during a single term.

Graduate

Students who wish to pursue non-degree graduate coursework in the School may enroll in a maximum of nine (9) semester hours of study at the graduate level provided the following conditions are met:

- Students must submit a completed Non-degree Seeking Application.
- Students must provide an official transcript from the regionally accredited college/university that conferred their baccalaureate degree, prior to registering for any graduate course.
 - Does not apply to students working in an education setting seeking to earn graduate education credit.
 - Students working in an education setting should register for professional development for educators courses.
- Students must meet all prerequisite requirements of the course/courses in which they wish to enroll.
- Students must obtain written approval from the program chair of the program in which enrollment is desired.
- Students understand that credits obtained as a non-degree seeking graduate student may or may not apply at a later time to a graduate degree program in the School.

The program chair may elect under special circumstances to permit a student to take more than nine hours of graduate credit for transfer to another institution of higher education, provided the student can document evidence of admission to a graduate program of study at that institution and acceptance of these credit hours toward the program. Additionally, the program chair reserves the right to make exceptions to this policy deemed appropriate to his/her program area.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Graduate Admissions

HR Management

Admission to the Master of Human Resource Management and the Graduate Certificate in Human Resource Management

Students seeking admission to the Master of Human Resource Management or the Graduate Certificate in Human Resource Management must have the following (in addition to the admission requirements for all graduate programs):

- A baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited U.S. college or university (or international equivalent)
- A grade point average of 3.0 or higher on all college or university academic work attempted

Students who do not meet the minimum GPA requirements may be considered on a case-by-case basis for conditional admission. To remain in the program, conditionally admitted students must earn a minimum 3.0 grade point average in the first three semester hours taken following conditional admission.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Graduate Admissions

Liberal Arts

Admission to the Master of Liberal Arts

Students seeking admission to the Master of Liberal Arts must have the following (in addition to the admission requirements for all graduate programs):

University of Richmond

- A baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited U.S. college or university (or international equivalent)

Alcoholic Beverages and Other Drugs

Alcoholic Beverages and Other Drugs

The legal age for the consumption and possession of beverage alcohol is 21 in the Commonwealth of Virginia; the law governs all sites within the Commonwealth and all persons including temporary visitors from other places. The University supports the laws of the Commonwealth and has policies to educate and regulate its campus constituencies regarding the consumption of alcohol. Similarly, statutes as well as University policies prohibit the possession, distribution, sale, or use of illegal drugs or narcotics, including marijuana and hallucinogens. Moreover, each person is responsible for his or her destructive, obstructive, or otherwise inappropriate behavior, whether under the influence of any substance or not. Persons in violation of the law are subject to prosecution by law enforcement agencies as well as disciplinary proceedings by the University.

More information about the University's alcohol and drug policy can be found online at wellness.richmond.edu/common/pdfs/factsheets/alcohol-drug-policy.pdf.

Emergency Information

To report an emergency, call 911 or 289-8911 (cell phone). The non-emergency number is 289-8715

(Download a PDF of the Emergency Procedures)

Getting Information

During an emergency, UR will distribute information to the campus community via:

- Audio–Tornado siren and PA system
- Web–This website, alert.richmond.edu
- Email–Blast email to '@richmond.edu' accounts
- Text/voice messages–UR Alert text messages and/or voice messages to faculty, staff, and students who register a cell or home phone through BannerWeb
- Campus phones–Telephone messages to campus telephones
- TV–UR TV channel 16 broadcasts
- People–Resident assistants and area coordinators
- Hotline–UR Emergency Hotline: (804) 289-8760 or toll free at (866) 386-0403

Emergency Terms

Shelter in Place: Choose an interior room or one with as few doors and windows as possible. Remain there until the danger has passed. Examples: Tornado or other severe weather, nuclear alert, or hazardous materials spill.

Seek Secure Shelter: Get into a lockable space, like an office or classroom, and remain there. Lock and barricade doors, turn off lights, and turn cell phones to silent or vibrate mode. Get under a desk or other surface to hide. Wait for further instruction from law enforcement. If the threat is in your building and you can safely flee, then do so. Examples: Active shooter or dangerous person immediately threatening the campus.

Evacuate: Immediately leave the building that you are in, exiting through the nearest and safest exit. If the fire alarm has not been activated, do so. Examples: Fire, smoke.

Avoid Area, Warn Others: In these types of incidents, the emergency is localized on campus. University officials do not want anyone near the area and want you to alert others of the emergency. Examples: Hazardous materials spill, flooded roads, aircraft accident, bomb threat, civil disturbance, fire, gas leak, or power lines down.

What to Do

Tornado

University of Richmond

- Listen for the tornado siren. A single siren blast will sound continuously until the danger has passed.
- Seek shelter inside a building until notified by University officials that it is safe to leave.
- Stay away from electrical lines and devices.
- There is no “all-clear.” The danger has passed when the siren silences.

Fire

- Activate the nearest fire alarm and call 289-8911 if possible to report the location and cause of the fire.
- Everyone must leave immediately when a fire alarm is activated, even if there are no obvious signs of an emergency.
- Do not use the elevator.
- Remain calm and assist others in safely getting out.
- Confine the fire by closing all doors and windows if possible. Follow directions given by emergency personnel and go to the location designated by your building coordinator to await further instructions.

Earthquake

- Stay inside the building until the shaking stops. Don't run downstairs or rush outside while the building is shaking.
- Stay away from glass, windows, outside doors and walls, and anything that could fall.
- A sturdy table or desk can provide cover.
- Once the building stops shaking, exit the building calmly and check for others in need.
- Do not use elevators.
- If outdoors, stay in the open until the shaking stops, avoid any falling debris fields such as buildings, power lines, etc.

Active Shooter/Dangerous Person

- Remain calm, do not engage the intruder.
- A quick and quiet escape is suggested, if it can be done safely.
- If attempting to escape, keep your hands elevated with open palms visible, especially if encountering law enforcement officers. Follow all instructions officers may give you.
- If you cannot safely exit the building, seek secure shelter.
- Close and lock windows, lower blinds, remain out of sight, and turn off lights.
- Once secured inside, take cover behind concrete walls, thick desks, and filing cabinets that are away from windows and doors.
- Remain quiet, and turn off cell phone ringers.
- Only one person from the room should call police at 289-8911 and tell them where you are, where the dangerous person is, and the condition of others with you. Follow their instructions. If you cannot speak, leave the line open so the dispatcher can hear what is going on.
- Assist others if they are injured.
- Do not respond to any unfamiliar voice commands until you can be sure they are coming from a police officer.

- School of Professional and Continuing Studies students: John Zinn (804) 287-6378
- Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS): (804) 289-8119.
- AFTER-HOURS: Contact University of Richmond Police: (804) 289-8715 (non-emergency), (804) 289-8911 (emergency).

Be alert to signs of difficulty:

- Deterioration in classroom performance or quality/quantity of work
- Missed assignments
- Repeated absences from class
- Disorganized or erratic performance
- Frequently falls asleep in class
- Comes to class bleary-eyed, hungover, or smelling of alcohol
- Continually seeks special provisions (late papers, extensions, postponed examinations); NOT including accommodations granted by a UR Disability Accommodation Notice
- Essays or creative work which indicate extremes of hopelessness, social isolation, rage, or despair
- Inappropriate or atypical behavior in class (e.g., hostile glances; highly argumentative; leaving class abruptly)

General behavioral indicators:

- Direct statements indicating distress, family problems or other difficulties
- Unprovoked or excessive anger or hostility
- Exaggerated personality traits (e.g., more withdrawn or more animated than usual)
- Excessive dependency
- Tearfulness
- Dramatic mood swings
- Flat affect (i.e., no display of emotion at all)

Student Policies

Sexual Misconduct

Sexual Misconduct

As an educational institution, the University of Richmond values a learning community in which all members feel secure, physically and intellectually. Behavior that harms others or threatens campus security challenges the institution's key mission to "sustain a collaborative learning and research community that supports the personal development of its members and the creation of new knowledge." Sexual misconduct is such behavior and is prohibited at the University of Richmond. Sexual misconduct is a broad range of behavior that includes but is not limited to non-consensual sexual intercourse, non-consensual sexual contact, sexual exploitation, sexual harassment, and stalking.

Please see the complete policy at policy.richmond.edu/documents/policy-pdfs/Public/Governance/policy_prohibiting_sexual_misconduct.pdf.

Student Policies

Standards of Student Conduct

Standards of Student Conduct

The University of Richmond considers cultivation of self-discipline and resolution of issues through process of reason to be of primary importance in the educational process and essential to the development of responsible citizens. All members of the University community have a responsibility to comply with local, state, and federal laws and with all published University policies and regulations. In a community of learning, individual or group conduct that is unlawful disrupts or interferes with the educational processes, causes destruction of property, or otherwise infringes upon the rights of others or of the University itself cannot be tolerated.

The trustees of the University of Richmond have authorized a policy statement on standards of conduct, penalties, and disciplinary procedures to guide the conduct of students and their guests. This statement sets forth those standards of conduct that the University of Richmond deems essential for fulfilling its educational mission. Any person who violates the standards of conduct and regulations of the University of Richmond shall be subject to disciplinary action and, if need be, legal action. Disciplinary action may range from disciplinary warning up to and including suspension or expulsion from the University. Sanctions will be imposed after proper determination has been made in accordance with established disciplinary procedures of the University, with fair procedures observed and with appropriate appeal procedures available, as outlined in the policy statement and any approved revisions thereof.

A copy of this policy statement and/or any officially approved revisions thereof is readily available in the Student Handbook for each student who matriculates. All members of the University community should familiarize themselves with this policy statement and revisions and with any other official publications, handbooks, or announcements issued on occasion by the University of Richmond or by individual colleges and schools of the University.

Computer Policies

Computer Policies

Law School Computer Program

The University of Richmond initiated a laptop requirement program in 1994 to provide students with the technological expertise necessary to practice law in today's society. The law school was the first law school in the United States to require all entering students to own a laptop as a condition of enrollment. By choosing the University of Richmond as the place to study law, students use computers just like they are used by lawyers in the practice of law, as a personal, portable tool to gather, organize, produce, and store the kind of information that is the lifeblood of the modern legal practitioner.

Students entering law school at the University of Richmond must own a laptop, either Windows-based or Mac, with software that fully complies with the technical specifications and requirements necessary to connect effectively with the University network. Students who indicate plans to enter the University of Richmond Law School receive detailed information about satisfying the laptop requirement prior to enrollment.

Students use laptops at the University of Richmond in the classroom and in the in the classroom, in clinics and trials, in the library, and in student informal spaces, such as the DownUnder. Wireless access to the Internet and the University network is available throughout the law school building, including the classrooms and the library, and some classrooms also include wired access. Students use laptop computers for Westlaw, LexisNexis, Bloomberg Law, and Fastcase access, email, discussions with professors and fellow classmates, and searching the Internet, as well as many other uses. Students also can access the law school network from home.

The library staff provides extensive training about connectivity and other computer issues. Computer professionals offer beginning and review sessions about word processing, email, Internet searching, and other topics throughout the year for students and faculty.

Computing Facilities

The University of Richmond has a strong commitment to prepare students to work in technology- and information-centered environments. The University provides computers, software, and specialized equipment for student use in labs, public areas, classrooms, and residence hall lounges. All students in the residence halls have their own wired network connections, and the entire campus is blanketed with a high-speed wireless network that provides students, faculty, staff, and guests with secure access to a wealth of resources.

The University maintains a robust network infrastructure. A wireless network supports mobile computing in every building on campus, and provides coverage in most outdoor locations and public gathering spaces. Information Services maintains University-owned systems loaded with up-to-date versions of the latest software tools and anti-virus software. All users must have an active University computer account to log into any lab machine. To help ensure the security of the University systems and network, the University requires all users to change passwords regularly in order to maintain an active account. Policies regarding the use of technology and information resources are posted on the Information Services Policies website.

The ground floor of Jepson Hall houses many computing resources, including a general purpose computer lab; five PC classrooms with full multimedia capabilities; and two computer classrooms running Windows, Linux, and Unix designated for use by the math and computer science department. When classes are not in session, the Jepson Hall computer classrooms are open for student use. Jepson Hall is also the location of the Computer Help Desk, a resource that provides assistance with computing-related issues for the entire campus. A listing of the current hours of operation for all of these resources may be found on the Information Services website.

The Center for Technology Learning Center (CTLC) is a unique resource located on the third floor of Boatwright Memorial Library. It is devoted to servicing the multimedia needs of students, faculty, and staff. This area offers PC and Mac workstations equipped with high-end Web development, multimedia, animation, 3-D modeling, and audio-video recording and editing software. Scanners, high quality printers, large-format plotters, digitizers, and digital video and still cameras also are available. In addition, the CTLC contains a photography studio and a small recording studio. The CTLC also supports media production in the Media Resource Center on the second floor of Boatwright Library. Most importantly, the CTLC is staffed by professionals and well-trained student assistants are available to assist students, faculty and staff. Students not only have access to the hardware and software, but also to experts who can help them effectively use the specialized tools.

Technology training for students, faculty, and staff is available in a variety of formats, including books and CDs available in the CTLC and searchable through the Library catalog; online video tutorials; technology training classes offered throughout the school year; and one-on-one training sessions available through appointments at the CTLC. CTLC hours of operation and current technology training classes may be found on the Information Services website.

Inclement Weather Policy

Inclement Weather Policy

In case of inclement weather, the law school generally follows the lead of the University. University closings will be announced on the University Emergency Hotline, (804) 289-8760, and on following stations:

University of Richmond

TV Stations

- WCVE/WCVW – (PBS)
- WRIC – (ABC)
- WTVR – (CBS)
- WWBT – (NBC)

Radio Stations

- WCVE – FM 88.9
- WRVA – AM 1140
- WRVQ – FM 94.5

If the University is NOT closed in the inclement weather, individual professors may still decide to cancel certain classes if weather conditions make it unsafe or unrealistic for a faculty member to make it to school. In that event, the faculty member will take steps to notify students about the class cancellation.

Students should always exercise their best personal judgment with regard to road conditions and other safety concerns.

Student Complaints (ABA standard 512)

Student Complaints

The faculty and administration of the School of Law are continually searching for ways to improve the delivery of legal education. As such, the faculty and administration are receptive to student suggestions and concerns. In an effort to provide a vehicle for this valuable information, the following procedure has been instituted.

Any student at the School of Law who wishes to bring a complaint to the Administration of the School of Law about a significant program that directly implicates the School's program of legal education and its compliance with the ABA Standards (https://www.americanbar.org/groups/legal_education/resources/standards.html) should take the following steps:

1. The student complaint should be submitted in writing to the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.
2. The writing should describe in detail the behavior, program, or process complained of, and demonstrate how it implicates the School's program of legal education and the School's compliance with a particular identified ABA Standard.
3. The writing must provide both the name of the student submitting the complaint, the student's University of Richmond email address and a street address for further communication about the complaint.

Procedures for Addressing Complaints

- The Associate Dean for Academic Affairs should acknowledge the complaint within three business days of receipt of the written complaint. Acknowledgment may be made by email, U.S. Mail, or by personal delivery.
- Within two weeks of acknowledgment of the complaint, the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs or his designee shall either meet with the complaining student or respond to the substance of the complaint in writing. The student should either receive a substantive response to the complaint or information about what steps are being taken by the School to address the complaint or further investigate the complaint.
- Appeals may be taken to the Dean of the Law School. Any decision made on appeal by the Dean shall be final.
- A copy of the complaint and a summary of the process and resolution of the complaint shall be kept in the Office of the Dean of the School of Law for a period of eight years.

Honor Statute

Honor Statute

The University Honor Statute governs such behavior as cheating, plagiarism, lying and academic theft, and the SPCS Honor Code also incorporates the Policy Statement on Standards of Conduct, Penalties and Disciplinary Procedures regarding issues of conduct of students and their guests, as well as other individuals.

The determination of whether a policy has been violated and imposition of penalties, when necessary, will be effected according to established procedures, with procedural fairness observed and with appropriate appeal procedures available. Penalties for violations range from reprimand to expulsion from the University and, if appropriate, legal action may be invoked. Review the Honor Code page for details.

Student Life

Student Life

The University of Richmond, through the Office of Student Development, provides a variety of cocurricular and extracurricular programs and student-support services. These are designed to enrich the quality of the collegiate experience by creating an environment in which the student can grow intellectually, emotionally, physically, socially, and spiritually. The ultimate purpose of this environment is to help each student fulfill his or her potential.

The deans' offices for Richmond College and Westhampton College, the University's colleges, are focal points in student life matters. For the University, the offices are centers for closely knit smaller communities within the whole.

University of Richmond

On a more personal level, a student may find the dean or staff member serving as a counselor, advisor, mentor, or collaborator. If questions remain after reading this section of this catalog, a dean's office usually can provide a more complete explanation or indicate where more information may be found. In all cases, the deans' offices are contact points to provide assistance. Each student is encouraged to make full use of these excellent resources.

Undergraduate Academic Procedures

Undergraduate Academic Procedures

The University of Richmond has, for each academic program, procedures and degree requirements that must be satisfied before the degree can be granted. The student is responsible for knowing the specific requirements and planning appropriately to allow for the completion of these requirements. Depending on the program, the University provides either or both academic advisors and administrative personnel to assist students with their plans. In any case, the final responsibility for following procedures and meeting degree requirements rests solely with the student.

The following sections describe academic policies, regulations, and procedures. If no indication of school is given, that section pertains universally to the School of Arts and Sciences, the Robins School of Business, and the Jepson School of Leadership Studies. When a statement pertains to a particular school or schools, it is listed under the appropriate school heading.

Academic Reports

Academic Reports

Reports of the student's progress are prepared each term in the form of the permanent academic record. The information included is the record of the student's registration and grades, with such other information as may be deemed important. All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Academic Standing and Satisfactory Academic Progress

Academic Standing and Satisfactory Academic Progress

Class Standings of Students

The class standing is established at first matriculation and is evaluated after grade posting for each subsequent term of enrollment. The standing is based on units passed including, if applicable, acceptable transfer and/or advanced standing credit. The standings are:

Year 1: 0 - 6.82 units

Year 2: 6.83 - 15.40 units

Year 3: 15.41 - 23.97 units

Year 4: 23.98 or more units

Good Standing

Full-time students are considered to be in Good Standing at the end of a semester if, in that semester (including a semester abroad), they have

- Completed at least 3.5 units of course work, and
- Earned a minimum term GPA of 1.8

In addition, full-time students* must meet the following minimum thresholds in order to enter their third, fifth, and seventh semesters in Good Standing:

Good Standing Requirements for Students	Cumulative GPA	Earned Units (including units earned through transfer and advanced standing)	Other
Entering 3rd semester	1.8	6.86	Completion of FYS requirement
Entering 5th semester	1.9	14	Declaration of Major
Entering 7th semester	2.0	25	Declaration of Major

In rare instances, students who are unable to complete their degree within eight semesters may return for a ninth or subsequent semester only with permission in advance from the college dean. Such students must have a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA and a viable plan for degree completion to return in Good Standing. Institutional financial aid is limited to eight semesters of enrollment.

Academic Deficiencies

Academic deficiencies are of two types: Academic Probation and Withdrawn for Academic Reasons.

Academic reports are evaluated at the end of each grade-posting period. Regardless of the specific provisions for each school stated below, if at the end of any term a student's record reveals such significant deterioration in performance that extraordinary action is deemed appropriate by the dean of the student's school or college, that student may be placed on Academic Probation, limited in units of enrollment, or Withdrawn for Academic Reasons, regardless of grade point average. In addition, such student may be restricted from participation in certain University activities.

Academic Probation

A student who falls below the minimum accumulations of semester units and/or grade point average (GPA) for Good Standing will be placed automatically on Academic Probation. Academic Probation includes continued enrollment at the University with a clearly outlined plan, developed in concert with the dean, to improve performance and return to Good Standing.

Students with three or more incompletes (punitive or non-punitive) but otherwise meeting Academic Progress requirements are not in Good Standing. To return to Good Standing, students must remedy the incompletes according to the terms of their academic probation as determined by the college dean.

Withdrawn for Academic Reasons

If at the end of the semester of enrollment after being placed on Academic Probation, the student fails to meet the minimum standard to return to Good Standing, the student will be Withdrawn for Academic Reasons. At least one full fall or spring term must elapse before a student Withdrawn for Academic Reasons is eligible for readmission. In addition, a student is Withdrawn for Academic Reasons:

- May not enroll in a fall or spring term at the University during the period of Academic Withdrawal
- May not enroll in a summer term at the University without permission of the dean
- Must apply for readmission

The above provisions notwithstanding, the dean of the student's college, in circumstances which seem to warrant such action, may allow the student to continue as a full-time student on Academic Probation for a single additional semester.

A second Withdrawal for Academic Reasons will typically result in Academic Dismissal, and the student would be ineligible for readmission.

Appeals

Students not meeting requirements for Good Standing may appeal their Withdrawal for Academic Reasons, in writing, to the Executive Vice President and Provost within 30 days of notification that the student has been Withdrawn for Academic Reasons. A student's request must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the standards for Good Standing and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation. The Provost's response to the student appeal is final and cannot be appealed.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

University of Richmond

A student will be placed on academic probation when the student's leadership studies GPA falls below 2.0 or the student earns a grade below C- (1.7) in a leadership studies course. While on academic probation, a student's participation in athletics, debating, dramatic or musical organizations, as well as their representation of the University in any public capacity, may be restricted.

If the student does not meet academic standards in the following semester, he or she will be dismissed from the program in leadership studies. The student may request a one-semester extension of the probationary status. The appeal should be directed to associate dean for academic affairs of the Jepson School of Leadership Studies. If granted and the student does not meet all standards after the probationary year, he or she will be dismissed from the program in leadership studies. Any further appeals should be directed to the dean of the Jepson School of Leadership Studies. Upon review of the student's record and any additional information, the dean will render a final decision.

Withdrawal from the University

Students who plan to withdraw from the University of Richmond must submit an official withdrawal letter to their Dean. The Dean's Office will notify the appropriate offices of the student's withdrawal from the University of Richmond including the actual withdrawal date.

Readmission to the University

Students who have withdrawn from the University for whatever reason, other than participating in an approved study abroad, exchange, or visiting away program, and wish to return must make their request for readmission in writing by the deadline, typically February 15 for readmission for the summer or fall terms and October 15 for readmission to the spring term. Applications for readmission will be evaluated by a committee including the Richmond and Westhampton College deans, the senior associate registrar, the AVP and director of financial aid, and the relevant associate dean from the Jepson School of Leadership Studies or the Robins School of Business, for students who are majoring in that school.

To be readmitted after being Withdrawn for Academic Reasons, a student must:

- Meet any requirements outlined by the dean, which can include successful completion of a course(s) in summer term or elsewhere to improve a student's academic standing, so long as such transfer credits are consistent with the University's transfer credit policy;
- Submit an application for readmission that demonstrates to the satisfaction of the committee that the issues that resulted in inadequate academic performance have been addressed and academic poor performance is unlikely to recur; and
- Demonstrate that graduation is possible and articulate an academic pathway for return to Good Standing.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Class Attendance

Class Attendance

Students are expected to attend all meetings of all classes (including lectures, seminars, laboratories, and drills) in which they are enrolled. The specific attendance policy in each course, however, is determined by the instructor of the course, subject to the section on University Holidays below. At the start of each semester, the instructor is responsible for describing the class attendance policy in the syllabus and distributing it to students.

Academic events sponsored by the University under supervision of faculty advisors include, but are not limited to: theatre/dance and musical performances, debate, mock trial, model UN, conference attendance, and ROTC field leadership exercise. Because such events and varsity athletic competitions are recognized as integral to the educational experience, the appropriate college dean will provide official notification of student participation in these activities. It is also the student's responsibility to request such notification and to deliver it to the faculty member as early as possible in the semester. Faculty members will honor notification from the college deans that a student is to be excused for participation in a University-sponsored event. All other absences will not be officially announced by a dean, but may be excused at the discretion of faculty. Examples include, but are not limited to, class field trips, illness, funerals, and family functions. The University policy regarding absences related to University or religious policies is stated below. The University encourages students to weigh the consequences of missing class and other sponsored academic or varsity athletic events, and to make their choices accordingly.

Misrepresenting the reason for class absences to a professor is a violation of the University's honor code.

Note: The health center does NOT provide "medical excuse" notes for students.

A student will be held responsible for all work of a class or laboratory missed during any absence.

Note: Students enrolled in School of Professional and Continuing Studies courses must attend at least 75 percent of the class meetings-regardless of the reasons for absence-to be eligible to receive credit for the course.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Credit and Grade Point Average

Credit and Grade Point Average

The University of Richmond uses the unit credit value. A unit is determined by a combination of factors that include contact time with a faculty member in a formal setting and expectations of independent student work through a nominal 15-week semester. One unit is the equivalent of 3.5 semester hours. Courses worth 0 units are graded satisfactory/unsatisfactory.

The grade point average is based on two factors:

GPA Units- The accumulation of academic units that have grades to which grade point values are assigned; and

Grade Points- Given for each unit's grade according to this scale:

A+	4.0	B+	3.3	C+	2.3	D+	1.3
A	4.0	B	3.0	C	2.0	D	1.0
A-	3.7	B-	2.7	C-	1.7	D-	0.7

University of Richmond

F	0.0	I	0.0	V	0.0

Calculation Points The grade point average is calculated by dividing the total number of grade points earned by the total number of GPA units. The grade point average is represented to two significant decimal figures and truncated, not rounded.

The accumulations and average are shown each term on the permanent academic record and on the transcript. Also shown on these reports is the accumulation of earned units. Earned units are the academic units in which the student has earned passing grades, plus unit credit, if any, for accepted transfer work.

Dean's List

Dean's List

School of Arts and Sciences

Robins School of Business

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

The Dean's List of Distinguished Students recognizes outstanding scholars for fall and spring semester. The student must complete at least 3.5 earned units for the semester (excluding P/F units), with no grade below a B- (2.7), and a minimum term GPA of 3.60.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Declaration of Majors/Minors

Declaration of Majors/Minors

All undergraduate degrees at the University of Richmond require satisfactory completion of one major. Multiple majors and/or minors for a single degree also may be pursued, and upon completion will be recorded on the permanent academic record. For dual degree requirements, refer to the Dual Bachelor's Degree section. With the exception of leadership studies and majors and minors within the Robins School of Business, students have the option to declare a major as early as the end of the first year. They are encouraged to declare during the second year, and are expected to declare by the end of the second year.

All declarations of majors and minors must be received in the Office of the University Registrar during the two-week add/drop period to be effective for that term. Declarations received after add/drop will not be processed until the end of the term. For procedures on how to declare majors and/or minors both in the home school and between schools, contact the Office of the University Registrar.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Examination

Examination

Most classes have examinations at the close of each term, according to a published schedule.

Each student is responsible for taking final examinations as scheduled. No rescheduling, excuse for absence, and/or provision for making up final examinations will occur without the written approval of the student's dean. Such approval shall be made only for illness certified by a physician, participation in authorized University activities, and/or personal emergencies such as death in the family.

Appeals of the rulings associated with the administration of these regulations shall be directed to the student's dean and, if necessary, through that dean to the academic council of the faculty concerned.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Evaluation

Evaluation

Instructors establish grading criteria for their courses and prepare and submit the final course reports (using the grades defined under Grading Policies) to the University Registrar for recording. In the event of a question about the accuracy of the recorded grade, a student should direct inquiries to the instructor.

It is recognized that each class and each student in a class has unique characteristics that the instructor alone is in the best position to evaluate; consequently, except in unusual circumstances, formal appeals to others concerning the evaluation on which a grade is based are not appropriate.

If unusual circumstances appear to have existed that could have affected the evaluation, the student should first bring the matter to the attention of the instructor (if available). If that informal inquiry is impossible, or if its results are disputed, the student may next bring the matter to the attention of the department chair and the instructor, jointly or, for courses in Jepson School of Leadership Studies, to the Associate dean for Academic Affairs.

School of Arts and Sciences and Robins School of Business

In the event of continued dispute, students in the School of Arts and Sciences and the Robins School of Business may formally petition the dean of the school the course is taught in. In the School of Arts and Sciences, the dean, in consultation with department faculty, may present the matter to the academic council for a decision. In the Robins School of Business, the dean, in consultation with department faculty, will present the matter to the academic council for a decision.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

Faculty members are expected to evaluate student performance based on the criteria and requirements outlined in the course syllabi. All students are to be treated impartially and fairly in relation to those requirements. Students have two bases for a grade appeal: 1) the alleged failure of a faculty member to assign the proper weight as stated in the course syllabus to various parts of the assessment elements that contribute to the final grade; 2) alleged prejudicial treatment of a student in relation to the treatment afforded other students in the course. A student should be prepared to demonstrate a direct link between the circumstances of the awarding of his/her grade and one of the bases above.

Should a student have reason to appeal the final grade in a course, the student should first bring the matter to the attention of the instructor (if available). If the results of that inquiry are disputed, the student may next bring the matter to the attention of the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs no more than three calendar weeks from the first day of classes of the following semester. In the event of continued dispute, the Academic Affairs Committee will review the complaint and report its findings to the dean.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Grade Availability

Grade Availability

Grades are due to the Registrar's Office from instructors as specified in the academic calendar published annually by the Office of the University Registrar. They will be available to students as soon as possible after they have been received by the registrar's office. Students may access their grades online by logging into BannerWeb. Grades are deemed correct unless notification to the contrary is received by the University Registrar within three (3) months after the close of the term specified.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Grading Policies

Grading Policies

The level of student's performance in classwork and examinations is indicated by letters. A (excellent), B (good), C (average), and D (poor) indicate that the work has been passed. The foregoing grades may be accompanied by a plus (+) or minus (-) to indicate a relative position within the grade category. P shows credit has been earned in a pass/fail course, and Z shows that a course was audited. S and U indicate satisfactory or unsatisfactory performance in nonacademic courses. W indicates that the student withdrew from a course. Marks indicating failure and included as such in the grade point average are F and V (failure because of excessive absences). The X indicates that the grade is not available from the instructor.

I and Y mean that coursework has not been completed by the end of the term. The I, which provisionally counts as a failing grade, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed unjustifiable by the instructor. The work is to be made up by the date the instructor specifies, but no later than 45 calendar days from the last day of the term in which the I was given. If the work is not made up during the grace period, the I will be converted to F. The Y, which does not count as a failing grade, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed justifiable by the instructor, or at the end of the first term of a course that continues into a succeeding term. The deadline for completion of the work is two years from the last day of the term in which the Y was given unless the instructor or college dean specifies an earlier deadline. Failure to complete the incomplete work by the deadline will result in the inability to subsequently remedy the Y grade and complete the work for earned credit. The Y grade will remain on the transcript and have no effect on the student's GPA. Once the course is completed, the earned grade replaces the I or Y. In all cases, it is the student's responsibility to make arrangements for and progress toward the completion of an incomplete course.

Undergraduate General Course Guidelines and Grading

Religious Observance Policy

Religious Observance Policy

The University is a secular institution that values a diversity of religious expression. The University is also an active community with a wide range of personal commitments and academic and extracurricular activities.

Planning for academic and extracurricular activities should be done with sensitivity to the diverse religious commitments of the community and an awareness of religious holidays. Scheduling large-scale, one-time academic or extra-curricular events on a religious holiday should be avoided whenever possible.

Any student may be excused from class or other assignments because of religious observance. A student who will miss an academic obligation because of religious observance is responsible for contacting his or her professor within the first two weeks of the semester. The student is responsible for completing missed work in a timely manner.

Faculty are expected to be mindful of potential conflicts with religious observances and should make reasonable accommodations when students' religious practices conflict with their academic responsibilities.

The religious observance calendar is meant to serve as a scheduling guide. It lists significant holidays from the five largest global faith traditions. However, it is not comprehensive and students may choose to observe a holiday not included on the calendar.

The holidays listed are those which occur during the academic year when the University is open.

University of Richmond

Transfer Credit

Credit in transfer may be accepted only for courses which are comparable to courses offered in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and/or Robins School of Business curriculum at the University of Richmond. Moreover, the coursework must have been taken at an institution accredited by a regional accrediting agency or the international equivalent at the time the work was taken, and a grade or equivalent of C (2.0) or better must have been earned. In the Robins School of Business, all upper level courses (including all Business Core courses, Finance, Marketing, Management, International Business, Accounting courses above 201, and Economics courses above 102) must be taken at an AACSB accredited school or as a part of a University of Richmond approved study abroad program in order to be considered for transfer credit towards the major/minor.

Approved credit earned at another institution will be converted to the University of Richmond unit (one unit is the equivalent of 3.5 semester hours) and applied to the record accordingly. Up to five 3-semester hour courses will be transferred in as one unit; additional 3-semester hour courses will be transferred in as .86 units. Coursework accepted in transfer shall be applied to specific degree requirements subject to the discretion of the academic department concerned. Units awarded are added into units required for graduation, but grades are not calculated in the grade point average.

Students entering the University of Richmond as first-year students must complete 28 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree, which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs. Students entering as first-year students must complete at least 17.5 units in residence at the University of Richmond.

Students entering the University of Richmond as transfer students (having matriculated after graduation from high school as a degree-seeking student at another post-secondary institution) with at least 6.82 units of transfer work will have the 28-unit requirement prorated.

Transfer students who attended another institution for one year must earn 23 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs. Transfer students who attended another institution for one year must complete at least 17.5 units in residence at the University of Richmond.

Transfer students who have attended another institution for one and one half years must earn 20.5 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs. Transfer students who attended another institution for one and one half years must complete at least 17.5 units in residency at the University of Richmond with one exception: they may apply up to 1 unit earned on an approved exchange or study abroad program towards the 17.5-unit residency requirement.

Transfer students who attended another institution for two or more years must earn 17.5 units in residence at the University of Richmond with one exception: they may apply up to 4 units earned on an approved exchange or study abroad program towards the 17.5-unit residency requirement.

Summer Study Abroad Programs

Only programs with a University of Richmond director or faculty that also are administered by the University are included in this category.

For academic record, degree progress, and grade point average purposes, coursework taken in these programs is treated as if the work were completed on campus except where noted in the program description. There are a number of University study abroad programs including programs in Argentina, Czech Republic, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Peru, Spain, and Taiwan. All of the programs above are administered through the University of Richmond Summer School office.

Study Abroad – Degree-seeking Students

Richmond offers its students many opportunities for educational experiences abroad throughout the year.

Degree-seeking students wishing to study abroad during the academic year must apply through the University's Office of International Education (OIE) to participate in one of our exchange or affiliate programs (international.richmond.edu/about/partners.html). Admission to any program is dependent on meeting the eligibility criteria as stated on the study abroad web site, academic fit, and places available. Richmond students may not study at Richmond exchange or affiliate programs and transfer credit back to the University without having been accepted into the program through the OIE.

Richmond invests considerable resources in creating study abroad opportunities consistent with the standards and educational objectives of the University and the needs of its students. Richmond students must study on a Richmond semester abroad program unless they can demonstrate, through a petition process, that no Richmond program meets their academic needs. Petitions are reviewed by a subcommittee of the International Education Committee in collaboration with the OIE and the departments from which the student is seeking academic credit. Transfer credit for non-UR semester study abroad experiences will be awarded only for pre-approved petitions. The deadline for filing a petition to take part in a non-UR program abroad is typically one to two weeks prior to the application deadline for Richmond semester abroad programs. See website for details.

During the summer, the University of Richmond School of Professional and Continuing Studies (spcs.richmond.edu/summer/study-abroad/index.html) offers a number of summer study abroad programs directed by Richmond faculty, as well as internships offered on a credit or non-credit basis, in many different countries. Note: Students should contact the Office of International Education regarding summer abroad programs not offered by the University of Richmond.

University of Richmond

Credit by Examination

Credit by Examination

The University of Richmond accepts several credit-by-examination options. All students at the University may apply a maximum of seven units of transfer credit from work, including credit by exam, to a University of Richmond degree. The following are guidelines for the most common examinations warranting credit. Specific details regarding each of these options and advanced standing examinations from French, German, and English-based educational systems can be found in the Credit by Exam policy. This policy is available from the Office of the University Registrar and the Office of Admission. Both offices will further serve students with international exams on a case by case basis.

1. Advanced Placement

The University of Richmond participates in the Advanced Placement program of the College Board. Successful candidates for admission who have taken Advanced Placement examinations and have the official results submitted may be eligible for credit or an exemption. The exams must have been taken prior to the student's initial enrollment at the University. Students who have received appropriate scores on Advanced Placement examinations (as established by the departments concerned) may receive credit for or may be exempt from a general education requirement if the Richmond equivalent courses for which they will receive credit can be used by Richmond students to meet fields of study requirements. Specific allocations of AP credit for communication skills or fields of study requirements may vary from year to year. Current information is available from the Office of the University Registrar.

2. CLEP

The University of Richmond awards credit on a limited basis for an acceptable performance on a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) examination recognized by the University academic department concerned. Generally a student may not attempt credit by examination for a course in which a failing grade was received or for a basic course in an area in which acceptable college credit has been earned at a more advanced level. Students who have received appropriate scores on CLEP examinations (as established by the departments concerned) may receive course credit that satisfies fields-of-study requirements of the general education requirements, if the Richmond courses for which they will receive credit can be used by Richmond students to meet fields-of-study requirements. Specific allocations of CLEP credit for communication skills or fields-of-study requirements may vary from year to year. Arrangements to take CLEP examinations may be made with the College Board. Current information is available from the Office of the University Registrar.

3. Credit By Local Examination

Credit by local examination may be used to satisfy general education requirements in the areas of communication skills and fields of study, as well as to satisfy major requirements or use as elective credit. Students should check with departments for examination dates, fees and related regulations.

4. International Baccalaureate

The University of Richmond considers only Higher Level exams in the International Baccalaureate (IB) program eligible for credit. The University may award credit or give an exemption for certain general education requirements if the requisite score is achieved and the test has been recognized by the academic department concerned. Specific allocations of IB credit for communication skills or fields-of-study requirements may vary from year to year. Detailed information on current IB policies is available from the Office of the University Registrar.

Credit for U.S. Armed Services Veterans

In accordance with the recommendations of the American Council on Education, the following advanced credit will be allowed veterans:

1. A veteran may receive credit for specialized training courses and for correspondence courses taken from accredited colleges under the auspices of the U.S. Armed Forces Institute. A veteran desiring such credit should present the record of training to the University Registrar either on the transcript form of the college at which the work was taken, or on the form prepared for such purposes by the U.S. Armed Forces Institute. In cases of question, the appropriate academic council will determine the amount of credit to be granted.
2. In allowing further advanced credit for educational experience in the armed services, the University is guided largely by recommendations of the American Council on Education.

Undergraduate Transfer Credit

First Year Students Bringing in Credit

First Year Students Bringing in Credit

Students who enroll as first-years may bring in no more than seven units of credit, including credit by examination and transfer credit, to be applied toward their University of Richmond degree. Additional transfer work can be entered on the transcript and can be used to fulfill prerequisite requirements (not general education requirements), but only seven units of credit will count toward a degree.

Credit in transfer may be accepted only for courses which are comparable to courses offered in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and/or Robins School of Business curriculum at the University. Moreover, the coursework must have been taken at an institution accredited by a regional accrediting agency or the international equivalent at the time the work was taken, and a grade or equivalent of C (2.0) or better must have been earned. Work taken through other institutions prior to initial enrollment is evaluated on an individual basis. Not all departments will accept work taken as a part of a high school program even if transcribed by an accredited institution. In order for work taken at another institution to be evaluated for transfer credit, the University must receive an official transcript mailed directly from the institution at which the work was completed. The student and transferring institution must also complete the Transfer Work Certification form available from the Office of the University Registrar.

No transfer credit shall be formally accepted or recorded until the University has received an official transcript directly from the records office of the institution which offered the coursework. If coursework is being transferred from more than one institution, an official transcript must be received from each institution. For applicability of transfer work to general education requirements, see General Education Curriculum.

Transcripts and documents from other institutions are the property of the University of Richmond and, as such, are under the control of the Office of the Registrar. Under federal policy, a student has the right to view the documents in his or her file; the University is not required to provide (or allow the making of) copies of these documents. Transcripts submitted to the University of Richmond for admission or credit transfer become the property of the University of Richmond and cannot be returned to the student or forwarded to other institutions.

Work Taken Elsewhere

This section pertains to students who wish to take academic work elsewhere while actively pursuing a degree at the University of Richmond. Credit in transfer may be accepted only for courses which are comparable to courses offered in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and/or Robins School of Business curriculum at the University of Richmond. Only coursework taken at an institution accredited by a regional accrediting agency or the international equivalent at the time the work was taken will be considered, and a grade or equivalent of C (2.0) or better must have been earned. The unit credit or equivalent as awarded at the other institution will be the units transferred. Units awarded are added into units earned for graduation, but grades are not calculated in the grade point average. (Individuals admitted as transfer students, please see the Advanced Standing section.) Students must complete 28 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree, which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs (transfer students will have this requirement prorated-see section on Transfer Credit).

Study in the United States

The student is to obtain the approval of each department chair concerned before taking work elsewhere. The approvals ensure that the work is acceptable to the University, its departmental standards and the student's curriculum. The Office of the University Registrar provides a special form for this purpose and will also answer questions about the procedure.

School of Arts and Sciences and Jepson School of Leadership Studies

While students are expected to obtain approval before taking work elsewhere, work taken without prior approval may be accepted subject to transfer credit policies.

Robins School of Business

The Robins School of Business may approve for transfer credit those courses that meet the following criteria: The course is completed at an institution accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB); the student receives a final course grade of at least C as verified by an official transcript; the approval of the appropriate department chair and dean is obtained. Approvals should be obtained prior to taking the coursework elsewhere. Courses completed at nonaccredited institutions generally are not accepted for credit. Grades for courses taken at another institution are not included in the calculation of the University's grade point average.

Study Abroad

Students wishing to study abroad should contact the Office of International Education for information about the range of opportunities and the procedures they must follow. The procedures ensure that academic work abroad will qualify for transfer credits to the University of Richmond. Only work taken through approved programs will be eligible for transfer credit. Further information about study abroad is presented in the chapter on International Education.

Note: Students should contact the Office of International Education regarding summer abroad programs not offered by the University of Richmond.

Undergraduate Registration

Registration is limited to admitted, degree-seeking students unless specific approval is granted for unclassified status.

Students shall register by following the policies.

Note: A student is not fully registered for any term until satisfactory arrangements have been made for that term's fees.

Late registrations may be accepted subject to the policies for adding classes, as indicated in the section titled Change of Registration.

Students are not technically enrolled until the first day of class in a semester. Verification of enrollment cannot be made until that time.

Auditing Courses

University of Richmond

Auditing Courses

Auditing a course means that the course instruction is undertaken but not for credit or a grade. With the approval of the student's academic advisor, dean, and the instructor of the course, a student may declare a course to be taken on an audit basis. A permission form must be obtained from and returned with appropriate signatures to the Office of the University Registrar by the end of the 10th day of classes. The student must first register for the course and then file the permission form. The regular rate of tuition is charged, and the audit course is counted as a part of the student's semester load. However, audited coursework does not count toward the required, full time enrollment status for financial aid purposes. If you are receiving financial aid and plan to audit a course, you are encouraged to check with the Office of Financial Aid before submitting the permission form to determine the impact, if any, on your financial aid eligibility. Once the form is submitted to the University Registrar, the decision may not be reversed. An audited course cannot subsequently be taken for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Change of Registration

Change of Registration

Students are able to register for classes through BannerWeb, a secured website that may be accessed at bannerweb.richmond.edu or through the University's website. Through BannerWeb, students can register for classes, add and drop classes through the end of add/drop period, view their class schedules, view grades for a specific term, and view their unofficial University of Richmond transcript. Students are responsible for all activity on their BannerWeb account including PIN maintenance, registration, and security. If a student has questions or needs assistance with any aspect of BannerWeb, the student should contact the Office of the University Registrar at (804) 289-8639 or registrar@richmond.edu.

Once registered, students may change their registration (add/drop) according to the published schedule. For a regular term, adds and withdrawals without academic record may generally be made during the first two weeks of classes. Summer terms have abbreviated add/drop and withdrawal periods, so please consult the summer academic calendar for those dates. After the end of the first 10 days of classes, but before the end of the 10th week, a withdrawal-with-record period is in effect where students may withdraw from courses provided that they consult with their College Dean, appropriate course instructor, and academic advisor. Students will receive a W grade at the time of withdrawal. Ordinarily, a student may not withdraw from a course after the end of the 10th week of classes except for medical reasons or other circumstances of similar seriousness as determined by the student's college dean.

Undergraduate Registration

Full-time vs. Part-time Status

Full-time vs. Part-time Status

A student normally enrolls for four or five units per semester. The minimum load for a full-time student is 3.5 units.

No student may enroll for more than 5.5 units or fewer than 3.5 units of work without the permission of the dean of his or her school. (Arts and Sciences - see college dean; Business and Leadership Studies - see academic dean.) Enrollments in either category are subject to special charges as specified in the Financial Affairs section. Students enrolled for fewer than 3.5 units are classified as part time. During the summer, a student may take no more than 2.5 units in a part of term. Requests for overloads must be made to the Petition Committee and cannot be approved by a College Dean.

Undergraduate Registration

Pass/Fail Option

Pass/Fail Option

School of Arts and Sciences and Jepson School of Leadership Studies (excluding leadership studies courses)

(Not available to business students)

An arts and sciences or leadership studies student who has completed at least 18 units of academic work may opt for one normally standard-graded course per semester to be graded on a pass/fail basis or if more than one course not more than one unit of total credit. The resulting credit may only be used to count as total credit toward a degree, and cannot be used to satisfy any general education requirement or any major or minor requirement. No Jepson School of Leadership Studies or Robins School of Business courses may be taken for pass/fail grading except those in the Department of Economics. No more than four student-opted pass/fail courses are acceptable for degree credit.

Note: Some courses are only available as pass/fail courses, such as internships, student teaching, and some research courses. The restrictions stated above do not apply to such courses.

The level of performance necessary to earn a pass grade in a student-opted pass/fail course is D- or better. A passing grade will be recorded as P on the permanent record. The credit will be added into credit earned toward graduation and will not affect the grade point average. A failing grade will be recorded as F on the permanent record. The credit will affect the grade point average.

To opt for pass/fail grading, a permission form must be obtained from and returned with appropriate signatures to the Office of the University Registrar by the end of the 10th day of classes. Summer terms have abbreviated periods for changing classes to pass/fail or audit, so please consult the summer academic calendar for those dates. The student must first register for the course and then file the permission form. Once the form is submitted to the University Registrar, the decision may not be reversed.

Prerequisites

Prerequisites

Students should consult the catalog and/or department for required prerequisites before registering for a course. Successful registration for a course does not mean that prerequisites have been fulfilled. A student registered in a course without the required prerequisites may be unenrolled from the course.

Registration Holds

Registration Holds

The following holds will prevent students from registering (students can access BannerWeb to check holds): Admissions Office, Cashier, Dean's Office, Library, Long-Distance (Student Account Hold), Parking Services (Student Account Hold), Student Credit Service, Perkins Loan in Repayment, Registrar's Office, Student Health, and Student Accounts. For further information on these types of holds, contact the office from which the hold originated.

Undergraduate Registration

Repeated Courses

Repeated Courses

Coursework may not be repeated for credit toward graduation except as sanctioned by the University; however, particular coursework may meet more than one requirement for graduation. An example of a sanctioned repeat-for-credit is the subsequent registration for a course in which the content changes from term to term, such as special topics or independent studies. Also, certain courses in a major or program may have to be repeated if the grade earned the first time does not meet requirements; in such a case, the credit will be counted only once but both grades will be calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

Courses taken on an audit basis cannot be repeated for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Except in clear situations, the Office of the University Registrar should be consulted before registration to learn if a proposed repeat is sanctioned for credit or if sanction is possible.

All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record. The grade for a course repeated at the University of Richmond becomes a part of the grade point average if the grade otherwise would be included in the computation.

Undergraduate Registration

Taking School of Professional and Continuing Studies Courses

Taking School of Professional and Continuing Studies Courses

Courses taken through the School of Professional and Continuing Studies after students have been admitted may not be used to meet general education requirements and may be used to meet major requirements only with special permission from the department chair. Courses in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies will be granted unit credit that is equivalent to the semester hours granted for the course. In order to apply to the bachelor's degree, courses must be taken at the undergraduate level.

Students may take no more than one School of Professional and Continuing Studies course per semester and no more than four courses in cumulative total during their undergraduate degree. School of Professional and Continuing Studies courses are not available to Arts and Sciences, Business, or Leadership Studies students for registration until the first day of class and only on a space available basis.

Visiting Student Status

Visiting Student Status

Under certain circumstances, students, while not enrolled at the University of Richmond, are granted visiting student status. This status is based on attending a University-approved program of study. To determine if a domestic program is approved, contact the Office of the University Registrar; for study abroad programs, contact the Office of International Education.

Attendance At Commencement

Attendance At Commencement

Students are required to attend the commencement ceremony for the award of the degree in person except by decision of the University not to do so. A student who expects to have a degree awarded at the spring commencement may request absentia status from the graduation ceremony by explaining in writing the circumstance which prevents participation. Students who have a degree application on file and anticipate summer completion of degree requirements are also expected to participate in the spring graduation ceremony. Students who expect to complete degree requirements in December may participate in the spring commencement either prior to or following their December completion. If a winter or summer degree candidate does not intend to participate in the ceremony a written statement requesting absentia must be submitted. The request for absentia must be received by the University Registrar no later than eight working days before the ceremony. The registrar will notify the degree candidate of the status granted by the University. Unless approved for absentia status a candidate for graduation who does not participate in the commencement ceremony does not graduate. Such candidate may graduate by again filing a degree application and by following the appropriate graduation attendance policy.

August degrees are conferred as of the date specified in the academic calendar, and diplomas are mailed to those qualified. December degrees are conferred as of the date specified in the academic calendar. Diplomas for December graduates are mailed to students who have previously participated in the commencement ceremony. Those who will be participating in a future ceremony will receive their diploma at that time.

Changes in Catalog Information

Changes in Catalog Information

Caution: The course offerings and requirements of the University of Richmond are under continual examination and revision. This catalog is not a contract; it merely presents the offerings and requirements in effect at the time of publication and in no way guarantees that the offerings and requirements will not change. The University specifically reserves the right to change requirements for any major, minor, and/or program, and to implement them during any particular year.

The student assumes full responsibility for compliance with all academic requirements. Current course offerings may be obtained from the appropriate department. Current major, minor, program, and degree requirements may be obtained from the University Registrar; the deans' offices of the Schools of Arts and Sciences, Business, and Leadership Studies, and Richmond and Westhampton Colleges; or from the department chair of the appropriate department.

In the event the University adopts new general education and/or major, minor, and program requirements, efforts will be made to accommodate hardships during the transition period.

Undergraduate Graduation

Degree Application

Degree Application

To graduate a student must file a degree application with the Office of the University Registrar. Degree applications are to be filed by the second Friday in September for the coming May or August commencement. Those enrolled only in the spring file by the first Friday in February. Students enrolled only in the summer culminating in their graduation file by the third Friday in June. Students planning to graduate in December should file a degree application by the first Friday in February.

If degree requirements are not completed prior to the intended graduation date, the student must file a new degree application according to the schedule above.

Degree applications are available online via BannerWeb and in the Office of the University Registrar.

Undergraduate Graduation

Degree Requirements

Degree Requirements

A candidate for the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree must satisfactorily complete all degree requirements (see Degree Requirements section) and 35 units. Undergraduate degree candidates must earn a grade point average of not less than 2.00 on all coursework attempted and must receive credit for attendance at assemblies and convocations, as required.

Financial/Administrative Responsibilities

Financial/Administrative Responsibilities

No degree is conferred if the student's responsibilities to the University are in an unsatisfactory condition. Responsibilities in this sense include financial and administrative matters such as, but not limited to, delinquent payments, parking fines, or overdue library books.

Undergraduate Graduation

Time Limits

Time Limits

SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

There is no time limit in regard to the completion of general education requirements. In the event of catalog changes, a student may choose to fulfill admission and general education requirements for graduation from a subsequent catalog provided all of the requirements of the chosen catalog are met.

ROBINS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AND JEPSON SCHOOL OF LEADERSHIP STUDIES

A student must complete the requirements for the degree, as stated in the catalog at the time of entrance, within five years from the date of original entry. Reinstatement to a program after five years requires permission of the academic council of the student's school. If an extension of time is granted, the student may be required to satisfy the degree requirements in effect at the time of reentrance.

Undergraduate Graduation

Residency Requirement

Residency Requirement

To earn an undergraduate degree, a student must complete 28 units of University of Richmond approved work which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away, dual-degree and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through cross-registration (transfer students will have this requirement prorated--see section on Transfer Credit).

A student must have completed at least 17.5 units of acceptable coursework required for the degree in residence at the University of Richmond (transfer students will have this requirement prorated--see section on Transfer Credit). The last eight units are expected to be included within the 17.5 units required in residence. Upon petition, the college dean may waive up to three of the last eight units.

In no case may a student count more than 17.5 units from a single subject area toward the minimum number of units necessary for graduation. Students may not apply more than four courses from the School of Professional and Continuing Studies towards their degree.

Note: No degree is conferred if the student's responsibilities to the University have not been met. These responsibilities include, but are not limited to, such matters as the payment of fees, parking fines and library fines, and the return of library books.

Robins School of Business

All transfer students, as part of their degree requirements, must complete at least 12 units of coursework in business/economics within the Robins School of Business.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

At least 10 of the required 17.5 residence units required for a degree must be taken in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies

Undergraduate Graduation

Undergraduate Work Taken After Graduation

Undergraduate Work Taken After Graduation

Students who have graduated from an accredited college or university and who wish to take undergraduate courses in the liberal arts and sciences during the academic year, but not for degree purposes, should apply to the Office of Admission for acceptance as an unclassified student. Permission to take such classes may be granted on a space-available basis and with due regard for prior achievements. Application for such undergraduate work to be taken in the summer will be received by the summer school office.

Additional majors or minors may be completed after graduation and recorded subject to the following: the student must have a Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree from the University of Richmond; all work required to complete the additional major or minor subsequent to graduation must be taken at the University in the School of Arts and Sciences, Robins School of Business, or Jepson School of Leadership Studies; the academic department concerned must certify that the major or minor is complete; and the student must complete the work within two years of graduation unless additional time is granted by the major or minor department concerned, and the department notifies the University Registrar.

Undergraduate Graduation

Second Undergraduate Degree

Second Undergraduate Degree

A student may earn more than one undergraduate degree either consecutively or concurrently in relation to another undergraduate degree provided the degrees are not alike, e.g., not two B.A.s or two B.S.s. For information on completing one degree with multiple majors, see Declaration of Majors/Minors above.

The following policies apply to any student seeking a second undergraduate degree:

University of Richmond

- Consecutive Bachelor's Degree
- Concurrent (Dual) Bachelor's Degrees

Undergraduate Graduation

Consecutive Bachelor's Degree

Consecutive Bachelor's Degree

A consecutive bachelor's degree is one which is begun after a first degree has been conferred or after the degree requirements for the first degree have been recorded as completed on the student's permanent academic record.

A Richmond student who wishes to pursue the second bachelor's degree consecutively shall apply to the dean of the school concerned. (Arts and Sciences students should contact the dean of the appropriate college.) A student who holds a Bachelor's degree from another university shall apply to the dean of admission. The dean shall make a decision for admission based on the quality of prior work, the favorable recommendation of the intended major department, and space availability. Once admitted, the student's grade point average shall be based only on the work taken at the University of Richmond while pursuing the second degree. The student's dean may limit or deny further registration if the quality of the student's work indicates that at least a 2.00 average will not have been achieved by the time the student has attempted 9 units. A student admitted for a consecutive degree shall be considered a member of the senior class for registration purposes.

To earn a consecutive bachelor's degree, a Richmond student must achieve at least a 2.00 grade point average on a minimum of nine additional units of resident academic coursework selected from the catalog of courses. Courses in which a student-opted Pass is earned shall not count in the nine units. In addition, general education requirements appropriate to the degree being sought, as well as requirements for the major, must be met satisfactorily. Work taken for the preceding degree may be considered as transfer credit for the purpose of meeting these requirements; however, at least half of the major must be taken at the University of Richmond, and all other degree requirements must be met as outlined under Graduation, including the 17.5-unit residency requirement. Students who did not earn their first degree at Richmond must achieve at least a 2.00 grade point average the additional 17.5 units

A student who completes the requirements for the consecutive degree is ineligible for Latin honors, and will not be assigned a graduating class rank. Financial aid is not available to students pursuing a consecutive (second) bachelor's degree.

Undergraduate Graduation

Concurrent (Dual) Bachelor's Degrees

Concurrent (Dual) Bachelor's Degrees

Dual bachelor's degrees are two different bachelor's degrees that are pursued concurrently and completed at the same time.

A student who wishes to pursue two bachelor's degrees concurrently shall notify the dean of his or her school promptly after the decision is reached. (Arts and Sciences students should contact the dean of the appropriate college.) Students in the Robins School of Business or the Jepson School of Leadership Studies who desire a second undergraduate degree in the arts and sciences must receive the approval of the dean of the appropriate college as well as the sanction of the dean of their home school. Jepson students may not earn a second BA in arts and sciences; if pursuing a dual degree, it must be a BS or BSBA. Even when approved for the second degree, such student remains a member of their home school for academic, administrative and extracurricular purposes.

When two degrees are being sought concurrently, the grade point average computation and all academic policies are administered on the basis of the then-accumulated work for both degrees.

To earn concurrent bachelor's degrees, a student must complete 44 units of academic work plus the additional degree requirements with at least 28.5 units taken at the University of Richmond. In addition, the general education requirements appropriate to each degree being sought, as well as requirements for the majors, must be completed satisfactorily. At the proper time, two degree applications must be submitted simultaneously to the University Registrar. Latin honors, if earned, will be shown on both degrees.

Undergraduate Courses and Curriculum

The University of Richmond provides a collaborative learning and research environment unlike any other in higher education, offering students an extraordinary combination of the liberal arts with law, business, leadership studies, and continuing education.

Small class sizes with zero teaching assistants facilitate close interaction between students and faculty. And learning opportunities such as undergraduate research, study abroad and internships give a hands-on perspective to classroom study.

All first-year undergraduate students also enroll in a FirstYear Seminar, which encourages exploration across a wide range of fields, from bioethics and math to art history and English. From the start, a Richmond education gives students the communication and critical thinking skills, the curiosity, and the confidence to pursue opportunities with passion.

Undergraduate Courses and Curriculum

General Education Curriculum

General Education Curriculum

A liberal arts education is typically characterized by the development of broad intellectual and cultural interests and by the achievement of a significant body of skills and knowledge. It is the particular responsibility of a general education curriculum to address the first of these goals, the broadening of students' interests, while also laying the foundation for the acquisition of advanced skills and deeper knowledge within optional areas of concentration, normally defined as majors.

So it is at the University of Richmond, where a distinctive general education curriculum has been designed:

University of Richmond

- To provide a stimulating and challenging introduction to collegiate life through a first-year seminar courses
- To establish the basic prerequisites of productive scholarship through a set of communication skills requirements
- To familiarize students in a meaningful way with some of the major approaches to intellectual and cultural life through a series of fields of study requirements

This curriculum is offered by a faculty that sees general education as fundamental to its mission. Through its various general education courses, the faculty intends to incorporate each and every student into a community of learners who value and practice the life of the mind. Beginning with their general education courses and continuing through the courses in their major, their elective courses, and their various cocurricular and extracurricular learning experiences, University of Richmond students are expected to develop their ability to think critically and independently, to learn to tolerate ambiguity where true ambiguity exists, and to grow in their respect for and their ability to deal with the kinds of multiplicity that characterize our complex world. The common goal of the University's faculty is the education of independent, responsible, and contributing members of society.

Fields of Study Overview

Summary of General Education Requirements

Undergraduate Courses and Curriculum

First-Year Seminar

First-Year Seminars

First-Year Seminars (FYS) provide entering students the excitement of engaged learning through a diverse array of seminar topics. With small classes, a variety of topics, and close contact with faculty, First-Year Seminars offer a hands-on introduction to academic inquiry. A wide variety of seminars will be offered each year, drawn from every school of the University. Each entering student will take a FYS 100 course in the fall and spring of the first year. Readmitted students must complete the First Year Seminar requirement within a year of their readmission. First-Year Seminars serve as an introduction to academic inquiry and the modes of expression that lie at the heart of a liberal arts education. They foster habits of mind fundamental to students' intellectual and academic development, including critical reading and thinking, sharing ideas and research through discussion, and the ability to write and think clearly and effectively. Integrating explorations of specific questions and topics with the development of skills, seminars aim to foster intellectual curiosity and students' ability to act on it.

Undergraduate Courses and Curriculum

Communication Skills

Communication Skills

Ideas and experiences must be communicated if they are to be shared, scrutinized, and transformed into effective knowledge. Toward these ends, the faculty expects each student to develop skills in oral communication and a second language.

Oral Communication

Oral communication is another skill that is essential to both education and life. Students should be able to speak so that their ideas are expressed logically, lucidly, and effectively, and they should be able to provide relevant evidence whenever appropriate. In addition, students should be able to analyze the spoken discourse of others. The general education curriculum at the University of Richmond assists students in these regards by immediately immersing them into frequent and intensive oral exchanges and presentations in the First Year Seminars and by offering relevant courses, such as Rhetoric and Communication Studies 100, through the Department of Rhetoric and Communication Studies. In addition, many faculty and departments have been increasing the oral communication components in their courses and seminars, with the goal of enhancing this fundamental skill. Their efforts are assisted by the University's Weinstein-Jecklin Speech Center. There is no required course that students must take to fulfill this portion of their general education.

Second Language (COM2)

A second language has become more and more important as the world for which students are preparing themselves has placed increasing demands upon them to understand the national and cultural perspectives of other language groups. The knowledge of a second language is critical for achieving such understanding as well as for exposing the learner to other cultures, in ancient or contemporary guise, that he or she may encounter after graduation. For these reasons, the faculty expects all students to demonstrate functional ability in listening, speaking, reading, and writing in a modern second language; in reading and writing in a classical language; or in American Sign Language. These abilities are appraised either at entrance or through introductory and intermediate courses.

Undergraduate Courses and Curriculum

Fields of Study Overview

Fields of Study Overview

Fields of study courses introduce students to some of the primary fields or sets of related disciplines within which scholars group phenomena for study. These courses are intended to familiarize students with the kinds of questions raised by scholars within each of these groupings and with the methods by which scholars try to answer such questions. Although fields of study courses are typically offered by individual departments, they have nonetheless been designed and approved with general education as their primary objective. Thus, their scope exceeds the boundaries of singular disciplines insofar as they seek to give explicit attention to the perspectives, ways of thinking and methodological approaches of larger fields of inquiry. In order to give students a broad understanding as well as a basic foundation for further study in any of these fields, the faculty requires students to pass specially designated courses in each of six fields of study: historical studies, literary studies, natural science, social analysis, symbolic reasoning, and visual and performing arts.

Field of Study - Historical Studies (FSHT)

Historical studies examine events and actors of the recent or distant past within the context of the ideas, institutions, social norms, cultural practices, and physical environments out of which they arose. Courses with a historical perspective enable us to understand the values and institutions of disparate societies and cultures as they have developed over time.

By emphasizing the critical analysis of sources and the interrelationships among ideas, institutions, social structures, and events within one or more interpretive frameworks, these courses foster students' awareness of the methods and perspectives for understanding past societies and cultures in historical context. Courses that focus narrowly on the history of a discipline, that only use chronology as an organizational structure, or that do not stress the context in which ideas and events occurred fall outside the category of historical studies.

Field of Study - Literary Studies (FSLT)

The field of literary studies concerns itself with verbal texts read as structures of meaning. While language is a practical tool for thought and communication of many sorts, the particular focus of literary studies is on linguistic creations as meaningful in themselves and not purely as documents that record meaning outside themselves.

Courses satisfying the literary studies requirement are centrally concerned with the textual analysis of primary works. They consider a variety of interpretive frameworks and attend to one or more collateral areas of investigation, including the study of the process by which texts are created and received, the historical and cultural contexts in which they are created and received, and their relationships to each other and to other fields of experience and analysis. The field of literary studies brings its perspectives and methods to bear on imaginative and nonimaginative works alike.

Field of Study - Natural Science (FSNB, FSNC, FSNP)

The field of natural science is concerned with the physical universe from subatomic to cosmic levels of organization, including inanimate as well as living systems, their structure, diversity, interaction, and evolution. Based upon the generation and testing of hypotheses, scientific inquiry is restricted to the study of repeatable, measurable, and verifiable phenomena. Within this field, knowledge may be gained either by controlled experiment or diligent observation, depending upon the phenomena being studied. Similarly, some of the field's methodologies rely upon quantitative analysis, while others are primarily qualitative.

The natural science requirement is designed to enhance students' appreciation of the beauty of science as well as their understanding of the challenges of doing science. Students gain experience in the formulation and testing of hypotheses and are introduced to scientific methodology. The natural science requirement consists of a single laboratory course selected from the three areas of science represented at the University of Richmond, namely, chemistry, physics, and the biological sciences.

Field of Study - Social Analysis (FSSA)

Social analysis is the systematic study of individual and social human behavior. This field of study involves a systematic theoretical and empirical examination of the patterns of human behavior within or across various societies and cultures.

Courses satisfying this requirement focus on human behavior. They teach students to analyze individual and group behavior by using a variety of theoretical and empirical frameworks. All courses in this field of study must include the reading of or involve students in research on patterns of human behavior. Courses that employ social contextual analysis for purposes of providing a frame of reference for the study of other phenomena, such as literary texts, works of art, etc., do not fulfill this requirement.

Field of Study - Symbolic Reasoning (FSSR)

As a field of study, symbolic reasoning is distinguished by its attention to internal logical consistency and by its wide external applicability. This field of study emphasizes symbolic problem solving, a process that includes translating problems into terms that are amenable to treatment within a symbolic system; understanding consistent rules by which the information relevant to the problem may be processed in order to obtain a solution; recognizing important underlying principles that govern the application of these rules; and judging both the appropriateness of known solution methods to a particular problem and the quality or reasonableness of the solution obtained.

Courses in this field of study aim to develop in students the skills to obtain valid solutions using one or more symbolic systems, the ingenuity to translate new problems into appropriate terms for such systems, and the persistence to carry a solution method through to completion. The focus of a symbolic reasoning course should be on understanding the symbolic system and how it can be used to develop problem-solving tools rather than on the tools themselves. Applications of these tools, while a welcome addition, should not be the primary objective of the course.

Field of Study - Visual and Performing Arts (FSVP)

The field of visual and performing arts considers questions having to do with the forms, traditions, meaning, and historical contexts of works in visual and performance media and explores issues of method, process, and personal resources in the media.

Courses satisfying this requirement are centrally concerned with the roles of creation and interpretation in the study of art. They develop in students an enhanced understanding of art both by fostering their intellectual appreciation of works of art and by involving them in the creative process. These courses are suffused with the notion that the arts are a powerful and profound influence on human perception and understanding.

Conclusion

In addition to the fundamental educational experiences represented by these requirements, the faculty recognizes that thoughtful reflection upon an even wider range of topics and issues such as those that pertain to gender, race, ethics, international perspectives, and other matters, is an important component in the education of Richmond students. While some of these topics and issues may be addressed in one or another course in the general education curriculum, the faculty feels strongly that they are best treated - sometimes focally, sometimes incidentally - within many different courses, outside as well as inside that curriculum. By addressing them in a variety of ways, from a variety of viewpoints, and with a variety of voices across the entire curriculum, the faculty as a whole will ensure that students are aware of the many complex and serious ways in which these issues touch their lives and the lives of others.

Note: Courses meeting general education requirements are approved by the General Education Committee and denoted with the appropriate code following the course description in this catalog, as well as in the schedule of classes, published each semester on BannerWeb. A course will only meet the general education requirement if approved and the corresponding code is noted on the schedule of classes for the semester in which the class is completed. The codes are as follows:

- FYS - First-Year Seminar
- COM2 - Communication Skills - Second Language
- FSHT - Field of Study: Historical Studies
- FSLT - Field of Study: Literary Studies
- FSNB - Field of Study: Natural Science, Biological Sciences
- FSNC - Field of Study: Natural Science, Chemistry
- FSNP - Field of Study: Natural Science, Physics
- FSSA - Field of Study: Social Analysis
- FSSR - Field of Study: Symbolic Reasoning
- FSVP - Field of Study: Visual and Performing Arts

Undergraduate Courses and Curriculum

Summary of General Education Requirements

Summary of General Education Requirements

Courses used to satisfy the First-Year Seminars and the communication skills requirement of the general education requirements may not be used to meet the fields of study requirements for the degree. The First-Year Seminars must be taken in the first year of matriculation.

First-Year Seminars

A student may satisfy this requirement by passing two FYS 100 seminar courses. The same seminar topic may not be repeated more than once for credit.

First-Year Seminar Policy for Students Transferring to Richmond

Students who are admitted to the University of Richmond as transfer students with 6.82 or more transferable units are exempt from the First Year Seminars.

Students transferring with less than 6.82 units*, excluding credit for advanced standing, must meet the following First Year Seminar requirement(s)

- 1-3.13 transferable units: must take two First Year Seminars during the first two semesters of enrollment.
- 3.14-6.81 transferable units: must take one First Year Seminar during the first semester of enrollment. May take an additional First Year Seminar in the second term of enrollment, if desired.

Note: Students are only accepted as transfer students with less than 6.82 transferable units on an exception basis. These students must demonstrate exceptional qualifications.

Communication Skills II - Second Language

A student may satisfy this requirement in a modern or classical language by meeting one of the following alternatives:

1. Passing the intermediate (221 or 202) level of one language (credit varies from 1-2 units depending on the intensity of the courses).
2. Presenting a score of 3, 4, or 5 on a modern language Advanced Placement exam taken prior to initial enrollment (student would receive an exemption, but no credit, for a score of 3; the credit varies for a score of 4 or 5); presenting a score of 4 or 5 on the Latin Advanced Placement exam (carries 1 unit of credit).
3. Presenting a score of 5, 6, or 7 on an IB Higher Level exam in a modern language (credit varies).
4. Presenting an acceptable score on the SAT-II Subject Test - Language taken prior to initial enrollment (carries no credit).
5. Achieving an acceptable score on a departmental placement exam (carries no credit).
6. For nonnative English speakers, submission of TOEFL scores for admission (carries no credit).

Fields of Study

A student may satisfy the fields of study requirements by passing one approved course in each of the areas of historical studies, literary studies, social analysis, symbolic reasoning, visual and performing arts, and the natural sciences. Such courses must have been approved by the General Education Committee and the faculties of the schools of Arts and Sciences, Robins School of Business, and Jepson School of Leadership Studies as meeting these requirements.

Courses meeting general education requirements are designated in this catalog following the course description, as well as in the list of classes on the website. All courses used to meet general education requirements must be passed with a grade of D- (.7) or higher.

Summary of Degree Requirements

General Education Requirements

University of Richmond

	TYPE OF REQUIREMENT	UNITS
First Year Seminars	FYS 100 (two seminars)	2 units
	Second language (COM2)	up to 4 units (a)
	Oral Communication	noncredit (b)
Fields of Study	Historical studies (FSHT)	1 unit
	Literary studies (FSLT)	1 unit
	Natural science (FSNB/FSNC/FSNP)	1 unit
	Social analysis (FSSA)	1 unit
	Symbolic reasoning	1 unit
	Visual and performing arts (FSVP)	1 unit
		Total: up to 12 units

a. May be satisfied by a demonstration of proficiency upon entrance to the University without carrying credit (Language courses carry variable credit). For non-native English speakers, students who must submit TOEFL scores for admission are exempt from the COM2 requirement. Language courses in Arabic and Russian may require additional conversation courses to reach the Intermediate level. b. Described in General Education section.

Wellness Requirement

In keeping with the University's objective of fostering knowledge and personal well-being, every undergraduate student will complete a three part wellness series prior to graduation. Before arriving on campus, first year and transfer students will complete both Alcohol Edu and Haven, an online alcohol prevention and education program. Once on campus, students will complete WELL 100 in their first semester. Students are also required to complete one WELL 101 health education topics course. Classes are geared towards topics that will promote academic success and personal health.

As part of the University's on-going commitment to sexual misconduct education and prevention, all second year students will be required to complete Every Choice, an online bystander training program (WELL 102) focusing on sexual misconduct prevention education. The course provides students with awareness, education and skills practice to assist them with engaging in proactive behaviors to intervene in situations of sexual misconduct. Upon completion, students will be equipped with basic bystander skills that will allow them to identify multiple options for intervention and assist them with identifying obstacles that would prevent action. The course will also inform students about sexual misconduct resources on and off campus resources. The course must be complete in the first six weeks of the semester.

The Department of Health Promotion within the division of Student Development, is responsible for the wellness graduation requirement. The wellness graduation requirement consists of the following classes, effective with the entering class in 2021 (earlier classes should review the catalog under which they entered):

WELL 100: Introduction to College Life at the University of Richmond	noncredit	- Students register themselves for their first semester of enrollment. If students not register for a WELL 100 section, students will be assigned to one prior to the first day of classes. - WELL 100 must be attempted and satisfactorily completed during that semester.
WELL 101: Plus 2, a wellness topic of choice	noncredit	- Students register themselves for this course. - WELL 101 must be attempted and satisfactorily completed prior to the start of the fifth semester of enrollment.
WELL 102: Bystander Education Program	noncredit	- Students will be automatically registered for this course for their third semester of enrollment, or, for transfer students, for their first semester of enrollment. - WELL 102 must be attempted and satisfactorily completely within the first six weeks of that semester.

Each course is graded with an S or U (Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory). Students will have an administrative hold put on their record if they have not satisfactorily completed within the prescribed time period. This hold will prevent them from being able to register until they have made arrangements to take the class(es).

Completion of a Major

All undergraduate degrees at the University of Richmond require satisfactory completion of one major. Multiple majors and/or minors may also be pursued and upon completion will be recorded on the permanent academic record.

The major is a field of academic study chosen as an area of specialization. A major may be in a subject area and will include courses in that subject area along with courses prerequisite to those required courses and may also include designated courses outside the subject area. Interdisciplinary programs will include courses from a number of different subject areas. Majors require between 9 and 18.5 total units, counting all courses both inside and outside the subject area, including all prerequisites for those courses. (See the section for each school for specific major or minor requirements.)

The School of Arts and Sciences offers the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees. The Robins School of Business offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers the Bachelor of Arts degree. In addition to the degree requirements previously stated under Graduation, a candidate must satisfy major requirements outlined in the following sections.

Major Requirements 9 - 18.5 total units

Curriculum and Achievement

Undergraduate degree candidates must earn a grade point average of not less than 2.00 on all coursework attempted.

University of Richmond

Candidates for the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration must complete 35 units.

Additional Degree Requirements

- 17.5 unit on-campus residency requirement (transfer students should see section on Transfer Credit)
- 28 unit residency requirement, to include work taken on approved exchange and study abroad programs and visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs (this requirement is pro-rated for transfer students)
- Application for degree and attendance at Commencement
- Completion of financial and administrative obligations

Admission

The University of Richmond seeks to enroll students who have demonstrated the potential to succeed in a highly rigorous environment and who have shown evidence of their capability to contribute to the University community. Admission to the University is competitive and selective.

Criteria for admission are both objective and subjective. Qualities including academic ability and achievement, combined with personal qualities of leadership, creativity, and independence, are considered. For those entering as first-year students, the secondary school experience, the results of standardized tests, and the particular characteristics and personal qualities of each applicant will be considered. Successful applicants come from many different backgrounds. The University makes admission decisions in a need-blind manner for all first-year applicants who are U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Students who believe that they would benefit from the University's programs but do not have the resources to attend are encouraged to see the section on Financial Aid for more information.

Successful applicants will have pursued a highly rigorous college preparatory program. The prospective student is advised, therefore, to complete the most challenging college preparatory program that can be taken at the secondary school attended. Applicants to the University of Richmond are required to earn a high school diploma or its equivalent, including the G.E.D. (General Education Development battery).

For students who have attended other institutions of higher learning and wish to transfer to the University of Richmond, the academic achievement, personal conduct, and courses completed at their current and prior institutions will be important to the admission decision.

Whether first-year or transfer, students with the potential to be the most successful in this educational environment will be offered admission.

Admission

Transfer Admission

Transfer Admission

A student who wishes to transfer from another college or university may apply for transfer admission. A student must have completed a minimum of 6.82 units of transferable credit prior to enrollment at the University of Richmond. The transfer credit must have been earned at an institution regionally accredited at the time the work was completed. Transfer candidates must possess a minimum grade point average of 2.0 to be eligible for review. Competitive candidates will have well above this minimum requirement. Interested students may wish to visit the campus and talk with an admission officer; however, a personal interview is not a part of the admission decision. In order to receive a degree from the University of Richmond, a student must complete at least 17.5 units at the University, including the work of the senior year.

The deadline to submit a transfer application for fall enrollment is February 15, with a second-round deadline of April 15; the spring enrollment deadline is November 1. The applicant must file an application form, pay the nonrefundable application fee, submit course descriptions for all college courses taken, and have secondary school and college transcripts forwarded directly to the Office of Admission. Students must have left their prior institutions in good academic and social standing or having been honorably dismissed.

Credit for work completed at another college or university will be subject to the following conditions:

- courses must be a part of the University of Richmond curriculum and at the level of courses taught at the University of Richmond
- the grade received must be the equivalent of C (2.0) or better
- the decisions of credit transfer and application toward degree requirements are made by the Office of the University Registrar in consultation with the appropriate academic department

Credit for all courses is regarded as provisional at the time of the applicant's admission and is not considered final until the satisfactory completion of one semester's work at the University.

Additional details may be found at admissions.richmond.edu/process/transfer/index.html.

Admission

University of Richmond

International Admission

International Admission

The University of Richmond encourages international students with diverse cultural heritages and multicultural experiences to apply to the University as both first-year and transfer students.

First-year applicants must complete an academic secondary program which would prepare one for entrance to universities in the country of residence. Secondary study (grades 9, 10, 11, and 12) should include at minimum three or four years of coursework in the native language (or second language), mathematics, social sciences, laboratory sciences, and English language. Refer to the Admission Requirements section.

A student may apply as a transfer candidate after successfully completing at least one year of full-time study at a recognized academic university in the United States or abroad. Refer to the Transfer Admission section above.

The University of Richmond values proficiency in multiple languages and diverse educational experiences across different cultures and countries. To ensure that students are prepared for the rigorous curriculum they will encounter at the University, we recommend that all non-native English speakers submit TOEFL results; however, we evaluate a variety of factors when considering waiving this requirement and we look for consistency in these factors across a student's application.

You can demonstrate English proficiency by:

- Having been enrolled in an English-medium school for four years and completing four years in an academically-rigorous curriculum.
- Obtaining a score of 660 or higher on the redesigned SAT evidence-based reading and writing section (administered beginning in 2016).
- Obtaining a score of 27 or higher on the ACT English section.
- Obtaining a score of 7.5 or higher on the IELTS.
- Obtaining a grade of A or B in Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate or A-Level English course(s).

For applicants submitting TOEFL results, consideration will be given to those with the following minimum scores: 550 on the Paper-based TOEFL or 80 on the Internet-based TOEFL.

Additional details may be found at admissions.richmond.edu/process/international/index.html.

Admission

Students in Non-Traditional High School Settings

Students in Non-Traditional High School Settings

Students completing high school in non-traditional settings — including students who will have completed at least two years in a home-schooled environment or in online classes or programs by the time they graduate — are encouraged to apply to the University of Richmond. A high school diploma (or recognized equivalent) is required for admission. Because records from non-traditional environments vary, these students are offered several opportunities to provide additional information to the admission committee to further highlight their preparedness for the University of Richmond's academic environment.

In addition to the standard complete admission application, candidates in non-traditional settings are required to:

- Submit a narrative explaining the decision to take high school coursework in a non-traditional setting; any special arrangements that may have been made for instruction (such as home school co-ops, etc.); previous and current method of instruction; and what a typical day is like for the student during the school year.
- Ensure that letters of recommendation are submitted from individuals other than the student's parents with whom the student has had academic contact.
- Provide results of AP tests or SAT Subject Tests in history, a second language, and a natural science field.
- If the student is not provided with a transcript through an educational institution or cooperative, a transcript that will help the University understand the high school curriculum must be created and submitted. Include courses taken and grades earned from grades 9-12 (through the first semester of senior year), including units earned, a full description of the content, and texts used for each subject. If the student has taken courses at a community college, university, or other organization, transcripts must be submitted from those institutions as well.
- If deemed academically competitive by the Admission Committee, interview with an admission officer either in person or over the telephone.

Additional details may be found at admissions.richmond.edu/process/homeschool.html.

Admission

The Robins School of Business

The Robins School of Business

The Robins School of Business provides a professional education for students who wish to prepare for the challenges of a complex and international business world. This personalized education is offered primarily during the third and fourth years of college study.

Beginning with the class entering in the fall of 2010, students interested in pursuing a major or minor in the Robins School of Business (Business Administration, Economics or Accounting) must have a 2.7 GPA after completing at least 12 units at the end of three semesters of college coursework, including ECON 101, ACCT 201, and MATH 211 or MATH 231 (or their equivalent).

Admission

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

University of Richmond

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies uses multiple disciplinary lenses to educate students for and about leadership: economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, psychology, and religion. In so doing, the school provides students with conceptual tools that support the exercise of leadership in a variety of settings. Curriculum goals are achieved through courses such as Leadership and the Humanities and Leadership and the Social Sciences, the gateways to the academic program. Leadership Ethics serves as the capstone course for the major and minor. The gateway courses are designed to introduce students to the intellectual and historical foundations of leadership, so they are also appropriate for non-majors. Required courses such as Critical Thinking and Theories and Models reflect the Jepson School's commitment to studying leadership across disciplines. Courses with experiential components -- for example, Justice and Civil Society and the internship -- help students understand how to use knowledge gained through coursework in the world outside the classroom. Students also have the opportunity to study international leadership and pursue independent research, including a senior thesis or senior honors thesis.

Students interested in the major or minor must submit a formal application in the fall after completing the first academic year of study at Richmond or another accredited college or university. The decision concerning admission to the major or minor rests with the Jepson School of Leadership Studies faculty committee.

Admission Plans

Admission Plans

The University of Richmond offers the following decision plans: Early Decision I, Early Decision II, Early Action and Regular Decision.

Early decision plans are designed for well-qualified students who have decided that the University of Richmond is their clear first choice. Two plans are available. Early Decision I has a deadline of November 1 and Early Decision II has a deadline of January 15. Candidates are notified around mid-December for Early Decision I and mid-February for Early Decision II. Decisions of accept, defer and deny are rendered in Early Decision. Accepted candidates must submit the required nonrefundable deposit to confirm their enrollment to the University of Richmond within a month of admission notification. Deferred candidates will be reconsidered under Regular Decision.

The application deadline for Early Action is November 1; candidates are notified of the admission decisions around mid-January. Decisions of accept, defer and deny are rendered in Early Action. Accepted candidates may submit a nonrefundable deposit by May 1 to confirm their enrollment to the University of Richmond. Deferred candidates will be reconsidered under Regular Decision.

The application deadline for Regular Decision is January 15; candidates are notified of the admission decisions around April 1. Decisions of accept, wait list and deny are rendered in Regular Decision. Accepted candidates may submit a nonrefundable deposit by May 1 to confirm their enrollment to the University of Richmond. Candidates who are wait listed will be considered on a space available basis post May 1.

Admission

Visiting Campus

Visiting Campus

Prospective students are invited to visit the campus, participate in the admission information session, take a tour of the campus, and confer with professors, coaches, or other persons in their fields of interest. The information session consists of a group presentation and discussion about the University of Richmond and is led by an admission officer. When the University is in session, student-conducted campus tours usually follow each information session. The campus visit is encouraged because it provides an opportunity for the prospective student to learn about the University, have questions answered, and see the campus.

Plans to visit the campus may be made by calling the Office of Admission, (804) 289-8640 or (800) 700-1662, or by visiting our website at admission.richmond.edu/visit.

While individual interviews are not required for admission, they may be available during your campus visit or with a Richmond graduate in your home city. Visit admission.richmond.edu/visit for more information.

Admission

First-Year Admission Requirements

First-Year Admission Requirements

Candidates for admission must have completed a minimum of 16 units of secondary school work. Minimum requirements include four units in English, three in college preparatory mathematics (including Algebra I, II, and Geometry), and at least two each in history, laboratory science, and second language (in the same language, including American Sign Language). Candidates who do not meet these requirements may still apply for admission, however competitive candidates for admission typically exceed the minimum requirements and have taken three to four units in science, history, and second language at the highest levels available in their school setting. Candidates who do not meet these requirements should provide an explanation with their application.

Applicants must have their secondary school send an official transcript of work completed, courses in progress, and the school's recommendation. Students who have taken work at or under the auspices of a college or university must provide a statement describing the work, and an official transcript from the college or university must be sent directly to the Office of Admission, University of Richmond.

The University will allow test-optional application for Fall 2023. First-year applicants may submit the results of either the SAT or ACT for consideration, or may apply as "test optional" applicants. There is not a preference for either test; instead, the evaluation of those who submit results of both will rely on whichever test is comparatively strongest.

Application for admission is made using the Common Application or Coalition Application, and a required supplemental essay. All forms are accessible from admission.richmond.edu. The nonrefundable $50 application fee must accompany the application for admission.

As of July 1, 2006, Virginia law requires all public and private two- and four-year institutions of higher education to electronically transmit information about applicants accepted for enrollment at each institution to the State Police for comparison to the Virginia Criminal Information Network and National Crime Information Center Convicted Sexual Offender Registry. In compliance with Virginia law, the University of Richmond will submit the requested information for all admitted students to the State Police for comparison to the registry. If the University is notified that an admitted student has committed a sex offense, the admitted student is subject to the revocation of their admission.

Admission

Conditions of Admission

Conditions of Admission

Should there be any substantive changes in the data shared in the application for admission over the next several months (e.g., address, phone number, high school, course work, conduct record, etc.), the student must notify the Office of Admission as soon as possible.

A final transcript will be required from the student's high school in June reflecting successful completion of the academic program and high school graduation. It is fully expected that the remainder of the work and personal conduct will be similar in caliber to the work and personal conduct upon which this offer of admission was granted. The University reserves the right to rescind or modify its offer of admission should there be changes in the academic achievement or personal conduct upon which the admission decision was based.

Similar expectations and conditions apply to transfer students.

If the student chooses to accept enrollment at the University of Richmond, the student must submit the required deposit by May 1.

A nonrefundable deposit will be credited toward the student's account for billable charges.

By submitting this nonrefundable deposit, the student confirms enrollment at the University of Richmond. The student also acknowledges that he or she has not submitted or will submit an enrollment deposit at any other institution. If the student is admitted off the wait list by another institution and elects to enroll there, the student must inform the Office of Admission immediately. The University of Richmond reserves the right to rescind its offer of admission to any student who submits an enrollment deposit to another institution.

All students begin as part of the School of Arts and Sciences. Approximately two-thirds of the University's students (2,300) then continue their study in arts and sciences, pursuing Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees in the more than 40 disciplines offered by the school.

The School of Arts and Sciences is a blend of studies from all areas of life - health, fine arts, natural and urban environments, government, technology, cultures, emerging scientific studies, and literature are a few examples. Though the fields of study in the School of Arts and Sciences are diverse, each discipline pursues the common goals of challenging students to think critically and independently, to make decisions based upon their assessments, to communicate effectively, to gather and evaluate information and others' opinions, and to work collaboratively, expanding their understanding of others to better comprehend the systems and situations around them. The programs ask rather than tell. Working together across disciplines, the faculty and students explore how things work, ask why they operate as they do, evaluate what has been successful, and consider possible solutions or advancements. Faculty collaborate with students to research and create data or art, encouraging them to build their own knowledge and skills and demonstrating how to most effectively communicate and apply what they learn.

Curriculum Requirements

Curriculum Requirements

The School of Arts and Sciences offers the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees.

In addition to the degree requirements previously stated under Graduation, a candidate must satisfy major requirements outlined in the following pages.

Course limitations- Of the following, no more than the stated units of credit can count toward any degree in a given school:

- 3.5 units - Internship courses of whatever kind, excluding student teaching, legislative internship and Theatre 330-341 Practicum
- 1.5 units - Internship 388 taken in the same academic department

School of Arts and Sciences

Bachelor of Arts Degree

Degree Requirements

To qualify for a Bachelor of Arts degree, students must complete the degree requirements listed previously, including general education requirements, wellness, curriculum, achievement, and residency requirements, along with completion of the requirements for at least one major.

Requirements for the Major

The major is a field of academic study chosen as an area of specialization. A major will include courses in a subject area*, such other courses outside the subject area as may be designated, and any courses prerequisite to those required courses. Unless a special waiver of the Academic Council has been granted to a department or program and endorsed by the arts and sciences faculty, a major will require 9 to 11 units in a single subject area, including all prerequisites within the subject area. In addition, a major will require no more than 15.5 total units, counting all courses both inside and outside the subject area, including all prerequisites for those courses. Majors in interdisciplinary programs will require a minimum of 9 units and no more than 15.5 total units, including all prerequisites.

A student may not count more than 17.5 units from a single subject area toward the minimum number of units necessary for graduation. In certain rare circumstances, when a student has the written support of the department chair, she or he may petition the Arts and Sciences Academic Council to exceed the limit.

A student may concurrently fulfill the requirements of more than one major. To initiate more than one major, the student should declare the majors in the manner currently provided. Upon graduation, only one degree will be conferred, but each completed major will be recorded on the student's permanent academic record, provided the student has listed the major on the degree application and is certified to have completed all of the requirements specified for the given major.

If a student's major(s) and other coursework can be arranged to meet the requirements for either the Bachelor of Arts degree or the Bachelor of Science degree, no more than one degree has been earned; however, the student must specify which degree is desired. Any major associated with a degree not chosen shall be recorded according to the provisions previously stated.

Specific major requirements may be found under the appropriate academic department listing in the Curricula section. In that section, the requirements are presumed to be for the Bachelor of Arts degree unless otherwise stated. For a description of the minor option, see that heading in the Interdisciplinary Programs section of this chapter.

Subject area refers to coursework listed under a single specified rubric.*

Students interested in earning more than one undergraduate degree should refer to the Second Undergraduate Degree section.*

School of Arts and Sciences

Bachelor of Science Degree

Degree Requirements

To qualify for a Bachelor of Science degree, students must complete the degree requirements stated under Graduation, including general education requirements, wellness, curriculum, achievement, and residency requirements, along with completion of the requirements for at least one major. The B.S. degree at the University of Richmond requires a concentration in science and quantitative reasoning. The B.S. degree will require depth of coursework and/or research as determined by the department or program along with Math 211 (or equivalent) and a second course that focuses on advanced quantitative methods appropriate to scientific inquiry.

Requirements for the Major

The provisions listed under the B.A. apply. The B.S. is offered only in biochemistry, biology, chemistry, computer science, environmental studies, interdisciplinary studies, mathematics, mathematical economics, physics, interdisciplinary physics, and psychology. For differences in the major requirements for the degrees, consult the appropriate departmental description under Curricula.

The major is a field of academic study chosen as an area of specialization. A major will include courses in a subject area, such other courses outside the subject area as may be designated, and any courses prerequisite to those required courses. Unless a special waiver of the Academic Council has been granted to a department or program and endorsed by the arts and sciences faculty, a major will require 9 to 13 units in a single subject area, including all prerequisites within the subject area. In addition, a major will require no more than 18.5 total units, counting all courses both inside and outside the subject area, including all prerequisites for those courses, Math 211 (or equivalent) and a second course that focuses on advanced quantitative methods appropriate to scientific inquiry. The interdisciplinary studies program will require a minimum of 9 units and no more than 18.5 total units, including all prerequisites.

Honors Program

Honors Program

Outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond standard coursework have the opportunity to broaden and deepen knowledge in selected major fields through the Honors Program. Departmental honors coordinators invite promising qualified majors to apply, but an interested student may contact his or her major department or the faculty committee on the Honors Program to indicate interest and obtain further information. To qualify, a student should have at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average, 18 or more units completed and, excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 3.5 or more units completed with distinction in the major field. Successful completion of an Honors Program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum (CLAC)

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum (CLAC)

The Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum program allows students to use their language skills and other cultural perspectives to enhance learning and research in all disciplines. Certain courses in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and the Robins School of Business are offered in conjunction with a Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum component, an optional quarter unit of work in a second language associated with a regular class. The CLAC component is worth one quarter unit and is graded pass/fail. To find a CLAC section, look for courses marked "CLAC credit available" or go directly to each semester's listings under Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum. The following departments have recently offered courses with CLAC sections: English, history, leadership studies, modern literatures and cultures, music, and philosophy. More CLAC sections are being developed in other departments. For further information, contact the CLAC program coordinator.

Dual-Degree Engineering Program

Dual-Degree Engineering Program

In cooperation with selected engineering schools, the University offers the opportunity for students interested in engineering careers to earn two bachelor's degrees in five years, one from the University of Richmond and another from a cooperating engineering school. In the 3-2 Engineering Program, a student spends three years at Richmond, completing all of the general education requirements, almost all of the requirements for a major in physics, plus selected other courses. The student spends the remaining two years at the engineering school. The Columbia University School of Engineering and Applied Science is a participant. The University of Richmond's physics department's pre-engineering advisor can provide information about participating programs and requirements.

Dual-Degree Environmental Studies Program

Dual-Degree Environmental Studies Program

For goal-oriented students who are dedicated to earning at least a Masters degree in environmental studies or forestry, the University of Richmond offers dual degree programs with Duke University's Nicholas School of the Environment. For the Duke program, students complete three years at Richmond and then two years at Duke; at the end of their fourth year, they receive their undergraduate degree from Richmond and at the end of their fifth year, they receive their Master's degree from Duke.

Check out the types of courses students are taking in the Environmental Studies Program.

Internships

Internships

Internships provide students with supervised opportunities to understand by direct experience how skills and theories learned in the classroom are applied in business, industry, community agencies, and government. Each internship must include an academic base, such as an appropriate reading list or other resources, which demonstrates or stresses the interrelatedness of the academic background with the selected workplace.

Any academic department may offer an individual internship under the following general description: 388 Individual Internship. Application of academic skills and theories in a selected work environment, plus related academic work supervised by a member of the faculty. Pass/fail grading may be designated by a department for any or all enrollments. May be repeated; however, no more than 1.5 units in the same department may be counted toward the total number of units required for a degree. Prerequisite: Permission of department concerned. .0-1.5 units. Note: No more than 3.5 units of internship of any kind may count toward the total number of units required for a degree. Student Teaching and Theatre Arts Practica are not included in this policy.

Individual departments may have varying limitations on internships. They may be only available to majors and/or minors in the department. Internships usually are limited to junior or senior students who must have the prior approval of the department concerned.

Further information is available from the chair or coordinator of the appropriate department or program.

Visiting Away Programs

Visiting Away Programs

Students who wish to study away from the University of Richmond for a semester or year and maintain active status must participate in a program that has been approved for visiting away status. Students leaving the University on any program that does not carry visiting away status must withdraw from the University and apply to the appropriate dean for readmission.

Visiting away programs are approved by the academic council of the appropriate school and the Office of the University Registrar, which maintains a list of approved visiting away programs. This list is subject to change and will be reviewed on a periodic basis. (A program that is approved for one student will not necessarily be approved for another student since the decision is based not only on the academic reputation of the program, but also on the relevancy of the program to the student's individual academic program.)

Students wishing to participate in an approved domestic program must submit a copy of their letter of acceptance to the program, a completed Transfer Approval Form and a completed Visiting Away Approval Application Form to the Office of the University Registrar. Upon receipt of these documents, the student will be enrolled with an off-campus (OF) enrollment status. For study abroad programs, a subcommittee of the International Education Committee will review student petitions. If a student's petition is approved, the Office of International Education will notify the Office of the Registrar to enroll the student in an abroad (AB) enrollment status. (Students seeking "AB" status should consult the Office of International Education for complete instructions.)

Enrollment in OF or AB status entitles the student to remain as an active Richmond student, which entitles him or her to benefits of priority registration, housing, certain types of financial aid (e.g., loans and Pell Grants), library access, mailbox and e-mail account. Students with OF or AB status will not be billed for tuition as Richmond students during the semester(s) away.

Credits from visiting away programs will be treated as transfer credits, requiring transfer approval and affecting units toward graduation. The credits are not calculated in the GPA and require a C or better to transfer. Credits are applied to the student's record only upon receipt of an official transcript from the sponsoring institution. Exceptions to this would be programs in which the decision is made to partner with the sponsoring institution, in which case the courses would be listed as Richmond courses on the transcript and the grades treated as having been earned at Richmond. Approval for such programs would be submitted through the same channels as outlined above.

Marine Studies

Marine Studies

The University of Richmond Department of Biology and the Duke University Marine Laboratory (DUML) offer a program supplement in marine science. Instruction is given by DUML and may be accepted as transfer credit in the student's University of Richmond program. Further information about the program can be obtained from the University of Richmond Department of Biology.

Minor Option

Minor Option

A minor is a secondary academic specialization that may be sought in addition to the required academic major. A minor consists of at least 4.5 units and may include certain other requirements as specified by the academic department concerned. A student may elect to complete more than one minor in the degree program. The minor is declared in the same manner as the major. Upon graduation, each completed minor will be recorded on the student's permanent academic record, provided the minor is listed on the degree application form and the requirements have been met. Many academic departments offer a minor. The requirements in the minor, for the departments in which the minor is available, are presented under the appropriate departmental listing in the Curricula section.

Research Grants for Undergraduate

Research Grants for Undergraduate

Each year the School of Arts and Sciences offers its students unusual opportunities for research projects. Grants are awarded by the Undergraduate Research Committee to support research projects in a variety of ways such as the purchase of materials and equipment, travel or other such expenses and presenting or publishing the results of the research. The grant may be awarded for a project that is the student's own idea or an idea that has been conceived in cooperation with a faculty member; in any case, there must be a faculty member who is willing to supervise the project. Generally, the project is approved for academic credit, and often the student and the faculty member will coauthor one or more professional papers on the work. Application forms and further information are available from the associate dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, whose office is in the administrative wing of Boatwright Library, or through the departmental chair of the department in which the project is to be supervised.

Self-Designed Interdisciplinary Studies Major

Self-Designed Interdisciplinary Studies Major

Under the general supervision of two faculty advisors and the coordinator of interdisciplinary studies, the University offers a self-designed interdisciplinary major. The interdisciplinary major provides a student the opportunity to propose and pursue, with faculty supervision, a unique program of study leading to either a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in interdisciplinary studies. A senior thesis, which is the culmination of the major and for which the student receives one unit, is required.

University of Richmond

Applications and further information are available from the coordinator of interdisciplinary studies. Applications are to be submitted to the coordinator of interdisciplinary studies by April 1 of the second year. At least a 3.00 cumulative grade point average is recommended.

School of Arts and Sciences

Interdisciplinary Majors

Interdisciplinary Majors

In addition to the self-designed interdisciplinary major, the School of Arts and Sciences offers support for interdisciplinary study through a number of interdisciplinary programs that offer majors within the Bachelor of Arts degree. They are American studies, classical civilization, cognitive science, environmental studies, film studies, geography, global studies, philosophy, politics, economics, and law, and women, gender, and sexuality studies. Environmental studies, interdisciplinary physics, and mathematical economics are the interdisciplinary major options within the Bachelor of Science degree. Further information is available from the program coordinators listed under each program.

Interdisciplinary Concentrations

Interdisciplinary Concentrations

The School of Arts and Sciences offers a series of curricular configurations known as interdisciplinary concentrations within disciplinary majors or minors. Instead of constituting stand-alone majors or minors, these concentrations are tied closely to selected majors, thus fostering an integrated learning experience that offers depth in a traditional discipline combined with breadth in interdisciplinary study. Current interdisciplinary concentrations include arts management (for art history, studio art, dance, music, and theatre majors or minors); comparative literature (for English majors); medieval and Renaissance studies (for English majors); and neuroscience (for biology, biochemistry and molecular biology, or psychology majors). An interdisciplinary concentration within a disciplinary major toward a B.A. will require no more than 21 total units, counting all courses and including all prerequisites for those courses. An interdisciplinary concentration within a disciplinary major toward a B.S. degree will require no more than 22 total units, counting all courses and including all prerequisites for those courses.

Africana Studies

Ernest McGowen, Coordinator (Africana Studies)

Assistant Professor McCommons (Joint Appointment with History)

Advisory Board Ashe, Driscoll, Diaz, Kapanga, Meyer (ex-officio), Oware, Summers, Student Representatives

The Africana Studies Program offers the depth of humanistic thought (including philosophical, interoperative, creative, and fine arts) alongside training in the skill sets of the social and natural sciences. The major and minor programs are designed to introduce students to the history, politics, and culture of people of African descent. This includes an examination of the global African diaspora, including the United States, the continent of Africa, the Afro-Caribbean and Afro-Latino regions, and areas in Europe and Asia.

Students will study the breadth and depth of the global experience through a variety of methods and mediums including: Anthropology, Art and Art History, Communication, English, Geography, History, Journalism, Language, Media, Political Science, Sociology, Theatre and Dance, and the Sciences.

American studies is an interdisciplinary program that provides opportunities for students to study American culture, society, identity, and politics by combining coursework in anthropology, art, history, journalism, literature, music, philosophy, politics, religion, and sociology into a single major. Our approach to American studies emphasizes the "local" and the "global." In the program's Richmond Seminars, students investigate the American experience through community studies and community-based learning. In its Tocqueville Seminars, students place the study of the United States in comparative and international perspective. A core group of American studies faculty, who serve as faculty advisors to majors, specialize in American history, religion, and literature; Native American studies, African American studies, Latino/a studies; memory and museum studies; and urban studies. The program emphasizes student initiative and hands-on practice and encourages students to craft a distinctive program of study that meets the intellectual interests of each major.

The American studies major consists of nine courses, including AMST 201, a topical survey open primarily to first-year students and sophomores, and AMST 301, a junior/senior seminar that explores theories and methods in the field. In addition, students must complete at least one Richmond Seminar (AMST 381) and one Tocqueville Seminar (AMST 391).

Majors work closely with the program coordinator to determine a specialized course of study for the remaining five electives. These courses must be drawn from at least two allied departments; two must be taken at the 300 level or higher. Students may count one approved First-Year Seminar toward their American studies electives. Introductory courses for other majors are ineligible. Students must complete all prerequisites for electives taken in allied departments in addition to the requirements for their American studies major. For a list of past, current, and upcoming AMST courses and electives, see the "Courses" link on the American studies website.

The discipline of American studies increasingly emphasizes explorations of U.S. culture and society in relation to international politics, the global economy, and population migrations. For this reason, students who study abroad are strongly encouraged to pursue coursework related to their American studies majors.

In addition to completing the standard requirements for the major, qualified students may elect to write an honors thesis (AMST 401) during the spring semester of their senior year. Theses are written under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member and require the prior approval of a formal prospectus submitted to the American studies advisory board before November 15.

Students interested in learning more about the American studies major are encouraged to contact the program coordinator for more information.

Professionals from the field also are employed as adjunct faculty

The major in anthropology stresses cultural anthropology, the study of contemporary and historically recent human societies around the world. Specifically, cultural anthropology focuses on the ways in which various individuals and groups (societies) construct their ideas (culture) about the world and the ways in which these ideas influence how various people behave. Courses in anthropology compare diverse cultures to ascertain their similarities as well as their differences. Some courses in cultural anthropology study particular regions of the world and the way in which those peoples construct their realities and find meaning in their lives. Other courses in cultural anthropology select various dimensions of human life - family, gender, religion, politics, art, etc., and examine how one of these subjects relates to all the other dimensions in one particular culture or across cultures in general.

Anthropology

Honors

The Anthropology Honors Program

The goal of the Anthropology honors program is to give those students with superior interests and talents in the field to explore both anthropology and personal intellectual interests and themes beyond the limits of typical courses offered. This will prepare these advanced students for possible graduate work or more advanced career prospects. Successful completion of the Honors Program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma

Eligibility and Admission

University of Richmond

To qualify for the honors program in Anthropology, a student should have:

1. 18.5 or more units completed overall
2. At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses
3. Excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 4 or more units completed with distinction in the major field and a 3.5 cumulative grade point average for Anthropology courses.

To enter the honors program, the student must submit a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of his or her junior year.

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of all members of the anthropology program.

Students may request consideration by the department, or the department may invite a student to apply.

Program of Study

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal BA requirements for Anthropology, with required methods and theory courses (Anthropology 211 and 290) completed by the end of the junior year to facilitate work on the senior thesis (see below). The program of study for Honors is 12 units (10 units for the BA plus 2 units -- one for Honors Independent Study and one for the Honors Thesis).
- Complete a senior thesis that addresses an original question or issue and that produces some original research (so as not to be a pure literature review of existing work). The thesis should be data-driven, ethnographic in nature, and demonstrate a grasp of existing literature and theory related to the issue at hand. In preparation for undertaking the senior thesis, the student must agree with a faculty member, whose interests and expertise have the best possible fit with the student's intended thesis topic, to be his or her advisor for the thesis. The student and advisor should devise a basic plan for the project by the end of the spring semester of the junior year. The student and his/her advisor should develop a schedule for meetings and assessment they find most appropriate.
- For credit for the thesis, the student will take two one-unit Honors courses in the senior year, both involving work on the senior thesis: Honors Independent Study (Fall) and Honors Thesis (Spring). This will involve at a minimum meeting once a week with the thesis supervisor to discuss and monitor progress in data collection, analysis, and write-up. The former will involve monitoring and assessing progress in data collection and analysis through regular reports -- the timetable depending on the particular project, in agreement with the student and advisor. Assessment for the latter will be the thesis product itself. The thesis will be due in time for a final grade to be submitted to the registrar -- preferably the Friday before the School of Arts & Sciences Student Symposium. The grade for the Honors Thesis course is that for the senior thesis. The department encourages students who are prepared sufficiently early to apply for a summer grant to facilitate research.
- The senior thesis will be assessed and graded by the student's thesis advisor and one other member of the anthropology program. If one person fulfills both these roles, an outside person whose expertise is sufficiently close to the thesis topic will be asked to aid with assessment. In case of disagreement, another member of the department will be asked for his/her opinion on the appropriate grade to resolve the disagreement.
- The student must take two standard one-unit upper-level courses for Honors credit that include additional extra work agreed upon by the student, the course instructor, and the student's thesis advisor. One of those must be related to the intended senior thesis topic. This one course may be in any department, but in any case it should meet with the approval of the student's thesis advisor.

The student may withdraw at any time. Should he/she not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for Anthropology coursework, the student will not receive credit for the Honors Program.

The Anthropology faculty will encourage students in their junior year who appear qualified to consider the Honors Program seriously as soon as possible, to facilitate preparation for the senior thesis, and any required summer work/research.

Archaeology

Elizabeth Baughan, Coordinator (Classical Studies)

Archaeology is the study of the human past through its material remains. The minor in Archaeology draws upon courses in Anthropology, Art History, Biology, Classical Studies, and Geography that focus on archaeological evidence, material culture, methods of archaeological inquiry and analysis, and/or the study of human behavior. This minor gives students who are already focusing on archaeology through such courses (and, in some cases, summer fieldwork) the opportunity to declare their interest more officially and the incentive to specialize more closely. The curriculum is designed to prepare students for careers or postgraduate study not only in archaeology, but also in fields such as ancient art history, GIS (geographic information systems), conservation, architectural history, museum studies, and cultural property law.

Art History

Department of Art and Art History

Elena Calvillo, Chair

Professors Sjøvold, Softić

Associate Professors Calvillo, Drummond

Assistant Professors Driscoll, Nelson, Szymanska

University Museums Executive Director Lampe

Visual Resources Librarian Keefer

Professionals from the fields in art are also employed as adjunct faculty members.

The Department of Art and Art History offers programs in the studio arts, Western and non-Western art history, and museum studies. Students work in an environment where they can develop their intellectual and creative abilities to the fullest potential. In addition to a rigorous and stimulating curriculum, students also participate in the activities of the University Museums. The museums present exhibitions of both historical and contemporary art with related lectures, workshops, and symposia with visiting artists, critics, and art historians. A study abroad program allows students to study art and art history in approved programs under the direction of the Office of International Education.

No more than one course taken abroad will count for the minor.

Arts Management

Approachable by studio art, art history, music, theatre, and dance majors or minors and provides curricular links for students interested in further practical and academic experiences in the area of arts management. Faculty co-directors are the executive director of the Modlin Center for the Arts and the executive director of the University Museums.

The arts management coordinators may be consulted for additional recommended courses in areas of arts, business, or leadership that support the student's particular area of interest. An arts course in an area other than a student's major or minor is encouraged, and may include applied music study or music ensembles.

Concentration

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Arts Management

Five units, including:

- MUS345 PHILANTHROPY IN THE ARTS/THTR 345/ARTH345 PHILANTHROPY IN THE ARTS Philanthropy in the Arts
- MUS388 INDIVIDUAL INTERNSHIP/THTR388 INDIVIDUAL INTERNSHIP/ARTH388 INDIVIDUAL INTERNSHIP Internship
- One unit, chosen from:
 - ARTH322 MUSEUM STUDIES Seminar in Museum Studies
 - MUS310 MANAGNG PRFORMNG ARTS ORGNZTNS/THTR310 MANAGNG PRFORMNG ARTS ORGNZTNS Managing Performing Arts Organizations
- One unit in accounting, chosen from:
 - ACCT201 FUND OF FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING Fundamentals of Financial Accounting
 - ACCT205 FUND OF MANAGERIAL ACCOUNTING Fundamentals of Managerial Accounting
 - MKT320 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING Principles of Marketing

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted. Courses in accounting and marketing may be taken in the School of Business, the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, or by transfer in consultation with one of the concentration's coordinators. A concentration coordinator should be consulted for approval of the internship as appropriate for the concentration.

The arts management coordinators may be consulted for additional recommended courses in areas of arts, business, or leadership that support the student's particular area of interest. An arts course in an area other than a student's major or minor is encouraged, and may include applied music study or music ensembles.

Biochemistry & Molecular Biology

Eugene Wu, Coordinator (Biology)

The biochemistry and molecular biology program is an interdisciplinary program based in the biology and chemistry departments, and is jointly administered by a coordinating committee consisting of several faculty from each department. The program is designed to offer a flexible route to either the B.A. or B.S. degree and actively encourages student participation in research, which may be conducted with faculty in either department. The flexibility of the program lends itself to combination with study abroad and outreach opportunities. The major is designed to prepare students for future study in any area of the biological sciences, the health professions, or for employment in the biotechnology industry.

University of Richmond

For Either Degree

Additional upper-level elective courses in chemistry and biology are highly recommended. Students wishing to double major in biochemistry and molecular biology and either chemistry or biology are required to use upper-level electives for only one degree program or the other. Similarly, upper-level electives cannot be counted for both a major and a minor in either department. In addition, starting with the class of 2018, double majors in biochemistry and molecular biology and chemistry will not be able to double count seminar courses and will be restricted to presenting their research project only once between the two seminar programs.

Honors

Honors Program

Students are invited to participate in the biochemistry and molecular biology honors program by the program co-coordinators. A student graduating with an honors degree in biochemistry and molecular biology must fulfill the following requirements:

- GPA 3.30 or better in 200-level and above courses in the major and 3.30 or better overall
- Completion of 2.5 units in honors classes, which will consist of 1 upper level CHEM or BIOL course beyond the BS degree requirements and ≥ 1.5 units of research in the junior and senior years
- A written thesis that is approved by the research mentor as well as one other UR faculty member typically in the sciences
- An oral presentation about your research project, which usually takes place as part of the capstone student seminar series

If you have any questions related to the honors requirements for graduation, please do not hesitate to contact the BMB Program Coordinator.

Opportunities are available to study marine biology or marine and other ecosystems through cooperative agreements with the Duke University Marine Sciences Laboratory (DUML), Beaufort, N.C., and the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., Semester in Environmental Science (MBL-SES). Work taken in the program may be included in the student's University of Richmond curriculum only with the prior approval and under the direction of the Department of Biology. Students interested in this option are encouraged to apply to the department for further information.

Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Science Degree

Note: The grade point average of the coursework in biology and chemistry must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

The B.S. degree in Biology provides a broad foundation in the biological sciences, and requires competency in closely related scientific disciplines and mathematics. It prepares students to integrate the natural and quantitative sciences.

14 units, including:

- BIOL199 INTRO TO BIOLOGICAL THINKING Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL192 SCI/MATH/RSRCH TRAINING I Science Math and Research Training with Laboratory
- BIOL200 INTEGRATED BIOLOGICAL PRINC I Integrated Biological Principles I
- BIOL202 INTEGRATED BIOLOGICAL PRINC II Integrated Biological Principles II
- Five additional units in biology, including at least four approved courses at the 300 level and three with a lab. Students with one unit of research may take two of the five with a lab. The one unit of research may be satisfied by BIOL394 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH (taken twice for 0.5 unit each), BIOL395 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH (1 unit) or completion of BIOL406 SUMMER UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH (summer undergraduate research) or by the department chair's approval of an external summer research program. See the Approved Courses tab.
- CHEM141 CHEM:STRUCT/THRMDYNMCS/SYNTH Chemistry: Structure, Thermodynamics, and Kinetics or CHEM192 SCI/MATH/RSRCH TRAINING II Science, Math and Research Training with Laboratory
- CHEM205 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY I W/LAB Organic Chemistry I
- CHEM206 ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II W/LAB Organic Chemistry II
- Quantitative-Physical Science Requirement
 - MATH211 CALCULUS I Calculus I and two additional units chosen from the following three categories (must be chosen from two different categories):
 - Category 1:
 - MATH212 CALCULUS II Calculus II
 - Category 2:
 - DSST189 INTRO TO STATISTICAL MODELING Introduction to Statistical Modeling
 - DSST289 INTRODUCTION TO DATA SCIENCE Introduction to Data Science
 - PSYC200 METHODS AND ANALYSES W/LAB Methods and Analyses
 - BIOL320 EXPERIMENTAL DESIGN & BIOSTATS Experimental Design and Biostatistics (BIOL320 EXPERIMENTAL DESIGN & BIOSTATS may count only for quantitative-physical science requirement or 300 level additional unit in biology, but not both)
 - Category 3:
 - CMSC150 INTRODUCTN TO COMPUTING W/LAB Introduction to Computing
 - PHYS127 ALG-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB General Physics 1 or PHYS131 CALC-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB General Physics with Calculus I
 - GEOG260 FDNTS/GEOSPATIAL ANALYSIS Introduction to Geographic Information

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major/minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the major/minor unless otherwise noted.

Please note that CHEM326 BIOCHEMISTRY (Biochemistry) and may only count towards a Biology degree (major or minor), BMB degree (major), or a Chemistry degree (major or minor), but not for two or more of these.

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts Degree

Note: The grade point average of the coursework in biology and chemistry must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

The Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) degree provides excellent training in biology while allowing the student flexibility to integrate interests in other academic disciplines with their biology coursework.

14 units, including:

- Biology Courses:
- BIOL199 INTRO TO BIOLOGICAL THINKING Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL192 SCI/MATH/RSRCH TRAINING I Science Math and Research Training with Laboratory
- BIOL200 INTEGRATED BIOLOGICAL PRINC I Integrated Biological Principles I

 - GEOG260 FDNTS/GEOSPATIAL ANALYSIS Introduction to Geographic Information

Students pursuing a B.A. will work with their advisors to identify three or more thematically-linked courses outside of the sciences that demonstrate a thoughtful connection between their biology interests and another scholarly area (e.g., supporting study in science journalism, science and religion, bioethics, art in the sciences, history of science, etc.). Only one of these courses may be counted towards another major, minor, or general education requirement. The student, after consulting with their advisor, will prepare a brief rationale explaining their selection of courses and how their proposed B.A. plan of study applies to their post-graduate interests and objectives.

Please note that CHEM326 BIOCHEMISTRY (Biochemistry) and may only count towards a Biology degree (major or minor), BMB degree (major), or a Chemistry degree (major or minor), but not for two or more of these.

 - BIOL395 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH Undergraduate Research

Please note that CHEM326 BIOCHEMISTRY (Biochemistry) and may only count towards a Biology degree (major or minor), BMB degree (major), or a Chemistry degree (major or minor), but not for two or more of these.

Biology

Honors

Honors Program

Students are eligible for the honors program after completing at least 18.5 units of course work (with at least 3.5 units in Biology at the 200 level or higher) and GPAs of 3.3 or higher overall and in Biology. A student may earn honors in biology by completing the following requirements:

1. A minimum GPA of 3.30 in biology and overall;

University of Richmond

2. Two units total of an approved research experience (may be satisfied by a combination of 0.5 unit and 1 unit research courses taken over multiple semesters);
3. One unit of biology in addition to those already required for the major. A grade of B or above in this course would allow it to count towards the honors degree;
4. BIOL391 HONORS SEMINAR I Honors Seminar I;
5. BIOL392 HONORS SEMINAR II Honors Seminar II; and
6. Honors thesis written under the supervision of a research advisor and presented to the department in an oral presentation.

Students may contact Jonathan Richardson (jrichar8@richmond.edu), Assistant Professor of Biology, for more information.

Bachelor of Science

The Bachelor of Science Degree

Note: A grade of not less than C- (1.7) is required in each chemistry course applied to the major.

- 13.5-14.5 units, including:
- CHEM141 or CHEM192, Chemistry: Structure, Thermodynamics, and Kinetics or Science, Math and Research Training II
- CHEM205- CHEM206 Organic Chemistry
- CHEM300 Measurement Statistics
- CHEM301 Quantitative Methods of Chemical Analysis
- CHEM309 and CHEM314 or CHEM310 and CHEM315 Physical Chemistry
- CHEM317 Inorganic Chemistry
- CHEM322 Junior Seminar
- CHEM421-CHEM422 Senior Seminar
- One additional 1-unit upper-level course in chemistry (other than CHEM320 or CHEM321) that is not counted towards another major or minor.
- An approved research experience (CHEM406 or one unit of CHEM320 or CHEM220) that culminates in a written report or in a formal presentation outside the Chemistry Department.
- MATH212 CALCULUS II Calculus II
- PHYS127 ALG-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB Algebra-Based General Physics 1 with Lab or PHYS131 CALC-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB Calculus-Based General Physics 1 with Lab
- PHYS132 CALC-BASED GEN PHYS 2 W/LAB Calculus-Based General Physics 2 with Lab

Additional requirements

- Additional upper-level elective courses in chemistry and two full years of either biology or physics are highly recommended.
- Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM141 CHEM:STRUCT/THRMDYNMCS/SYNTH or CHEM192 SCI/MATH/RSRCH TRAINING II

Bachelor of Arts

The Bachelor of Arts Degree

Note: A grade of not less than C- (1.7) is required in each chemistry course applied to the major.

12 units, including:

- CHEM141 or CHEM192, Chemistry: Structure, Thermodynamics, and Kinetics or Science, Math and Research Training II
- CHEM205- CHEM206 Organic Chemistry
- CHEM300 Measurement Statistics
- CHEM301 Quantitative Methods of Chemical Analysis
- CHEM309 and CHEM314 or CHEM310 and CHEM315 Physical Chemistry
- CHEM317 Inorganic Chemistry
- CHEM322 Junior Seminar
- CHEM421-CHEM422 Senior Seminar
- One additional 1-unit upper-level course in chemistry (other than CHEM320 INTRODUCTION TO RESEARCH or CHEM321 ADVANCED INDEP RESEARCH) that is not counted towards another major or minor.
- MATH212 CALCULUS II Calculus II
- PHYS127 ALG-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB Algebra-Based General Physics 1 with Lab or PHYS131 CALC-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB Calculus-Based General Physics 1 with Lab
- PHYS132 CALC-BASED GEN PHYS 2 W/LAB Calculus-Based General Physics 2 with Lab
- Participation in undergraduate research is encouraged as an important part of the program.

Additional requirements

- Additional upper-level elective courses in chemistry and two full years of either biology or physics are highly recommended.
- Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM141 CHEM:STRUCT/THRMDYNMCS/SYNTH or CHEM192 SCI/MATH/RSRCH TRAINING II

Chemistry

Minor

The Chemistry Minor

Note: A grade of not less than C- (1.7) is required in each course in the minor.

Six and a half units, including:

- CHEM141 or CHEM192, Chemistry: Structure, Thermodynamics, and Kinetics or Science, Math and Research Training II
- CHEM205- CHEM206 Organic Chemistry
- CHEM317 Inorganic Chemistry
- At least two and a half units of additional course work at the 300 or 400 level that is not counted towards another major or minor. Please note that CHEM300, research (CHEM320 or CHEM321 ADVANCED INDEP RESEARCH), and seminar (CHEM322, CHEM421, and CHEM422) cannot be used to satisfy coursework for the minor.

Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM141 CHEM:STRUCT/THRMDYNMCS/SYNTH or CHEM192 SCI/MATH/RSRCH TRAINING II

Chemistry

Certifications

ACS Certified Degree in Chemistry

Certifications by the department, based on American Chemical Society specifications, require:

For Chemistry Majors

The Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry with the addition of CHEM326. Note that CHEM326 is in addition to, not in place of, the upper-level elective required for the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry. In addition, a written research report must be submitted to the chemistry department and approved by at least two chemistry faculty members or their designees.

For Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Majors

The completion of the Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry and molecular biology and CHEM317, as well as either CHEM300 MEASUREMENT STATISTICS/CHEM301 QUANT METHODS/CHEM ANALYSIS or CHEM302 SPECTROSCOPY & INSTRUMENTATION also meets the certification requirements. Note that CHEM317, as well as either CHEM300/CHEM301 or CHEM302 are in place of, not in addition to, the upper-level elective required for the Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry and molecular biology. In addition, a written research report must be submitted to the chemistry department and approved by at least two chemistry faculty members or their designees.

Chemistry

Honors

University of Richmond

Honors Program

Departmental honors in chemistry requires

- A GPA of 3.3 overall and in the major
- Completion of the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry
- CHEM326 (Biochemistry)
- Honors research, which may be satisfied by
 - Two summers of CHEM406; or
 - One summer of CHEM406 and one unit of research from CHEM220/CHEM320; or
 - Two units of research from CHEM220/CHEM320/CHEM321.
- Thesis that has been approved by at least two chemistry faculty members

Note that CHEM 326 is in addition to, not in place of, the upper-level elective required for the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry.

An application can be submitted through the chemistry honors coordinator after a student has completed 18.5 units total coursework and three and a half units in chemistry past CHEM141.

Students may contact the Chemistry Honors Program Coordinator, Dr. Michael Norris, for additional information.

Cooperative

Cooperative Program

Engineering Opportunities for University of Richmond students at Virginia Commonwealth University

A fundamental understanding of chemistry, physics, and biology coupled with problem-solving and analytical skills in chemical and life science engineering represents a unique opportunity to position students for broad employment opportunities in chemical process technology and in the rapidly growing areas of biotechnology, bioengineering, and nanoscience. Toward this end, opportunities have been created for University of Richmond students who seek the advantages of a liberal arts education coupled with a strong background in the fundamentals of engineering.

A sequence of four courses offered in the School of Engineering at Virginia Commonwealth University has been approved for University of Richmond students. The requisite math background for this core and for easy transfer into the VCU M.S. program upon graduation is three semesters of calculus and one semester each of differential equations and statistics (which may be satisfied with CHEM300). A course in computer programming is also required.

The core courses taken at VCU are:

CLSE 201 Material Balances (3 semester hours)

CLSE 202 Energy Balances and Engineering Thermodynamics (3 semester hours)

CLSE 301 Transport Phenomena I (3 semester hours)

CLSE 305 Thermodynamics of Phase Equilibria and Chemical Reactions (3 semester hours)

The core courses listed above will be accepted as transfer credit. Up to one unit will count as required elective credit within the chemistry major. For a Richmond student to qualify, the following criteria would have to be met:

- Junior or senior standing at Richmond
- Enrollment in at least three and half units at Richmond during each term coursework is taken at VCU
- Minimum GPA of 3.00 at Richmond
- Enrollment in no more than one course at VCU in any given semester
- Prerequisites for elective courses must be completed
- Payment of any lab fees required by VCU
- Acceptance by the School of Engineering at VCU
- Student's registration must be approved in advance by VCU registrar (case-by-case approval)

Chinese Studies Program

Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

Jessica Chan, Section Coordinator

Associate Professors Chan, Gao

Affiliated Faculty: Geaney (Religion), Loo (History)

This section contains information specific to courses taught in Chinese. Other courses relevant to the Chinese Studies major/minor are listed under Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (LLC). For full information regarding departmental policies relevant to all LLC programs, study abroad, and course sequencing, see the main page of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

Study Abroad

For students of Chinese, the department offers a summer study program in China. Semester or year study abroad at our partner institutions in Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Beijing is encouraged. For a complete list of study abroad options, contact the Office of International Education.

CHIN388 INDIVIDUAL INTERNSHIP	Individual Internship	Internship experiences outside of the department in fields related to Chinese studies. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
CHIN389 PRACTICE ASSISTANTSHIP	Practice Assistantship	Students lead practice sessions associated with the elementary and intermediate language sequence in Chinese. The practice assistantship does not count as credit toward the major or minor. Up to one unit can be applied toward graduation credit.
CHIN401 TOPICS IN ADVANCED CHINESE I	Topics in Advanced Chinese I	Exploration of themes and issues in contemporary Chinese culture including social issues, popular culture, traditions, politics, and history providing a range of views across culture boundaries.
CHIN402 TOPICS IN ADVANCED CHINESE II	Topics in Advanced Chinese II	Further refines Chinese syntax and develops academic writing skills sufficient to complete a research project in Chinese.
CHIN410 BUSINESS CHINESE	Business Chinese	Designed for students who are interested in learning business Chinese. Focusing on topics of international business and foreign trade, the course offers advanced training in vocabulary, grammar, and rhetoric. The aim is to equip students with necessa...
CHIN495 INDEPENDENT STUDY	Independent Study	Special projects individually pursued under supervision of faculty member.
CHIN497 SELECTED TOPICS IN CHINESE	Selected Topics in Chinese	Special interest topics offered at department's discretion. Recent topics include contemporary readings in culture, literature and history; and romance.

Major

The Chinese Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

Nine courses, including:

- At least four language courses chosen from the following, one of which must be a 400-level course:
 - CHIN301 Advanced Intermediate Chinese
 - CHIN302 Advanced Intermediate Chinese II
 - CHIN315 Myths and Parables in Chinese Literature and Film
 - CHIN401 Topics in Advanced Chinese I

- RELG350 Dao of Sex
- RELG355 Selected Asian Religions

Students MUST complete an approved study abroad experience as part of the Chinese Studies major. The study abroad experience can be fulfilled through a summer study abroad program associated with the University of Richmond, or other summer or semester programs in Chinese universities approved by the Chinese Studies faculty.

Students must take one 400-level course in Chinese at the University of Richmond after they return from abroad.

Students can transfer up to five courses to fulfill their Chinese Studies major requirements.

Cross-School Major

Cross-School Major in Chinese Studies and International Business

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

- Nine courses and an interdisciplinary research project (IDST379 COMBINED MAJR PROJCT/PORTFOLIO), in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including
- CHIN401 TOPICS IN ADVANCED CHINESE I Topics in Advanced Chinese I, and
- Four courses at the 300-level or above, chosen from:
 - CHIN301 ADVANCED INTERMEDIATE CHINESE Advanced Intermediate Chinese
 - CHIN302 ADV. INTERMEDIATE CHINESE II Advanced Intermediate Chinese II
 - CHIN401 TOPICS IN ADVANCED CHINESE I Topics in Advanced Chinese I
 - CHIN402 TOPICS IN ADVANCED CHINESE II Topics in Advanced Chinese II
 - CHIN497 SELECTED TOPICS IN CHINESE Selected Topics
- One semester full-time study in China or Taiwan at an approved university

University of Richmond

The cross-school major in Chinese Studies and International Business represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions (for example, Tsinghua University in Beijing or National Chengchi University in Taiwan). There, students will continue their course work in Chinese Studies and business in classes with both local and other international students.

To prepare for the experience abroad, students must have taken CHIN202 INTERMEDIATE CHINESE or the equivalent. Upon returning to the University of Richmond, they will broaden their knowledge of literary and cultural studies through advanced seminars as well as additional Robins School of Business coursework. The Chinese component of this program thus consists of five courses at the 300-level or above taken on campus plus four courses taken abroad, or the equivalent of a nine-course major in LLC.

Classical Studies

Walter Stevenson, Chair

Professor Simpson

Associate Professors Baughan, Damer, Gunkel, Stevenson

The Department of Classical Studies offers majors and minors in classical civilization, Greek language and literature and Latin language and literature. The Department supports the minors in Archaeology and Linguistics and the First-Year Seminar program. FYS's taught by our faculty can count towards our majors and minors (see list below). Several courses are offered that fulfill requirements in the Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Program and the Healthcare Studies Program. The Department values community-based learning and offers CBL components in some of its classes.

The Department of Classical Studies also offers three combined majors with the Department of English. The combined programs in Classics and English, Greek and English, and Latin and English are intended for students who wish to pursue in-depth work in both the classical and the English literary traditions.

Courses

University of Richmond

CODE	NAME	DESCRIPTION
CLCV498	Major Seminar	Methodologies appropriate to the study of classical civilization and the writing of a research paper.
CLSC101	Classical Mythology	Introduces students to the myths of the ancient Greeks and Romans and to some of the modern theoretical and interpretive approaches to them.
CLSC201	Classical Elements in the English Language	A study of how Latin and Greek have contributed to English vocabulary -- basic, learned, and technical. In addition to developing the skill of seeing within English words meaningful prefixes, roots, and suffixes, topics of interest include the histor...
CLSC205	Ancient Myth in Epic Poetry	Selected mythic themes in epic literature, drawing especially from the literary traditions of the Greeks and Romans, with possible comparison to the epic poetry of the Near East and India. WGSS special cross-list.
CLSC207	Greek Magic	Exploration of magic as a means to understanding and affecting the natural world. Major topics include erotic magic, dreams and divination, ritual purification, sacred plants, and healing.
CLSC208	Mythology: Greek Drama	Study of myths preserved in Greek dramas, and historical and literary analysis of these plays. Authors read may include Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, and Aristophanes.
CLSC210	History of Early Medicine	Medical concepts and practices of several ancient peoples of the Aegean and Mediterranean, with a focus on the Greeks and Romans. The development of medicine in the medieval East and West and in the later Western tradition.
CLSC212	Dining and Drinking in Classical Antiquity	A social history of eating and drinking in the ancient Mediterranean world, from communal religious feasts to private banquets.
CLSC220	Introduction to Archaeology	What can we learn about people and societies, past and present, from their material remains? Introduces archaeological method and theory, with special focus on sites of the ancient Mediterranean basin.
CLSC232	Daily Life in Roman Pompei	Study of the eruption of Mount Vesuvius and the destruction of Pompeii, including daily life in a Roman town in the 1st Century in Italy; the Roman world in advertisements, social media, business records, and contracts; and building dedications and...
CLSC301	Greek Art and Archaeology	A survey of architecture, sculpture, ceramics, and painting in the Greek world, from the Bronze Age through the Classical period, and an exploration of how art and buildings functioned in Greek society. Introduces students to basic methods of analyzi...
CLSC302	Roman Art and Archaeology	A survey of Roman art and architecture from the early republic through the late empire, and throughout the Roman world, from Spain to Syria. Explores the meanings of 'style' in Roman art and the social and political significance of Roman sculpture, p...
CLSC306	The Classical Tradition	Legacy of classical Greece and Rome in Medieval, Renaissance, and modern worlds.
CLSC308	Ethnicity, Gender, and Class in Greece and Rome	Structure of Greek and Roman societies based on analysis of their constructions of ethnicity, gender, and class. WGSS special cross-list.
CLSC320	Cultural Property: Archaeology, Ethics, and Law	Exploration of current issues of archaeological ethics and cultural heritage management. Topics range from the ancient history of looting and appropriation to the illicit antiquities market and site preservation today, and how local and internationa...
CLSC321	Archaeology of the Middle East	Art and cultures of the ancient Middle East, from the dawn of civilization to the age of Alexander, with a primary focus on Mesopotamia, Anatolia, and Syro-Palestine. Also considers how cultural heritage has played a role in the history of archaeolog...
CLSC329	The Ancient World in Cinema	Examines cinematic representations of the ancient Greek and Roman Mediterranean, viewed through a variety of literary and cinematic genres in European and American cinema of the 20th Century. The films offer an opportunity to reflect on how our vario...

Cognitive Science

Matthew Lowder, Coordinator (Psychology)

Cognitive science is the interdisciplinary study of the structures and functions of the human mind. Cognitive science investigates such topics as our sensory/perceptual apparatus, including vision, audition, olfaction; internal mental processes such as language, thinking, reasoning, and problem solving; motor control and the organization of skilled behavior such as speech and musical performance; memory; consciousness; attention; and many other aspects of the human mind. Cognitive science requires a multi-disciplinary approach and includes such fields as psychology, biology, neuroscience, philosophy, anthropology, linguistics, sociology, and computer science.

The cognitive science major is offered as a Bachelor of Arts degree only.

English/Classical Studies

English/Classical Studies

Note: A grade of C (2.0) is required in all coursework comprising the major.

15.5 units, including:

- Eight courses in Classics, including:
 - CLSC205 ANCIENT MYTH IN EPIC POETRY Ancient Myth in Epic Poetry
 - Mythology: Greek Drama
 - CLSC306 THE CLASSICAL TRADITION The Classical Tradition (or approved CLSC substitute)
 - Two other literature classes in classics (may include language classes at the 200 level or higher)
 - A minimum of three other classics department courses
- Seven courses in English, including:
 - Two FSLT courses taught in the English Department (one must be completed before enrolling in advanced courses in the major/minor; the second may be taken concurrently with advanced courses)
 - One 300-level course from Group A (literature before the early to mid-19th century)

University of Richmond

- One 300-level course from Group B (literature after the early to mid-19th century)
- Two additional courses at the 300 level
- ENGL400 JUNIOR/SENIOR SEMINAR Junior/Senior Seminar
- IDST379 COMBINED MAJR PROJCT/PORTFOLIO Combined Major Project/Portfolio
A senior writing project (taken for one half unit as IDST379 COMBINED MAJR PROJCT/PORTFOLIO) on a comparative topic dealing with literatures in Latin or Greek and English will be required. The paper must be 20-30 pages long and will make significant use of primary and secondary sources, and will be conducted through independent study. Students should select a focus for the writing project no later than spring of the junior year, and will have two supervisors, one from the English department and one from the classical studies department. By the beginning of senior year, the student should designate one of the supervisors as the primary supervisor, and this supervisor will have primary responsibility for determining the student's grade on the writing project after considering an evaluation and a suggested grade supplied by the second supervisor. If there is sharp disagreement between the two supervisors over the final grade, the primary supervisor's departmental chairperson will appoint a third reader/grader, whose decision will break the deadlock between the first and second supervisors.

Comparative Literature

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Comparative Literature for English Majors

The basic assumption behind this concentration is that literary studies can be unduly limited by restricting the context and parameters of scholarly inquiry to the literary works of one particular literary tradition, usually defined in fairly narrow geographical and linguistic terms. Comparative literature in the broadest sense may be defined as the text-based investigation of themes, issues, and works of art, free from the fetters of artificial geographical, cultural, political, or disciplinary demarcations. Students of comparative literature achieve a greater awareness of certain boundaries involved in the traditional study of literature--national, linguistic, generic, disciplinary, etc.--and of the issues and advantages involved in crossing those boundaries. In this concentration, students willing to acquire additional linguistic and disciplinary skills will develop the habits and tools necessary to address problems or topics of interest from a number of literary and disciplinary perspectives.

Comparative Literature

Concentration

- Seven units, including:
 - One upper level English or Languages, Literatures, and Cultures course (approved by the Concentration Coordinator) which focuses on the comparative and/or interdisciplinary study of a particular genre, theme, or historical period.
 - Three upper-level literature courses from the languages, literatures, and cultures, Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Studies, or classical studies departments, in the original language
 - Two courses in fields outside of literature (Students will choose from ancillary fields such as philosophy, art history, religious studies, etc., in support of their research concentration, and subject to approval of concentration coordinator.)
 - A one unit independent study culminating in a substantial research project; honors students can use this research project as their honors thesis.

Data Science and Statistics Concentration

The Data Science and Statistics Concentration

The concentration in data science and statistics with a major in computer science requires six units (where applicable, these may also count for major requirements).

- CMSC327 Machine Learning (may replace with DSST389 Statistical Learning)
- MATH235 Multivariate Calculus
- DSST289 Introduction to Data Science
- MATH329 Probability
- Two units, chosen from:
 - CMSC325 Database Systems
 - CMSC326 Simulation
 - CMSC395 Selected Topics (with approval)
 - ECON270 Introductory Econometrics
 - MATH330 Mathematical Statistics
 - MATH395 Special Topics in Mathematics (with departmental approval)
 - MATH396 Selected Topics in Mathematics

Note: Students completing a concentration in data science and statistics may not minor in mathematics or computer science.

Computer Science

Honors

Honors Program

Students invited into the honors program may earn honors in computer science by completing the following requirements:

1. Two 300-level courses for honors credit (one of which has a 300-level prereq: 321, 322, 323, 326, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335);
2. Two semesters of directed independent study (CMSC340) for a total of two units. The independent study courses counting for honors credit must be taken after the student has been accepted into the honors program and chosen in consultation with the honors coordinator.
3. Honors paper

Major

The Creative Writing Major

Note: A grade of C (2.0) or better is required in all coursework comprising the creative writing minor.

Ten units, including:

- One ENGL course at the 200 level (can be fulfilled with AP English Lit Exam score of 4-5).
- One ENGL elective at the 200 or 300 level.
- Four CRWR courses at the 300 level
- Three courses (ENGL or CRWR) at the 300 or 400 level.
- CRWR401 CREATIVE WRITING PORTFOLIO or Honors Program Sequence (with a creative thesis).

Any student seeking two majors/minors in the English department (major or minor) may have no more than two overlapping courses between their respective curricula.

Honors

Honors Program

To earn honors in Creative Writing, a major must complete CRWR498 HONORS THESIS RESEARCH, Honors Thesis Research, and CRWR499 HONORS THESIS WRITING Honors Thesis Writing. Students must have attained a departmental GPA of 3.50 by the beginning of the fall semester of the senior year. They also must maintain that GPA through the completion of the program and an overall GPA of no less than 3.30 while in the program. The thesis must be submitted to a faculty committee in the spring of the student's senior year. Honors will be granted only to those students whose theses meet departmental standards. Students should declare their intention to seek honors and meet with the honors coordinator in the spring of their sophomore year or fall of their junior year. Students who have not declared by the second semester of their junior year are disqualified from further honors consideration. Those who have declared that they are seeking honors will be considered candidates until they fail to meet one of the program's requirements. For further information and advice on standards and curriculum, see the honors coordinator.

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum (C-LAC) offers quarter unit, pass/fail courses in a variety of languages. C-LAC sections are small discussion groups taught by a faculty member or by selected international or bilingual students called C-LAC Assistants. All C-LAC sections are offered in conjunction with primary courses throughout the curriculum, including FYS, political science/social sciences, arts/literatures, science/health, business administration, professional and continuing studies, and leadership studies. The purpose of C-LAC sections is to provide Richmond students with opportunities for cross-linguistic and cross-cultural engagement experiences within different disciplines.

C-LAC sections may emphasize reading and/or conversation in the target language, independent research/writing projects, or a combination of these. They should normally meet at least ten times during the semester, each session lasting approximately one hour. However, C-LAC sections that center around research/writing projects and require significant independent work may meet a minimum of five times during the course of the semester. A C-LAC course will not count toward a major or minor unless specified within the curricular guidelines of a particular department or program. No more than one unit of C-LAC credit may count toward the total number of units required for a degree.

The minor in Data Science and Statistics prepares students to address the challenges of collecting, understanding and presenting structured and unstructured data from a variety of different domains and contexts.

The program takes an interdisciplinary approach built around five specific skills needed to achieve these goals:

- Developing proficiency in data-oriented programming
- Understanding probability theory and statistical inference
- Understanding which methods are appropriate for which kinds of data analysis,
- Ability to identify and address the ethical and privacy concerns regarding data analysis, and
- Gaining experience applying techniques and presenting results within the context of an application domain.

Mission and Goals

Undergraduate teacher education at the University of Richmond is a campus-wide responsibility, designed to ensure that all of our students are knowledgeable professionals who possess both a theoretical and practical knowledge base. Students acquire a broad undergraduate background of essential intellectual skills through the liberal arts and sciences based on the University's general education requirements, upon which students then build concentrated study in their major field of study.

The mission of the Teacher Preparation Program at the University of Richmond is to improve the understanding and practice of teaching and learning in preK-12 environments through reflective thought. Graduates are prepared to apply deep and broad content knowledge through multiple pedagogies in diverse settings while demonstrating a commitment to professionalism.

Based on this mission, the goals for the education minor are:

Goal 1

Develop candidates who are knowledgeable about learners and are able to employ instructional strategies that meet the needs of all students, including students with disabilities, gifted students, students with limited proficiency in English, and students with diverse cultural needs.

Goal 2

Develop candidates who have a rich understanding of the subject(s) they teach and appreciate how knowledge in their subject is created, organized, linked to other disciplines, and applied to real-world settings.

Goal 3

Develop candidates who are able to employ best practices in the planning, delivery, and assessment of instruction so that they may transform content for teaching purposes in ways that make it accessible and meaningful to students.

Goal 4

Develop candidates who have the knowledge and skills to bring the highest levels of professionalism to their practice as instructional leaders and have the disposition to reflect upon and change that practice as necessary.

State-Approved Programs at the University of Richmond

The Teacher Preparation Program at the University of Richmond prepares teachers for licensure in Elementary Education (preK-6), Secondary Education (6-12) or Comprehensive Education (preK-12). The University of Richmond was first granted an Approved Teacher Education Program by the Virginia State Board of Education in 1972. Since that time the University's Department of Education has maintained approved program status and, as such, participates in reciprocity of licensure with states that have interstate agreements with Virginia.

University of Richmond

In order for programs to remain current with licensure regulations as mandated by the Virginia State Department of Education, the requirements as stated may be subject to change. Please check with the department for the most recent version of licensure and endorsement requirements.

National Accreditation

The Commonwealth of Virginia requires that all state Educator Preparation Programs (EPPs) complete the CAEP accreditation process for both initial and advanced programs. The Teacher Education Program and Educational Leadership and Policy Studies program at the University of Richmond were awarded accreditation through TEAC Quality Principles through the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP) System for a period of seven years, from October 1, 2015 to October 1, 2022. Additionally, on October 17, 2019, the Virginia Board of Education approved the University of Richmond's education endorsement programs. The Regulations Governing the Review and Approval of Education Programs in Virginia (8VAC20-542-10 et seq.) require colleges and universities that offer programs for the preparation of professional school personnel obtain program (endorsement area) approval from the Virginia Board of Education through the review of biennial reporting of seven accountability measures and program alignment with endorsement area competencies.

Elementary Education Honors Program

Elementary Education Honors Program

Highly qualified and motivated students with exceptional initiative, the ability to work with a high degree of independence, and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard coursework may seek departmental honors. This program enables qualified students to extend the training in their major field of study by pursuing education courses and undertaking a supervised research thesis in a related area in the study of education. It is understood that students will pursue a wide range of thesis projects with intellectual tools from a variety of academic disciplines in the social sciences and humanities, while engaging directly with communities of practice, working alongside educators and reformers on and off campus.

To be eligible for admission to the Honors Program a student should have:

- 18 or more units of completed work
- A cumulative grade point average of at least 3.5 and at least a 3.3 GPA in education coursework
- 3 or more units completed with distinction (above the 200-level) in the major field

To receive honors in elementary education, an approved applicant must complete an honors thesis, as well as the following additional courses:

- EDUC346 Philosophy of Education
- EDUC376 Social Justice in Education
- EDUC499 Honors Thesis Research
- EDUC499 Honors Thesis Writing

Students should apply for the Honors program during the fall or spring of the junior year. The summer following their acceptance into the program, students should begin preparing for their thesis work. The student will complete the research for the project in the fall term of the senior year and will write the thesis in the spring term. In the Spring semester of the senior year, each student in the Honors Program will give a public presentation to articulate their research question and findings.

Education and Society Minor Requirements

Education and Society Minor Requirements

The Education and Society minor seeks to examine the institution of education and its role in society. It is designed specifically for students concerned with the interpretation, evaluation and reform of the American system of public education. The minor encourages students to reflect on questions of central importance in education such as:

- What is the purpose of education?
- How has the history of the system of public education in the United States contributed to its present state?
- Does our current system of education provide equitable opportunities for all?

The Education and Society minor is NOT designed to prepare teachers or other school personnel and does NOT lead to certification.

Major

The English Major

Note: A grade of C (2.0) or better is required in all coursework comprising the English major.

10 units, including:

University of Richmond

- One unit of "Foundations of Literary and Textual Inquiry"
- One elective at the 200 or 300 level (can be fulfilled with AP English Literature Exam score of 4 or 5)
- Six courses at the 300 level (two must be pre-1900, two may be CRWR)*
- One course at the 300 level or ENGL400 JUNIOR/SENIOR SEMINAR
- One unit of ENGL400 JUNIOR/SENIOR SEMINAR

Any student seeking two majors/minors in the English department may have no more than two overlapping courses between their respective curricula.

English

Minor

The English Minor

Note: A grade of C (2.0) or better is required in all coursework comprising the English minor.

Six units, including:

- Two "Foundations of Literary and Textual Inquiry" courses (one must be completed before enrolling in advanced courses in the minor, but the second may be taken concurrently with advanced courses)
- Two 300-level courses (one must be pre-1900)
- One additional literature course (not writing) at the 300 or 400 level
- One seminar taken in the junior or senior year

English

Honors

Honors Program

To earn honors in English, a major must complete ENGL498 HONORS THESIS RESEARCH, Honors Thesis Research, and ENGL499 HONORS THESIS WRITING, Honors Thesis Writing. Units earned for ENGL498 HONORS THESIS RESEARCH and ENGL499 HONORS THESIS WRITING are in addition to the 10 units required in the English major. Honors students also designate one of the courses from their major program as an Honors Course. The instructor, in consultation with the student and the honors coordinator, determines an appropriate honors component for the course. Students must have attained a departmental GPA of 3.50 by the beginning of the fall semester of the senior year. They also must maintain that GPA through the completion of the program and an overall GPA of no less than 3.30 while in the program. The thesis must be submitted to a faculty committee in the spring of the student's senior year. Honors will be granted only to those students whose theses meet departmental standards. Students should declare their intention to seek honors and meet with the honors coordinator in the spring of their sophomore year or fall of their junior year. Students who have not declared by the second semester of their junior year are disqualified from further honors consideration. Those who have declared that they are seeking honors will be considered candidates until they fail to meet one of the program's requirements. For further information and advice on standards and curriculum, see the honors coordinator.

Film Studies

Monika Siebert, Coordinator (English)

Professor Bower (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures),

Associate Professors Chan (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures), Cheever (English), Damer (Classical Studies), Drummond (Visual Media and Arts Practice & Art History), Lurie (English), Riehl (Music), Siebert (English), and White (Theatre and Dance)

Assistant Professor Bertucci (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures)

The film studies major is designed to furnish an integrated, interdisciplinary approach to the study of cinema, providing work in film history, theory, aesthetics, and production and considering U.S., international, indigenous and ethnic films. Students choose among courses offered in a number of different departments and programs to explore how individual movies, particular genres and stylistic movements, groundbreaking directors, and different regional, ethnic, and national film traditions reflect and influence the worlds of which they are a part. In so doing, students develop crucial skills in critical thinking, visual and textual analysis, and written and verbal communication that are vital for success in the majority of today's careers.

The major consists of ten courses. Three core courses are required: the introduction to film studies, the introduction to film production, and a capstone research seminar to be taken in the junior or senior year. The remaining courses are electives offered by departments such as art and art history, classical studies, English, journalism, Latin American and Iberian studies, languages, literatures, and cultures, and music. These courses have been divided into three groups (A, B, and C); students choose two courses each from groups A and B. This range of courses provides students with the opportunity to construct a program of study that is targeted to their particular interests.

New courses are continually being developed, so check the film studies web site and BannerWeb for the most up to date schedule of recent and upcoming courses.

First Year Seminars

Nicole Maurantonio (Rhetoric and Communication Studies), Coordinator

First-Year Seminars (FYS) provide entering students the excitement of engaged learning through a diverse array of seminar topics. With small classes, a variety of topics, and close contact with faculty, First-Year Seminars offer a hands-on introduction to academic inquiry.

A wide variety of seminars will be offered each year, drawn from every school of the University. Each entering student will take a FYS in the fall and spring of the first year.

First-Year Seminars serve as an introduction to academic inquiry and the modes of expression that lie at the heart of a liberal arts education. They foster habits of mind fundamental to students' intellectual and academic development, including critical reading and thinking, sharing ideas and research through discussion, and the ability to write and think clearly and effectively. Integrating explorations of specific questions and topics with the development of skills, seminars aim to foster intellectual curiosity and students' ability to act on it.

All First-Year Seminars have the same five common goals:

1. expand and deepen students' understanding of the world and of themselves
2. enhance their ability to read and think critically
3. enhance their ability to communicate effectively, in writing, speech, and other appropriate forms

University of Richmond

4. develop the fundamentals of information literacy and library research
5. provide the opportunity for students to work closely with a faculty mentor

Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

Sara Pappas, Section Coordinator

Professors Delers, Kapanga, Radi, Ravaux-Kirkpatrick

Associate Professors Pappas

Director of Intensive Language Program Baker

Director of Global Studio Marsh-Soloway

This section contains information specific to the degree programs in French. For full information regarding departmental policies relevant to all the LLC degree programs, study abroad, and course sequencing, see the main page of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. For students of French, the department offers a summer study program in La Rochelle, France. In addition, there are exchange agreements for study during the academic year in France, Switzerland, and West and North Africa. For a complete list, contact the Office of International Education. Students majoring and minoring in French are strongly encouraged to complete one course in the French 320 series before studying abroad; minimally students should have completed French 305. For information on transferring courses for the French major and minor, contact Dr. Kapanga or Dr. Pappas.

French Program

Cross School

The French Major/International Business Option

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

Nine courses and an interdisciplinary research project in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major including:

- Three 300-level courses (at least one FSLT), normally taken prior to study abroad
- Two 400-level seminars following required study abroad

University of Richmond

- One semester full-time study at an approved business school (with all-French curriculum) in a French-speaking country (four courses)
- IDST379 COMBINED MAJR PROJECT/PORTFOLIO Interdisciplinary Research Project

The French major/international business option represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions with all-French curriculum (for example, ESSEC, Rouen Business School, or Université Catholique de Lille). There, students will continue their business concentrations in classes with both local and other international students.

To prepare for the experience abroad, students will have a solid base of 300-level French courses taken on the Richmond campus. Upon return, they will broaden their knowledge of literary and cultural studies through advanced seminars as well as additional Robins School of Business coursework. The French component of this program thus consists of five courses taken on campus plus four or five courses taken abroad, or the equivalent of a nine-course major in LLC.

French Program

Honors

Honors Program

The French Honors Program is designed for outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard course work. Students will engage in independent research and work closely with a faculty advisor on an Honors Thesis during their senior year.

Eligibility and Admission

To qualify for the Honors Program in French, a student should have:

- 18.5 or more units completed overall
- At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses, and a 3.50 cumulative grade point average for French courses

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of the faculty of the French section of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures and the approval of the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program. To enter the Honors Program, students must submit to the Honors coordinator of the French program a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of their junior year. Each student will be assigned an Honors research advisor with whom he or she will design a program of study that indicates how the student's Honors Program will be accomplished.

Program Requirements

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal requirements for the B.A. in French.
- Take two 400-level French courses on campus for Honors credit. These courses will require extra work (supplementary readings and/or assignments, independent research on a topic related to the course, for instance). The extra work will be decided by the course instructor and vetted by the French Honors coordinator to ensure consistency.
- Take FREN491 HONORS THESIS I (Honor Thesis I, 0.5 unit, fall of senior year) and FREN492 FRENCH HONORS THESIS II (Honors Thesis 2, 1 unit, spring of senior year) in order to complete a 25-30 page Honors Thesis written in French. This thesis will be based on extensive research and make an original contribution to French and Francophone studies. The student and his or her advisor should develop a schedule to meetings and assessment that they find appropriate and meet at least once a month. Honors students must present their thesis at the French Studies symposium at the end of their senior year. They are also strongly encouraged to apply for a Summer Research Fellowship during their junior year. The thesis will be graded by at least two readers, including the student's thesis advisor.

Students may withdraw at any time. If they do not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for French coursework, students will not receive credit for the Honors Program, and the department will submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Geography, Environment, and Sustainability

David Salisbury, Chair

Associate Professors Finley-Brook, Salisbury

Assistant Professor Spera

Director of Spatial Analysis Laboratory Redican

In the Department of Geography, Environment, and Sustainability, we seek to explore and understand cultural, biophysical, and geospatial environments, and their interactions and transformations, thereby empowering our students to shape a just and sustainable world.

Geography courses address a range of important issues like global climate change, industrialization, resource management, agricultural change, urbanization, land use, deforestation and hydrology. Geographers emphasize the study of space, place, pattern and scale within these interconnected topics.

Geographers encourage students to explore the Earth's human and natural processes through critical thinking, spatial theory and geospatial technology. Our classes stress active learning. Natural science courses feature laboratory components that clarify the complexities of the Earth. Participatory social science classes focus on how humans interact with their surroundings and each other. Theories of space, place, pattern and scale deconstruct processes at the macro, meso and micro levels, helping students understand global-local connections.

Cross School

Cross-School Major in German Studies and International Business

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

Nine courses and an interdisciplinary research project in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including:

- Five units in German at the 300 or 400 level
- One semester full-time study at the Universität Münster School of Business and Economics or at the Universität Mannheim Business School (four courses)
- IDST379 COMBINED MAJR PROJCT/PORTFOLIO Interdisciplinary Research Project

The German major/international business option represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in the

University of Richmond

School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions. There, students will continue their Robins School concentrations and German Studies courses in classes with both local and other international students.

In order to prepare for the experience abroad, students in German will need to have completed at least GERM202 INTERMEDIATE GERMAN on the Richmond campus. Students must take at least two courses in German at the Universität Münster or at the Universität Mannheim.

Students are required to take one 400-level course in German upon their return.

Global Studies

Sharon Feldman, Coordinator (Latin American, Latino, & Iberian Studies)

Manuella Meyer, Coordinator (History)

Global Studies is a rigorous but flexible interdisciplinary major with a cross-cultural emphasis. The major offers the opportunity to take courses across departments and schools at the University of Richmond and requires at least a semester of study abroad. Students majoring in Global Studies select one of four concentrations, each coordinated by advisors with special expertise in the areas.

All students majoring in Global Studies take the gateway course, GS290: Introduction to Global Studies, usually in the freshman or sophomore year; and at least one of two other introductory courses, GEOG210 PLANET EARTH: PEOPLE AND PLACE Planet Earth: People and Place or GEOG240 WEATHER, CLIMATE, AND SOCIETY, Introduction to Comparative Politics. At least two advanced courses in a second language are also required, beyond the concentration. During the final year, after study abroad, all GS majors complete a topical capstone Senior Seminar, GS400, during which they will research and write an original scholarly paper. Successful completion of GS290 is a prerequisite for GS400.

Students work with faculty advisors to choose additional electives, including courses taken abroad, within each concentration. Course selections should comprise an interdisciplinary mix of courses from anthropology, art history, classics, communications, economics, environmental studies, geography, history, law, leadership, literature, music, political science, religion, sociology, theater, and women's studies. Within each concentration, eight units must be selected from three or more departments with no more than three units from a single department. While studying abroad students are encouraged to work with faculty advisors to identify courses not listed in the Richmond catalog that complement their academic program.

Health Studies

*Kathryn H. Jacobsen, William E. Cooper Distinguished University Chair
Professor Mayes*

Students who major in Health Studies are equipped to pursue work and graduate studies in public health, health policy, healthcare management and administration, and other areas related to health and social services. All students in the major complete courses in the three core areas of undergraduate public health education: health policy, global health, and epidemiology. Additional health-related courses in the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities are selected, in consultation with faculty advisors, to align with personal interests and goals.

The Health Studies minor enhances preparation for clinical and professional practice by examining the foundations of social medicine. Courses in health policy, healthcare in social context, and healthcare ethics complement the science courses required for admission to graduate programs in medicine, nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy, and other clinical professions. The minor also prepares rising leaders in business and politics to navigate the intricacies of the healthcare sector.

History

Major

The History Major

A grade of not lower than C (2.0) is required for each course in the major. At least 8 units must be at the 200-level or above. At least two courses must be at the 300-level. No more than two 100-level courses will be accepted for major credit. Students may apply to the department chair to have two courses counted towards the major from study abroad for one-semester's study, or three courses for a full year's study.

10 units

- One unit in U.S. history
- One unit in European history
- One unit in the histories of Asia, Latin America, the Middle East, or Africa
- HIST 400 Research Seminar
- Six electives in history

University of Richmond

History

Minor

The History Minor

Note: A grade of not lower than C (2.0) is required in each course of the major.

5 units, with no more than two at the 100 level. Three of the five courses in the minor must be taken in residence in the history department of the University of Richmond. No more than two courses for the minor can be drawn from study abroad.

History

Honors

Honors Program

Majors who meet the School of Arts and Sciences requirements for departmental honors may apply to pursue the honors program in history. To earn honors in history a student must complete three units in honors courses:

- HIST398 HISTORIOGRAPHY Historiography
- HIST412 HONORS RESEARCH SEMINAR HIST413 HONORS RESEARCH SEMINAR Honors Thesis
- They must present an honors thesis that is accepted by the department as meriting honors

Honors students meet the capstone History requirement by successfully completing History 413, but must satisfy all other requirements for the major. HIST 398 may replace one 300-level course.

Integrated Science

Shannon Jones, Coordinator (Biology)

The Integrated Science minor is designed for the student interested in an interdisciplinary approach to science. The over-arching theme is exploring the richness of types of problems that may be approached using a combination of sciences rather than one alone. Research experience is the cornerstone of the minor.

Coursework for the minor falls chronologically into three categories. In their first two years, students will typically take the Science, Math, and Research Training (SMART) courses, plus PHYS131 CALC-BASED GEN PHYS 1 W/LAB The SMART classes are structured around common themes that allow students to study topics in depth and from the perspectives of several scientific disciplines. The follow-up for each set of introductory science courses is the Research Training Seminar (IDST284 IQS RESEARCH TRAINING SEMINAR). Students not enrolled in SMART during the freshman year may qualify for the minor by taking the first course in the major in each of the five core disciplines as listed below and then enrolling in the Research Training Seminar (IDST284 IQS RESEARCH TRAINING SEMINAR). This seminar focuses on how interdisciplinary research programs are constructed and the types of problems that can be addressed using this approach.

During their junior and senior years, students will take two interdisciplinary courses that focus on a topic from at least 2 different disciplinary perspectives. Students are encouraged to check with the coordinator regarding a list of approved courses. The third component of the minor is the Senior Research Seminar (IDST484 INTEGRATED SCIENCE SENIOR SEM). This is a literature-based course, for seniors only, that allows students to knit together their own research experiences with an in depth study of scientific papers on current interdisciplinary research or an independent project of their design that integrates a study of primary literature with some aspect of interdisciplinary research.

Interdisciplinary Studies

Major

The Interdisciplinary Studies Major

Note: A grade of not less than C- (1.7) is required in each course comprising the major.

15 units of coursework including the senior thesis, noting:

- The nature of the approved program will determine whether the degree is a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science.
- The specific program of study is developed by the student in consultation with two full-time faculty advisors in academic departments at UR with expertise in the students' subject of inquiry, one of whom must be in the School of Arts and Sciences (who will become the student's academic advisor).
- As a degree awarded by the School of Arts and Sciences IDST majors must demonstrate a focus on the liberal arts.
- The program must be approved by the student's two faculty advisors, the chairs of the faculty advisors' academic departments, the Interdisciplinary Studies committee.
- Students must demonstrate competence in two academic fields by completing all foundational courses in the two primary disciplines in addition to advanced courses. (NOTE: students wishing to study Marketing are required to take MKT320 PRINCIPLES OF MARKETING and are limited to two additional MKT courses.)

Interdisciplinary Studies

Honors

Interdisciplinary Studies Honors Program

Because all Interdisciplinary Studies majors are unique to the individual student, there are no general requirements for honors beyond those established by the Arts and Sciences Honors Committee. Thus, to write for honors in Interdisciplinary Studies, the student must approach the Interdisciplinary Studies coordinator, be invited to write for honors, and submit the Honors program as required by the Honors Committee. Upon approval of the honors program, IDST401 HONORS THESIS-IDST402 HONORS THESIS II will be substituted for IDST398 SENIOR THESIS-IDST399 SENIOR THESIS in the student's curriculum. The two thesis advisors will be the readers for honors and the coordinator will be bound by their judgment.

Italian Studies Program

Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

Anthony Russell, Section Coordinator

Associate Professors Radi, Russell

Director of Intensive Language Program Vacant

Affiliated Faculty: Elena Calvillo (Art History), Joanna Drell (History)

This section contains information specific to courses taught in Italian. Other courses relevant to the Italian Studies major/minor are listed under Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (LLC). For full information regarding departmental policies relevant to all LLC programs, study abroad, and course sequencing, see the main page of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

Courses in Italian language, literature and culture are offered in the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures. Additionally, students may pursue the Italian Studies major or minor, which combine work in LLC with related courses in other departments.

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. For students of Italian, the department offers summer study programs in Italy. In addition, there are exchange agreements for study during the academic year in Verona, Ferrara, and Milano. For a complete list, contact the Office of International Education.

Italian Studies Program

Cross School

Cross-School Major in Italian Studies and International Business

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

Nine courses and a senior project (498-499), in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including:

- Five units in Italian at the 300 or 400 level
- IDST379 COMBINED MAJR PROJCT/PORTFOLIO Interdisciplinary Research Project
- One semester full-time study at Bocconi University of Economics and Business Administration or Verona University (four courses)

The Italian major/international business option represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions. There, students will continue work on their Robins School and Italian Studies requirements in classes with both local and other international students.

In order to prepare for the experience abroad, students in Italian will need to have completed at least Italian 221 on the Richmond campus; they must take at least one concurrent course in Italian while at Bocconi. Students are required to take one 400-level course in Italian upon their return.

Italian Studies Program

Honors

Honors Program

University of Richmond

The Italian Honors Program is designed for outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard course work. Students will engage in independent research and work closely with a faculty advisor on an Honors Thesis during their senior year.

ELIGIBILITY AND ADMISSION

To qualify for the Honors Program in Italian, a student should have:

1. 18.5 or more units completed overall
2. At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses, and a 3.50 cumulative grade point average for Italian courses.

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the program with the special recommendation of the faculty of the Italian section of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures and the approval of the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program. To enter the Honors Program, students must submit to the Honors coordinator of the Italian program a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of their junior year. Each student will be assigned an Honors research advisor with whom he or she will design a program of study that indicates how the student's Honors Program will be accomplished.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal requirements for the B.A. in Italian.
- Take two 400-level Italian courses on campus for Honors credit. These courses will require extra work (supplementary readings and/or assignments, independent research on a topic related to the course, for instance). The extra work will be decided by the course instructor and vetted by the Italian Honors coordinator to ensure consistency.
- Take ITAL491 HONOR THESIS I (Honor Thesis I, 0.5 unit, fall of senior year) and ITAL492 HONOR THESIS II (Honor Thesis 2, 1 unit, spring of senior year) in order to complete a 25-30 page Honors Thesis written in Italian. This thesis will be based on extensive research and make an original contribution to Italian. The student and his or her advisor should develop a schedule to meetings and assessment that they find appropriate and meet at least once a month. Honors students must present their thesis at the Italian Studies symposium at the end of their senior year. They are also strongly encouraged to apply for a Summer Research Fellowship during their junior year. The thesis will be graded by at least two readers, including the student's thesis advisor.

Students may withdraw at any time. If they do not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for Italian coursework, students will not receive credit for the Honors Program, and the department will submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Visiting Faculty in Arabic, French, German, and Italian Studies

Master a language. Live in that language and its culture and learn to think differently. Study complex global social and ethical issues through art, literature and film. This is what the faculty of LLC offers you in Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese and Russian.

Departmental courses designated as LLC are taught in English and have no prerequisite, except as noted. Approved LLC courses may be counted as elective credit toward the relevant major in Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, or Russian Studies if taken in conjunction with a Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum (CLAC) component (.25 units).

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. The department offers summer study programs in China, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Jordan, and Russia. In addition, there are exchange agreements for study during the academic year in Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Quebec, and Russia; others are being negotiated. For a complete list, contact the Office of International Education.

The Residency Requirement

For all LLC majors, at least 5 of the 9 courses required for the major must be taken on the University of Richmond campus. If the student participates in a study abroad program, at least one upper-level course in the major must be taken upon return from the program.

Administration

PLACEMENT

A student who desires to continue study of a language begun elsewhere or spoken as a first language will be placed for continuation by the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures. The determination of level may be by the score received on the AP, IB or SATII test in a given language; by placement test; or, in special cases, by interview. Students who meet the language communication skills requirement by placement may not take for credit 100- or 200-level courses in the same language.

SEQUENTIAL CREDIT

Once the 100 or 200 level is begun, continuation, if any, must be to the next higher level within the sequence of courses. Students cannot receive credit toward the degree for 100- or 200-level coursework which is taken after credit has been earned in coursework more advanced in the sequence.

MEDIUM OF INSTRUCTION

All courses taught in the department are taught in the respective language with the exception of the courses listed in the languages, literatures and cultures category.

University of Richmond

Self-Directed Language Acquisition Program (SDLAP)

The Self-Directed Language Acquisition Program allows students to study languages not offered in the standard curriculum. Participants in the program develop competence in speaking, reading, and writing a less-commonly-taught language while honing their skills as autonomous learners and exploring the cultural context of language use. Modern Hebrew, Persian, and Turkish are routinely offered; other languages are offered upon student request when necessary resources can be arranged.

All students begin the program in SDLC 110. SDLAP courses do not fulfill the COM 2 requirement. It is strongly advised that students complete COM 2 before entering the program.

LALIS Curriculum for Students with Advanced or Superior Proficiency in Spanish

The following curriculum is designed for students entering the university with advanced or superior proficiency in Spanish. This includes native speakers, heritage speakers, and students who have acquired advanced proficiency through residence in a Spanish-speaking country. Students with advanced or superior proficiency must seek the advice of a faculty member in the department before registering.

Students with advanced or superior proficiency who wish to pursue a major or minor in LALIS should complete their studies with courses higher than 309. The total number of units required for the major remains 9.5; for the minor, six.

Students with advanced or superior proficiency who wish to take LALIS courses as electives, without pursuing a major or minor, should follow the same criteria. Students cannot take a course below 309 for elective credit, except with permission of the department.

Note about Portuguese

LAIS 349, Portuguese for Romance Language Speakers, is an accelerated language course aimed at students already fluent or proficient in Spanish (either heritage speakers or advanced students who have completed at least one FSLT course in LAIS: 321, 331, or 332). Permission of instructor required in other cases. This course may be taken as elective credit for the LALIS major and minor. Students taking this course may also earn credit towards the Luso-Brazilian Studies Minor.

Cross School

Cross-School Major in Latin American, Latino and Iberian Studies and International Business

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

9.5 units, in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including

- One chosen from LAIS301 SPANISH IN THE COMMUNITY-LAIS308 LET'S TALK ABOUT FILM: Spanish in Context
- LAIS309 SPANISH WRITING WORKSHOP Spanish Writing Workshop

 - LAIS332 INTRO/LATIN AMERICAN LIT II Introduction to Spanish American Literature
- Two units at the 400 level, one of which must be taken upon return from study abroad
- One semester in Latin America or Spain at an approved institution with an all-Spanish curriculum in business (four courses)
- LAIS496 SENIOR SYMPOSIUM Senior Symposium

The cross-school major in Latin American, Latino and Iberian Studies and International Business represents a collaborative project between the Department of Latin American and Iberian Studies in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of

University of Richmond

Business. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions (for example, Universidad Torcuato Di Tella in Argentina, Universidad de Deusto in Spain, or Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey in Mexico). At such institutions, students will continue their Robins School concentrations in classes with both local and other international students.

In order to prepare for the experience abroad, students in LAIS will have a solid base of 300-level courses taken on the Richmond campus. Upon return they will broaden their knowledge of literary and cultural studies through advanced seminars as well as continue their Robins School coursework.

Spanish for Heritage Speakers

Spanish for Heritage Speakers

LALIS offers two tracks (Track 1 and Track 2) for heritage speakers, defined here as students with at-home Spanish experience during childhood in the United States. If you grew up speaking Spanish and/or "Spanglish" with your parents and/or other guardians/caretakers, then you are a "heritage speaker" of Spanish (yes, even if you are more comfortable with English!) and, therefore, eligible for one of the two heritage speaker tracks.

While both tracks offer students the opportunity to take LAIS 310: Spanish for Heritage Speakers, Track 1 requires students to take a 300-level elective (e.g., LAIS 301-308) before enrolling in LAIS 310. (Note: In some circumstances, Prof. Giancaspro may ask Track 1 heritage speakers to take LAIS 221 before enrolling in a 300-level course.) Track 2 heritage speakers, whose prior at-home and educational experience with Spanish is typically more extensive than it is for Track 1 heritage speakers, can enroll directly in LAIS 310 without having taken any other LALIS courses.

In order to determine their track, students must meet with Prof. David Giancaspro (dgiancas@richmond.edu) for a brief language evaluation in Spanish. At the conclusion of this short evaluation, which typically lasts no longer than 10-15 minutes, Prof. Giancaspro will recommend that a student be placed in Track 1 or Track 2, depending on their overall proficiency level and educational goals.

Law and the Liberal Arts

Nancy Schaubert, Coordinator (Philosophy)

Law and the liberal arts is an interdisciplinary minor that consists of courses from across the curriculum. The courses that count toward the minor are among those that are generally recommended by law schools for students thinking about going to law school. The purpose of the courses within the minor is to prepare one to think critically and analytically as a well-rounded liberal artist. The courses are divided into eight areas: law, American history, economics, ethics, legal system, logical reasoning, public speaking and debate, and writing.

Linguistics at Richmond is an interdisciplinary minor that studies the system of language as a medium of cognition and perception as well as a social institution. Engaging in linguistic analysis enables students to view culture through the lens of language. Language can be studied at multiple levels: phonetics and phonology (sounds), morphology (words), syntax (sentences), and semantics and pragmatics (meaning). Faculty at Richmond investigate each of these levels in courses that take different analytical perspectives: applied linguistics, computational linguistics, generative linguistics, historical linguistics, psycholinguistics, sociolinguistics, and theoretical linguistics. These courses address a variety of topics, including language change, language and cognition, and language and society (gender, class, race/ethnicity).

- Up to three units in a language other than English.
 - These cannot all be in the same language. You may apply one unit at the advanced (300 or 400) level, and this may be in addition to any of the courses listed above. You may also apply up to two units in a language other than the language of the advanced level course. These may be at any level. Please note: the application of language courses to the minor is normally done senior year during senior audit.

Selected topics courses in linguistics are applied to the minor on a case-by-case basis.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted. Coursework in phonetics, syntax, morphology and other related topics taken during study abroad may fulfill some minor requirements. Study abroad in consultation with advisor is strongly encouraged.

Luso-Brazilian Studies

Dixon Abreu, Coordinator (Latin American, Latino and Iberian Studies)

Portuguese is the official language of eight countries situated on four continents (including territories in India, China, and Japan), spanning several cultural thresholds that are essential to any interdisciplinary curriculum in international studies. Portuguese, furthermore, is the first language of one of the largest immigrant populations in the United States. From the politics of the European and African Unions, to the economic blossoming of Asia and Brazil, the study of Portuguese language and cultures can be highly advantageous for students preparing to work in a broad range of professional contexts in the twenty-first century.

Luso-Brazilian Studies

Minor

The Luso-Brazilian Studies Minor

Note: Students must receive a C (2.0) or above for these courses to count toward the minor. Courses taken for less than 1 unit will not count towards the minor.

5-5.75 units, including:

- LAIS390 PORTUGUESE/ROMANCE LANG SPKRS Portuguese for Romance Language Speakers or another comparable intermediate/advanced course in Portuguese language. The requirement in Portuguese language can be fulfilled in one of the following ways:
 - LAIS390 PORTUGUESE/ROMANCE LANG SPKRS Portuguese for Romance Language Speakers
 - Exemption through a placement test that measures oral, writing, reading, and comprehension skills. Exempted students must still take a total of 5-5.75 units to complete the minor; thus, they may substitute LAIS390 PORTUGUESE/ROMANCE LANG SPKRS with an elective
 - Completion of Portuguese language coursework at one of our partner institutions abroad (PUC Rio, SIT, CIEE Brazil, or CIEE Portugal).
- LAIS314 LUSO-BRAZILIAN STUDIES Luso-Brazilian Studies: A Global Perspective with optional C-LAC component in Portuguese language
- Three interdisciplinary electives

Students fulfilling their electives on campus will choose from course offerings within the specific field of Luso-Brazilian Studies or related courses in other academic disciplines as listed below. For courses in other disciplines that are not listed, students are encouraged to consult with the program coordinator. As a general rule, advanced courses in other disciplines may be taken for credit for the Luso-Brazilian Studies minor as long as the student seeks prior approval and fulfills a corresponding C-LAC (Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum) component in Portuguese language or culture (worth 0.25 units). Students may fulfill the C-LAC component in different ways: students with no prior knowledge of Portuguese may choose to take a basic Portuguese language mini-course or submit a short project -in English- focusing on a Lusophone topic that intersects with the scope of the specific course (e.g., a student enrolled in PLSC 349 Politics of Latin America and the Caribbean may choose to complete a project on Brazil's democratic transition and the challenges it faces in the 21st century). Students with prior knowledge of Portuguese may choose to hold weekly conversation sessions on the topics covered in the main course. If a Luso-Brazilian Studies elective is taken abroad with Portuguese as the language of instruction, then the C-LAC requirement will be waived.

The following courses are content-specific and do not require a C-LAC:

- HIST262 THE MAKING OF MODERN BRAZIL The Making of Modern Brazil
- LAIS313 BUILDING BRASILIA: FRM IDEA/RL Building Brasilia: Idea to Reality
- LAIS329 THE AFRICAN NOVEL The African Novel
- LAIS339 STORIES FROM ELSEWHERE:AFRICA, Stories From Elsewhere: Africa, Asia Brazil, Portugal

Major

The Math Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no mathematics course grade below C- (1.7). Students are strongly advised to consult with faculty in planning their major curriculum.

FOR EITHER THE BACHELOR OF ARTS OR BACHELOR OF SCIENCE DEGREE:

- MATH211 CALCULUS I Calculus I
- MATH212 CALCULUS II Calculus II
- MATH235 MULTIVARIATE CALCULUS Multivariate Calculus
- MATH245 LINEAR ALGEBRA Linear Algebra
- MATH300 FUNDAMENTALS OF ABSTRACT MATH Fundamentals of Abstract Mathematics
- MATH306 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I Abstract Algebra I
- MATH320 REAL ANALYSIS I Real Analysis I
- CMSC150 INTRODUCTN TO COMPUTING W/LAB Introduction to Computing
- Four electives in math at the 300-level. DSST329 PROBABILITY DSST330 MATHEMATICAL STATISTICS , DSST389 ADVANCED DATA SCIENCE and will count towards the electives.

Only MATH340 DIRECTED INDEPENDENT STUDY classes taken for 1 unit will count as electives towards the major.

AND FOR THE BACHELOR OF SCIENCE DEGREE:

Four other units in computer science with at least two at the 300 level, or two units beyond the introductory level in one of the following fields: physics (200 level or above), chemistry (200 level or above), or biology (numbered higher than 205).

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Notes:

Students are strongly advised to complete either MATH306 ABSTRACT ALGEBRA I or MATH320 REAL ANALYSIS I prior to the senior year.

Any MATH and CMSC double-major, or MATH major with CMSC minor, having earned at least an A- in MATH300 FUNDAMENTALS OF ABSTRACT MATH may exempt from CMSC222 DISCRETE STRUCTURES W/LAB but is required to complete an additional CMSC 300-level elective to complete the CMSC major or minor.

Honors

Honors Program in Mathematics

Promising math majors are invited by the faculty to apply to the honors program in mathematics. Successful completion of the program is designated on the student's academic record and diploma.

University of Richmond

In order to be eligible, students must have met the following qualifications:

- Completed at least 18.5 units of coursework
- Earned a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of at least 3.3
- Completed at least 3.5 units in mathematics, at the MATH235 MULTIVARIATE CALCULUS level or higher, with a cumulative GPA in all such courses of at least 3.3
- Have at least two semesters remaining before intended graduation date

Prior to eligibility / enrollment in the program, students may complete up to 1 unit of standard upper level (above 300-level) math coursework "for honors" (particularly encouraged for students taking Math 306 or 320 early in their major).*

To gain admission to the Honors Program, the student should first recruit a continuing Mathematics faculty member to serve as their Honors Project Advisor.

Working with their Honors Advisor, the student should develop a detailed Program of Study indicating specifically how the student's Honors Program is to be accomplished (see program regulations document for Program of Study Requirements). The student should then work with their Honors Advisor to complete a Program Application. The application, along with an advising copy of the student's transcript, must then be submitted to the Mathematics Honors Program Coordinator by November 15th for Fall term applicants and by March 15th for Spring term applicants. Applications must be received with at least two semesters remaining before the students intended graduation date.

If you have questions about the Honors Program in Mathematics, contact Dr. Jeremy LeCrone.

Data Science and Statistics Concentration

The Data Science and Statistics Concentration

- The concentration in data science and statistics with a major in mathematics requires six units (where applicable, these may also count for major requirements).
 - CMSC221 DATA STRUCTURES W/LAB Data Structures with Lab
 - DSST289 INTRODUCTION TO DATA SCIENCE Introduction to Data Science
 - DSST329 PROBABILITY Probability
 - MATH330 - Missing course Mathematical Statistics
 - DSST389 ADVANCED DATA SCIENCE Statistical Learning (may replace with CMSC327 MACHINE LEARNING Machine Learning)
- One unit, chosen from:
 - CMSC325 DATABASE SYSTEMS W/ LAB Database Systems
 - CMSC326 SIMULATION W/ LAB Simulation
 - CMSC395 Selected Topics (with departmental approval)
 - ECON270 INTRODUCTORY ECONOMETRICS Introductory Econometrics
 - MATH395 SPECIAL TOPICS Special Topics (with departmental approval)

Note: Students completing a concentration in data science and statistics may not minor in mathematics or computer science.

Mathematical Economics

Kathy Hoke, Mathematics Program Coordinator

Saif Mehkari, Economics Program Coordinator

Graduates with strong analytical skills are highly valued in today's increasingly data-driven and interconnected world. The Mathematical Economics major provides a course of study that allows students to not only acquire some of these highly valued analytical skills, but also integrates that knowledge with a deeper understanding of both the business world and the social sciences. This combination of mathematics, statistics/data, and economics knowledge makes Mathematical Economics majors highly competitive in the job market and excellent candidates for graduate school.

The Mathematical Economics major satisfies the requirements for the B.S. degree in the School of Arts & Sciences. It requires students to take 12 core units followed by four elective courses. The core courses serve to build a strong basic foundation in both economics and mathematics. The elective courses then allow the student to tailor their major to their post-graduation goals. To provide further breadth to their education Math-Econ majors may also declare additional majors (including in the Business School) as long as these additional majors are not Economics or Mathematics.

Recent Math-Econ graduates have chosen electives sequences towards post-graduation paths that include jobs in economics, data science/analysis, finance, actuarial sciences, consulting, and management, and graduate school in economics, statistics, strategy, and business. Advisors and coordinators in the major work closely with students to choose electives consistent with the students' short and long-term goals. The program coordinators additionally work with other departments to help Math-Econ majors take non-major courses that complement their studies towards post-graduation goals in fields such as finance, consulting, and actuarial sciences.

Major

The Mathematical Economics Major

University of Richmond

Note: A grade point average of C (2.00) is required in the major, with no course grade below a C- (1.70) in courses counting towards the major.

16 units, including:

- CMSC150 INTRODUCTN TO COMPUTING W/LAB Introduction to Computing
- ECON101 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS Principles of Microeconomics
- ECON102 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS Principles of Macroeconomics
- ECON270 INTRODUCTORY ECONOMETRICS Introductory Econometrics
- ECON271 MICROECONOMIC THEORY Microeconomic Theory
- ECON272 MACROECONOMIC THEORY Macroeconomic Theory
- ECON341 MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS Mathematical Economics
- MATH211 CALCULUS I Calculus I
- MATH212 CALCULUS II Calculus II
- MATH235 MULTIVARIATE CALCULUS Multivariable Calculus
- MATH245 LINEAR ALGEBRA Linear Algebra
- MATH329 - Missing course Probability

In addition, students must take:

- Two units of mathematics electives at the 300 level. DSST 329, 330, and 389 can count as one of these electives.
- Two units of economics electives, at least one of which must be at the 300 level.

ECON 100-level courses, ECON249 TOPICS IN APPLIED QUANTIT ECON, ECON368 GLBL VIS: STU-MNGD ETF PORTFL, ECON406 SUMMER UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH, ECON490 HONORS SEMINAR IN ECONOMICS, ECON491 HONORS THESIS IN ECONOMICS, and any credit received for internships do not count as electives. ECON269 INDEPENDENT STUDY and ECON369 INDEPENDENT STUDY on a case-by-case basis may be approved to count as an elective. Only MATH340 DIRECTED INDEPENDENT STUDY classes taken for 1 unit will count as electives towards the major.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Mathematical economics majors may not select mathematics or economics as an additional major or minor.

Mathematical Economics

Honors

Honors Program

In order to be eligible, students must have met the following qualifications:

- Completion of at least 18 units of coursework, not including courses in which the student is currently enrolled
- Overall GPA of 3.3 or higher
- Completion of at least four units within the major, excluding courses primarily for first-year students (MATH211 CALCULUS I, MATH212 CALCULUS II; ECON101 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS, ECON102 PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS), with a cumulative GPA in all such courses of at least 3.3

The student will select a willing faculty member to serve as lead advisor for the project. Together they find a second faculty member to serve as consultant. One faculty member should be from economics and one from mathematics.

The student and lead advisor will plan the student's honors program. The student and advisor will plan four units of coursework in support of the honors topic. Two of these units will be MATH340 DIRECTED INDEPENDENT STUDY Directed Independent Study or ECON490 HONORS SEMINAR IN ECONOMICS-ECON491 HONORS THESIS IN ECONOMICS Honors Seminar/Research, depending on the department of the lead advisor. These courses are used to prepare the honors thesis. The remaining two units will be selected from the regular curriculum with an additional honors component; one unit will be from upper-level economics and one unit from upper-level mathematics. These courses will be chosen with an eye towards maximizing the student's ability to produce a quality honors thesis.

A completed honors thesis will be read and approved by a committee of at least three readers, including the lead and consulting advisors, and will be presented to the faculty in both departments.

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

This concentration was created for English majors interested in deepening their knowledge of the cultures of the Middle Ages and Renaissance through interdisciplinary study. It thus requires that in addition to taking upper-level courses in Medieval and Renaissance English literature, majors also explore these periods from the perspective of other academic disciplines including, but not limited to, the history of art and architecture, literatures, philosophy, religious studies, and history. It is hoped that the breadth of knowledge and intellectual flexibility that interdisciplinary study fosters will enable students in this concentration to undertake more complex kinds of research projects and achieve more sophisticated levels of critical thinking and writing than might otherwise have been possible.

Military Science and Leadership

William "Jake" Turner, Lieutenant Colonel, U.S. Army, Chair

The objective of the Military Science and Leadership Program--Army Reserve Officer Training Program (ROTC)--is to provide the leadership and management foundation required for military service as a commissioned officer. In support of this objective, the program includes in and out of classroom instruction, and activities geared to the development of leadership skills.

100 Level and 200 Level Military Science and Leadership classes may be taken by all University students. Class enrollment in the lower-level military leadership classes carries no U.S. Army commitment and there is no obligation to enroll for successive course offerings. Commissioning credit may be awarded for prior military service and attendance at Basic Camp. International students desiring to attend military science and leadership classes must have written approval from their respective embassies and the Professor of Military Science prior to taking classes.

Neuroscience

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Neuroscience for Biology, Psychology, and Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Majors

Majors in biology, psychology, or biochemistry and molecular biology with a special interest in neurobiology or behavioral neuroscience may apply to pursue an interdisciplinary concentration in neuroscience. The interdisciplinary concentration in neuroscience may only be completed with a Bachelor of Science degree. Because of the scheduling demands of the concentration, students are strongly encouraged to declare as early as possible (fall of sophomore year is suggested).

To qualify for a Bachelor of Science degree, students must complete the degree requirements stated under Graduation, including general education requirements, wellness, curriculum, achievement, and residency requirements, along with completion of the requirements for at least one major. The B.S.

University of Richmond

degree at the University of Richmond requires a concentration in science and quantitative reasoning. The B.S. degree will require depth of coursework and/or research as determined by the department or program along with Math 211 (or equivalent) and a second course that focuses on advanced quantitative methods appropriate to scientific inquiry.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Honors

Honors

Highly qualified and motivated students may seek departmental honors. Successful applicants will be assigned to an advisor/tutor to guide their work and monitor their progress.

Application for admission to the honors program is made in two stages. Initial Applications for admission to the philosophy honors program may be made by junior majors with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.3 on all their work who have completed at least 12 three units nine hours in the philosophy department (above the introductory level) with distinction. Initial admission allows students to enroll in the Honors Seminar and take the required upper-level philosophy courses for honors credit.

In their junior year, after the completion of (i) at least 18 units with a cumulative GPA of at least 3.3 and (ii) 3.5 units, excluding 101 and 120, in the philosophy department with distinction, students complete their application to the honors program by proposing a thesis topic to the Philosophy Department. Advisors will be assigned to students who submit successful proposals.

To receive honors in philosophy, an approved applicant must complete (as part of his or her major) all of the following program with distinction:

1. 386 Honors Seminar, and 395 Honors Thesis, and
2. Two additional upper-level philosophy courses or seminars designated for honors credit and involving special projects
3. 395 Honors Thesis

The program's keystone is researching and writing a Senior Honors Thesis on the basis of a proposal developed and approved in the student's junior year. In the fall of that year, an interested major should talk to his/her advisor about the deadlines and other specifics for both the proposal and the thesis.

Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law

Jeppe Platz, Coordinator (Philosophy)

The interdisciplinary major in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL) enables students to pursue a rigorous exploration of the historical, methodological, and theoretical interconnections among these four fields of study. Students will acquire knowledge of different conceptual, theoretical and normative perspectives within each discipline, and will learn to use methods appropriate to each of them. The distinctive aim of the major is to assist students in synthesizing what they learn from their study of philosophy, politics, economics, and law so as to apply a combination of practical and theoretical knowledge to questions of social order and public policy.

Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law

Major

The Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.0, with no course grade below a C- (1.7). A grade of C or better is required in ECON101 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS.

14-15 units, including:

- Core Courses
 - ECON101 PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS Principles of Microeconomics
 - PPEL261 SEM IN THEORY & PUBLIC POLICY PPEL Seminar in Theory and Public Policy
 - PPEL262 SEM IN LAW & SOCIAL ORDER PPEL Seminar in Law and Social Order
 - PPEL363 RATIONAL CHOICE & POL THEORY Rational Choice and Political Theory
 - PPEL401 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR PPEL Capstone Seminar
- Area Courses
 - One course in normative ethics
 - One course in normative political theory/political philosophy
 - One law-related course
 - Note: Area requirements can be fulfilled by courses in a variety of departments and schools. Majors should consult the PPEL website for an up to date list of approved courses. Exactly one area course may also count toward the 5 units within the primary concentration field.
- Concentration
 - A required concentration chosen from Economics, Politics, or Philosophy including:
 - Five units selected from within the primary concentration field.
 - One unit from each of the other two concentration fields.

Notes:

Students may petition the coordinator to have a new course count as an area or concentration course.

No more than half of the courses satisfying the requirements of the major may be taken in a single department.

With the exception of Leadership Studies, no more than three courses that count toward the completion of another major may also count toward the PPEL major. No more than four courses that count toward the completion of a Leadership Studies major may also count toward the PPEL major.

Study abroad is strongly encouraged. Upon approval of the PPEL coordinator, relevant coursework abroad can substitute for PPEL major requirements with the exception of PPEL261 SEM IN THEORY & PUBLIC POLICY, PPEL262 SEM IN LAW & SOCIAL ORDER, PPEL363 RATIONAL CHOICE & POL THEORY and PPEL401 SENIOR CAPSTONE SEMINAR.

Students seeking an exception to any of the major requirements must submit a petition to the PPEL Advisory Committee. No exceptions or substitutions will be made for the four core courses. Please see the PPEL coordinator for additional information. Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Dual-Degree (3-2) Engineering Program

Building on the strengths of majors in physics, mathematics, computer science, chemistry, and biology, the School of Arts and Sciences offers students with special career goals the ability to pursue dual degrees in a five-year period. Some opportunities allow a student to earn a Bachelor of Science from Richmond and also a Bachelor of Science from a cooperating engineering school, while others enable a student to complete an undergraduate degree from Richmond and an accelerated master's degree in engineering from a partner institution--all within a five-year period. The physics department's pre-engineering advisor can provide information about participating programs and requirements.

Courses

CODE	NAME	DESCRIPTION
PHYS121	Astronomy with Lab	Celestial motions, stellar structure, cosmology, and related problems including appropriate concepts of elementary physics. Not among the recommended options for science or math majors. Includes laboratory.
PHYS123	Renewable Energy with Lab	Principles of physics applied to renewable energy technologies. Topics selected from climate, geothermal energy, solar thermal energy, solar photovoltaics, hydroelectricity, wind energy, tidal power and wave energy, and bioenergy. Includes laboratory...
PHYS125	Elements of Physics with Lab	Principles and applications of physics. Topics selected from mechanics, sound, light, electricity, magnetism, heat, and modern physics. Not among the recommended options for science or math majors. Includes laboratory.
PHYS127	Algebra-Based General Physics 1 with Lab	First of a two semester sequence in general physics. Topics for Physics 127 include kinematics, forces, conservation of momentum, work and energy, rotational motion, and oscillations. Includes laboratory. NOTE: Physics 127 is not a prerequisite to 1...

CODE	NAME	DESCRIPTION
PHYS128	Algebra-Based General Physics 2 with Lab	Second semester of a two semester sequence in general physics. Topics for Physics 128 include electricity and magnetism, heat and thermodynamics, and wave optics. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may not receive credit for both Physics 132 and 12...
PHYS131	Calculus-Based General Physics 1 with Lab	First semester of a calculus-based introductory sequence. Topics for Physics 131 include kinematics, forces, conservation of momentum, work and energy, rotational motion, and oscillations. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may not receive credit...
PHYS132	Calculus-Based General Physics 2 with Lab	Second semester of a calculus-based introductory sequence. Topics for Physics 132 include electricity and magnetism, heat and thermodynamics, and wave optics. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may not receive credit for both Physics 132 and 128. A...
PHYS201	Einstein's Relativity	Focuses primarily on special relativity as it relates to time, space, velocity, momentum, and energy. This course is identical to the first half of PHYS 205, and meets concurrently with it for the first 7 weeks of the semester. Students may not ear...
PHYS202	Particle/Wave Duality and the Quantum Revolution	Introduces ideas of particle/wave duality that are central to understanding quantum mechanics, a major revolution in early 20th century physics. This course is identical to the second half of PHYS 205, and meets concurrently with it for the second 7...
PHYS204	Biophysics	Application of physical law to the biological sciences. Introduces selected concepts and experiments in the field of biophysics. Topics may include but are not limited to diffusion, cell signaling, molecular binding, and computational biophysics.
PHYS205	Introduction to Modern Physics	Introduction to topics in 20th-century physics including special relativity, quantum mechanics, and statistical physics. The first half of this course is identical to, and meets concurrently with, PHYS 201. The second half of this course is exactly...
PHYS215	Computational Methods in Physics	Uses Mathematica software to introduce students to computational techniques used to solve physics problems, basic programming skills, and analysis of computational data. The course consists of a combination of lectures and computational labs. Comput...
PHYS216	Electronics Laboratory	Laboratory course in basic electronics and instrumentation for the sciences and engineering. Study of DC and AC circuits, resistors, capacitors, inductors, filters, diodes, rectifiers, transistors, operational amplifiers, Boolean algebra and logic, d...
PHYS221	Intermediate Laboratory	Experiments in classical and modern physics emphasizing independent work. Six laboratory hours per week.
PHYS231	Optics Laboratory	Focuses on optics. Includes the study of (1) ray optics: lenses, system of lenses, lens aberrations (2) scalar wave optics: diffraction, interference (3) polarization of light: states of polarization, polarizers, wave retarders. Emphasizes the relat...
PHYS250	Cosmology	Application of physics to contemporary understanding of the structure, evolution, and origin of the Universe as a whole. Topics include observational evidence for the Hot Big Bang cosmological model, dark matter, dark energy, and the physics of the e...
PHYS260	Mathematical Methods in Physics	Selected mathematical topics needed for upper-level work in physics. Topics taken from vector calculus, matrices, calculus of variations, orthogonal functions, and complex analysis.
PHYS303	Classical Mechanics	Mathematical analysis of physical laws pertaining to dynamics of particles and rigid bodies. Introduction to moving coordinate systems and Lagrange's and Hamilton's methods.
PHYS305	Electricity and Magnetism I	A full treatment of electrostatics (electric field and potential, and Gauss' law), magnetism, electric and magnetic fields in matter, and induced fields, as well as a brief introduction to electromagnetic waves. A particular focus will be on solving...
PHYS306	Electricity and Magnetism 2	Selected advanced topics in electromagnetism, including electromagnetic waves in materials, guided waves, radiation, and relativistic electrodynamics.
PHYS308	Statistical Physics and Thermodynamics	Statistical methods applied to description of physical systems. Statistical calculation of thermodynamic quantities, laws of thermodynamics, statistical distributions, and classical and quantum statistics of ideal gases. (Same as Chemistry 308.)
PHYS309	Quantum Mechanics	Wave mechanics and quantization; Schroedinger equation for variety of potentials; hydrogen atom in detail; perturbation methods. (Same as Chemistry 401.)
PHYS310	Quantum Mechanics 2	Wave mechanics and quantization; Schroedinger equation for variety of potentials; hydrogen atom in detail; perturbation methods. (Same as Chemistry 401)
PHYS381	Research	Laboratory or independent study. 0.5 units requires six hours per week. Available for 0, .25, or .5 units. May be taken multiple times, up to a maximum of 2.0 units.
PHYS397	Junior Seminar 1	Required of all third-year physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.
PHYS398	Junior Seminar 2	Required of all third-year physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.
PHYS406	Summer Undergraduate Research	Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 6 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at leas...
PHYS479	Special Topics	Topics include particle and nuclear physics, solid state, modern optics, relativity, field theory.
PHYS497	Senior Seminar 1	Required of all senior physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.
PHYS498	Senior Seminar 2	Required of all senior physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.

Honors

Honors Program

Specific requirements for honors in physics:

1. A cumulative GPA of at least 3.3 in their physics courses, in addition to the 3.3 GPA required overall.
2. At least 3.5 units of courses designated as honors courses. These courses will be divided as follows:

(a) One unit must be independent research, typically done as research with an individual physics faculty member. These will typically be fulfilled by two semesters PHYS 381 for 0.5 credit units each.

(b) 0.5 units must be from taking both semesters of senior seminar, PHYS 497 and PHYS 498. As a part of this course, physics honors students will be required to present at least one oral presentation on the topic of their independent research undertaken for part (a). Physics honors students will also be required to present a final written thesis describing their research. The thesis and oral presentation must be approved at an honors level by the research supervisor and at least two additional readers within the physics department, or their designees.

(c) The remaining courses (2.0 units) may be any courses in physics numbered 200 or higher, including approved transfer courses, that are specifically above the current requirements for a B.S. in physics.

CODE	NAME	DESCRIPTION
PLSC220	Introduction to American Government	Basic roles, structures, and functions of American political institutions and introduction to American political process.
PLSC240	Introduction to Comparative Government	Concepts, approaches, classifications, and models useful in comparing political structures and processes. Political systems characteristic of countries with different cultures and levels of economic development.
PLSC250	Introduction to International Relations	Framework for analyzing contemporary international system: goals of nation-states and other actors; how such actors attempt to achieve their goals; and some forces that help or hinder attainment of goals.
PLSC260	Introduction to Public Policy	Contemporary social and economic problems in America, public policies adopted or proposed to deal with them, and ways of analyzing those problems and policies.
PLSC270	Social Science Inquiry	Introduction to the process of social science research and inquiry. Includes instruction on forming a research question, preparing a literature review, developing a research design, and undertaking analysis using selected quantitative or qualitative...
PLSC279	Selected Topics	May be repeated for credit when topic varies.
PLSC310	Statemanship	(See Leadership Studies 378.)
PLSC311	Classical Political Thought	Enduring basic issues in political theory studied through writings of Plato, Aristotle and other thinkers from ancient Greece through the Renaissance.
PLSC312	Modern Political Theory	Ideas of major political philosophers from the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries, such as Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, Burke, Hegel, Marx, Tocqueville, and J. S. Mill.
PLSC315	American Political Theory	Political thought in America from colonial times to present with an emphasis on issues relating to liberty, equality, federalism, community, and national purpose.
PLSC323	Money, Politics and Prisons	The connections between the economy, politics, and the prison system in the United States are important for understanding concepts of justice in a democracy. Explores links between privatization of prisons, political incentives, and theories of justice...

CODE	NAME	DESCRIPTION
PLSC325	Racial Politics	Comparative examination of the history, problems and political role of minority groups in the U.S., with a concentration on the African-American political experience.
PLSC326	United States Congress	Organization and functions of American Congress.
PLSC327	The American Presidency	Political leadership in American political system from perspective of chief executive. Particular attention to expansion and use of presidential power.
PLSC328	American Political Parties	Examines American political parties as organizations and their role in elections, government, and public policy. Also explores how parties have changed over time and the causes and effects of growing party polarization.
PLSC329	Campaigns and Elections	Analysis of institutions and process of American electoral system and behavior of American electorate.
PLSC330	Creation of the American Republic	Examines principles and practice of leadership within political context of the founding of the American Republic from 1776 through 1788. Primary focus will be on day-to-day work of the Constitutional Convention and the subsequent debates over ratific...
PLSC331	Constitutional Law	Role of United States Supreme Court in American politics studied through examination of landmark constitutional decisions pertaining to distribution of governmental powers.
PLSC333	Civil Rights and Civil Liberties	Analysis of contemporary legal status and interpretation of constitutional rights and liberties. Emphasis on landmark Supreme Court decisions involving various provisions of the Bill of Rights and the Fourteenth Amendment.
PLSC336	SCOTUS & Criminal Procedure	This course critically analyzes the Supreme Court's interpretation and application surrounding the constitutional rights of the criminally accused in our American legal system. Emphasis on landmark Supreme Court decisions involving the Fourth, Fifth,...
PLSC337	The American Legal System	Analysis of structure, processes, and personnel of American legal system. Emphasis on decision making of private parties, judges, juries, and attorneys in context of civil litigation and criminal prosecution.
PLSC338	Critical Race Theory	This course introduces students to critical race theory, an intellectual movement that considers why the liberal legal tradition and law address structural and institutional racism.
PLSC339	Jurisprudence and Contemporary American Politics	Explores basic questions about the nature and function of law as an instrument of state power that are deeply interconnected with a wide range of political and legal problems.
PLSC342	Politics of the Middle East and North Africa	This course covers the politics of the Middle East and North Africa region. This includes topics such as oil and climate change, authoritarian regimes, civil war and sectarian conflicts, and Muslim societies.
PLSC343	Politics of Asia	Study of historical, cultural, and social forces shaping contemporary politics of Asia. Comparative survey of major political systems and critical examination of key issues. Attempts to link Asian studies with mainstream political science.
PLSC344	Europe Today	An examination of political, social, and economic developments in Europe (both western and east-central) since World War II. Topics include European integration and the development of the European Union institutions, postcommunist transitions and the...
PLSC345	Politics of Contemporary China	Study of China's political system and policies in the reform era. Topics include party and state institutions, policies of reform, and politics on China's periphery. Implications for social relationships, national identity, popular culture, and moral...
PLSC348	Politics of Africa	Comparative study of state formation, nation-building, political economy, social structure/movements, selected regions and countries in Africa.
PLSC349	Politics of Latin America and the Caribbean	Influence of historical, social, and cultural forces on contemporary politics of Latin America and the Caribbean. Effects of social structure and underdevelopment on processes of democratization, institution building, national integration, and econom...
PLSC350	American Foreign Policy	Analyzes the traditions, processes, substance, and goals of American foreign policy, in addition to exploring national security and defense policy, foreign economic policy, international diplomacy, and foreign policy ethics.
PLSC351	Globalization	Analysis of the political, economic, and socio-cultural dimensions of globalization. Considers how globalization has affected the nation state, interstate relations, and the democratization and development of countries around the world. Students will...
PLSC353	International Security	Investigates international issues that threaten the security and prosperity of societies and individuals in the modern world. Issues include global terrorism, human slavery and trafficking, genocide, civil wars and insurgencies, and the proliferation...
PLSC356	International Political Economy	Politics, processes, and institutions underlying contemporary global economic interdependence, with special focus on international trade, finance, and assistance; alternative theoretical models for understanding these events, processes, and instituti...
PLSC359	Global Governance	Analyzes themes and selected topics in global governance. It explores how state and nonstate actors work together to confront and solve contemporary transnational challenges. (Same as International Studies 359)
PLSC360	International Development Policy	Assistance policies of wealthy nations and multilateral organizations, development policies and problems of poor or underdeveloped nations, and dynamics of economic, political, environmental, and cultural transactions.
PLSC361	The Politics of Social Welfare	Study of the development and effectiveness of programs in the United States that seek to promote economic equality and alleviate need. A focus on programs for both the poor and the middle class.
PLSC362	Environmental Law and Policy	Examines legal aspects, both regulations and case law, of environmental policy. Central issues are whether legal responses (1) effectively address the needs of the parties most affected; (2) properly weigh such facts as economic efficiency, protectio...

- PLSC400 Senior Seminar
- Five elective units
 - Four electives at the 300 level.
 - The fifth elective may be taken at the 200 or 300 level

Note:

The major must include a minimum of six units of University of Richmond political science courses. No more than two units of credit toward the major can be given for courses, including cross-listed courses, offered by other departments or schools at the University.

With Department approval (by the Chair), students may transfer credit for up to three courses that count toward the Political Science major.

Study abroad and internships also are encouraged. Students who have an interest in attending law school should consult with the pre-law advisor; students interested in attending graduate school should consult with the department chair about undergraduate courses that they should consider taking.

Political Science

Honors

Honors Program

University of Richmond

The political science honors program recognizes the most distinguished majors and requires the completion of an honors thesis over the course of three semesters. To be eligible to apply, the minimum cumulative GPA is 3.5, and the minimum GPA for Political Science coursework is 3.7. Applicants should develop a topic for their honors thesis and secure the support of a thesis advisor in the department. The honors program requires students to take a 0.5-unit independent study, PLSC 490 Research Prospectus, in their junior year in which they will develop a full proposal for their honors thesis under the supervision of their thesis advisor. The research and writing of the honors thesis will be completed in PLSC491 HONORS INDEP RESEARCH & WRITIN and PLSC492 HONORS INDEP RESEARCH & WRITING, taken in the fall and spring semesters, respectively, of senior year. Honors students must successfully defend their thesis before a committee of at least two readers, including the thesis advisor, and present their research at the School of Arts & Sciences Student Symposium in April of the senior year. Honors students must complete 11.5 units of Political Science coursework including the 2.5 credit honors sequence (PLSC490 RESEARCH PROSPECTUS, PLSC491 HONORS INDEP RESEARCH & WRITIN, PLSC492 HONORS INDEP RESEARCH & WRITING). The thesis will fulfill the senior capstone requirement for the major and honors students are exempt from taking PLSC400 SENIOR SEMINAR.

Ideally, honors students will take PLSC490 RESEARCH PROSPECTUS in the spring of their junior year. However, if students expect they will not be in residence that semester, they should take PLSC490 RESEARCH PROSPECTUS in the fall of their junior year. If a student plans to take PLSC490 RESEARCH PROSPECTUS in the fall semester of the junior year, the deadline for application to the Honors Program will be March 15 of sophomore year. Students must have completed a minimum of 12 units to apply. If a student plans to take PLSC490 RESEARCH PROSPECTUS in the spring semester, the deadline for application will be October 15 of the junior year. Students must have completed a minimum of 16 units to apply. All honors students must complete PLSC270 SOCIAL SCIENCE INQUIRY by the end of their junior year.

The Department of Psychology offers a rigorous, graduated curriculum that combines high aspirations for achievement in an environment rich in opportunities for intellectual stimulation and growth. Our primary mission is to provide an inclusive and welcoming academic setting for students to become knowledgeable, skilled, reflective, and highly accomplished, preparing them to excel in graduate and professional schools and careers. We prepare students to lead productive lives characterized by an inquiring attitude, engagement in the life of mind, and immersion in the larger community. Our faculty are dedicated to excellence in teaching and scholarship, and seek to cultivate in students a love of learning and involvement in their academic community by providing multifaceted mentoring opportunities. We strive to encourage and empower students as they work towards reaching their potential.

The psychology faculty believe that education is as much an activity as it is a body of knowledge. As professors, we embrace pedagogical approaches that emphasize diversity and inclusivity; transparency in the use of scientific methods; curiosity about the world and its phenomena; intellectual challenge and complexity; familiarity with primary source materials; interactive and collaborative learning; critical and analytical thinking; mastery in oral and written expression and communication; and the historical, philosophical, and current cornerstones of psychological science. We value psychology's connections to the arts, humanities, and natural sciences; we embrace diverse perspectives and individual differences; we promote student involvement in local and international culture, community, and society; and we teach the ethics of conducting and applying psychological science. These curricular emphases reflect our educational goals and aspirations. They represent directions for fostering, challenging, and strengthening our students' intellectual and interpersonal experiences, and they pervade all levels of our curriculum, from the introductory to the most advanced. Collaborative research pursuits between faculty and students are the centerpiece of the psychology major.

Study Abroad

Psychology majors are encouraged to study abroad. Students should plan to take their 300-level laboratory courses at UR and use their time abroad to take electives for the major, as well as other courses outside of the major that they need for graduation. The key to successful integration of a study abroad experience with a psychology major is early and careful planning with the student's advisor and department chair.

Major

The Religious Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

Nine units, including:

- Four units at the 300 level, excluding RELG388 INDIVIDUAL INTERNSHIP, RELG395 INDEPENDENT STUDY, RELG396 INDEPENDENT STUDY
- Five elective units in religious studies

The religious studies major is designed to offer students a broad education while providing them with the interpretive tools from the field of religious studies. The department encourages double majors. In addition, cognate courses in other departments may be included within the required nine units, with the approval in advance of the religious studies department. Under no circumstances will more than two extra-departmental courses be accepted as part of those nine units.

Honors

Honors Program

Qualified students may apply to work for honors at the discretion of the department. A major who wishes to pursue honors should meet with the honors coordinator, usually no later than the first semester of the junior year. The department will then invite selected students to apply for honors, at which point those students will meet with the honors coordinator to plan a designated honors program in conjunction with a faculty advisor. The honors program will normally consist of four related courses, approved by the honors committee of the School of Arts and Sciences, two of which will be RELG403 HONORS COURSE-RELG404 HONORS COURSE, culminating in an honors thesis. The advisor and two other members of the department will constitute the thesis committee for each thesis and will supervise the required oral defense. Honors will be granted only to those students whose theses meet departmental standards.

Rhetoric and Communication Studies

Honors

Honors Program

The Honors Program is designed for outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard course work. Its purpose is to provide these students the opportunity to broaden and deepen their knowledge of the major field.

Eligibility and Admission

To be eligible for admission to the Honors program a student should have:

1. 18.5 or more units of completed work
2. A cumulative grade point average of at least 3.3;
3. 3.5 or more units in the major field (exclusive of courses primarily for freshmen) with evidence of distinguished achievement.

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of the major department and the approval of the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Students may request consideration by their department, or departments may invite a student to apply.

Each application will include a program of study planned in consultation with the major department and will indicate specifically how the student's Honors Program is to be accomplished. The application, along with an advising copy of the student's transcript, will then be presented by the department to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program by about November 15th for the fall term applicant and by about March 15th for the spring term applicant.

Program of Study

Each student's program of study will include at least 3.5 units of Honors course work and must meet all Honors requirements set by the major department. Course work may include Honors seminars, Honors independent/directed study courses in which the student meets at least weekly with one or more professors, Honors research courses, and standard courses taken for Honors credit. Standard courses taken for Honors credit may be either (1) courses in the student's regular course of study that require extra work of a kind approved by the departmental Honors committee or (2) courses, approved by the departmental Honors committee, in the student's area of study, that are in addition to any departmental major requirements. Courses of type (1) are the norm. Any program that wishes to incorporate courses of type (2) as part of their Honors requirements must submit significant justification for approval by the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program. No more than two courses may be standard courses taken for Honors credit (and with work appropriate to Honors status).

To demonstrate superior achievement, Honors students are normally required to submit a written Honors thesis to the major department in time for a final grade to be submitted to the registrar. At the discretion of the major department an alternative work that presents a comparable challenge to intellectual initiative and academic achievement may be substituted. All thesis work should be read and evaluated by more than one reader and, if appropriate, presented publicly in a departmental or Arts and Sciences forum. Departments may also require that students pass written and / or oral comprehensive examinations.

All Honors students are to maintain a grade point average of at least 3.3 while participating in the program. Exceptions require approval by the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

If at any time the student or the major department decides that Honors work should not continue, the department should submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Recognition of Honors Work

A student who successfully completes the Honors Program will receive the degree with Departmental Honors, to be noted on the student's permanent record along with the title of the Honors Thesis or comparable work. The student's diploma and the Commencement Program will also indicate achievement of Departmental Honors, and the Honors Thesis or equivalent will be preserved in a separate collection in Boatwright Library.

Science Math and Research Training (SMART)

Faculty: H. Hoke (Mathematics and Computer Science), K. Hoke (Mathematics and Computer Science), Jones (Biology), Nolin (Chemistry), Parish (Chemistry), Wares (Mathematics and Computer Science)

University of Richmond

Faculty at the University of Richmond feel strongly that all science students should have the option of learning in an interdisciplinary environment. The Science Math and Research Training (SMART) course is taught at the introductory level. For students who wish to formally continue exploring science in an integrated fashion past the introductory level, a minor in Integrated Science is also available.

SMART introduces the topics of chemistry and biology in an integrated fashion while relating concepts of calculus 1 and 2 to science. The program offers a hands-on, research-based learning environment where working as part of a team is important. If you are interested in science but have not had calculus experience at the high school level, the SMART program may be for you. After completing the SMART course students have equivalent credit for Biology 199, Chemistry 141, Calculus 211 and Calculus 212, a total of four units.

The integrated biology-chemistry course will be team-taught by two faculty members each semester, one from each discipline. Each faculty member will attend all of the classes, exploring connections between disciplines along with the students. The calculus course is also team-taught and incorporates data obtained in the biology-chemistry course. In collaboration with the faculty from both the biology-chemistry and calculus courses, students will identify a lab to conduct research in, starting either during the first year or the summer following the first year at Richmond.

Training in fields such as biochemistry, neuroscience, and biomedical research, which are at the interface of traditional disciplines, is burgeoning as we tackle the challenging questions of our generation. To this end, SMART tackles the difficult problems of antibiotic resistance in the fall semester and the HIV epidemic in the spring semester.

The broad-based exposure to ideas and techniques from a variety of areas is excellent preparation for graduate and pre-professional work in any of the sciences as well as mathematics and computer science.

Science Math and Research Training (SMART)

Program

The SMART program has a fall component and a spring component, each of which carries a total of two units of credit. In the fall, students will take Integrated BIOL/CHEM 1 with Lab and SMART calculus 1. In the spring, students will take Integrated BIOL/CHEM 2 with Lab and SMART calculus 2.

Students who complete both components will have earned four units toward graduation and will have completed the curricular equivalent of:

- BIOL199 Introduction to Biological Thinking
- CHEM141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
- MATH211 Calculus I
- MATH212 Calculus II

SMART students will be able to enroll in any upper-level science or math course that requires any of the above courses.

Students who complete only one semester will have earned two units towards graduation. Integrated BIOL/CHEM 1 will substitute for BIOL199 for students who then go on to major in biology. SMART calculus 1 will substitute for MATH211.

By completing one semester of the program, students will have satisfied both the Field of Study requirement in the Natural Sciences (FSNS) and the Field of Study requirement in Symbolic Reasoning (FSSR).

Sociology

Department of Sociology and Anthropology

Jeffrey Hass, Chair

Professor Diaz-Barriga, Dorsey, Hass, Oware

Associate Professors French, Nourse, Richards, Sweis

Professionals from the field also are employed as adjunct faculty

Sociology is the systematic study of social life in order to understand the causes and consequences of human action. Sociologists study the structure and processes of modern, industrial societies. They examine how social structures (groups, organizations, and communities) and social institutions (family, education, religion, etc.) affect human attitudes, actions, and life-chances. Sociologists use various theoretical perspectives to understand such areas as culture, socialization, conformity and deviance, inequality, family patterns, race and ethnic relations, and social change. Combining theoretical perspectives with empirical research allows constant testing and refinement of the body of knowledge that comprises the field of sociology. Sociology offers students an opportunity to develop new insights and a different perspective on their lives and to understand everyday social life as a combination of both stable patterns of interaction and ubiquitous sources of social change.

Sociology

Honors

Honors Program

University of Richmond

The goal of the Sociology honors program is to give those students with superior interests and talents in the field to explore both sociology and personal intellectual interests and themes beyond the limits of typical courses offered. This will prepare these advanced students for possible graduate work or more advanced career prospects. Successful completion of the Honors Program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Eligibility and Admission

To qualify for the honors program in Sociology, a student should have:

1. 18.5 or more units completed overall
2. At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses
3. Excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 4 or more units completed with distinction in the major field and a 3.5 cumulative grade point average for Sociology courses

To enter the honors program, the student must submit a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of his or her junior year. These materials must be submitted to the department's Honors Committee coordinator for inspection, after which the chairperson and student discuss the details and demands of the honors program.

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of the department and the approval of the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Students may request consideration by their department, or the department may invite a student to apply.

Program of Study

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal BA requirements for Sociology, with required Theory & Methods courses (Sociology 221 and 211) completed by the end of the junior year to facilitate work on the senior thesis (see below). There are two additional upper-level one-unit courses (one of which can be outside the department and must be related to the topic of the senior thesis), and independent study for the senior thesis (see below), to be completed by the end of the senior year. (This will allow juniors with a clear program of study to take a useful course that might not be offered in his or her senior year.) The program of study for Honors is 12 units (10 units for the BA + 2 units for Honors Independent Study).
- Complete a senior thesis that addresses an original question or issue and that produces some original research (so as not to be a pure literature review of existing work). The thesis should be data-driven and demonstrate a grasp of existing literature and theory related to the issue at hand. While the senior thesis need not explicitly test sociological theory, it should engage relevant theory and not be purely empirical (although a purely empirical thesis is permissible if the student's advisor deems the project of having scholarly value). In preparation for undertaking the senior thesis, the student must agree with a faculty member, whose interests and expertise have the best possible fit with the student's intended thesis topic, to be his or her advisor for the thesis. The student and advisor should devise a basic plan for the project by the end of the spring semester of the junior year.
- For credit for the thesis, the student will take two one-unit Honors courses in the senior year, both involving work on the senior thesis: Honors Independent Study (autumn) and Honors Thesis (spring). This will involve at a minimum meeting once a week with the thesis supervisor to discuss and monitor progress in data collection, analysis, and write-up. (The former will involve monitoring and assessing progress in data collection and analysis through regular reports--the timetable depending on the particular project, in agreement with the student and advisor. Assessment for the latter will be the thesis product itself.) The thesis will be due in time for a final grade to be submitted to the registrar--preferably the Friday before the School of Arts & Sciences Student Symposium (April). The grade for the independent study is that for the senior thesis. The department encourages students who are prepared sufficiently early to apply for a University summer grant to facilitate research. This two-unit combination is in addition to the 10 units required for the Sociology BA.
- The senior thesis will be assessed and graded by the student's thesis advisor and the chair of the Honors Program. If one person fulfills both these roles, an outside person whose expertise is sufficiently close to the thesis topic will be asked to aid with assessment. In case of disagreement, another member of the department will be asked for his/her opinion on the appropriate grade to resolve the disagreement.
- The student must take two standard one-unit upper-level courses for Honors credit that include additional extra work agreed upon by the student, the course instructor, and the Honors program coordinator. One of those must be related to the intended senior thesis topic. This one course may be in any department, but in any case it should meet with the approval of the student's thesis advisor or Honors Program chair.

The student may withdraw at any time. Should he/she not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for Sociology coursework, the student will not receive credit for the Honors Program, and the department will submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

The department will encourage students in their junior year who appear qualified to consider the Honors Program seriously as soon as possible, to facilitate preparation for the senior thesis and any required summer work/research.

The Honors program coordinator will meet with participating students no less frequently than one time per month (or via email or other means of communication in the summer) to assess progress. The student and his/her advisor should develop a schedule for meetings and assessment they find most appropriate.

Honors

Honors Program

Outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond standard coursework have the opportunity to broaden and deepen knowledge in selected major fields through the Honors Program. To qualify, a student should have at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average, 18 or more units completed and, excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 3.5 or more units completed with distinction in the major field. To graduate with Honors, students must have attained a departmental GPA of 3.30 by the beginning of the fall semester of the senior year. The student also must maintain that GPA through the completion of the program and an overall GPA of no less than 3.0 while in the program.

Timeline

Fall Semester (Junior Year)

University of Richmond

Interested students consult with Department of Theatre and Dance faculty about their intention to apply to the Honors Program.

Spring Semester (Junior Year)

Students meet with potential faculty advisors to discuss the type of thesis they would like to produce. They should contact the Department Chair to receive the Honors Program application form and submit it by February 15. They receive official acceptance in the program in March or April and are assigned a faculty advisor for their Honors work. It is possible for a student to take one of the two courses with an Honors component during the spring semester. Those courses require students to do additional work over and above the normal requirements of the course.

Fall Semester (Senior Year)

Students accepted in the Honors Program register for THTR380 (Honors Thesis Preparation). They take one of the two courses with an Honors component.

Spring Semester (Senior Year)

Honors students take THTR481 (Honors Performance/Thesis). They take one of the two courses with an Honors component.

The Department of Art and Art History offers programs in visual and media arts practice, Western and non-Western art history, and museum studies. In the Modlin Center for the Arts, students work in an environment where they can develop their intellectual and creative abilities to the fullest potential. In addition to a rigorous and stimulating curriculum, students also participate in the activities of the university museums. The museums present exhibitions of both historical and contemporary art with related lectures, workshops, and symposia with visiting artists, critics, and art historians. A study abroad program allows students to study art and art history in approved programs under the direction of the Office of International Education. In visual and media arts practice, our integrated, rigorous art foundation program offers students broad exposure to the core areas of our curriculum; including drawing, painting, sculpture, printmaking, photography, and film and video. Emphasis is placed upon developing artwork that bridges established and emerging media and dismantles traditional divisions between the core areas of our curriculum. Our program is tailored to supporting individual student interests through creative studio projects, individual research, gallery and museum visits, and critiques and visual presentations.

Honors

Honors Program in Visual and Media Arts Practice

Majors are encouraged to apply for and pursue the honors program in studio art. To earn honors in visual and media arts practice a student must complete three units of honors credit with distinction through a combination of upper-level courses with thesis development and honors thesis exhibition. The program must be planned in consultation with the student's major advisor and the department. Honors students also must maintain an overall GPA of no less than 3.30 while in the program.

Wellness Program

HEALTH PROMOTION

Heather Sadowski, Director of Health Promotion

Marieka Turner, Health Educator

Kaylin Tingle, Healthy Relationships & Violence Prevention Educator

In keeping with the University's objective of fostering knowledge and personal well-being, every undergraduate student will complete a three part wellness series prior to graduation. Before arriving on campus, first year and transfer students will complete both Alcohol Edu and Haven, an online alcohol prevention and education program. Once on campus, students will complete WELL100 in their first semester. Students are also required to complete one WELL101 health education topics course. Classes are geared towards topics that will promote academic success and personal health.

As part of the University's on-going commitment to sexual misconduct education and prevention, all second year students will be required to complete Every Choice, an online bystander training program (WELL102) focusing on sexual misconduct prevention education. The course provides students with awareness, education and skills practice to assist them with engaging in proactive behaviors to intervene in situations of sexual misconduct. Upon completion, students will be equipped with basic bystander skills that will allow them to identify multiple options for intervention and assist them with identifying obstacles that would prevent action. The course will also inform students about sexual misconduct resources on and off campus resources. The course must be complete in the first six weeks of the semester.

The Department of Health Promotion within the division of Student Development, is responsible for the wellness graduation requirement. The wellness graduation requirement consists of the following classes, effective with the entering class in 2021 (earlier classes should review the catalog under which they entered):

Introduction to College Life at the University of Richmond (WELL100)

To view more information on the structure and guiding ideology of WELL100, please go to this link: <https://healthpromotion.richmond.edu/grad-requirement/well-100.html>

Plus 2 (WELL101) a wellness topic of choice

To view descriptions of courses, please go to this link: <https://healthpromotion.richmond.edu/grad-requirement/well-101.html>

Bystander Education Program (WELL102)

To view more info on WELL102, please go to this link: <https://healthpromotion.richmond.edu/grad-requirement/well-102.html>

Each course is graded with an S or U (Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory). WELL100 must be attempted and satisfactorily completed during the first semester of enrollment. WELL101 must be attempted and satisfactorily completed prior to the start of the fifth semester of enrollment. WELL102 must be attempted and satisfactorily completed within the first 6 weeks of the third semester of enrollment, or, for transfer students, in the first semester of enrollment. Students will have an administrative hold put on their record if they have not satisfactorily completed within the prescribed time period. This hold will prevent them from being able to register until they have made arrangements to take the class(es).

For questions concerning WELL100 & WELL101, please reach out to Marieka Turner, Health Educator for Health Promotion, at mturner@richmond.edu.

For questions concerning WELL102, please reach out to Kaylin Tingle, Healthy Relationships & Violence Prevention Educator for Health Promotion, at ktingle@richmond.edu.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in leadership studies, as well as a minor in leadership studies. To earn this degree a candidate must satisfactorily complete the curricular requirements outlined in the following section and meet the general degree requirements of the University.

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies seeks to develop in each student a base of knowledge for understanding leadership in a variety of settings. Curriculum goals are achieved through courses that emphasize both leadership theory and practice, thus helping students connect knowledge gained through coursework to the world outside of the classroom.

Admission Procedures

Admission Procedures

Students wishing to major or minor in leadership studies must apply for admission to the Jepson School during the fall semester of their second year.

A faculty committee reviews applications and chooses students based on essays and academic performance as well as faculty evaluations and extracurricular activities.

Prospective majors and minors must have completed or be enrolled in LDST 101 Leadership and the Humanities or LDST 102 Leadership and the Social Sciences to be considered for admission to the program. Both courses are required for the major and minor, but either course may be taken as a first course in leadership studies. After taking LDST 101 or LDST 102 and prior to admission, students may also take LDST 210 Justice and Civil Society. LDST electives are open to all students at the University.

Students seeking admission to the School need to attend information sessions, which are held in the fall. Application materials will be made accessible by the Associate Dean for Student and External Affairs once a student has attended an information session. The application deadline is the end of September. The new class is notified of acceptance in mid-October and the new class is welcomed into the Jepson community at the Prelude ceremony in November.

For further information, please contact:

Professors Bezio, Hoyt, Kaufman, Peart, Price, Wilkins

Associate Professors Flanigan, Hayter, Hidalgo, von Rueden, Williamson

Assistant Professors Chlouba, Chykina, Garifullina, Henley, Park

Study Abroad

Leadership studies students are encouraged to study abroad. Majors may count a maximum of one unit of study abroad credit toward the advanced course requirement. This course must enhance the student's academic plan in leadership studies. Determination of whether a course enhances a student's academic plan in leadership studies will be made by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Minors may not count study abroad credit toward the minor.

General Prerequisites

General Prerequisites for All Courses in the Robins School

Accounting 201, Economics 101 and 102, and Business Administration 202 are prerequisites to Marketing 320, Management 330 and 340, and Finance 360. In order to take core and/or upper level business classes, students must have a declared major or minor in the RSB or be identified as Pre-Business. In addition to the aforementioned required pre-business and core courses, a major must complete Accounting 202 (exceptions for Accounting majors and concentrators are noted in the department major and concentration descriptions), Business Administration 205, Management 225, Business Administration 393, Business Administration 394, and Business Administration 497 (or International Business 411 in the case of International Business concentration.) One international business or international economics course or a full semester University approved study abroad program is also required. Prerequisites for all RSB courses are provided in the course description and are required to be taken. In unusual circumstances, exceptions may be granted by permission of the Associate Dean for Undergraduate Programs.

Robins School of Business

Study Abroad

Study Abroad

All Robins School of Business students, even those not concentrating in international business, are encouraged to apply for study abroad. The Robins School enjoys relationships with leading business schools throughout the world. In accordance with University policy, credits will be transferred only from partner institutions or preapproved study programs. While studying abroad, students must complete a course that focuses on culture/society, history, political system, or economy of the host school's country or region. Students studying in a country where the native language is not English are required to participate in the host school's or other preapproved pre-semester language course, whether offered for credit or not. Students may complete no more than two courses in the same field. For example, a student may take no more than two marketing courses or two finance courses. Students may complete no more than two business school core courses while abroad. The associate dean for international business programs may grant exemptions to this policy in extreme circumstances and/or for students studying abroad for an entire academic year.

Robins School of Business

Honors Program

Honors Program

Outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond standard coursework have the opportunity to broaden and deepen knowledge in selected major fields through the honors program. Interested students should contact their major department to indicate interest and obtain further information. To qualify, a student should have at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average, 18 or more units completed and, excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 3.5 or more units completed with distinction in the major field. Successful completion of an honors program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Major

The Business Administration Major

In addition to the requirements for the B.S.B.A. degree outlined below, all business administration majors must complete a concentration. Except as otherwise noted on the concentration pages, a concentration area requires four courses minimum chosen from a single Robins School of Business department. A maximum of seven courses can be taken in any area of concentration.

Business administration majors must choose a concentration from the following areas: accounting, business analytics, economics, finance, international business, marketing, or management. A concentration in accounting or business analytics is always a secondary concentration to a primary concentration.

Candidates for a B.S.B.A. must:

- Satisfy the general degree requirements for graduation
- Complete the following foundational business courses:
 - ACCT201 Fundamentals of Financial Accounting
 - ACCT205 Fundamentals of Managerial Accounting
 - BUAD202 Statistics for Business and Economics
 - BUAD205 Business Communication
 - ECON101 Principles of Microeconomics
 - ECON102 Principles of Macroeconomics

Entrepreneurship

Faculty from all departments in the Robins School of Business provide instruction in this area.

Available to any undergraduate student other than those majoring in business, accounting, or economics, or minoring in business. This minor is specifically designed to provide non-business school students with knowledge and training that will allow them to practice their (non-business) major studies within start-up and small business environments. Entrepreneurship, innovation and design are inherently multi-disciplinary topics and so complement many other courses of study. Therefore, the program integrates business foundations with entrepreneurship and innovation skills. Thus, our goal is that students who pursue this minor will learn how to integrate their primary areas of study with knowledge from the courses embodied in this program to broaden their thinking, and enhance their creativity and problem solving skills.

Entrepreneurship

Minor

The Entrepreneurship Minor

The entrepreneurship minor is available to any undergraduate student other than those majoring in business, accounting, or economics, or minoring in business. (Business school students who are interested in entrepreneurship can take the Entrepreneurship concentration offered by the Management Department.) This minor is specifically designed to provide non-business school students with knowledge and training that will allow them to practice their (non-business) major studies within start-up and small business environments. Entrepreneurship, innovation, and design are inherently multi-disciplinary topics and complement many other courses of study. Therefore, the program integrates business foundations with entrepreneurship and innovation skills. Students who pursue this minor will learn how to integrate their primary areas of study with knowledge from the courses in this program to broaden their thinking, and enhance their creativity and problem-solving skills.

Students in the Entrepreneurship minor are required to take the following six courses:

- Fundamental business knowledge (three units):
 - ACCT 201 Fundamentals of Financial Accounting
 - ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
 - MKT 320 Principles of Marketing
- Entrepreneurship and Innovation (three units):
 - MGMT 247 Introduction to Entrepreneurship
 - MGMT 351 Managing Innovation
 - MGMT 352 New Venture Creation

Note: MKT 320 and MGMT 247 prerequisites BUAD 202 and ECON 102 will be waived for students pursuing the entrepreneurship minor.

 - or other international focused economics course approved by the associate dean for international business programs

Note: One course in international business knowledge from accounting, finance, marketing or management can apply to a second concentration.

International Cultural and Social Knowledge, two courses, including:

- One approved course with an international focus from the humanities. A list of approved humanities courses is available on the international business website.
- One approved course with an international focus from the social sciences. A list of approved social science courses is available on the international business website.

International Experience Requirements

The international experience requirements consist of cultural experiences and a work experience.

International Cultural Experience: Students concentrating in international business must complete two of three international cultural experiences:

University of Richmond

- Successfully complete an approved university-level program of study in a foreign country for at least one semester;
- Demonstrate proficiency in a second language. This may be done by earning a grade of C or better in a 300-level language course or by earning a satisfactory score on an appropriate language proficiency examination. Students whose first language is not English typically meet the language proficiency requirement and should contact the associate dean for international business programs;
- Live in another country for at least 12 continuous weeks other than study abroad experience

International Work Experience: An international work experience is required for the international business concentration. This requirement may be met by completing an approved internship in the U.S. in an organization's international section, or by working in an organization located outside the U.S.

Notes: Subject to prior approval of the associate dean for international business programs, working abroad may satisfy both the international work experience requirement and one of the two international cultural experience requirements.

Graduate School of Business

University of Richmond

Graduate School of Business

The Graduate School of Business offers two graduate programs to help graduates advance in their careers. The Master of Business Administration is a part-time MBA program made with working professionals in mind. This two-year program is rigorous and expansive, comprised of projects that will sharpen your skills and residencies that will broaden your perspective. The Master of Science in Management is a full-time, one-year program crafted particularly for college graduates with a non-business degree. By pursuing an MS in Management, you will acquire skills and analytical tools that provide you with a deeper understanding of business.

Graduate School of Business Admission

Master of Business Administration

Graduate study in business administration at the University of Richmond is designed for professionals who hold an undergraduate degree. The MBA degree program is a decision-based course of study that provides students with the ability to advance to higher levels of management in all types of organizations.

The objectives of the MBA program are:

- To prepare students for career growth as they move through different organizations and industries
- To provide students with the knowledge and tools to deal with contemporary business challenges
- To provide an educational environment that allows students to interact with peers who work in a broad range of companies and industries
- To provide a classroom experience that encourages analysis, decision-making, and written and verbal communication

Key characteristics of the MBA program in the Robins School of Business:

- The school of business is among a select group of business schools that are fully accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB International). The University of Richmond also is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools
- Outstanding facilities and teaching environment
- Class sizes of 15 to 25 students ensure a personal class environment
- Convenient location on the western outskirts of Richmond, with ease of parking close to the business school
- A wealth of data in our business information center
- An MBA faculty dedicated to quality teaching and to providing a real-world orientation to meet today's business challenges
- A student-centered approach to learning

Master of Business Administration

Courses and Curriculum

The MBA degree program includes 21 courses ranging from 1 to 3 credits. The core curriculum totals 37 credits and includes 17 courses, many of which serve as prerequisites to other courses. In addition, students will complete 4 courses (8 credits) of electives.

The only course transfer credits that will be considered will be equivalent graduate business courses completed at an AACSB-accredited school. A maximum of nine credits may be transferred into the program. See Academic Procedures section for specifics on transfer credits.

Students who have a degree in accounting, economics, or another business subject may be exempt from taking the Core Course covering that subject. For example, a student with a degree in Finance may be exempt from MBA 510 Financial Management; a student with a degree in accounting may be exempt from MBA 501 Financial and Managerial Accounting. Under such circumstances, the student will be required to take elective course(s) to replace the credit hours of the Core Course from which the student is exempt. Written approval by the Director must be obtained in advance if a student desires to substitute elective coursework for a Core Course requirement.

- Core Courses

The satisfactory completion of 17 core courses is required. These courses form a common body of knowledge of business administration. The core courses are:

- MBA500 Opening Residency
- MBA501 Accounting for Managers
- MBA504 Statistical Analysis for Business
- MBA506 Economics for Managers
- MBA508 Social, Ethical, and Legal Issues in Business
- MBA510 Financial Management
- MBA520 Marketing Management
- MBA530 Organizational Behavior
- MBA540 Operations Management
- MBA555 Analytics and Information
- MBA561 Principles of Business Communication
- MBA570 Global Environment of Business/International Residency

University of Richmond

- MBA580 Strategic Management
- MBA591 Capstone Project: Scope
- MBA592 CAP PROJ:ANLYS,INSIGHTS&RECOM Capstone Project: Analysis
- MBA593 CAP PROJ:IMPLMNT,IMPLCTN,FUTUR Capstone Project: Recommendations and Conclusion
- Four Elective Courses
 - The four elective courses, each of 2 or 3 credit hours, provide an opportunity for students to further skills and knowledge in areas of personal interest.

JD/MBA Curriculum Requirements

JD/MBA students normally substitute four law school elective courses for the MBA elective courses, and two courses (MBA508 SOCIAL/ETHICAL/LEGAL ISSUES and MBA561 PRIN OF BUSINESS COMMUNICATION) are waived from their degree requirements. More details and suggested curricula are available in the dean's office of each school. Students who are pursuing the combined JD/MBA program and who complete the JD degree before the MBA degree must satisfy the MBA degree requirements within one year of completing the JD requirements. Further, the requirements for both degrees must be completed within five years of the starting date of the degree program, JD or MBA, in which the students first enrolled.

Master of Business Administration

Curriculum Program Options

Option I: The MBA Program

The MBA program is designed to meet the needs of people holding responsible positions with Richmond-area business organizations and institutions, and who wish to continue their education on a part-time basis. Accordingly, all classes meet in the evening.

Option II: The JD/MBA Program

The JD/MBA program is offered through a reciprocal arrangement with the University of Richmond School of Law. A student may pursue a dual-degree program designed to provide its graduates with two degrees, the JD and the MBA, attesting to competency in both the law and in business administration. Because certain credits may count in both degree programs, the student pursuing this option may complete the JD and MBA degrees in less time than would be necessary to complete the two degrees independently.

For more information see, Law/Business Administration

Option III: The LL.M./MBA Program

For the LL.M./MBA program, students take classes over two academic years and the summers in between. Students take courses in both programs during both years, and need a total of 30 credits in the MBA program and 24 credits in the LL.M. program. In addition to the two required law school courses, students must take Business Associations unless a waiver is appropriate based on prior experience/education.

Master of Business Administration

Degree Requirements

Degree Requirements

To qualify for the Master of Business Administration degree, a candidate must complete the curriculum satisfactorily, including the achievement of at least a 3.00 grade point average (truncated to two decimal places) in all applicable coursework. Of the 45 required hours, the MBA candidate must complete at least 36 semester hours of applicable graduate-level coursework at the University of Richmond and must complete the curriculum requirements within five years of starting the program, unless amended by the graduate council.

To graduate, a student must file a degree application which must be filed in the Office of the University Registrar by the dates specified each year based on the semester of graduation. The graduate degree application form is available on BannerWeb under Student Services.

Degrees are awarded in person except by the decision of the University not to do so. A student who expects to graduate may request absentia status by explaining in writing the very unusual circumstance which prevents participation in the ceremony. This request must be received by the University Registrar no later than eight working days before the ceremony. The Registrar will notify the degree candidate of the status granted by the University. Unless approved as "absentia," a candidate for graduation who does not participate in the commencement ceremony does not graduate. Such a candidate may graduate at a later date by again filing a degree application and by following the appropriate commencement policy.

Note: No degree is conferred if the student's responsibilities to the University are in an unsatisfactory condition. Such responsibilities include financial and administrative matters such as, but not limited to, delinquent payments, parking fines, or overdue library books.

- Upper-Level Writing Requirement (ULWR)

- During either the second or third year of law school, each J.D. student must satisfactorily complete a substantial paper requiring in-depth research of a specific area of law. The paper must evidence a sophisticated knowledge of the law and provide a rigorous, thoughtful analysis of an unsettled area of the law, issue of first impression, or other legal topic requiring substantial original thinking. A paper meeting this requirement will be at least 5,000 words in length, not including citations. Any paper approved by the professor may satisfy this requirement, as long as above criteria are met, but examples of a qualifying paper include:
 1. A scholarly paper.
 2. An appellate brief (including an amicus brief).
 3. A policy memorandum.
- The paper must be written as part of a course or independent study of at least two credits, designated as ULWR on BannerWeb, and the paper must constitute a major part of the assessment in course. In addition, faculty must require certain input measures of student performance, including:
 1. Predrafting requirements (e.g., topic proposal and detailed outline).
 2. At least one full draft, on which the professor provides individualized feedback (e.g., one-on-one conferences, extensive written comments, etc.) that addresses both student writing and analysis.
 3. A final draft.

- Second- or Third-Year Elective Courses

- Note: A course in professional responsibility and the elective course Evidence must be satisfactorily completed by the end of the second year if the student wishes to qualify to appear in a Virginia court as a third-year student under the Third-Year Practice Rule. Students may obtain a Third-year Practice certificate after they have completed 56 credits, plus courses in Civil Procedure, Criminal Law, Evidence, and Professional Responsibility. This certificate allows a student to appear in some courts under the supervision of a licensed attorney.

Degrees

LL.M. for International Lawyers

Richmond Law's LL.M. is a one-year, full-time, master's level law program for lawyers whose first degree in law is from outside the United States. It offers an opportunity for lawyers to gain a strong grounding in U.S. law and the common law system while polishing their communication and legal English skills. Richmond is known for its outstanding faculty and the personalized attention that professors give each student.

LL.M. students are fully integrated into the J.D. program. They must complete 24 credits of academic coursework, including The U.S. Legal System and U.S. Legal Research and Writing. All other courses are elective, and LL.M. students may enroll in first year J.D. courses as well as upper-level courses and seminars.

Dual Degree Programs

Law/Business Administration

Law/Business Administration

The JD/MBA dual degree reflects the close relationship between law and business in many professions. Those who earn the dual degree are not only fully licensed attorneys, but are also able to handle the complex financial and business management challenges facing today's business leaders. JD/MBA graduates work in a variety of different fields and are exceptionally well-equipped to succeed in today's professional marketplace.

Admissions.

To obtain the JD/MBA degree, students must separately apply and be accepted into each program. Students in the program typically begin solely as JD students, and then apply for admission to the dual-degree program in the spring of their first year of law school. If they are accepted into the MBA portion of the program by the Robins School of Business, they will take both law and business courses during their remaining semesters. In addition, students will take business courses during their summers.

Degree Requirements

One of the benefits of the JD/MBA joint degree is that students can earn two degrees in less time than if they earned the degrees separately. The time savings is made possible through an adjustment in the degree requirements for each degree. The degree requirements for the JD/MBA dual degree are as follows:

JD DEGREE	MBA DEGREE
To earn the JD portion of the degree, JD/MBA students must • Complete all first-year courses in the JD program • Complete 44 credits of upper-level courses, including all required upper-level courses.	To earn the MBA portion of the degree, JD/MBA students must: • Complete the following courses ◦ Opening Residency ◦ Accounting ◦ Economics ◦ Finance ◦ Statistics ◦ International Residency ◦ Marketing ◦ Strategic Management ◦ Analytics and Information ◦ Operations ◦ Organizational Behavior ◦ Capstone 1, 2, & 3 • Complete four credits of elective coursework (which will normally consist of two 2-credit courses)

In addition to the above requirements, JD/MBA students must also comply with all other degree requirements for the JD and the MBA degrees, except to the extent those requirements are modified by anything stated herein. Additionally, JD/MBA students must enroll in at least 9 credits for a minimum of six semesters, and may not enroll in more than 18 credits in any semester. This 18-credit limit is subject to two exceptions. First, because the 2-credit Opening Residency course in the MBA program is administered in the summer but formally listed as a Fall semester course, students may enroll in 20 credits in the Fall of their second year ("Fall 2"). Second, a student may enroll in 19 credits in any other semester with special permission from both schools.

The Three-Year Pathway

Many students wish to complete the joint degree in three years. To assist students with this goal, the Law and Business Schools have created 3-year "pathway." Students wishing to graduate with both degrees in three academic years must follow the pathway listed below.

University of Richmond

YEAR		LAW COURSES (CREDITS)	MBA COURSES (CREDITS)
Year 1	Fall 1	Required first-year courses	No courses
	Spring 1	Required first-year courses	No courses
	Summer 1	No courses (0 cr.)	Opening Residency (2 cr.) Elective (2 cr.)
Year 2	Fall 2	JD courses (up to 12 cr.)	Accounting (3 cr.) Economics (3 cr.)
	Spring 2	JD courses (up to 10 cr.)	Marketing (3 cr.) Finance (3 cr.) Statistics (2 cr.)
	Summer 2	No courses (0 cr.)	International Resid. (3 cr.) Elective (2 cr.)
Year 3	Fall 3	JD courses (up to 11 cr.)	Strategic Mgmt. (3 cr.) Analytics & Info. (3 cr.) Capstone 1 (1 cr.)
	Spring 3	JD courses (up to 11 cr.)	Operations (3 cr.) Org. Behavior (2 cr.) Capstone 2+3 (2 cr.)
	Summer 3	No credits (study for bar exam)	No credits (study for bar exam)

Notes on the Pathway:

- Total Credits. Although students may decide how many upper-level JD credits to take in the Law Program for Fall 2, Spring 2, Fall 3 and Spring 3, they must be sure to take enough credits to meet the total upper-level credit requirement of 44. If students wish to graduate in three years, they will need to enroll in 18 credits (i.e., JD plus MBA credits) during each fall and spring semester, unless they take additional law credits during the summer.
- Summer Law Credits. Students may take law credits over the summer to reduce their fall or spring semester credit load. Tuition for these credits will be assessed at the rates listed below. Students should keep in mind, however, that taking summer Law credits will not exempt them from the requirement that they be enrolled in at least 9 and no more than 18 credits for six semesters.
- Course Requirements. In choosing their Law upper-level JD courses during Fall 2, Spring 2, Fall 3 and Spring 3, students should make sure to take courses that will satisfy the JD portion of their course requirements.
- Opening Residency. Although students will take the MBA Opening Residency during Summer 1, the credits for that course will be counted as part of Fall 2. As noted above, students may register for a total of 20 credits in Fall 2.

Tuition

Although JD/MBA students take courses in both the Law and Business schools, the tuition is assessed in accordance with the Law School tuition rates. In particular,

- 9 to 17 Credits. In any semester (fall or spring), in which the student is enrolled in 9 or more credits but 17 or fewer credits, a student in the JD/MBA program will pay the Law School's standard tuition for that academic year—which is a flat rate regardless of the number of credits. This tuition payment will cover all courses taken, regardless of whether the course is in the Law or Business School.
- Fewer than 9 Credits. In any semester (fall or spring), in which the student is enrolled in fewer than 9 credits, a student in the JD/MBA program will be assessed the Law School's standard tuition for that academic year, which is a per-credit rate. This tuition payment will cover all courses taken, regardless of whether the course is in the Law or Business School.
- More than 17 Credits. In any semester (fall or spring) in which the student is enrolled in more than 17 credits, a student in the JD/MBA program will be assessed, according to the tuition rates for that academic year, the (1) Law School's standard tuition for 9 to 17 credits plus (2) a per-credit tuition charge for the additional credits. This tuition payment will cover all courses taken, regardless of whether the course is in the Law or Business School.
- Summer school. Tuition for all summer school credits is assessed at the Law School rate for the academic year beginning in prior fall semester, irrespective of whether the courses are taken in the Law School or the Business School.
- Scholarships. Unless otherwise noted, scholarships awarded by the Law School cover six semesters of study, including credits of at least 9 but no more than 17 credits. This means that if a student follows the three-year pathway noted above, a Law scholarship will not apply to summer coursework nor to credits taken in excess of 17 credits. Scholarships from the Business School are not typically available to students pursuing a JD/MBA.

Dual Degree Programs

Law/Health Administration

Law/Health Administration

The delivery of health care services poses some of the most critical social, economic, and moral issues of our time. Lawyers representing individuals or health care providers confront myriad regulatory systems and issues fairly unique to this area. Health care policy makers and administrators are likewise concerned with the effective operation of entities within these regulatory confines and with the utility of these systems.

University of Richmond

Applicants for this program are required to meet the admission standards of both the law school and the VCU College of Health Professions Department of Health Administration.

When this program is successfully completed, the Master of Health Administration degree is awarded by Virginia Commonwealth University College of Health Professions, and the JD is awarded by the University of Richmond. The program integrates these two professional curricula and recognizes the role of law in health administration and prepares professionals to bring an integrated base of competency to the health law and administration arena. Participants are provided with the necessary expertise to represent clients effectively within the health care industry or to function as legal policy makers or administrators who appreciate fully the legal environment of the healthcare field.

The JD/MHA can be completed with a minimum 4 years of coordinated study and a minimum 123 credit hours instead of 146 credit hours. Students accepted into this program will be permitted to count 11 credit hours from the JD program towards the requirements of the MHA program and 12 credit hours in the MHA program towards the requirements of the JD program, for a total savings of 23 credit hours.

Dual Degree Programs

Law/Social Work

Law/Social Work

The JD/Master of Social Work program recognizes the role of public law in social and economic life and expects to bring together persons sensitive to both social and personal dysfunctions. This dual degree program prepares professionals to bring an integrated base of competency to the resolution of legal and social problems by bringing together two fields that call for knowledge and skills directed toward resolving human problems. This effort to integrate education in law and social work will draw on the contributions each can make to practice in both fields. When this program is successfully completed, the Master of Social Work with a concentration in administration, planning, and policy practice is awarded by Virginia Commonwealth University School of Social Work, and the Juris Doctor is awarded by the University of Richmond.

Applicants for this program are required to meet admission standards of both the law school and the VCU School of Social Work.

The JD/MSW can be completed with a minimum 4 years of coordinated study and a minimum 123 credit hours instead of 147 credit hours. Students accepted into this program will be permitted to apply 12 credit hours from the JD program toward the MSW program and 12 credit hours in the MSW program towards the requirements of the JD program, for a total savings of 24 credit hours.

Dual Degree Programs

Law/Public Administration

Law/Public Administration

The JD/Master of Public Administration program recognizes the role of law in public policy and public affairs. This dual degree program brings together persons interested in becoming well versed in the values, knowledge, and skills related to the work of government while integrating two fields that require complementary knowledge and skills. This integration draws on the contributions that each discipline can make to a professional knowledge base for practice in government in nonprofit sectors. When this program is successfully completed, the Master of Public Administration is awarded by Virginia Commonwealth University, and the Juris Doctor is awarded by the University of Richmond.

Applicants for this program are required to meet admission standards of both the law school and the VCU L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs Department of Public Administration.

The JD/MPA can be completed with a minimum 4 years of coordinated study and a minimum 99 credit hours instead of 123 credit hours. Students accepted into this program will be permitted to apply 12 credit hours from the JD program toward the MPA program and 12 credit hours in the MPA program towards the requirements of the JD program, for a total savings of 24 credit hours.

Dual Degree Programs

Law/Urban Studies and Planning

Law/Urban Studies and Planning

University of Richmond

The professions of planning and law address the concerns of social and economic equity through the institutions which help shape the direction of urban change. While lawyers often are concerned with the impact of legislation and judicial decisions on groups and individuals, planners concentrate on social, economic, and political impacts of land use with the aid of legal strategies to guide community growth and development.

Applicants for this program are required to meet the admission standards of both the law school and the VCU L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs Department of Urban Studies and Planning.

The Master of Urban and Regional Planning and Juris Doctor dual degree program integrates these two professional curricula to provide the necessary expertise to apply legal and planning analysis to the resolution of urban and regional policy issues and problems. Some areas of cooperation include the development and enforcement of land use and growth management controls, environmental protection strategies, housing and community development, and numerous health and welfare programs. Graduates are equipped for a variety of professional positions including staff or legislative committees, government agencies and commissions, private consulting, neighborhood advocacy, directorships of planning and related agencies, and executive or legal aids to elected officials. When the program is successfully completed, the Master of Urban Studies and Regional Planning degree is awarded by Virginia Commonwealth University and the Juris Doctor is awarded by the University of Richmond.

The JD/MURP can be completed with a minimum 4 years of coordinated study and a minimum 111 credit hours instead of 135 credit hours. Students accepted into this program will be permitted to apply 12 credit hours from the JD program toward the MURP program and 12 credit hours in the MURP program towards the requirements of the JD program, for a total savings of 24 credit hours.

J.D. Degree Certificates of Concentration

Certificate of Concentration in Intellectual Property

Certificate of Concentration in Intellectual Property - Overview

The Intellectual Property Institute offers Richmond Law students the opportunity to obtain a Certificate in Intellectual Property ("IP") in the course of earning the J.D. degree.

Earning the IP Certificate is similar to completing a major as an undergraduate student. The student must (1) take the Intellectual Property Fundamentals course and a certain number of additional credits from a designated group of other IP-related courses, (2) write his or her upper-level writing requirement on an IP-related subject, and (3) achieve a minimum grade point average in the Certificate courses. Students who satisfy the requirements receive the IP Certificate at graduation and Intellectual Property is recorded as a concentration on their academic transcript.

Required Courses

Intellectual Property Fundamentals (LAW 641): This three-credit course will serve as an introduction to the core subject matters within the field of IP and therefore must be taken in order to earn the Certificate.

Core IP Courses

Fifteen Total IP Credits: Each Certificate student must take a total of fifteen credits from the IP curriculum. These credits can come from three sources. First, as already discussed, three of the credits must come from the Intellectual Property Fundamentals course. Second, each student must take at least eight credits from the following "Core" IP courses (and may count more than eight credits from "Core" courses if he or she wishes).

LAW 699 Advising the Entrepreneur
LAW 788 Copyright Law
LAW 699 Cyber Crime
LAW 699 Cyberlaw
LAW 700 Entertainment Law
LAW 699 Information Privacy Law
LAW 790 Intellectual Property & Transactional Law Clinic
LAW 655 Intellectual Property Law and Policy
LAW 634 National Security & New Technologies
LAW 744 Patent Law
LAW 649 Technology Law
LAW 768 Trademark and Unfair Competition

Up to four credits from other sources may be counted toward the total of fifteen. This includes credits from the following "Satellite" courses.

University of Richmond

LAWE 607 Administrative Law
LAWE 699 AI in Legal Practice
LAWE 613 Antitrust
LAWE 657 Expert Evidence
LAWE 699 How to Run A Small/Solo Firm
LAWE 659 Law and Economics
LAWE 618 Payments in the 21st Century-How Money Moves
LAWE 699 Reading Group: Comics & the Law
LAWE 656 Remedies
LAWE 690 Sport and Law
LAWE 699 Starting a Small / Solo Practice

The four credits from other sources can also include credits from Independent Studies, Research Assistance, clinical placements, IP moot court competitions, and courses taught outside of the University of Richmond School of Law but all such credits must be approved as sufficiently IP-related by the Director of the IP Institute, in consultation with the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

J.D. Degree Certificates of Concentration

Certificate of Concentration in Family Law

Certificate of Concentration in Family Law - Overview

The National Center for Family Law offers law students at the University of Richmond the opportunity to earn a Certificate of Concentration in Family Law to be awarded at graduation along with the J.D. diploma. Transcripts will also reflect completion of the concentration program.

Earning the Certificate of Concentration in Family Law is similar to completing a major as an undergraduate. A student must take a basic Family Law course and a certain number of credits from other Family Law-related courses. Students seeking the Certificate of Concentration in Family Law will meet their upper-level writing requirement by writing on a family law-related subject.

Certificates will be awarded only to those who achieve a grade point average of at least 3.0 in all family law concentration classes taken. Students whose GPA is 3.5 or higher in concentration courses will earn the certificate "with distinction."

Total Family Law Credits Required

Each student must earn 24 credits from courses listed as "required," "target" or "concentration" courses.

School of Professional & Continuing Studies

Invitation from Dean Wilson

The School of Professional and Continuing Studies is one of five academic schools at the University of Richmond, each with a specific mission but all united in a shared commitment to providing an extraordinary learning experience for each and every one of its students. We are One Richmond, an integral part of the fabric of the University.

Our mission at SPCS is to "enrich lives and careers for the 21st century" by meeting the educational needs of learners of all ages with a particular focus on students like you — non-traditional adult learners and working professionals. We serve students like you by offering undergraduate and graduate degrees and certificates along with a wide variety of noncredit programs and services. All of our programs are designed to recognize and support the unique circumstances of adult students, circumstances that often involve juggling the demands of school with work, family, and social and civic obligations.

Whatever your relationship with the School and University, we hope you'll engage with us on our website, in social media, and in person, here on the remarkable campus of the University of Richmond. We'd like to become part of your personal and professional story of success.

I invite you to explore the offerings of the SPCS and extend my best wishes for success in your studies.

Jamelle S. Wilson, Ed.D.
Dean

School of Professional & Continuing Studies

About the School of Professional & Continuing Studies

The origin of the School of Professional and Continuing Studies may be traced back to 1920 when the department of economics of Richmond College was formed, eventually to become the department of economics and applied economics. In 1924 the Evening School of Business Administration was organized as a separate division of the University of Richmond. In 1949 the department of economics and applied economics in Richmond College was combined with the Evening School of Business Administration with both day and evening classes. In 1962 the Evening Division was separated from the School of Business Administration to form the nucleus of University College. From 1964 until 1974, University College offered a full-time freshman and sophomore day liberal arts program in addition to its full Evening School program.

On July 1, 1974, the Summer School, founded in 1920, became part of University College. In keeping with the University's tradition of residential colleges and academic schools, University College became the School of Continuing Studies in October 1994. In 2012 the name changed to reflect the professional character of its student body to become the School of Professional and Continuing Studies.

University of Richmond

Through its degree programs, the School of Professional and Continuing Studies offers master's and bachelor's degrees; undergraduate and graduate certificates; undergraduate minors; and a variety of individual courses to meet the educational, professional and personal growth needs of adults in the metropolitan Richmond area and beyond. The School of Professional and Continuing Studies shares in the tradition of the University of Richmond. It is through the non-traditional educational opportunities of the School that the University offers its strengths and resources to the Richmond area community.

ANTH340 - Borders and Migration

General

Subject code Course Number
ANTH 340
Department(s)

Description

When the Berlin Wall fell in 1989, pundits rejoiced at the dawn of a new world without walls. Instead, walls are becoming increasingly common. This course investigates how walls symbolize and contribute to the tension between security and control on the one hand, and freedom on the other. Why is violence at borders escalating? What are impacts of border securitization on the lives of border residents? How should we understand the opening of borders to trade and closing borders to migrants? From the Rio Grande Valley of Texas to the borderlands of Afghanistan, this course deploys ethnography to investigate issues commonplace to zones of contact such as linguistic variation and innovation as well as the role of the state in constructing and codifying notions of citizenship and sovereignty at international (and in some cases interior) boundaries.

Description

From pyramids and pyres to simple pine caskets, the different ways people treat the dead and mark graves can reflect how human societies are organized and individual identities defined. Unlike most other archaeological contexts, burials are intentional deposits that reflect conscious decisions as well as embedded cultural traditions and, often, religious beliefs. Students in this course will learn and assess different approaches archaeologists use to discover, analyze, and interpret mortuary evidence. They will also apply basic methods of 'above-ground' cemetery archaeology and genealogical research to help recover buried history and contribute to public scholarship, with a collaborative community-engaged project focusing on a historic African American cemetery in the Richmond area.

Description

The Gilded Age in American history was the modern United States' formative period. It was an exciting, exuberant, innovative, progressive, glittering era in which America was in the process of becoming a world power. But the Gilded Age was also an era of greed, guile, corruption, poverty, and inequality. Learn about the rise of America to global status, about the American artists of the period and their work, about the nation's urbanization and industrialization, about the new American millionaires, and about why Mark Twain called the era "gilded" rather than "golden."

Description

In East Asian painting, poetry and calligraphy are often referred to as the "three jewels" for the high respect that they are given, and the way that they interact. A poet, using brush and ink on paper, may add a design to his words, and in that moment the three arts become one. Students will have the opportunity to try their own hand at these arts, so historical study will be balanced by creative work.

Description

The first half of a one-year capstone experience for the senior major in art history. Serves to strengthen those research and critical thinking skills introduced in First Year Seminars and further developed upper-level seminars in art history. Assignments center on identifying, evaluating and presenting primary and secondary sources for the senior thesis proposed during the preceeding spring term. Completion of thesis research, production of annotated bibliography and beginning of thesis draft for the spring semester seminar, ART 466.

Description

year-long course provides an, interdisciplinary, integrated introduction to biology and chemistry, with an accompanying integrated lab. Based on the material in the first course of the major in each of these disciplines, this course will focus on current scientific problems facing today's world such as HIV/AIDS or antibiotic resistance. The course is team taught by 2 faculty members, one from each discipline. Teaching will be integrated so that links between concepts are readily apparent and students are stimulated to think beyond traditional science methodology. The laboratory will be comprised of hands-on and investigation based experiences using both experimental and computer simulation approaches. The SMART course is designed for students considering a major in either biology or chemistry and also meets requirements for students who go on to study medicine or other health sciences fields. To be taken in consecutive semesters in the first year and with an accompanying year-long calculus course. Completion of the full year of SMART (CHEM 192) will substitute for CHEM141 and BIOL 199. 3 lecture and 3 laboratory hours per week.

Description

Introduction to analysis of behavior of organisms, including humans, by study of how behavior affects survival and reproduction. Behaviors studied include foraging, aggression, cooperation, and reproduction. Verbal, graphical, and mathematical models to describe and predict behavior are studied and tested. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week; may include overnight field trips.

Description

In Drugs & Genetics you'll learn about the core principles of pharmacology and pharmacogenomics. We'll discuss topics such as the mechanisms of drug action, drug metabolism, polymorphisms and genome-wide association studies. We'll examine how genetic information is utilized to inform disease prevention and treatment, including ethical and practical considerations. The laboratory will involve using pharmacological, molecular and genetic approaches to explore concepts discussed in lecture. You will have the opportunity to use zebrafish to rank drug potency and efficacy, and based on clinical information, you will create and characterize larval zebrafish epilepsy models for small-scale drug screening studies.

Description

A laboratory-based course in which students learn the language and techniques used in industrial and forensic laboratories to conduct organic chemical analysis. Students become "chemistry detectives," able to solve the types of "chemistry puzzles" that are characteristic of the fun part of doing chemistry (e.g. how chemists, such as forensic and pharmaceutical chemists, determine the structure of real-world unknown compounds). A range of applications of this chemistry is discussed, including such topics as environmental, medicinal, polymer, forensic and industrial chemistries, government regulations, natural products, pheromones, and information retrieval. In the process, students will gain hands-on experience using modern instrumentation, including IR, NMR, GC-Mass Spec, and UV-Visible spectroscopy. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Description

This year-long course provides an, interdisciplinary, integrated introduction to biology and chemistry, with an accompanying integrated lab. Based on the material in the first course of the major in each of these disciplines, this course will focus on current scientific problems facing today's world such as HIV/AIDS or antibiotic resistance. The course is team taught by 2 faculty members, one from each discipline. Teaching will be integrated so that links between concepts are readily apparent and students are stimulated to think beyond traditional science methodology. The laboratory will be comprised of hands-on and investigation based experiences using both experimental and computer simulation approaches. The SMART course is designed for students considering a major in either biology or chemistry and also meets requirements for students who go on to study medicine or other health sciences fields. To be taken in consecutive semesters in the first year and with an accompanying year-long calculus course. Completion of the full year of SMART (CHEM 192) will substitute for CHEM141 and BIOL 199. 3 lecture and 3 laboratory hours per week.

CHEM300 - Measurement Statistics

General

Subject code Course Number
CHEM 300
Department(s)

Description

Overview of statistics of measurements on chemical systems. Includes characteristics of data which contain random error. Statistics used to describe and summarize trends of measured data will be introduced, as well as a number of statistical tools needed to draw meaningful and objective conclusions based on data. Should be taken simultaneously with, or prior to, Chemistry 301. Three lecture hours per week.

CHEM313 - The Natures of the Chemical Bond

General

Subject code Course Number
CHEM 313
Department(s)

Description
Builds on the bonding ideas introduced in the general and introductory chemistry curriculum. Enables meaningful access to the chemical literature on experimental and computational studies of bonding in molecules and solids for systems spanning the entire periodic table. Spans orbital and atoms-in-molecules models of bonding (with perspectives on functional group), phenomena such as halogen, aurophilic (metallophilic) interactions, aromaticity (organic and inorganic), thermodynamic vs. kinetic stability of compounds, and chemical views on extended solids.

CLSC329 - The Ancient World in Cinema

General

Subject code Course Number
CLSC 329
Department(s)

Description

Examines cinematic representations of the ancient Greek and Roman Mediterranean, viewed through a variety of literary and cinematic genres in European and American cinema of the 20th Century. The films offer an opportunity to reflect on how our various modern visions of (and desires for) the ancient world illuminate the present as much as they animate the past. Students will read selections from Greek and Roman history and poetry (in translation) in conjunction with weekly viewings and written assignments; secondary readings will be drawn from contemporary film criticism and theory.

CRWR300 - Introduction to Creative Writing

General

Subject code Course Number
CRWR 300
Department(s)

Description

An introduction to general principles. Students' fiction and poetry receive critical evaluation through workshops and conferences. The course is designed to improve students' creative and critical faculties through exposure to a variety of styles and genres in contemporary literature; e.g., poetry, fiction, drama, creative nonfiction, hybrid forms. The course emphasizes the finished product as well as the writing process, which includes not only putting words on paper, but also reading, analysis, and revision. Students examine forms and structures, word choice, line lengths and line breaks, sentences, paragraphs, beginnings and endings, rhetorical strategies, cadences and music, tone and voice, and syntax and diction. Class sessions include variations of the following: writing exercises, craft talks, discussion about the assigned readings, and discussion of student work.

ECON368 - Global Vision: A Student-Managed ETF Portfolio

General

Subject code Course Number
ECON 368
Department(s)

Description

Introduces students to the role of pure economic analysis in the construction of investment portfolios. The asset class and sector allocations of the portfolio flow from on-going assessment of domestic and international economic conditions. The portfolio choices are implemented using Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). This investment vehicle eliminates the need for the technical training necessary for evaluating individual securities. The portfolio recommended by the class is implemented through the financial support of the university. The formal output of the semester is well suited to student participation at existing undergraduate research conferences and competitions.

Description

Explores women's writing from around the world, from regions as diverse as South Asia, Africa, North America, the Caribbean, and the Middle East. Through reading novels, short stories, poetry, and essays by and about women, examines how the concerns of women writers travel across national and political lines. What particular challenges do women writers face and how do such challenges influence their writing? How is the role of women represented in and across different literary and non-fiction texts? How does sexuality figure into women's writing and what does it say about the "naturalized" ways that women are imagined across cultures? What current global issues concern women writers, and how are they linked to gender and sexuality? Writers may include Tsitsi Dangarembga, Margaret Atwood, Edwidge Danticat, Ama Ata Aidoo, Nawal el Saadawi, Bapsi Sidhwa, Zora Neale Hurston, Arundhati Roy, Vandana Shiva, Wangari Maathai, and Audre Lorde.

Description

Rapid climate change is causing an increase in the temperature of the atmosphere and oceans. This is a truly global problem that requires international research and collaboration to resolve. The USA is a major producer of the atmospheric "greenhouse" gases that make a significant contribution to this global "anthropogenic" warming. The aim of this course is to introduce students to the global environmental impact of anthropogenic climate change, and to challenge students to think about the possible impact of the way we live in the USA on poor, marginalized and at risk communities around the world. GEOL322U - The Global Impact of Climate Change

Subject code Course Number
GEOL 322U
Department(s)

Description

Rapid climate change is causing an increase in the temperature of the atmosphere and oceans. This is a truly global problem that requires international research and collaboration to resolve. The USA is a major producer of the atmospheric "greenhouse" gases that make a significant contribution to this global "anthropogenic" warming. Students investigate the global environmental impact of anthropogenic climate change, explore the science that explains our observations, and are challenged to find solutions that offset the impact of climate change on poor, marginalized and at-risk communities around the world.

Description

An exploration of the history of the Early American Republic from the beginnings of the American Revolution through the War of 1812 and its aftermath. Examines the beginnings of the United States, with particular attention to the formation of governments, the expansion of wage labor and the domestic slave trade, the implications of settler colonialism for native people, and the nature of politics in the early national period. What were the consequences of the imperial crisis and the American Revolution for the continent's diverse inhabitants? What was the nature of the federal government that Americans created, and how did their definition of "the people" change over time? Particular attention will be paid to the commodification of both natural resources and human beings.

This course examines the Western concept of Human Rights and how it emerged in an era of revolution. Born of philosophical inquiry, political debates, public protests, and mass uprisings, the claims of political and civil rights for marginalized peoples took center stage for newly declared nations in France, America and Haiti. On what basis were rights claimed? Under what means could equality and liberty be guaranteed to all people? This course focuses on the rights of women, Jews, free blacks and enslaved peoples, drawing on case studies to emphasize how radicals disrupted and disputed prejudice and sought (sometimes violent) change.

This course considers changing interpretations of the American Revolution and its legacies over time, from 1783 to the present. We will begin by exploring key moments in which early Americans argued over the meaning of the war in the decades after its conclusion. How have different groups and individuals used war memory for political purposes? We will then examine how historians and the public have clashed over interpretations of the American Revolution in the twentieth century. This course will ask students to consider how people create narratives about the past.

HIST323 - Gender and Sexuality in Europe

General

Subject code Course Number
HIST 323
Department(s)

Description

Critiques the standard “Great Man” narrative of Modern European history through the lens of gender and sexuality, emphasizing the intersectionality of race, religion, and nationality. Works chronologically from 1750 to the present, exploring topics including: Enlightenment ideas about anatomy and sex organs; feminist interpretations of the French Revolution; marriage and domesticity; masculinity and effeminacy; the relationship between gender and (dis)ability; imperial-era sexual encounters; the policing of prostitution, masturbation, and pornography; early theories of homosexual and trans identities; fascism, sexual violence, and the world wars; and discourses surrounding immigrant sexualities. Includes study of historiography—the changing theories and methods that historians have used to understand the past—and examines how the fields of “women’s history,” “gender history,” “the history of sexuality,” “the history of homosexuality,” and “queer history” have developed from the 1970s until today.

Description

How have people sought and fought power by managing the production, processing, distribution and consumption of food? This class will draw on case studies from premodern, colonial, and revolutionary contexts to explore how people in China, India, and Eastern and Southern Africa have connected food with power. We will explore how, in some of these contexts, managing the food supply allowed states, societies, and families to delineate legitimate power, moral rules, and social obligations. And we will examine what happened with scarcity, starvation, and collapse. Exploring both empirical details and ethical commitments, the course will allow us to use History to understand and assess divergent policies, and their implications.

Description

Courses in Directed Research are intended for students who wish to further develop their skills in research. Each student accepted to participate in a Directed Research course will work directly with a full time faculty member on a research project chosen by the faculty member. It is expected that such collaborations between the student and faculty member will lead to notable conference papers, and/or jointly authored research articles. Students will be made aware when Directed Research courses are available via an e-mail announcement from their respective departments. In most cases, one student will be chosen at the undergraduate and graduate level to participate in the course each semester according to faculty availability. Students will be selected based on their writing and research skills and their potential to contribute to the research project. Once chosen to participate in this research opportunity, his/her academic advisor will assist the student in registering for the course. Each student who is chosen to participate in the Directed Research opportunity will receive three credits hours in his or her academic program which can then be used toward the requirements for graduation. Please contact your academic advisor for further information.

HRM696U - Directed Research

General

Subject code	Course Number
HRM	696U
Department(s)	-

Description

Courses in Directed Research are intended for students who wish to further develop their skills in research. Each student accepted to participate in a Directed Research course will work directly with a full time faculty member on a research project chosen by the faculty member. It is expected that such collaborations between the student and faculty member will lead to notable conference papers, and/or jointly authored research articles. Students will be made aware when Directed Research courses are available via an e-mail announcement from their respective departments. In most cases, one student will be chosen at the undergraduate and graduate level to participate in the course each semester according to faculty availability. Students will be selected based on their writing and research skills and their potential to contribute to the research project. Once chosen to participate in this research opportunity, his/her academic advisor will assist the student in registering for the course. Each student who is chosen to participate in the Directed Research opportunity will receive three credits hours in his or her academic program, which can then be used toward the requirements for graduation. Please contact your academic advisor for further information.

Description

Introduces students to the substantive knowledge, thought process, and writing skills needed for success on the Virginia Bar Exam. The learning methodology will be iterative, consisting of substantive lectures and materials followed by extensive practice-testing and analysis. Begins by reviewing the Multistate Bar Examination (MBE) subjects; the majority of the course will then cover heavily-tested Essay Examination subjects. Practice-testing will use actual MBE and Essay Examination questions, and all substantive materials will be written by the instructor. Students will be able to quantify their progress during the semester, both individually and relative to their peers. All students will also meet individually with the instructor to discuss their progress and specific steps they can take to maximize their odds on the Bar Exam. Please note that this course is not remedial; on the contrary, the course will cover a significant amount of substantive information and will be fast-paced, particularly in the second half of the semester. Grading will be Pass/Fail based on timely and complete submission of weekly assignments and regular attendance. Students will be required to complete weekly assignments in order to pass the course.

Description

If a cop frisks you when he shouldn't, can you collect damages from him? If a public school requires prayer before every class, what can you do stop the constitutional violation? If you call 911 and the dispatcher fails to dispatch an officer, have your rights been violated? These and many other questions are addressed in this class, the ultimate goal of which is to provide students with the knowledge necessary to enforce constitutional rights through litigation. Includes (1) several commonly-litigated constitutional rights (such as abuse by a police or corrections officer), (2) the types of defendants that can be sued, (3) the common defenses, and (4) the nature and scope of the available remedies. Also provides the opportunity to assess the underlying causes of official misconduct, the limits of litigation as a civil rights enforcement tool, and whether alternate means of enforcement might be preferable.

LDST306 - Sex, Leadership, and the Evolution of Human Societies

General

Subject code	Course Number
LDST	306
Department(s)

Description

Study of how biological and cultural adaptation shape leadership and, more broadly, political organization. Case studies drawn from primatology, cultural anthropology, and political history, about what makes human leadership unique and investigate why leadership and political organization vary across human and non-human societies. Questions to be considered include: Why do humans adopt leader and follower roles at all? What is the political organization of other social animals, particularly the great apes? Are there any human societies that lack leadership? Are there societies in which, on average, women wield more power than men? Why are some human societies more hierarchical than others? Exposes students to the diversity of political organization in humans and other animals and stimulates them to think critically about the ultimate causes of human social behavior in general.

Description

an exploration of leadership in the arts that will examine the subject from three perspectives. First, it will consider figures in traditional, old-time, and folk music whose contributions have been transformative. Second, consideration will be given to folk music as a variety of American political and social thought, as an expression of ideas about human nature and the politics of the day. Finally, there will be an evaluation of the persuasive power of song as a rhetorical means of spreading, and perhaps inculcating political and social ideas in the minds of the people.

Description

Explores two questions using debates amongst economists as our policy laboratory. First, what is the scope for policy makers to lead the economy through crises and the inevitable ups and downs that accompany economic expansion? How much agency should policy makers assume and when are unusual mechanisms called for? Second, what leadership role do economists legitimately play in the development and implementation of new economic policy? As we read and discuss the policy proposals of the past, we explore the answers to these and other questions in today's economic contexts.

Subject code Course Number
LDST 386
Department(s)

Description

Study of how diversity affects social relations with an emphasis on leadership. Examines diversity, primarily through the lens of social psychology, by examining individual and collective dynamics in pluralistic settings. The primary focus is to familiarize students with basic research on intergroup relations, prejudice, stereotyping, and discrimination, so that they may: (1) evaluate and analyze the scientific merit of this research, and (2) apply this research to real world situations—e.g., reflect on the effect of social identity on achievement, performance, mental health, physical health, etc. Focuses on the causes, correlates and consequences of stereotyping, prejudice, and discrimination. Also addresses approaches to ameliorating these problems. Primary focus social/organizational.

LLC220 - Contemporary Chinese Popular Culture

General

Subject code Course Number
LLC 220
Department(s)

Description

Read pop fictions, watch blockbusters, sitcoms, and reality TV shows, and listen to songs that topped Chinese pop music list over the last twenty years. Connect these cultural forms to current conversations and debates concerning youth culture, political participation, identity formation, intensifying globalization, and the loss of tradition. Students may select class readings/viewings and create their own pop culture products.

LLC227 - The Action Genre in East Asian Cinema

General

Subject code Course Number
LLC 227
Department(s)

Description

The action genre is a persistent film genre with a strong literary, theatrical, and operatic tradition in East Asian cinema. This course traces the historical and cinematic evolution of the action genre from swordplay to kungfu to gunplay in Hong Kong, Japanese, and Korean cinema from the 1960s to the digital age. Students will acquire a critical vocabulary in visual analysis such as classical Hollywood narration, montage, continuity editing, and the "pause-burst-pause" pattern that are central to the punctuation of kinesthetic shocks in the action genre. We will explore how culturally specific codes of honor, loyalty, masculinity, and femininity (rooted in literature and theatrical codes) are lost or gained in translation as a result of film adaptations, international co-productions, and cross-cultural readings. Taught in English. All films are subtitled in English.

Description

What makes literature seem real? Deep? Mind-blowing? Funny? In the Soviet Union, people read literature as if their lives depended on it. Official sources of information were heavily censored, so the "voice of the people" was channeled instead through short stories, science fiction, satire, and other imaginative forms of truth-telling. This course focuses on Russian and Ukrainian authors from the Soviet and contemporary post-Soviet period. In translation, no prerequisites. Fulfills FSLT.

Description

Study of texts from throughout Arab history since the expansion of Islam until today, in which travelers and thinkers, academics and politicians, everyday people and people with religious or other ideological agendas describe their encounters with the world outside their own cultural environment. These texts will be analyzed less for the information they contain about the world they describe, but for what the views and thoughts their writers reveal about their own world and frame of mind. The texts will be read in translation and will cover material from the earliest Islamic travelers such as Ibn Fadlan to figures of current history such as Usama bin Laden.

MBA500 - Opening Residency

General

Subject code Course Number
MBA 500
Department(s)

Description

The objectives of the opening residency are to develop esprit de corps among all participants; to give the participants concrete, take-away knowledge; and to set the appropriate expectations about effort, quality, and cooperation. To accomplish these goals students analyze a "live case" on a topic of relevant strategic importance. The residency ends with a case competition among the student teams, judged by University faculty and selected executives from the case company on both content and presentation quality. As part of the residency, participants are introduced to the goals, expectations, and methods that are used throughout the program, including case analysis methods and business research and analysis skills

PHIL302U - THINKING ABOUT THE PARANORMAL

General

Subject code Course Number
PHIL 302U
Department(s)

Description

A recent Gallup Poll shows that about three in four Americans hold some paranormal belief - in at least one of the following: extrasensory perception, haunted houses, ghosts, mental telepathy, clairvoyance, astrology, communicating with the dead, witches, reincarnation, and channeling. How reasonable are these beliefs? Can they be supported or discounted via modern science or are they purely a matter of faith or personal opinion? What makes one belief or explanation more reasonable than another? Is it immoral to hold beliefs that are not supported by strong evidence? This course examines these and other questions.

PHIL303U - BEYOND DEATH

General

Subject code Course Number
PHIL 303U
Department(s)

Description

Is there any evidence to support claims of life after death? This course will begin with a critical examination of some of the purported evidence, based on claims of: Reincarnation, Mediumship, and Near Death Experiences. Philosophical underpinnings of the question will also be studied: What could count as evidence of life after death? What specifically about ourselves do we believe (or want to believe) survives death? What is a human soul? Finally, an examination of the psychological and moral implications of the belief in life after death will be made: Is it necessary or helpful for alleviating anxiety concerning death? Is there anything morally wrong with maintaining beliefs that are not supported by empirical evidence? Is belief in immortality necessary for a meaningful life?

PHIL305U - THE PROBLEM OF EVIL

General

Subject code	Course Number
PHIL	305U
Department(s)

Description

Traditionally in western philosophy of religion, the problem of evil is the problem of reconciling the existence of evil (or suffering) in the world with the existence of an omniscient (all-knowing), omnipotent (all-powerful) and omnibenevolent (all-good) God. Proponents of the problem assert: if God exists and has all these attributes, then there would be no evil; yet evil (i.e., tremendous suffering) clearly exists. In this course, we will examine various versions of this problem as well as various traditional and contemporary responses to it. Moreover, since the problem of reconciling evil/suffering with a conception of "the Sacred" extends beyond monotheism, we will also examine approaches to this general and deep problem from other major world religions.

PHIL306U - RELG&SCI:EXAM BIG QUESTIONS

General

Subject code Course Number
PHIL 306U
Department(s)

Description

Throughout history, humans have appealed to religion to understand the universe and our place in it. In the eyes of many, modern science has taken over this role. But, are science and religion locked in a mortal struggle, or are they completely separate domains of the human experience, or are there actually points of concordance between the two? This course examines the relationship between religion and science, exploring the apparent conflicts in their methodologies and answers to life's biggest questions, including: the origin of everything, the nature of the self, the prospects of life after death, the existence of nature of the ""Sacred,"" the foundation of morals, the essence of a ""meaningful life,"" and the role of faith and reason in our lives.

Description

A recent Gallup Poll shows that about three in four Americans hold some paranormal belief - in at least one of the following: extrasensory perception, haunted houses, ghosts, mental telepathy, clairvoyance, astrology, communicating with the dead, witches, reincarnation, and channeling. How reasonable are these beliefs? Can they be supported or discounted via modern science or are they purely a matter of faith or personal opinion? What makes one belief or explanation more reasonable than another? Is it immoral to hold beliefs that are not supported by strong evidence? This course examines these and other questions.

Description

Is there any evidence to support claims of life after death? This course will begin with a critical examination of some of the purported evidence, based on claims of: Reincarnation, Mediumship, and Near Death Experiences. Philosophical underpinnings of the question will also be studied: What could count as evidence of life after death? What specifically about ourselves do we believe (or want to believe) survives death? What is a human soul? Finally, an examination of the psychological and moral implications of the belief in life after death will be made: Is it necessary or helpful for alleviating anxiety concerning death? Is there anything morally wrong with maintaining beliefs that are not supported by empirical evidence? Is belief in immortality necessary for a meaningful life?

Description

Serves as an introduction to some of the methods, issues, & theories associated within major Asian philosophical religious systems, focusing on: Hinduism, Early Buddhism, Taoism, & Zen Buddhism. Perennial issues which will be addressed in the course include: the Nature of the Sacred, the relationship between the Sacred and: the self, life and death, happiness and meaning, and morality. The course will compare and contrast approaches and answers to these issues between these traditions, as well as between these systems and "Western" philosophy and religion. In addition to the content of the course, students should find the analytic "tools" utilized in the course helpful in all courses of study requiring critical thinking as well as in assessing the plethora of arguments and pseudo-reasoning which pervade everyday life.

Description

Traditionally in western philosophy of religion, the problem of evil is the problem of reconciling the existence of evil (or suffering) in the world with the existence of an omniscient (all-knowing), omnipotent (all-powerful) and omnibenevolent (all-good) God. Proponents of the problem assert: if God exists and has all these attributes, then there would be no evil; yet evil (i.e., tremendous suffering) clearly exists. In this course, we will examine various versions of this problem as well as various traditional and contemporary responses to it. PSYC308U - PSYC OF INTUITIVE DEVELOPMENT

Subject code Course Number
PSYC 308U
Department(s)

Description

Intuition has remained an emerging cloud of mystery for centuries. Whether you have read about intuition from the earliest philosophers or the views of psychologists, it has still remained important in everyday decision making. If it is a gut feeling, a hunch or an inner knowing that can't be explained, this study of the intuitive ability encompasses intelligence and is being recognized as a perception within the body. As psycho-physiological system. The psychology of intuitive development demonstrates the subconscious, or "heart intelligence" that can be cultivated and is essential for success in decision making, sensory and analytic process.

Description

Seminar on the rhetorical production of "South Asia" in contemporary U. S. media cycles, drawing attention to contemporary issues of public attention in and about South Asia. Using the critical and creative work of such writers as Gayatri Spivak, Arundhati Roy, Edward Said, Homi Bhabha, Amartya Sen and Martin Bernal, the course equips students with classical, comparative, and critical cultural tools from rhetorical theory, and with a transnational and intersectional feminist focus, the course excavates discourses of cultural problems and innovates rhetorical means of their elimination. Student work is collaborative, collective, critical, and creative, oriented towards digital/media production for public audiences.

RHCS342 - Rhetoric and Gender Violence

General

Subject code	Course Number
RHCS	342
Department(s)	-

Description

We explore in this seminar rhetorics of gender violence, resistance, and abolition. Taking a rhetorical approach, we explore "tropes" of gender violence: how social discourses focus on gender violence, how public beliefs about gender are produced through rhetoric and can set or eliminate conditions for gender violence. Drawing on both classical and contemporary rhetorical and cultural theories, we explore how tropes turn attention to definitions, contexts, cases, causes, and effects of gender violence, along with means of resistance to and abolition of gender violence. We bring our explorations to bear on considerations of contemporary gender violence crises in the aspiration of developing a praxis of living that is free from gender violence.

RHCS349 - Memory and Memorializing in the City of Richmond

General

Subject code Course Number
RHCS 349

Department(s)

Description

Examines various sites of memory production (i.e. films, museums, monuments) -- how they have been conceptualized and debated -- and asks students to consider memory not only as an entity used in reconstructing the past but capable of being reconstructed itself. Over the course of the semester, students may take several field trips to historical sites and museums throughout the city of Richmond to experience how memory is reproduced and to consider alternate ways of crafting narratives of the past.

Description

This course will explore how literature and scholarly research address manhood and masculinity. Is there only one way to be a man socially or culturally? Does masculinity differ based on race, ethnicity, and class status? Is masculinity fluid? Are there "masculinities," as opposed to one "masculinity"? Does a continuum of masculinity exist? Is (or should) masculinity only be associated with male-identified bodies? We will read scholarly articles and monographs, view popular media, and engage in discussion addressing these and other related questions.

Department(s)	-

Description

Introduction to all aspects of researching, curating, promoting and presenting public programs of independent film and video art. Research on and participation in seminar discussions, presentations, and readings pertaining to the field prior to developing a curatorial theme or framework for a screening series, festival and/or gallery exhibition. Once determined, students preview works from the collections of international film and video art distributors, resulting in a curated program of works to be presented publicly at the close of the semester. In addition to programming, students are responsible for writing curatorial program descriptions, film and video synopses, and designing program brochures, posters, and websites. Through this process, students are exposed to contemporary trends in the field of independent film and video art while developing skills in graphic design, comparative analysis, writing about art and media, and presenting challenging work to a captive audience.
