2016-17 Course Catalog

The course catalog provides listings for the undergraduate schools of Arts and Sciences, Business and Leadership Studies. It also includes information on such topics as academic procedures, financial aid and academic opportunities and support. The requirements in this catalog apply to students entering the University in the 2016-17 academic year. Please see the catalog archive for earlier entering classes. For academic policies affecting students entering prior to fall 2008, please see Academic Advising.

Prospective students are encouraged to use this online version of the course catalog. Hard copies are not available. Catalogs from previous years and for other schools at the University can be found at the Office of the University Registrar.

Please Note: The contents of this catalog represent the most current information available at the time of publication. However, during the period of time covered by this catalog, it is reasonable to expect changes to be made with respect to this information without prior notice. The course offerings and requirements of the University of Richmond are under continual examination and revision. Thus, the provisions of this catalog are not to be regarded as an irrevocable contract between the University (or any of its colleges or schools) and the student.

Non-Discrimination Policy

The University of Richmond prohibits discrimination and harassment against applicants, students, faculty or staff on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law. Copies of the complete "Harassment and Discrimination Policy (including Sexual Harassment)" are included in student handbooks, faculty handbooks and in the published guidelines for University of Richmond support staff. Copies are also available at the dean's office of each college and school and the Department of Human Resource Services. For further information, students should contact the dean of their school or residential college; staff should contact the director of Human Resource Services; and faculty should contact the dean of their school. Any inquiries regarding the University's policies in these areas should be directed to the Office of the Vice President for Student Development, University of Richmond, Virginia 23173. Telephone: (804) 289-8032.

University of Richmond Religious Observance Calendar

Religious Observance Policy

The University is a secular institution that values a diversity of religious expression. The University is also an active community with a wide range of personal commitments and academic and extracurricular activities.

Planning for academic and extracurricular activities should be done with sensitivity to the diverse religious commitments of the community and an awareness of religious holidays. Scheduling large-scale, one-time academic or extra-curricular events on a religious holiday should be avoided whenever possible.

Any student may be excused from class or other assignments because of religious observance. A student who will miss an academic obligation because of religious observance is responsible for contacting his or her professor within the first two weeks of the semester. The student is responsible for completing missed work in a timely manner.

Faculty are expected to be mindful of potential conflicts with religious observances and should make reasonable accommodations when students' religious practices conflict with their academic responsibilities.

The religious observance calendar is meant to serve as a scheduling guide. It lists significant holidays from the five largest global faith traditions. However, it is not comprehensive and students may choose to observe a holiday not included on the calendar.

The holidays listed are those which occur during the academic year when the University is open.

About the University

Mission Statement
The mission of the University of Richmond is to sustain a collaborative learning and research community that supports the personal development of its members and the creation of new knowledge. A Richmond education prepares students to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society.

Organization and Accreditation
Five academic schools and two coordinate colleges form the University of Richmond, with authority and responsibility vested legally in the Board of Trustees and the president of the University. The several colleges and schools award no degrees individually, but all degrees for work done in any one of them are conferred by the University of Richmond.

The University enrolls approximately 2,900 full-time undergraduates, 92 percent of whom live on campus; 600 full-time law and graduate students; and 1,300 part-time students, largely from Richmond and the surrounding community.

SACSCOC Accreditation
The University of Richmond is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award associate, baccalaureate, masters, and juris doctor degrees. Contact SACSCOC at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097 or call 404-679-4500 for questions about the accreditation of the University of Richmond.

To request a copy of our letter of accreditation, contact: Office of Institutional Effectiveness, 28 Westhampton Way, University of Richmond, VA 23173; Phone: (804) 484-1595; FAX (804) 484-1596.

AACSBO Accreditation
The Robins School of Business is fully accredited at the undergraduate and graduate levels in Business and Accounting by the Association for the Advancement of Collegiate Schools of Business International (AACSBO).

ABA Accreditation
The T.C. Williams School of Law is fully accredited by the recognized standardizing agencies in the United States. It is a member of the Association of American Law Schools; it is on the approved lists of the American Bar Association and the Virginia State Board of Bar Examiners; and its Juris Doctor degree is fully accredited by the Regents of the University of the State of New York. Although each state has its own requirements for admission to the bar, a law degree from the School of Law qualifies the holder to seek admission to the bar in any state in the nation and in the District of Columbia. Additional information about accreditation may be found at abanet.org/legaled/resources/contactus.html.

Virginia State Board of Education Certification
The University also is approved by the Virginia State Board of Education to offer teacher licensure programs.

Teacher Education Accreditation Council Accreditation
The University of Richmond’s undergraduate teacher preparation programs and the graduate certificate in teacher licensure program are accredited by the Teacher Education Accreditation Council.

American Chemical Society Accreditation
The University of Richmond’s chemistry program is accredited by the American Chemical Society.

Environment and History
The University of Richmond campus consists of about 50 major buildings of Collegiate Gothic architectural style set amid 350 acres of lawns, lake, and woodlands. The beautiful and harmonious setting has been recognized nationally by college guides. Richmond’s history began almost two centuries ago with Richmond College, founded in 1830 by Virginia Baptists as a college of liberal arts and sciences for men. Around this nucleus were established the T.C. Williams School of Law (1870); Westhampton College, a college of liberal arts and sciences for women (1914); the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, for advanced study in the liberal arts and sciences (1921-1909); the E. Claiborne Robins School of Business, for undergraduate and graduate study in business (1949); University College, University College, now known as the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, for evening, summer, and continuing education (1962); and the Jepson School of Leadership Studies, the first school of leadership studies in the United States (1992). In 1992, the academic missions of Richmond College and Westhampton College were combined in a separate school, the School of Arts and Sciences. Richmond College and Westhampton College are the coordinate colleges for men and women respectively, providing special programming and leadership opportunities in student life.

Richmond benefits from a heritage of ethical and religious values, a residential character, and a commitment to liberal and general education through intimate schools and colleges joined into a substantial whole.

Library Resources
Boatwright Memorial Library, facing Westhampton Lake, is the main library. It includes collections and services for the humanities, social sciences, sciences, and business. Boatwright is also home to the Media Resource Center and the Digital Scholarship Lab. The Parsons Music Library is in the Modlin Center for the Arts. The Science Reading Room in the Gottwald Science Center holds a small collection of key science reference books, offers access to online resources, and provides opportunities for consultations with the science librarian. The Muse Law Library in the Richmond School of
The library holds thousands of books, church records, and memorabilia related to the University’s rich history. The Society also manages the University’s archives, a large collection of books, photos, and memorabilia related to the University’s rich history.

A separate wing of Boatwright Memorial Library houses the Virginia Baptist Historical Society, a memorial to the Virginia Baptists who struggled to secure religious liberty in America. The library holds thousands of books, church records, manuscripts, and personal papers related to Virginia Baptist history and heritage. The Society also manages the University’s archives, a large collection of books, photos, and memorabilia related to the University’s rich history.

Computing Facilities

The University of Richmond has a strong commitment to prepare students to work in technology- and information-centered environments. The University provides computers, software, and specialized equipment for student use in labs, public areas, classrooms, and residence hall lounges. All students in the residence halls have their own wired network connections, and the entire campus is blanketed with a high-speed wireless network that provides students, faculty, staff, and guests with secure access to a wealth of resources.

The University maintains a robust network infrastructure. A wireless network supports mobile computing in every building on campus, and provides coverage in most outdoor locations and public gathering spaces. Information Services maintains University-owned systems loaded with up-to-date versions of the latest software tools and anti-virus software. All users must have an active University computer account to log into any lab machine. To help ensure the security of the University systems and network, the University requires all users to change passwords regularly in order to maintain an active account. Policies regarding the use of technology and information resources are posted on the Information Services Policies website.

The ground floor of Jepson Hall houses many computing resources, including a general purpose computer lab; five PC classrooms with full multimedia capabilities; and two computer classrooms running Windows, Linux, and Unix designated for use by the math and computer science department. When classes are not in session, the Jepson Hall computer classrooms are open for student use. Jepson Hall is also the location of the Computer Help Desk, a resource that provides assistance with computing-related issues for the entire campus. A listing of the current hours of operation for all of these resources may be found on the Information Services website.

The Center for Technology Learning Center (CTLC) is a unique resource located on the third floor of Boatwright Memorial Library. It is devoted to servicing the multimedia needs of students, faculty, and staff. This area offers PC and Mac workstations equipped with high-end Web development, multimedia, animation, 3-D modeling, and audio-video recording and editing software. Scanners, high quality printers, large-format plotters, digitizers, and digital video and still cameras also are available. In addition, the CTLC contains a photography studio and a small recording studio. The CTLC also supports media production in the Media Resource Center on the second floor of Boatwright Library.

Most importantly, the CTLC is staffed by professionals and well-trained student assistants are available to assist students, faculty and staff. Students not only have access to the hardware and software, but also to experts who can help them effectively use the specialized tools.

Technology training for students, faculty, and staff is available in a variety of formats, including books and CDs available in the CTLC and searchable through the Library catalog; online video tutorials; technology training classes offered throughout the school year; and one-on-one training sessions available through appointments at the CTLC. CTLC hours of operation and current technology training classes may be found on the Information Services website.

Undergraduate Colleges

Though Richmond is composed of five academic schools as well as two coordinate colleges, this catalog provides specific program information about only undergraduate study in the School of Arts and Sciences, Robins School of Business, and Jepson School of Leadership Studies. Pertinent information about the coordinate colleges, Richmond College and Westhampton College, is also presented in this catalog. Detailed information about each of the other academic schools is available upon request to the respective dean's office.
Academic Schools

School of Arts and Sciences

All students begin as part of the School of Arts and Sciences. Approximately two-thirds of the University’s students (2,300) then continue their study in arts and sciences, pursuing Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees in the more than 40 disciplines offered by the school.

The School of Arts and Sciences is a blend of studies from all areas of life - health, fine arts, natural and urban environments, government, technology, cultures, emerging scientific studies, and literature are a few examples. Though the fields of study in the School of Arts and Sciences are diverse, each discipline pursues the common goals of challenging students to think critically and independently, to make decisions based upon their assessments, to communicate effectively, to gather and evaluate information and others’ opinions, and to work collaboratively, expanding their understanding of others to better comprehend the systems and situations around them. The programs ask rather than tell. Working together across disciplines, the faculty and students explore how things work, ask why they operate as they do, evaluate what has been successful, and consider possible solutions or advancements. Faculty collaborate with students to research and create data or art, encouraging them to build their own knowledge and skills and demonstrating how to most effectively communicate and apply what they learn.

Robins Schools of Business

The Robins School of Business enrolls about 650 men and women. The school’s principal objective is to provide a professional college education that will enable students to meet the challenges of a complex and international business world.

The degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (B.S.B.A.) is offered with majors in accounting, business administration, and economics. The business administration major has several areas of concentration that students may pursue. Once a student declares his or her major, the Robins School of Business provides a number of internal activities in which students may participate in, including its own student government. The Robins School also has a chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, a national honor society. Membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest national recognition a student can receive in an undergraduate or master’s program accredited by the AACSB-International.

The School of Business faculty also provides the Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree in the Robins School of Business.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers the Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in leadership studies, as well as a minor in leadership studies. The Jepson School uses multiple disciplinary lenses to educate students for and about leadership. As a result, both the major and the minor are broadly based in the liberal arts but highly integrated with leadership as a unifying theme. By engaging students in the classroom and in the world around them, the Jepson School challenges students intellectually and prepares them for future responsibilities of leadership.

Coordinate Colleges

Undergraduate students at the University of Richmond are members of an academic school: the School of Arts and Sciences, the Robins School of Business, or the Jepson School of Leadership Studies. Depending on their gender, students are also members of a coordinate college: Richmond College for men and Westhampton College for women. The coordinate colleges serve as dean of students offices and manage academic policy matters, thereby providing a holistic approach to students. The college deans report to both the vice president of student development and the dean of arts and sciences.

Each coordinate college has its own staff, residence life program, student government, activities, and traditions. Deans’ staff members focus on students' personal development, crisis management, judicial policies, and matters that involve the University’s honor code. The deans' offices also oversee popular student traditions that recognize and celebrate the smaller college community and heritage, including Westhampton College’s Junior Ring Dance and Richmond College's Investiture. The residence life programs organize gender-focused programming within the residence halls and living/learning initiatives that make important intellectual and personal connections between students and faculty members, e.g., the Richmond College’s “Spinning Your Web” program.

The two student governments - the Westhampton College Government Association (WCGA) and the Richmond College Student Government Association (RCSGA)- afford students valuable leadership opportunities and guarantee that men and women students participate equally in the governing process. Meanwhile, students make connections between their curricular and cocurricular experiences in college-based programs such as Westhampton College's Women Involved in Living and Learning (WILL) program.

For more information regarding Westhampton College see wc.richmond.edu. For more information regarding Richmond College see rc.richmond.edu.

Spiritual Life

This mission of the Office of the Chaplaincy is Inspiring Generous Faith; Engaging the Heart of the University.

The Office of the Chaplaincy consists of five full-time staff members and eighteen affiliated campus ministers. Together, we focus on five strategic goals to advance our mission:

• Creating structures of inclusion for the diversity of faith traditions present on campus.
• Including our eighteen partner campus ministries more robustly in the mainstream of campus life.
• Providing pastoral care to all members of the university community, particularly students.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
The University of Richmond seeks to enroll men and women who have demonstrated the potential to succeed in a highly rigorous environment and who have shown evidence of their capability to contribute to the University community. Admission to the University is competitive and selective.

Criteria for admission are both objective and subjective. Such qualities as academic ability and achievement combined with personal qualities of leadership, creativity, and independence are sought. For those entering as first-year students, the secondary school experience, the results of standardized tests, and the particular characteristics and personal qualities of each applicant will be considered. Because we know that a family’s financial situation has no relationship to a student’s preparation, character, potential, or intellect, the University makes admission decisions in a need-blind manner for all applicants. Admission officers do not know the financial status of applicants.

Successful applicants will have pursued a highly rigorous college preparatory program. Successful applicants represent a wide variety of backgrounds. The prospective student is advised, therefore, to complete the most challenging college preparatory program that can be taken at the secondary school attended. Applicants to the University of Richmond are required to earn a high school diploma or its equivalent, including the G.E.D. (General Education Development battery).

For students who have attended other institutions of higher learning and wish to transfer to the University of Richmond, the academic achievement and courses completed at the prior institution will be important to the admission decision. In short, whether first-year or transfer, those students with the potential to be the most successful in this educational environment will be offered admission.

Transfer Admission

A student who wishes to transfer from another college or university may apply for transfer admission. A student must have completed a minimum of 6.82 units of transferable credit prior to enrollment at the University of Richmond. The transfer credit must have been earned at an institution regionally accredited at the time the work was completed. Transfer candidates must possess a minimum grade point average of 2.0 to be eligible for review. Competitive candidates will have well above this minimum requirement. Interested students may wish to visit the campus and talk with an admission officer; however, a personal interview is not a part of the admission decision. In order to receive a degree from the University of Richmond, a student must complete at least 17.5 units at the University, including the work of the senior year.

The deadline to submit a transfer application for fall enrollment is February 15, with a second-round deadline of April 15; the spring enrollment deadline is November 1. The applicant must file an application form, pay the nonrefundable application fee, submit course descriptions for all college courses taken, and have secondary school and college transcripts forwarded directly to the Office of Admission. Students must have left their previous institution in good standing or having been honorably dismissed.

Credit for work completed at another college or university will be subject to the following conditions:

- courses must be a part of the University of Richmond curriculum and at the level of courses taught at the University of Richmond
- the grade received must be the equivalent of C (2.0) or better
- the decisions of credit transfer and application toward degree requirements are made by the Office of the University Registrar in consultation with the appropriate academic department

Credit for all courses is regarded as provisional at the time of the applicant’s admission and is not considered final until the satisfactory completion of one semester’s work at the University.

International Admission

In addition, a wide range of worship and fellowship opportunities are offered such as weekly Catholic Mass; Kairos, a Christian contemplative service; Shabbat services; Muslim prayer; and Zen Meditation. Additional worship and study opportunities are offered through our campus ministry team.

Visit our website for detailed information: chaplaincy.richmond.edu.

The Office of the Chaplaincy is located in the Wilton Center, between Cannon Memorial Chapel and Tyler Hanes Commons. We look forward to meeting you.
The University of Richmond encourages international students with diverse cultural heritages and multicultural experiences to apply to the University as both first-year and transfer students.

First-year applicants must complete an academic secondary program which would prepare one for entrance to universities in the country of residence. Secondary study (grades 9, 10, 11, and 12) should include at minimum three or four years of coursework in the native language (or second language), mathematics, social sciences, laboratory sciences, and English language. Refer to the Admission Requirements section.

A student may apply as a transfer candidate after successfully completing at least one year of full-time study at a recognized academic university in the United States or abroad. Refer to the Transfer Admission section above.

In addition to test requirements described in Admission Requirements above, all nonnative English speakers must submit results for Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). The University expects nonnative English speakers to possess strong analytical and rhetorical writing skills and highly developed oral communication proficiency in English. Because the University offers only short-term, advanced English as a Second Language (ESL) study during summer and the academic year, applicants must demonstrate English proficiency prior to enrolling. Consideration will be given to candidates with the following minimum scores on the various versions of the TOEFL: 550 on the paper TOEFL, 213 on the computer-based TOEFL, or 80 on the Internet-based TOEFL.

Home-Schooled Students

Students who have been educated in a nontraditional secondary school setting are welcome to apply for admission. In addition to submitting a complete admission application, home-schooled students are required to complete or submit the following items:

1. Standardized testing requirement as defined under Admission Requirements. In addition, students are strongly urged to submit SAT Subject Tests in the subject areas of history and natural science.
2. Participate in an interview conducted by one of the University's admission officers. The interview is required for students who spend 50 percent or more of their secondary school experience in a home-school setting or are graduating from a home school environment. These interviews are conducted in person or over the phone by appointment.
3. Submit a narrative description of the home-school environment, such as parental instruction, community teaching, etc. Additional items that could be included are syllabi for all courses taken and a list of the textbooks used.
4. Optional letters of recommendation, preferably from individuals who have had academic contact with the student, can be submitted.

The Robins School of Business

The Robins School of Business provides a professional education for students who wish to prepare for the challenges of a complex and international business world. This personalized education is offered primarily during the third and fourth years of college study.

Beginning with the class entering in the fall of 2010, students interested in pursuing a major or minor in the Robins School of Business (Business Administration, Economics or Accounting) must have a 2.7 GPA after completing at least 12 units at the end of three semesters of college coursework, including ECON 101, ACCT 201, and MATH 211 or MATH 231 (or their equivalent).

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies uses multiple disciplinary lenses to educate students for and about leadership: economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, psychology, and religion. In so doing, the school provides students with conceptual tools that support the exercise of leadership in a variety of settings. Curriculum goals are achieved through courses such as Leadership and the Humanities and Leadership and the Social Sciences, the gateways to the academic program. Leadership Ethics serves as the capstone course for the major and minor. The gateway courses are designed to introduce students to the intellectual and historical foundations of leadership, so they are also appropriate for non-majors. Required courses such as Critical Thinking and Theories and Models reflect the Jepson School's commitment to studying leadership across disciplines. Courses with experiential components -- for example, Justice and Civil Society and the internship -- help students understand how to use knowledge gained through coursework in the world outside the classroom. Students also have the opportunity to study international leadership and pursue independent research, including a senior thesis or senior honors thesis.

Students interested in the major or minor must submit a formal application in the fall after completing the first academic year of study at Richmond or another accredited college or university. The decision concerning admission to the major or minor rests with the Jepson School of Leadership Studies faculty committee.

Admission Plans

The application deadline for regular decision is January 15; candidates are notified of the admission decisions around April 1.

The early decision plan is designed for well-qualified students who have decided that the University of Richmond is their clear first choice. Two plans are available. Fall early decision has a deadline of November 15. Winter early decision has a deadline of January 15. The applicant must file (prior to the deadline) an application form, an official copy of the academic record through the junior year, first marking period grades from the senior year, and the required standardized test scores. Candidates will be notified around December 15.

for fall early decision and February 15 for winter early decision.

Accepted candidates must submit the required nonrefundable deposit to confirm their admission to the University of Richmond. Deferred candidates’ applications will be reconsidered under the regular admission plan. In some cases, early decision applicants may be denied admission as well. Further information may be obtained from the Office of Admission.

The early admission program provides for the admission of exceptional students who have completed their secondary school experience in three years, prior to their college matriculation. Additionally, appropriate candidates must possess unusually strong college preparation, as demonstrated through a challenging and rigorous course of study, while presenting required standardized test scores of a highly competitive nature. The student is required to have an interview with an admission officer in person or by telephone and submit a letter from the secondary school counselor endorsing the student's early admission application.

Visiting Campus

Prospective students are invited to visit the campus, participate in the admission information session, take a tour of the campus, and confer with professors, coaches, or other persons in their fields of interest. The information session consists of a group presentation and discussion about the University of Richmond and is led by an admission officer. When the University is in session, student-conducted campus tours usually follow each information session. The campus visit is encouraged because it provides an opportunity for the prospective student to learn about the University, have questions answered, and see the campus.

Plans to visit the campus may be made by calling the Office of Admission, (804) 289-8640 or (800) 700-1662, or by visiting our website at admission.richmond.edu. While individual interviews are not required for admission, they may be available during your campus visit or with a Richmond graduate in your home city. Visit admission.richmond.edu for more information. During the candidate evaluation process in January, February, and March, schedules are abbreviated and times vary.

First-Year Admission Requirements

Candidates for admission must have completed a minimum of 16 units of secondary school work. Minimum requirements include four units in English, three in college preparatory mathematics (including Algebra I, II, and Geometry), and at least two each in history, laboratory science, and foreign language (two units of the same language, not including American Sign Language, which will not satisfy the requirement for foreign language). Competitive candidates for admission typically exceed the minimum requirements and have taken three to four units in science, history, and foreign language at the highest levels available in their school setting.

The applicant must have the secondary school send an official transcript of work completed, courses in progress, and the school’s recommendation. Students who have taken work at or under the auspices of a college or university must provide a statement describing the work and an official transcript from the college or university must be sent directly to the Office of Admission, University of Richmond.

First-year applicants must submit the results of either the SAT or ACT for consideration. There is not a preference for either test; instead, the evaluation of those who submit results of both will rely on whichever test is comparatively strongest.

Application for admission is made using the Common Application and a Common Application Supplement including a required essay. All forms are accessible from admission.richmond.edu. The nonrefundable $50 application fee must accompany the application for admission.

As of July 1, 2006, Virginia law requires all public and private two- and four-year institutions of higher education to electronically transmit information about applicants accepted for enrollment at each institution to the State Police for comparison to the Virginia Criminal Information Network and National Crime Information Center Convicted Sexual Offender Registry. In compliance with Virginia law, the University of Richmond will submit the requested information for all admitted students to the State Police for comparison to the registry. If the University is notified that an admitted student has committed a sex offense, the admitted student is subject to the revocation of their admission.

- Textbooks cost approximately $550 per semester; supplies, transportation, and sundries are extra costs.
- Meal plan selection automatically rolls from the previous semester unless the student initiates a change by the given due dates. Late change fee will apply. Please contact One Card Services at (804) 289-8476 or view their website for details on meal plans and policy at onecard.richmond.edu/spidercard. Meal balances expire each semester and are non-refundable. Dining dollar balances roll from fall to spring, only if a meal plan is purchased.
- Please consult Parking Services, Residence Life, and One Card Services for further information.
• Regardless of the academic school in which a course is taken, the student pays the tuition and fees of the school to which he or she has been admitted and which is considered the school of record. Any special fee associated with a particular course, such as a laboratory fee, is charged based on registration in the course.
• The University reserves the right to increase the fees listed herein and the charges for room and board if conditions should make such changes necessary or advisable. The changes will be announced as far in advance as feasible.
• The University is not liable for students’ personal property. Students or parents should verify that their homeowner’s insurance will cover their personal property on campus.
• Fees and charges will increase for the 2017-18 school year and will be announced as soon as possible.

Payments

Inquiries concerning payments should be directed to the Office of the Bursar, phone (804) 289-8147 or toll-free (866) 241-8893, or email bursar@richmond.edu.

Fees are invoiced electronically and are to be paid in advance, by the semester. The fall semester payment is due by the first Monday in August, and the spring semester payment is due by the first Monday in December. To avoid incurring a late payment fee and delays in housing, registration, and other areas, please pay by due date.

Students receive a monthly email notification to their University e-mail address with the subject line "University of Richmond Electronic Invoice/Statement" with a link to QuikPAY. The student’s University ID number is used for authentication. Students can also access their account through BannerWeb. Upon login, students can view their invoice, set up and store bank account or credit card information, set up authorized payers, pay the invoice electronically, and print paper copies.

The student may authorize others to view the invoice as an authorized payer. Each invoice cycle, the student and the authorized payer(s) will receive an e-mail notification that the electronic invoice has been sent with a link that takes them directly to the QuikPAY login page.

e-Check payment is an optional feature. Checking and savings account information from a bank within the United States can be entered at the QuikPAY website, and payments will be transferred electronically to the University of Richmond. You have the option to have the site retain your bank account information, or you may enter it each time you make an e-Payment.

Authorized payers will only be able to view their own payment and bank information. Each authorized payer is assigned a separate PIN for added security and privacy.

The University of Richmond accepts MasterCard, Visa, Discover and American Express via QuikPAY. A vendor fee of 2.75% (of the amount charged) will be charged to your account for this service. Electronic checks also are accepted at this site for no additional fee.

Electronic payment is the preferred payment method, but is optional. Payment may be mailed or made in person at the Cashier’s Office in The Queally Center. To mail a check or money order to the University, please print a copy of the PDF invoice, detach the bottom portion of the statement and mail with the payment (payable to the University of Richmond with your University ID number printed clearly on the check) to the Bursar’s Office:

Satisfactory financial arrangements for room and board must be made before occupancy.

No credit is given for a term’s work or for a degree conferred until all charges have been satisfactorily settled. Failure to make satisfactory financial arrangements can result in delay of graduation, denial of registration privileges, removal from classes, and/or the withholding of transcripts.

If the University deems it necessary to engage the services of a collection agency or attorney to collect or to settle any dispute in connection with an unpaid balance on a student account, the student will be responsible for reimbursing the University of Richmond the fees of any collection agency, which may be based on a percentage at a minimum of 33.3% of the debt, and all costs and expenses including reasonable attorney’s fees that are incurred. Accounts referred to a collection agency are reported to a credit bureau.

Please mail all correspondence regarding your student account to:

Deposits

Upon acceptance for admission at the University of Richmond, a $300 general fee deposit is required, and a $300 housing deposit is required if on-campus housing is requested.

Students planning to continue in the upcoming school year are notified around January 15 to remit the appropriate deposits: a general fee deposit of $100, and if on-campus housing is requested, a housing deposit of $500. These deposits are payable as specified on the Student Housing website.

Deposits are treated as advance payments and are nonrefundable. While a single remittance may cover both amounts, the distinction between the two deposits remains quite clear. The general fee deposit signifies an intention to attend or to continue to attend the University. The housing deposits are nonrefundable. If students withdraw for any reason, the general fee deposit is not refundable. The housing deposit is refundable only within the first three days after move-in.
deposit signifies an earnest request for on-campus housing. If there is a past due balance on your student account any deposits you make for a future term may be transferred to your student account to cover the outstanding balance.

The University always credits the general fee deposit first. If only a single deposit amount is received by the stated deadline, regardless of any accompanying instructions, the deposit will be placed in the general fee category and the presumption made that no housing is requested.

Installment Payments

In recognition of the substantial interest in installment payments, the University offers a 10-month installment payment plan through TuitionPay. This firm represents one of several sound alternatives for financing a student's education. Information is mailed to students in May.

Further information is available at (877) 279-6092, by email at info@tuitionpay.com, or by visiting tuitionpaymentplan.com/richmond

Students are urged to complete whatever arrangements they choose early, so that their accounts with the University may be settled in a timely manner.

Late Payment Fee

A late payment fee will be assessed on any unpaid balance. Students who fail to make satisfactory arrangements for their semester fees by the close of the business on the first day of the term will be charged a late payment fee of up to $70.

Tuition Refund Plan

Tuition refund plans are available through Allianz Global Assistance. Information is available at allianztuitioninsurance.com/ur or by calling (888) 427-5045.

Refunds

Inquiries concerning credit balances on student's accounts should be directed to the Office of Student Accounts, (804) 289-8147 or toll free (866) 241-8893 or bursar@richmond.edu.

University of Richmond Refund Policy

Advance Deposits - Returning and Readmitted Students

- General Fee Deposit - Nonrefundable.
  Housing Deposit - Nonrefundable once a room has been selected or assigned.
  If there is a past due balance on your student account any deposits you make for a future term may be transferred to your student account to cover the outstanding balance.

Advance Deposits - First-Time Students

- If the accepted applicant fails to matriculate, no refund of advance deposits.
  - If the accepted applicant matriculates and therefore becomes a student: general fee deposit and housing deposits are refundable in accordance with the University Refund Policy.

General Fee, Room and Board Refund

- Inquiries concerning refunds should be directed to the Office of Student Accounts, (804) 289-8147 or toll free (866) 241-8893.

Students are matriculated by semester. If a student withdraws from classes or is dropped from the University for whatever cause, a refund of fees for a fall or spring semester shall be made in accordance with the University's refund policy, based on the schedule below. This schedule is adapted for summer terms. Students who withdraw from the University and receive any financial assistance may be required to return such assistance per Public Law 668.22 and institutional policy. The University of Richmond complies with all federal regulations governing recipients of federal Title IV funds. Information regarding financial aid refund policies is available from the Office of Financial Aid. Any special fee associated with a particular course is nonrefundable after the first day of class.

Appeals Process

The University of Richmond has an appeals process for students and parents who believe individual circumstances warrant exceptions from published policy. A student or parent has six weeks from the time of withdrawal to appeal the University's refund policy.
All appeals must be in writing and directed to Annemarie Weitzel, Bursar, Box R, University of Richmond, VA 23173 or bursar@richmond.edu

Financial Aid

The University of Richmond recognizes that some students and their families are not able to meet the entire cost of their education. To assist them in the process, the Financial Aid Office administers institutional, federal, and state assistance in the form of grants, merit scholarships, loans, and student employment. Applicants for financial aid must be enrolled or accepted for enrollment in a degree program at the University and, for most types of aid, must be working toward their first bachelor's degree.

The Richmond in Reach program is the University of Richmond's need-based financial aid program. It is designed for those families who are unable to pay the full cost of a college education and is available to eligible, full-time undergraduate students who are U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Through this program, Richmond meets 100 percent of demonstrated eligibility for need-based aid for all undergraduate students. Applicants for need-based financial aid must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), the CSS PROFILE and submit copies of student and parent federal tax returns to the College Board's IDOC service. Some aid applicants will also be required to submit the Nontaxodial Parent PROFILE. Prospective first year students should submit the FAFSA and CSS PROFILE by the University of Richmond's deadline date of February 15 and copies of tax returns must be submitted to IDOC by March 1. The deadline for transfer student financial aid applications (FAFSA, PROFILE, and tax returns) is the same date as the admission application deadline. The deadline for financial aid applications (FAFSA, PROFILE, and tax returns) for returning students is May 15.

Generally, to be considered for need-based aid, an applicant must be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident, must be enrolled or accepted for enrollment on at least a half-time basis in a degree or certificate program, and must demonstrate financial need. Full-time enrollment is required for institutional aid. Financial aid from the University of Richmond is available to students through their eighth semester of enrollment (prorated for transfer students) and students must meet certain standards of satisfactory academic progress as outlined below. A new financial aid application must be filed each year. If a family's financial situation remains about the same each year, then the financial aid eligibility will also remain about the same. However, as a family's financial situation changes, there may also be changes to eligibility for financial assistance.

Students who are eligible for need-based aid, who are enrolled full time, and who meet the application deadline are offered a financial aid package that fully meets their demonstrated need. Part-time students may be considered for loans and the Federal Pell Grant. The University of Richmond's policy is to fully meet the demonstrated need of its students who submit all three required financial aid forms by the stated deadline. Students who demonstrate need but fail to meet the deadline will lose a percentage of their need-based grant and need-based scholarship aid. Therefore, their need will not be fully met. We assess a 5% reduction in need-based grant/scholarship aid for each month that a student's application is late, up to two months after the deadline. Applications received more than two months late will receive consideration only for limited federal need-based grants and Direct Loans, but not for any other need-based aid.

For complete information regarding need-based aid, visit financialaid.richmond.edu.

International students are eligible to apply for need-based financial aid. Richmond is need-aware when reviewing admission applications from non-U.S. citizens. However, we will meet 100% of the demonstrated need for international students who are admitted and this aid will be renewed through the student's eighth semester of enrollment. International students who do not receive financial aid when they are admitted may apply for a limited amount of need-based aid in subsequent years. These students' need will not be fully met.

The University of Richmond has a robust merit-based aid program for prospective students. Merit-based scholarships are provided in recognition and support of noteworthy academic achievement. These merit-based scholarships are generally awarded independently of any assessment of need, although it is possible to qualify for a combination of need-and merit-based aid. All applicants for admission are considered for the Richmond Scholars Program provided they have submitted a completed admission application by December 1. These scholarships range from full tuition to full tuition plus room and board. Various other merit scholarships are available. Visit financialaid.richmond.edu/prospective/merit-based/index.html for more information and deadlines. Limited merit scholarships are available to currently enrolled students. Visit financialaid.richmond.edu/undergrad/scholarships.html for more information.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
The Virginia Tuition Assistance Grant is for full-time undergraduate students who are residents of Virginia. In 2011-12, grants were awarded in the amount of $2,650. Applications are available on the University of Richmond website at financialaid.richmond.edu/prospective/virginians/grant.html. The deadline is July 31.

Financial aid awards made for an academic year may be used for study abroad if the student enrolls at one of the universities with which the University of Richmond has a direct exchange agreement. Financial aid for enrollment in approved non-Richmond programs is limited to loans and federal grants.

Veterans Benefits

Students eligible to receive tuition benefits administered by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) must apply for benefits through the VA. Students should forward Certificates of Eligibility to the Veterans Certifying Official, Registrar's Office, University of Richmond, VA 23173 to have enrollment certified. In addition to the tuition benefits offered under the Post 9/11 GI Bill program, the University participates in the Yellow Ribbon program. For details regarding eligibility for the Yellow Ribbon program at Richmond, go to financialaid.richmond.edu/yellowribbon.html.

Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy

According to federal regulations and University of Richmond (UR) policy, students must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) to receive federal financial aid and institutional need-based financial aid. Some private loan programs also require SAP. Evaluation of students' progress for financial aid purposes is made annually at the end of the spring term to determine financial aid eligibility for the following year (summer term, fall term, and spring term).

Institutional Financial Aid

Receipt of institutional financial aid requires full-time enrollment (3.5 units or more) during the fall and spring terms and a minimum UR cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.00 on units attempted. Students must also be meeting the SAP requirements for federal aid (see below). Institutional aid is generally not awarded for summer term. Institutional aid is available to students through their eighth term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students). Some institutional aid programs, such as merit scholarships, have higher academic and/or other requirements which are conveyed to recipients when they are selected for such programs.

The following chart provides suggested benchmarks for the minimum number of units earned at the end of the specified term in order to complete degree requirements by the end of the eighth term of enrollment (prorated for transfer students):

<thead>
<tr>
<th>At the end of term</th>
<th>Minimum Units Earned</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional financial aid at the end of the spring term will not be eligible for any additional institutional financial aid in subsequent terms of enrollment until the standards are met. Denials of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for institutional aid. A student's request must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the SAP requirements for institutional aid and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation.

Federal Financial Aid

The Higher Education Act requires that colleges and universities establish minimum standards of Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for students receiving federal aid. When assessing SAP, the University will review all terms of enrollment at UR as well as transfer work accepted toward UR degree requirements, whether or not the student received financial aid during those terms.

The standards of academic progress outlined here are solely for the purpose of evaluating eligibility to continue receiving federal financial aid. They do not replace or modify academic standards required for continued enrollment at the University of Richmond. The effect of incomplete coursework, withdrawals, and course repetitions impacts SAP in the following ways:

- Incomplete coursework is not included in GPA or in number of credits earned but is counted as attempted credit.
- Courses from which a student withdraws are not included in GPA or in number of credits earned but are counted as attempted credit.
- Repeated courses are counted only one time as earned credits. However, credits for each course taken, including all repeated courses, are counted as attempted credit. Both grades will be calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

SAP is checked annually at the end of the spring term. Students must meet both of the following requirements:

- Have completed 67% of all attempted coursework, (including transfer work and pass/fail courses) AND
- Have achieved a cumulative grade point average, depending on the number of units earned, as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Units Earned</th>
<th>UR Grade Point Average</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>.25 to 6.82</td>
<td>1.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.83 to 15.40</td>
<td>1.70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15.41 to 23.97</td>
<td>1.85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23.98 or more</td>
<td>2.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
In addition, students must complete the requirements for a bachelor's degree within the 150% maximum timeframe allowed. That is, as the undergraduate degree program requires 35 units to complete, the maximum number of units attempted to complete the program cannot exceed 52.50 units, including transfer work and pass/fail courses. Successful completion of a class means receiving one of the following grades for the class: A, B, C, or D.

Students not meeting the SAP requirements for federal financial aid at the end of the spring term will not be eligible for any additional federal financial aid in subsequent terms of enrollment until the standards are met. Denials of aid under this policy may be appealed by the student, in writing, to the Director of Financial Aid within 30 days of notification that the student is no longer eligible for federal aid. Appeals will be considered for the following circumstances: the death of a relative of the student; an injury or illness to the student; or other special circumstances. A student's request must include information regarding why the student is not meeting the SAP requirements for federal aid and what factors have changed that will allow the student's academic progress to improve by the next evaluation.

Successful appeals will lead to one of two SAP statuses: Financial Probation or Eligible for Financial Aid. A student may be placed on 'Financial Probation' for the subsequent term if it is determined that he/she can regain eligibility after one term. A student may be found 'Eligible for Financial Aid' based on an academic plan that outlines future academic progress for the student as established by the Director of Financial Aid. The student will be notified of their SAP status based on the merits of the appeal. If the appeal is not granted, the student will be notified of the decision and will be financially responsible for their educational expenses.

Return of Financial Aid When a Student Withdraws

The 1998 amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 and subsequent regulations issued by the Department of Education (43 CFR 668.22) establish a policy for the return of Title IV grant and loan funds for a student who withdraws. Title IV grant and loan funds include the following programs: Federal Direct Loans, Federal Pell Grant, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Federal Perkins Loan, Federal Work-Study, and Federal Direct PLUS Loans, and the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

The amount of Title IV funds the student earns up to the withdrawal date is based on a daily proration determined by dividing the total number of calendar days completed by the total number of calendar days in the semester (excluding breaks of five or more consecutive days). Adjustments must only be made up to and including the 60 percent point in time for the semester. After the 60 percent point in time, the student is considered to have earned all of the Title IV funds awarded for that semester.

Unearned Title IV funds must be returned to the Title IV programs. If the amount earned is greater than the amount that has been disbursed, the difference is treated as a late disbursement to the student. Unearned funds up to the amount of total institutional charges (tuition plus room and board) multiplied by the unearned percentage of funds are returned to the Title IV programs by the University of Richmond. The student must return any portion of unearned funds not returned by the school. For grants, regulations limit the amount a student must repay to the amount by which the original overpayment amount exceeds 50 percent of the total grant funds received by the student. Title IV loan funds that must be returned by the student are repaid per the loan terms. Unearned Title IV funds are returned to the Title IV programs in the following order: Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Subsidized Direct Stafford Loans, Perkins Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Federal Pell Grants for which a return of funds is required, - Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for which a return of funds is required, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant for which a return of funds is required.

Return of Non-Title IV Program Funds Policy

Non-Title IV financial aid will be adjusted for a withdrawing student based upon the University's Refund Policy. Adjustments will be made through the sixth week of classes. If the amount to be returned to the non-Title IV financial aid program is the same percentage that will be refunded to the student for tuition and room charges. After the sixth week, the student is considered to have earned all of the non-Title IV aid. Non-Title IV financial aid funds are returned in the following order: institutional grants/ scholarships, nonfederal loans, agency scholarships.

Students who are receiving financial aid and who are planning to withdraw from the University during a semester are strongly encouraged to meet with a financial aid advisor to review the impact that their withdrawal will have on their institutional charges and on their financial aid for the semester.

For further information about the various financial aid programs, contact the Office of Financial Aid at (804) 289-8438 or email finaid@richmond.edu with questions about need-based aid, or check our website at financialaid.richmond.edu.

Student Life and Policies

The University of Richmond, through the Office of Student Development, provides a variety of co-curricular and extracurricular programs and student-support services. These are designed to enrich the quality of the collegiate experience by creating an environment in which the student can grow intellectually, emotionally, physically, socially, and spiritually. The ultimate purpose of this environment is to help each student fulfill his or her potential.

The deans’ offices for Richmond College and Westhampton College, the University’s coordinate colleges, are focal points in student life matters. For the University, the offices are centers for closely knit smaller communities within the whole.

On a more personal level, a student may find the dean or staff member serving as a counselor, advisor, mentor, or collaborator. If questions remain after reading this section of this catalog, a dean’s office usually can provide a more complete explanation or indicate where more information may be found. In all cases, the deans’ offices are contact points to provide assistance. Each student is encouraged to make full use of these excellent resources.

Student Resources

Counseling and Psychological Services

CAPS staff members are licensed doctoral-level mental health professionals who help students derive the greatest benefit from the educational opportunities at UR. Services offered include short-term individual psychotherapy, crisis intervention, outreach, training, consultation, and referral to other on- or off-campus resources as needed. Services are offered from about mid-August to about mid-June and are available to full-time students (except for SPCS students). Common reasons students come to CAPS include stress, anxiety, depression, relationship concerns, academic difficulties, grief, family concerns, traumatic events, eating problems, substance abuse, and sleep disturbance. Appointments can be made by visiting the CAPS office (Brunet Hall during all of the 2016-17 academic year) Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Confidentiality is assured to the full extent allowed by law. The CAPS website (wellness.richmond.edu/offices/caps/) has additional information on CAPS services, links to anonymous online screening surveys, and a variety of other mental health information. Phone: (804) 289-8119; FAX: (804) 287-1227.

Intercollegiate Athletics

The University of Richmond is a proud member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the Atlantic 10 Conference, and the Colonial Athletic Association. All of the University’s intercollegiate athletics sports are NCAA Division I, including Championship Division football. All teams participate in the Atlantic 10 Conference; the football team is a member of the Colonial Athletic Association. The intercollegiate athletics program offers seven sports for men and 10 for women. The men’s teams include baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, lacrosse, soccer, swimming, tennis, and track (indoor and outdoor).

The women’s intercollegiate athletics teams compete in basketball, cross country, field hockey, golf, lacrosse, soccer, swimming, tennis, and track (indoor and outdoor).

International Students and Study Abroad

The Office of International Education, located in the Carole Weinstein International Center, serves all students, undergraduate and graduate, in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, continuing studies, and law. It offers advising on opportunities and procedures for study, internships, and work abroad; a wide variety of services for international students such as orientation, visas, work, health insurance, and taxes; and a broad range of cultural and social activities focused on cultures and countries around the world as well as cross-cultural issues.

Multicultural Affairs

The mission of the Office of Multicultural Affairs is to support the ongoing enrollment and retention of ethnically and socio-culturally diverse American students and promote a campus climate that celebrates diversity. Working in collaboration with a variety of other offices and departments campus-wide, the Office of Multicultural Affairs develops, implements, and advocates for programs that are designed to enhance the overall personal development and growth of University students.

Recreation and Wellness

The mission of the Department of Recreation and Wellness is to enhance the lives of its members by providing quality recreational and educational programs in an environment that promotes healthy lifestyles, academic productivity, and personal growth.

The Weinstein Center for Recreation and Wellness provides a comprehensive facility that includes a two-level fitness and wellness center, three-court gymnasium with an elevated walking and jogging track, two multipurpose rooms, pool, game room, and racquetball and squash courts, as well as locker room and sauna facilities. Participants have the opportunity to experience a full range of cardio and strength equipment, in addition to a wellness resource center and computer lab. Outdoor playing fields and lighted basketball and sand volleyball courts are available for recreational use. Thirteen tennis courts, a 400-meter track, and cross country trails are also available for recreational use when not scheduled for intramurals, intercollegiate athletics, or special events. The campus recently added an 18 hole disc golf course available for recreational use.

The fitness and wellness program offers group exercise, indoor cycling, and other fitness programs throughout the day. In addition, special screenings, assessments, and services are offered to address health and wellness topics. Services often include massage therapy, personal training, cholesterol screenings, blood pressure checks, and fitness assessments.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
The intramural sports program offers a wide range of major and minor sports at a variety of skill levels. More than 25 sport clubs provide student leadership opportunities as well as competitive options for students who are not part of the varsity athletic program. The Natural High and Outdoor Adventure programs offer activities and trips throughout the year, often including whitewater tubing and rafting, camping, skiing, rock climbing and hiking. The Odyssey high ropes course is one component of a much larger and long term departmental goal for developing a comprehensive Outdoor Experiential Education program.

Student Activities and Organizations

No matter what your interests, you'll be able to pursue them with passion at Richmond. Find your niche within our approximately 275 student clubs and organizations and our unique Greek system. If there is no existing club that meets your interest, you can create a new one (involved.richmond.edu/).

You'll never run out of things to do at Richmond. The Office of Student Activities and other programming entities make sure of that through a wide variety of on-campus entertainment options ranging from concerts to movies to comedians.

Student Government

To as great an extent as possible, the University places the governance of students in the hands of students. The coordinate colleges and the schools of business and leadership studies each have their own elected student government association which responds to the needs and interests of its specific students. In addition, student representatives are chosen to sit and vote on certain committees of the Board of Trustees and of the faculty. Each college has its own honor council and its own judicial council composed entirely of students.

Student Health Center

The Student Health Center offers a comprehensive program in health education and health maintenance, as well as treatment for illness and injury. The Health Center staff includes board-certified family practice physicians and registered nurses. Services include acute care for illness and injury, general medical care, women’s health, men’s health, allergy shots, and immunizations. The telephone number is (804) 289-8064 and FAX is (804) 287-6466. Students and parents are encouraged to visit the Health Center's website for general information and timely messages and the Health Center can be reached by email at healthcenter@richmond.edu.

Rather than walking in without an appointment, students are encouraged to call and speak with a registered nurse about their concerns through the Dial-A-Nurse system (call 804-289-8700 for the Dial-A-Nurse). After evaluating the history and symptoms of the illness, the nurse will advise the most appropriate treatment. If indicated after the Dial-A-Nurse evaluation, an appointment will be made. Appointments may be made for annual gynecological examinations, doctor-requested follow-up visits, allergy shots, immunizations, and PPD tests by calling (804) 289-8064.

All full time students are eligible for the services provided by the Student Health Center. (School of Professional and Continuing Studies students are not eligible.) The cost of prescription drugs, some laboratory tests, hospital emergency room treatment, hospitalization, x-rays, and referral off campus for consultation with medical specialists are not covered by any student fees. These costs will be billed separately by the provider.

The Student Health Center does not accept insurance assignments. This means we will not bill a patient's insurance company. Any charges incurred at the time of visit will be billed through student accounts or may be paid by check, cash, or Spider Card. The patient will be provided with a medical encounter form itemizing all charges and containing all necessary information to submit for insurance reimbursement.

Information regarding hours of operation, descriptions of services, details of allergy shot procedure, billing and insurance questions, medical information, community facilities, medical referrals, and helpful links can be found on the Health Center's website.

Virginia law mandates that each student submit an immunization record and tuberculosis screening status prior to enrollment. In compliance with this requirement, the immunization record is included in the health history form provided to entering students and is to be returned to the Student Health Center.

All communications between student and Health Center staff are strictly confidential. Information will not be released from the Student Health Center without the patient's prior approval except in an emergency or by court order.

Arts and Cultural Events

The Modlin Center for the Arts, which opened in 1996, features state-of-the-art performance venues, galleries, studios, and classrooms. Praised as “a work of art itself” by the Richmond Times-Dispatch, the $22.5 million, 165,000-square-foot facility is home to the departments of art and art history, music and theatre, and dance.

The Modlin Center for the Arts presents more than 40 world-class performing arts events as part of the ModlinArts Presents Series, five productions presented by the Department of Theatre and Dance and the University Players and Dancers, and another 23 music performances as part of the Department of Music’s annual free concert series. Many of the events presented at the Modlin Center feature an academic component designed specifically for Richmond students. These activities, which are free and open to the public, include master classes and lecture demonstrations, as well as pre-concert and exhibition lectures.

Office of Alumni and Career Services

The Office of Alumni and Career Services, advises and supports undergraduate students and alumni throughout the career development process. The office approaches career development as a continuous learning experience that begins during a student's first year at Richmond. Staff members work with undergraduate students in all majors to assist them in discovering their individual paths for success. Richmond students achieve a high rate of success after graduation. They are employed in a diverse range of industries and are accepted at some of the best graduate and professional schools in the world. In fall 2008, the office relocated to a newly renovated space located on the third floor of Tyler Haynes Commons.

The Office of Alumni and Career Services assists students in:

- Exploring interests and abilities
- Choosing majors
- Connecting with internships and learning experiences
- Investigating graduate and professional school options
- Landing their first jobs

Programs & Events include:

- Individual career advising
- Industry expos
- Career workshops and panels
- Spider Road Trips to explore industries in various metropolitan areas
- "Evening of Etiquette"
- Mock interviews
- On-campus interviews
- Off-campus recruiting events

Exclusive Search Engines

Richmond students and alumni have access to the University’s exclusive job opportunity database, SpiderConnect, which allows them to search for internships and full-time position postings, apply for interviews and register to attend organizational information sessions. Career15 gives Richmond students access to opportunities open to students from Virginia's colleges and universities. The University Career Action Network (UCAN) allows Richmond students access to internship postings throughout the world.

The UR Career Network allows students to search for and connect with Richmond alumni in varying industries and geographic areas for career networking.

Recruiting Programs & Events

Every year, the Office of Alumni and Career Services hosts organizations for information sessions and on-campus interviews. Organization representatives, professionals and alumni also attend five industry-focused expos held throughout the academic year. In addition to bringing employers on campus to recruit Richmond students, the office works to bring students to major metropolitan areas through Spider Road Trips. The office also assists students in applying for and attending regional and national career fairs.

For more information, visit careerservices@richmond.edu.

Bonner Center for Civic Engagement

The Bonner Center for Civic Engagement (CCE) helps students, faculty, and staff get involved in the Greater Richmond community. The CCE brings together its campus constituents and community members to address social issues in context and to respond to community-identified needs through community-based learning and research, advocacy work, deepened awareness of current events, service, alternative breaks, and city tours. Located in Tyler Haynes Commons, the CCE works with faculty and students to integrate academic learning with the pressing social issues facing the Richmond region and beyond. The CCE also sponsors educational programming on important local, national, and international issues.

Office of Common Ground

Common Ground supports the University’s priorities of diversity and inclusion by providing campus-wide resources and programs that foster community across lines of difference and an environment of full inclusion.

Common Ground focuses on the connections that students and employees make across differences and creates learning opportunities which foster our ability to understand the experiences of those whose life stories are very different than our own. More specifically, Common Ground:

- Offers students and others on campus opportunities to learn about diversity, inclusion, and social justice issues through focused dialogues, workshops, trainings, retreats and special programs.
- Supports, collaborates with, and offers consultation to groups or campus offices working to foster inclusive diversity.
- Serves as a confidential point of contact and advocate for students, faculty, and staff.
- Publicizes diversity initiatives, events, and other opportunities to the campus community.
Disability Accommodations

The University seeks to comply with all applicable federal, state, and local laws regarding the rights of individuals with disabilities. To facilitate such compliance, the vice president for student development serves as the University’s disability coordinator. The University does not discriminate on the basis of disability in admission. Therefore, applicants are not required to provide information about their physical condition or disability status prior to admission. Individuals with disabilities are invited to contact the disability coordinator regarding any accommodations they may require in visiting the campus or upon matriculation. The University provides reasonable adjustments or accommodations in its academic programs as necessary for equal opportunity and participation for qualified students with disabilities.

Dining Services

University of Richmond Dining Services is a multi-operation department consisting of dining locations, snack shops, and retail stores. The E. Bruce Heilman Dining Center is a state-of-the-art facility overlooking Westhampton Lake that serves approximately 3,000 students and guests daily. A retail market is located off the main lobby and the upper level of the facility houses the Department of Food and Auxiliary Services and the campus post office.

The centrally located Tyler Haynes Commons (THC) houses Tyler's Grill, an eat-in or carry-out operation with a dining area that faces Westhampton Lake and gazebo. The campus smoothie bar, Freshens, and the Cellar, a late-night gathering space, are also located in THC. For late-night studying at Boatwright Library, gourmet coffee, hot drinks, and snacks are available at Eight Fifteen at Boatwright. Sodas, snacks, and grocery items also are available at the Dean's Den, located in the Whitehurst building near the Richmond Dean's office.

Meal Plans

All students living on campus, except those in University Forest Apartments, are required to participate in a meal plan. University Forest residents can waive meal plan participation, choose from any of the campus meal plans, or purchase a Spider Flex Plan of dining dollars designed for their convenience. An off-campus meal plan also is available for commuting students. Details of the various meal plan options, including the Spider Flex and off-campus plan, are available on the dining services website at dining.richmond.edu.

Meal Plan Selections and Policy of Change Requests

Students are provided the opportunity to make their meal plan selection via BannerWeb each fall and spring for the next semester. For returning students, meal plans roll over from semester to semester. If you are moving to University Forest Apartments or off campus, your plan is not automatically changed or cancelled. It is the student's responsibility to change their plan in Bannerweb before the published deadline. Deadlines by which this selection must be made are sent to students through a SpiderByte email announcement and are posted on the dining services Web site. Once the selection is made, only one additional adjustment is permitted and must be made prior to the published deadlines. To initiate a change, the student must personally contact the One-Card Office. After the deadline, a change can be made only with the approval of the associate director of dining services and will incur a $50.00 processing fee. A student may be permitted to move between the appropriate meal plans, but no refunds will be issued. Any decrease in charges will automatically be credited to a University One-Card account for the student's use on campus. Increased charges will be due at the time of the change or will be billed.

Hours of Operation and Other Services

Students can find something to eat somewhere on campus whenever classes are in session, from 7:15 a.m. to midnight Monday through Thursday, Fridays from 7:15 a.m. until 1 a.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10:30 a.m. until 1 a.m. Dining services maintains an up-to-date schedule of menus and operational hours for all campus locations on its web page. Meal plans follow the undergraduate academic calendar, and service and hours may be limited during academic breaks and holidays.

Catering and a wide variety of additional services, including nutrition counseling and meals-to-go, are also available through University Dining Services. Additional information is available upon request or can be viewed at dining.richmond.edu.

Special Dietary Needs

With a registered dietician as a member of the University dining services team, every effort is made to support special dietary needs that are medically based. Medical documentation is required, and students with dietary restrictions or special needs are asked to make an appointment to see our nutrition professional. Students will be required to sign an informational release so that their situation can be discussed with their physician or medical professional as needed. In addition, dining services may require that students consult the University's physicians regarding their dietary requests.

The University does not have designated facilities to accommodate religion-based dietary needs on a daily basis. However, we do work closely with the campus ministry to provide kosher meals for Passover selections and carry-out meals during Ramadan. Please contact the associate director of dining services if you have questions regarding available services.

Bookstore

The University Bookstore carries textbooks for all courses scheduled for a given term at the University. A comprehensive selection of reference books and general reading materials is also available. The store offers academically priced software, computer and office supplies, greeting cards, gifts, clothing, and health and beauty aids. Services include faxing and UPS shipping. The bookstore's website is urspidershop.com.

Student Identification Number

In an effort to better protect the privacy of each member of the University of Richmond community, the University uses randomly generated ID numbers of each student, employee, faculty member, and alumnus/a.

A student will be assigned a University of Richmond ID number as the primary identification for University records when he/she enters the University. This eight-digit number will be printed on each student's One-Card (unless the student requests that it not be printed). This ID number also will be used in conjunction with a confidential PIN for students to register for classes and access their academic records through the Web using the University of Richmond's Student Information System (BannerWeb). A Social Security number will still be required to be on file with the University to fulfill IRS and federal reporting requirements.

Identification Card/One-Card

Each degree- or certificate-seeking student will be issued a picture identification card (One-Card) upon request. This card verifies that the holder is eligible to receive University library and certain other campus privileges. A campus ID is required for check cashing and access to athletic facilities and serves as your meal card if applicable and library card. Neither the card nor its privileges is transferable.

All University students may sign up for the University’s SpiderCard Account, a declining balance program which allows students to access previously deposited funds via their University One-Card. The SpiderCard Account allows students the ability to make purchases without carrying cash and can be used at the bookstore, the Student Health Center, most vending machines, for on-campus pizza delivery, in One Card Services for passport photos, for concessions in Robins Stadium/Robins Center, and all campus dining locations. Students will be mailed information before the fall semester regarding SpiderCard sign up. Complete information on the One-Card is available at onecard.richmond.edu.

Housing and Residence Life

On-campus housing for undergraduate students may be requested by contacting the Office of Undergraduate Student Housing. The University attempts to provide on-campus housing for full-time students who wish to be accommodated. No student is required to live on campus, and some choose to reside off campus in private homes or apartments. The University does not provide married student housing.

Residence hall rooms are available in several styles, including singles, doubles, triples, quads, and suites. Apartments are available for some upper-class students. First-year students are housed in traditional residence halls, which are primarily double rooms. Most residence halls have lounges and laundry areas.

Room reservation procedures are made available at appropriate times during the school year. In general, continuing students request rooms and roommates according to the procedures established by the Office of Undergraduate Student Housing. Incoming students complete a questionnaire. Using expressed lifestyle, mutual interests, and other criteria, the Office of Undergraduate Student Housing assigns rooms and roommates.

General supervision of the residence halls is provided by Master's level professional staff who are assisted by specially trained upper-class students. University policy is the framework under which all campus residences are governed.

Numerous educational and social programs are planned for residents by the residence life staffs of the colleges, the office of Living & Learning programs, the Residence Hall Association and the President's College Associates. These programs make the residence halls and apartments into living and learning environments that promote a sense of community and personal growth.

General Conditions

The Housing Contract sets forth the specific terms and conditions applicable to residence hall rentals, meal plans, telecom services, and data services. Each student approved for housing is referred to the appropriate website where a copy of the Housing Contract is available for preview. In addition, the terms and conditions of the Housing Contract and associated documents must be agreed upon prior to being housed. This is an electronic agreement. Detailed information regarding residence life and housing is available in the college handbooks.

Student Policies

The University of Richmond is governed by policy statements that guide individual members in their actions toward each other and toward the larger community. These policy statements support the University's educational mission while seeking to ensure that both individual and group rights are appropriately observed and maintained.

Alcoholic Beverages and Other Drugs

The legal age for the consumption and possession of beverage alcohol is 21 in the Commonwealth of Virginia; the law governs all sites within the Commonwealth and all persons including temporary visitors from other places. The University supports the laws of the Commonwealth and has policies to educate and regulate its campus constituencies regarding the consumption of alcohol. Similarly, statutes as well as University policies prohibit the possession, distribution, sale, or use of illegal drugs or narcotics, including marijuana and hallucinogens. Moreover, each person is responsible for his or her destructive, obstructive, or otherwise inappropriate behavior, whether under the influence of any substance or not. Persons in violation of the... law are subject to prosecution by law enforcement agencies as well as disciplinary proceedings by the University.

More information about the University's alcohol and drug policy can be found online at wellness.richmond.edu/common/pdfs/factsheets/alcohol-drug-policy.pdf.

Emergency Information

To report an emergency, call 911 or 289-8911 (cell phone). The non-emergency number is 289-8715

Getting Information

During an emergency, UR will distribute information to the campus community via:

- Audio–Tornado siren and PA system
- Web–This website, alert.richmond.edu
- Email–Blast email to '@richmond.edu' accounts
- Text/voice messages–UR Alert text messages and/or voice messages to faculty, staff, and students who register a cell or home phone through BannerWeb
- Campus phones–Telephone messages to campus telephones
- TV–UR TV channel 16 broadcasts
- People–Resident assistants and area coordinators
- Hotline–UR Emergency Hotline: (804) 289-8760 or toll free at (866) 386-0403

Emergency Terms

Shelter in Place: Choose an interior room or one with as few doors and windows as possible. Remain there until the danger has passed. Examples: Tornado or other severe weather, nuclear alert, or hazardous materials spill.

Seek Secure Shelter: Get into a lockable space, like an office or classroom, and remain there. Lock and barricade doors, turn off lights, and turn cell phones to silent or vibrate mode. Get under a desk or other surface to hide. Follow directions given by emergency personnel and go to the location designated by your building coordinator to await further instructions.

Evacuate: Immediately leave the building that you are in, exiting through the nearest and safest exit. If the fire alarm has not been activated, do so. Examples: Fire, smoke.

Avoid Area, Warn Others: In these types of incidents, the emergency is localized on campus. University officials do not want anyone near the area and want you to alert others of the emergency. Examples: Hazardous materials spill, flooded roads, aircraft accident, bomb threat, civil disturbance, fire, gas leak, or power lines down.

What to Do

Tornado

- Listen for the tornado siren. A single siren blast will sound continuously until the danger has passed.
- Seek shelter inside a building until notified by University officials that it is safe to leave.
- Stay away from electrical lines and devices.
- There is no “all-clear.” The danger has passed when the siren silences.

Fire

- Activate the nearest fire alarm and call 289-8911 if possible to report the location and cause of the fire.
- Everyone must leave immediately when a fire alarm is activated, even if there are no obvious signs of an emergency.
- Do not use the elevator.
- Remain calm and assist others in safely getting out.
- Confine the fire by closing all doors and windows if possible. Follow directions given by emergency personnel and go to the location designated by your building coordinator to await further instructions.

Earthquake

- Stay inside the building until the shaking stops. Don't run downstairs or rush outside while the building is shaking.
- Stay away from glass, windows, outside doors and walls, and anything that could fall.
- A sturdy table or desk can provide cover.
- Once the building stops shaking, exit the building calmly and check for others in need.
- Do not use elevators.
- If outdoors, stay in the open until the shaking stops, avoid any falling debris fields such as buildings, power lines, etc.

Active Shooter/Dangerous Person

- Remain calm, do not engage the intruder.
- A quick and quiet escape is suggested, if it can be done safely.
- If attempting to escape, keep your hands elevated with open palms visible, especially if encountering law enforcement officers. Follow all instructions officers may give you.
- If you cannot safely exit the building, seek secure shelter.
- Close and lock windows, lower blinds, remain out of sight, and turn off lights.
- Once secured inside, take cover behind concrete walls, thick desks, and filing cabinets that are away from windows and doors.
- Remain quiet, and turn off cell phone ringers.
- Only one person from the room should call police at 289-8911 and tell them where you are, where the dangerous person is, and the condition of others with you. Follow their instructions. If you cannot
The University’s policy against discrimination and harassment is based on gender. This Policy also incorporates all other local, state and federal laws, including Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Any individual whose conduct violates the Policy will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination for employees and expulsion for students.

Harassment is the creation of a hostile or intimidating environment, in which verbal or physical conduct, because of its severity and/or persistence, is likely to interfere significantly with an individual's work or education, or affect adversely an individual's living conditions on campus.

Illegal and improper harassment based on any of the classifications in paragraph 1, may include:

- Any suggestion that sexual favors, race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, status as a veteran or any protected classification would affect one's job, promotion, performance evaluations, grades, working or educational conditions;
- Making unwelcome or offensive comments about a person's clothing, body or personal life;
- Offensive jokes or unwelcome innuendoes;
- Other conduct that creates a work or educational environment that may be considered offensive or hostile, even though some staff or students might not find them objectionable;
- Use of unwelcome or offensive nicknames or terms of endearment.

Sexual harassment, in particular, may consist of unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when one or more of the following occur:

- Submission to or rejection of such conduct is made a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic success;
- Submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for employment or academic decisions;
- Such conduct has the purpose or effect of interfering with an individual's work or academic performance or creates a hostile, intimidating or offensive work or educational environment.

The University has designated the Associate Vice President for the Department of Human Resource Services (located in Weinstein Hall), as the University's representative to handle issues arising under the Policy, including Title IX. Individuals who need further information or clarification of the Policy should contact the Associate Vice President directly.

The Policy also applies to complaints of harassment or discrimination involving applicants for admission or employment, or persons aggrieved by third parties such as contractors or vendors serving the University.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Complaint Resolution Procedure

For ease in identifying individuals, the person making the complaint is referred to as the Complainant, and the person for whom the complaint is being made is referred to as the Respondent.

The University will endeavor to respond to and resolve all complaints quickly and effectively. Individuals who believe they have been harassed or discriminated against in violation of the Policy are encouraged to take action in any of the ways described in the Complaint Resolution Procedure (Procedure).

Although none of the actions listed under the options for Informal Resolution, below, are required before an individual may file a Formal Complaint, the University favors informal resolution of these claims whenever possible. Except as expressly provided herein, the Procedure is the only grievance practice available to staff, faculty, students or other parties for violations of the Policy. No other grievance practices otherwise available at the University are applicable.

Through the Procedure, the University will take necessary steps to prevent recurrence of any harassment and/or discrimination determined to have occurred, and will take necessary steps to correct the discriminatory effects of the conduct on the Complainant and others, if appropriate. During all stages of the Procedure, every effort will be made to ensure fundamental fairness to all parties involved in the complaint process. The University will make good faith efforts to protect the confidentiality of those involved in the Procedure to the extent permitted by law and to the extent that continued protection does not interfere with the University's ability to investigate allegations or to take corrective action.

The University prohibits retaliation against any individual who files a complaint (informal or formal) in good faith or participates in a harassment or discrimination inquiry. Conducting an informal investigation with the Complainant can help with any or all of the following options:

A. Procedures for Informal Resolution

The Informal Resolution process provides an effective means of resolving most disputes. However, the Complainant may terminate the Informal Resolution process at any time and initiate a Formal Complaint without prejudice.

1. Informal Discussion with Respondent

Prior to the involvement of other parties or University officers, the Complainant may choose to discuss the concerns directly with the Respondent. The Respondent may not realize that his or her conduct is offensive or unwelcome. Many disputes can be resolved quickly and effectively with such direct communication. A complaint brought to the attention of the Respondent shortly after the alleged offensive behavior occurs (e.g: immediately or in a few days) will usually result in more effective resolution.

2. Informal Discussion with University Officials

Understanding that a Complainant may discuss concerns with a friend, confidant, advisor or counselor in the Counseling and Psychological Services office, etc., it is nonetheless the case that to initiate an informal discussion with University officials, a Complainant should contact one of the following individuals in a timely manner, ordinarily within thirty (30) days of the offending conduct:

Students should contact the dean of their school or residential college as follows:

- Arts and Sciences, Business or Leadership Studies undergraduate students should contact the dean of their residential college
- Graduate School of Business: Senior Associate Dean, Richard Coughlan at (804) 289-8553
- Law School: Dean, Wendy Purdue at (804) 289-8183
- Richmond College: Dean, Joseph Boehman at (804) 289-8061
- School of Professional and Continuing Studies: Dean, Jamelle Wilson at (804) 287-6884
- Westhampton College: Dean, Mia Reinoso Genoni at (804) 289-8648

Staff should contact:

- Executive Assistant to the President: Carolyn Martin at (804) 289-8088
- Faculty should contact the dean of their school:
  - Arts and Sciences: Dean, Kathleen Skerrett
  - Business: Dean, Nancy Bagranoff
  - Professional and Continuing Studies: Dean, Jamelle Wilson
  - Law: Dean, Wendy Perdue
  - Leadership Studies: Dean, Sandra J Peart

If the complaint is against one of the designated University officials, the Complainant should contact the President of the University, who will designate a representative of the University to handle the matter. If the complaint is against the dean of a student's residential college, then the Complainant should contact the Associate Vice President for the Department of Human Resource Services.

The Informal Discussion can help with any or all of the following options:

- Assisting the Complainant to determine if the behavior violates the Policy, or to learn more about the Policy;
- Conducting an informal investigation with the effect and goal of ending the alleged behavior in an effective and expeditious manner;
- Contacting the supervisor of the alleged offender and requesting assistance to stop the behavior;

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
B. Procedures for Formal Resolution

A Complainant may omit the Informal Discussion process entirely and file a Formal Complaint with the Associate Vice President for the Department of Human Resource Services (hereafter the Associate Vice President). Formal Complaints alleging violation of the Policy must be filed in the Associate Vice President's office in a timely manner, ordinarily within thirty (30) days of the offending conduct, or shortly after the conclusion of the Informal Discussion process, usually within ten (10) working days.

The Formal Complaint must be in writing and must set forth:

1. A statement that the Complainant intends that this document shall constitute a Formal Complaint;
2. Date or approximate date on which the alleged behavior occurred;
3. Identity of the person(s) purportedly responsible;
4. Specific descriptions of the alleged behavior;
5. All witnesses and evidence supporting the complaint, including attaching any tangible evidence or documentation;
6. Complainant's name and signature.

The Respondent will have ten (10) working days after receiving the Formal Complaint to file a written Response in the Associate Vice President's office.

The Associate Vice President, or her/his designee, will review the Formal Complaint and Response. An investigation, including relevant interviews, will be conducted. The Associate Vice President, or her/his designee, will prepare a written report of the Formal Complaint Findings (Findings) as expeditiously as possible, usually within forty-five (45) days from the date that the Formal Complaint was filed, and will deliver the Findings to the Complainant and Respondent. The written report will include the Associate Vice President's or her/his designee's conclusions with respect to the Formal Complaint and will make a final determination as to what action, if any, is necessary. Either party may appeal from the Findings within the time period and in the method described below.

All provisions in this Grievance Procedure for notifying all parties of Findings and recommendations will be followed so long as the University determines that there are no violations of state or federal privacy laws, including, but not limited to, the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.

If no appeal is filed within the designated time period, then the Findings will be final. The Associate Vice President will then work with other University officials to enforce the Findings. If no appeal is filed, then no party will have a right to pursue any other University grievance procedures.

C. Appeal from Formal Complaint Decision

Either the Complainant or the Respondent may initiate an appeal from the Formal Complaint Findings. The appeal must be filed with the Associate Vice President's office within ten (10) working days from the date of the Findings.

The appeal must be in writing and must set forth:

1. Substantive reason(s) for the appeal;
2. The identity of all witnesses;
3. Any new information.

The responding party must file a written response to the appeal with the Associate Vice President's office within five (5) working days after receiving the appeal, and must set forth:

1. A response to the appeal allegations;
2. The identity of all witnesses.

Within five working days after receiving the appeal, the Associate Vice President will assemble the Resolution Committee, which will be formed solely for the purpose of resolving disputes alleging violations of the Policy. The Resolution Committee members will be chosen by the President, who will select two students, two staff members and two faculty members from the Judicial Pool.

The Judicial Pool is constituted at the beginning of each year to provide a pool of faculty, staff and students to serve on the Resolution Committee (defined in this document for the purpose of this Policy) and Hearing Boards for matters of Policy violations. The faculty members are elected each year by their respective schools, two each from Arts and Sciences, Business, Leadership Studies, Law and Continuing Studies. Five staff members are designated by the Associate Vice President at the beginning of each year as part of the pool. Student members of the pool are the chairs of the Richmond College Judicial Council, the Westhampton College Judicial Council, and the chairs of the Honor Councils for Richmond and Westhampton Colleges, the Business and Law Schools and the School of Professional and Continuing Studies.
The Resolution Committee will be charged with the responsibility of conducting a fair and unbiased hearing within fifteen (15) working days after being assembled. It will have access to all available information pertaining to the complaint. The Resolution Committee will accept and review written comments submitted by the Complainant and Respondent and other relevant individuals. At its discretion, it may also entertain oral testimony from witnesses.

The general outline of the hearing, which will be tape recorded, will be as follows:

1. The Resolution Committee will review the Formal Complaint, if applicable, Response, Written Appeal and all other available information;
2. The Complainant will have the opportunity to present the complaint and any attending circumstances;
3. The Respondent will have the opportunity to present a response and any attending circumstances;
4. The Resolution Committee may request specific individuals to appear before it and may also implement additional procedures as it deems necessary for a fair and equitable process;
5. Other than witnesses, only the Complainant, Respondent, Associate Vice President (or her/his designee) and members of the Resolution Committee may be present during the hearing; except that the Complainant and/or Respondent may be accompanied by a non-participating support person such as a member of the CAPS staff, but neither may be represented by legal counsel in these procedures;
6. The Resolution Committee will deliberate, in private and outside the presence of any other individuals, and render its collective Recommendations in writing within ten (10) working days after the conclusion of the hearing.

The Resolution Committee's Recommendations will be forwarded to the Associate Vice President, who will notify the Complainant and Respondent of the Recommendations, subject to applicable privacy laws. Each party will have five (5) working days to submit to the Associate Vice President written comments on the Recommendations.

The Associate Vice President will then forward the Recommendations, the investigative materials, including the hearing evidence, and the comments by the Complainant and Respondent, if any, to the following (depending on whether the Resolution Committee recommended action against a student, staff member or faculty member):

- Students: Vice President of Student Affairs, Dr. Stephen Bisese
- Staff: Vice President for Business and Finance, Mr. David B. Hale
- Faculty: President of the University, Dr. Ronald A. Crutcher

Determinations as to the action or inaction based on the Recommendations will be made by these University officers, as applicable. These officers may use their discretion in seeking any additional information or advice before rendering a final decision. The decision will be made within thirty (30) days from the date of the Recommendations. The decision made by each of these individuals is final; provided, however, that if the Resolution Committee recommends termination of a faculty member and the Recommendation is accepted by the President, the normal “termination for cause” procedures defined in the Faculty Handbook will be followed.

Hazing

Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to ensure that students at the University of Richmond are not subjected to any type of hazing when joining a fraternity, sorority, athletic team or any other University of Richmond sponsored student group.

Definition of Hazing

Hazing is defined as any action or situation, created intentionally or unintentionally and with or without the consent of the persons subjected to the action or situation that produces mental or physical harm, embarrassment, harassment, or ridicule.

University of Richmond Policy on Hazing

No student or any person affiliated with the University of Richmond shall engage in hazing, as defined above.

If, in the determination of the University's Code of Conduct and subsequent to a hearing conducted according to University procedure, any student or person affiliated with the University is found to have committed any act prohibited herein, then such student or person affiliated with the University of Richmond shall be subject to penalties in accordance with this policy and the University of Richmond's Student Code of Conduct.

The penalties set forth below may be imposed for violations of this policy regardless of whether the violation occurred on or off campus, and shall be in addition to any other penalty to which the offending student(s) may be subject for violations of the State of Virginia's criminal law and any other applicable law rule, or regulation.

1. Individuals subject to the University of Richmond jurisdiction found guilty of hazing violations may be subject to suspension.
2. Organizations subject to the University of Richmond jurisdiction that authorize hazing in disregard of this policy may be penalized by revocation of organization registration, revocation of permission to meet on campus or to use campus facilities, and/or revocation of the right to exist at the University of Richmond.

Examples of Hazing

Examples of forbidden hazing activities include, but are not limited to:

- Intimidation, threats and verbal hostility;
- Rough wrestling matches and football games;
- Hitting an individual with paddles, even in so-called fun exchanges, and other types of beatings;
• Sexually degrading activities, including stripping, simulation of sexual acts, improper touching, or sexually explicit chants and songs;
• Pressuring an individual to get a brand or tattoo or to shave his or her head;
• Dousing an individual with dangerous substances;
• Requiring an individual to eat unpleasant-tasting food;
• Requiring an individual to sleep in uncomfortable places or depriving them of sleep;
• Forcing an individual to do physical exercise;
• Forcing an individual to swim, which can result in drowning;
• Forcing an individual to wear unusual clothing;
• The keeping of pledge books and/or forcing an individual to get member’s or alumni’s signatures;
• Requiring an individual to memorize non-essential information;
• Isolating an individual from other group members; or an activity that intentionally or unintentionally subjects an individual to mental or physical harm, embarrassment, harassment, or ridicule;
• Forcing an individual to do personal errands of any kind.

Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act

University of Richmond is committed to assisting all members of the university community in providing for their own safety and security. The annual security and fire safety compliance document is available on the University of Richmond website at police.richmond.edu/reporting/index.html.

If you would like to receive a copy of the security and fire safety report which contains this information, you can stop by the University Police Department at Special Programs Building, #31 UR Drive, University of Richmond, VA 23173 or you can request a copy be mailed to you by calling (804) 289-8722.

The website and document contain information regarding campus security and personal safety including topics such as: crime prevention, University police law enforcement authority, crime reporting policies, disciplinary procedures and other matters of importance related to security on campus. They also contain information about crime statistics for the three previous calendar years concerning reported crime that occurred on campus, in certain off-campus buildings or property owned or controlled by University of Richmond, and on public property within, or immediately adjacent to and accessible from the campus.

This information is required by law and is provided by the University of Richmond Police Department.

Official University Communications

The University of Richmond uses email as an official means of communication within the University. Examples include notification of financial aid, tuition bills, academic or disciplinary action, instructor feedback, and correspondence from University offices. Students are required to activate their @richmond.edu email account and to check it regularly. Students are responsible for reading the content of University communications sent to their email account. If students choose to forward their University emails to an external email provider, they are responsible for ensuring that the external email account remains active.

Response to Troubled Students

If immediate assistance is needed because of a threat to someone's safety, call the police:

On-campus situations: Call UR Police emergency (804-289-8911); or 911 from any campus phone

Off-campus situations: Call 911 to access local police responders

For all other types of mental health or safety concerns, please fill out an Incident Report Form, which will be routed to the appropriate office(s):

• Undergraduate women: Westhampton College Dean's Office (804) 289-8468
• Undergraduate men: Richmond College Dean’s Office (804) 289-8061
• Law students: Kris Henderson (804) 289-8186
• MBA students: Richard Coughlan (804) 289-8553
• School of Professional and Continuing Studies students: John Zinn (804) 287-6378 or Ned Swartz (804) 287-6386
• Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS): (804) 289-8119.
• AFTER-HOURS: Contact University of Richmond Police: (804) 289-8715 (non-emergency), (804) 289-8911 (emergency).

Be alert to signs of difficulty:

• Deterioration in classroom performance or quality/quantity of work
• Missed assignments
• Repeated absences from class
• Disorganized or erratic performance
• Frequently falls asleep in class
• Comes to class bleary-eyed, hungover, or smelling of alcohol
• Continually seeks special provisions (late papers, extensions, postponed examinations); NOT including accommodations granted by a UR Disability Accommodation Notice
• Essays or creative work which indicate extremes of hopelessness, social isolation, rage, or despair
• Inappropriate or atypical behavior in class (e.g., hostile glances; highly argumentative; leaving class abruptly)

General behavioral indicators:
Safety risk indicators:

- Becomes easily frustrated and converts frustration into physical violence
- Access to or preoccupation with weapons
- Possesses or creates media depicting graphic images of death or violence
- Statements indicating harmful intentions toward others
- Detailed plans for committing acts of violence

Take these signs seriously

Don’t disregard what you’ve observed. At the very least, convey your observations and concerns to the appropriate dean’s office. The dean’s office usually has the most holistic picture of each student, and is best able to gather information from a variety of sources. The dean’s office can call a student in, express concern and make referrals to appropriate sources of help.
Standards of Conduct

The University of Richmond considers cultivation of self-discipline and resolution of issues through process of reason to be of primary importance in the educational process and essential to the development of responsible citizens. All members of the University community have a responsibility to comply with local, state, and federal laws and with all published University policies and regulations. In a community of learning, individual or group conduct that is unlawful disrupts or interferes with the educational processes, causes destruction of property, or otherwise infringes upon the rights of others or of the University itself cannot be tolerated.

The trustees of the University of Richmond have authorized a policy statement on standards of conduct, penalties, and disciplinary procedures to guide the conduct of students and their guests. This statement sets forth those standards of conduct that the University of Richmond deems essential for fulfilling its educational mission. Any person who violates the standards of conduct and regulations of the University of Richmond shall be subject to disciplinary action and, if need be, legal action. Disciplinary action may range from disciplinary warning up to and including suspension or expulsion from the University. Sanctions will be imposed after proper determination has been made in accordance with established disciplinary procedures of the University, with fair procedures observed and with appropriate appeal procedures available, as outlined in the policy statement and any approved revisions thereof.

A copy of this policy statement and/or any officially approved revisions thereof is readily available in the Student Handbook for each student who matriculates. All members of the University community should familiarize themselves with this policy statement and revisions and with any other official publications, handbooks, or announcements issued on occasion by the University of Richmond or by individual colleges and schools of the University.

University Academic Honor Code Statute

The School of Arts and Sciences, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and the Robins School of Business each operate under the University Honor Code Statute. Cheating, plagiarism, lying, academic theft, disclosing honor council information, registration irregularity, and failure to report an Honor Code Statute violation are all considered breaches of the code. Any person who violates these standards shall be subject to disciplinary action ranging from reprimand up to and including expulsion from the University. Guilt or innocence will be determined and sanctions imposed, when necessary, according to established procedures, with procedural fairness observed and with appropriate appeal procedures available. The University Honor Code Statute is available from any dean's office.

University Police

The University of Richmond Police Department, a nationally accredited police department, is committed to providing a safe and secure environment for our students, faculty, staff, and visitors. The University of Richmond Police Department provides 24-hour uniformed response to calls for service, performs routine and directed patrol activities, performs vehicular crash investigation, and investigates criminal offenses. Additionally, all police officers are Red Cross First Responder/CPR-certified. Uniformed security officers also assist with building security and other calls for service as needed. All crimes that occur on campus should be reported to the University Police in person or by calling 911, (804) 289-8911 or (804) 289-8715. More information about the police department, including crime statistics, can be found online at police.richmond.edu.

University of Richmond Honor Councils

The University of Richmond Honor Councils provide information about the Honor System to new students and instructs them as to its meaning and operation. During new student orientation, students are given information about the honor system. Each student is required to pass a test to demonstrate an adequate knowledge of the honor system. The University of Richmond Honor Councils’ policies and procedures are described in greater detail in the University’s Undergraduate Student Handbook and online at studentdevelopment.richmond.edu/student-handbook/index.html.

Written Complaints and Grievances

Students who wish to lodge a complaint or grievance pertaining to University policies, procedures or conditions may address their complaints in written form to the appropriate department head or official who oversees the area of concern. In doubt as to whom to direct the complaint, the following officials may be contacted:

Academically related concerns:

School of Arts and Sciences:
- Dean of Richmond College (Men)
- Dean of Westhampton College (Women)

Robins School of Business:
- Dean of the Robins School of Business

Jepson School of Leadership Studies:
- Dean of the Jepson School of Leadership Studies

Housing Concerns:
- Director, Office of Undergraduate Student Housing

Financial Policy Concerns:
- Vice President for Business and Finance

All other concerns:

Academic Opportunities and Support

Academic Advising

An important part of a liberal arts education at the University of Richmond is the relationship between a student and his or her academic advisor. All full-time faculty members in the undergraduate schools and some experienced staff members serve as advisors. While some professors advise only majors in their programs, most advise both majors and students who have not yet declared a major. The ratio of students per advisor is intentionally kept low so students can benefit from personal attention as they plan their academic program.

While the University believes that the responsibility for decisions and actions resides with each individual, advisors are available to answer questions about the curriculum and choosing courses and to help students navigate their years at Richmond. They can assist students along the path to choosing a major, examining career choices, and deciding on research studies or internships. Many graduates report that their advisor was a highly valuable resource to them, and many advisees and advisors remain in touch after the student has left the University.

In addition, the Academic Advising Resource Center (AARC) is available to assist both advisors and advisees with any questions or concerns. For more information about academic advising, contact the AARC at advising.richmond.edu.

Academic Support Centers

Academic Skills Center

The Academic Skills Center, located in the administrative wing of Boatwright Library, provides academic skills support to University of Richmond students. Operating from an holistic vantage point, the Center incorporates counseling and academic skills techniques (e.g., exam preparation, critical reading, critical thinking, note-taking, information processing, concentration, time management, etc.), that address the academic performance of students and their social adjustment to the University environment. The Center offers free tutoring in a variety of subjects (e.g., calculus, chemistry, accounting, etc.) to students through its Peer Academic Skills Tutoring program. Both individual and group tutoring options are available. Call (804) 289-8626, visit asc.richmond.edu or come by the Center for more information.

Weinstein-Jecklin Speech Center

Practice and preparation can make the difference between a satisfactory speech and a memorable one. Video recording, review, and peer consultation are available at the speech center to assist students in the development of their oral presentations. Administrators, faculty, and staff rely on the speech center as well to prepare for workshops and to record small group discussions for classroom purposes. The student consultant staff assists client peers with mock interviews, symposia presentations, brainstorming, or conference panel practice sessions.

Faculty and trained undergraduate students conduct consultations daily at the speech center; practice sessions are available evenings and weekends by appointment. Reservations are made through the speech center's website at speech.richmond.edu. The speech center is located on the fourth floor of Weinstein Hall between the departments of rhetoric and communication studies and journalism.

Writing Center

The Writing Center offers assistance to students writing papers and reports as well as to those making applications to graduate and professional schools and preparing résumés. Beginning about the third week of each semester, the Writing Center is open on a regular basis and staffed with student tutors. Students may make an appointment using the center's online calendar. The Writing Center also offers typing instruction and special tutoring for international students. The center is located in the Boatwright Library's Administrative Wing, under the bell tower to the right of the library's main entrance. Many of the center's materials and other information can be found at writing.richmond.edu.

Honor Societies

Many honor and professional societies have chapters at the University of Richmond.

Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest undergraduate honor society in the United States. The Richmond chapter, Epsilon of Virginia, was founded in 1929. Phi Beta Kappa members are selected from the Schools of Arts and Sciences and Leadership based upon academic achievement.

Beta Gamma Sigma is the national honor society for business students. The University of Richmond chapter was founded in 1965. Faculty members select students for membership based on distinguished academic record.

Omicron Delta Kappa is the national leadership honor society. Chartered in 1921, Richmond's ODK chapter recognizes academic achievement, leadership, and membership positions

Golden Key National Honour Society recognizes and encourages scholastic achievement. Richmond's chapter was chartered in 1990 and provides academic recognition, leadership and community service opportunities, and educational programs for its members. Mortar Board is a national honor society that recognizes college seniors for distinguished scholarship, leadership, and service. Membership is open to rising seniors by invitation.

In addition to these campus-wide honor societies, many departments sponsor campus chapters of national honor societies in their disciplines. Information regarding
Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies (WGSS) minor

WILL consists of three complementary components:

1. Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies (WGSS) minor
   - The WGSS minor serves as the cornerstone of the WILL curriculum, providing a theoretical framework for the examination of gender, societal institutions, individual beliefs and a wide range of social justice struggles and achievements.
   - a. The minor includes a supervised internship, which provides invaluable experience for career preparation.
   - b. The minor in WGSS complements all majors and minors and enhances study abroad opportunities.

2. Leadership
   - a. WILL students develop leadership skills and gain real-world experience over the course of the four-year program.
   - b. Students apply academic knowledge to social problems in the campus community, the city of Richmond and beyond.
   - c. Students are involved in active decision-making through the WILL student leadership organization, which includes an elected board and student committees.

3. Gender and Diversity-Related Events
   - a. WILL sponsors events throughout the year, including an annual speaker series, that bring prominent women and men to campus to discuss gender and diversity-related topics.
   - b. WILL students meet with scholars and activists in small groups in order to learn more about the speakers’ expertise in a more intimate setting.

The WILL program fosters a deeper understanding of gender and its intersections with race, culture, class, sexuality, and other aspects of social identity. By connecting students with one another, and to a strong and supportive network of faculty, staff, students, alumnae, and community mentors, WILL students develop critical thinking, problem-solving, and leadership skills. In addition, WILL provides opportunities for women to explore career and life choices that enable them to excel and realize their full potential.

Applications are accepted during the summer and in the fall of a student’s first year at the University of Richmond. Subject to space availability, sophomore women may also apply. For further information, visit WILL’s website at will.richmond.edu.

Sophomore Scholars-in-Residence

Beginning August 2009, the University will offer several unique living and learning communities designed to enhance student learning beyond traditional methods. Sophomore students will be invited to live in special learning communities in Lakeview Residence Hall that revolve around a central theme. Residents take a credit-bearing class together that meets in a classroom/kitchen area located on the first floor of Lakeview Hall. Students are actively involved in experiential and social activities outside of class time with the professor. Themes may include politics, foreign language, outdoor adventures, civic engagement, and literature. Questions can be directed to the vice president for student development.

Confidentiality/Privacy/Right to Know

University of Richmond procedures and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) prohibit the unauthorized release of confidential information about individual students. However, directory information is not considered to be confidential and may be published or otherwise released. Directory information includes: name; addresses, including permanent, campus, local (off-campus), email, and campus computer network (IP) address; associated telephone numbers; date and place of birth; school or college; major and/or minor fields of study; degree sought; expected date of completion of degree requirements and graduation; degrees conferred; awards and honors (e.g., dean’s list); full- or part-time enrollment status; dates of attendance; previous institutions attended; participation in officially recognized activities and sports; weight and height of members of an athletic team; and photograph. A full list of information considered directory information is available on the Office of the University Registrar’s web page at registrar.richmond.edu/ferpa/index.html or by contacting the Office of the University Registrar. Students may opt to have their directory information withheld. To exercise this option, the appropriate form must be obtained from the Office of the University Registrar, completed, and returned to that office. Once filed, this form remains in effect until withdrawn by the student in writing to the Office of the University Registrar. For further information, contact the Office of the University Registrar.
Rights with Respect to Education Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. These rights include:

1. Access to Education Records: students have the right to inspect and review their education records within 45 days of the day the University receives a written request for access. Students should submit their request to the Office of the University Registrar and specify the record(s) they wish to inspect. Arrangements will be made for access and the student notified of the time and place where the records may be inspected.

2. Request for Amendment of Education Records: students have the right to request amendment of their education records if they believe the records are inaccurate. They should write the University Registrar, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate. If the University decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the University will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.

3. Disclosure of Education Records: students have the right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.

One exception which permits disclosure without consent is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interest. A school official is a person employed by the University in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person or company with whom the University has contracted (such as an attorney, auditor, or collection agent); a person serving on the Board of Trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility.

Upon request, the University discloses records without consent to officials of another school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

4. Right to File a Complaint: Students have the right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the University of Richmond to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202-4605

The University's complete policy statement can be found on the University Registrar's web page at registrar.richmond.edu/ferpa/statement/index.html

Note: Because of the access afforded by a University ID, this number is not considered directory information and will not be released without a student's consent except in situations as listed above. Students should treat the University ID as confidential—it should be protected and not carelessly shared with others. It will be used for a student's entire time at the University of Richmond, so it should always be treated in a confidential manner.

Right To Know

In accordance with the Student Right To Know and Campus Security Act, the University of Richmond makes graduation rates available to all current and incoming students. These figures can be found on the University's website at ifx.richmond.edu/research/fact-book.html.

International Education

The academic programs of the schools of arts and sciences, business, and leadership studies provide opportunities for the study of international subjects within academic fields long associated with such issues as political science, anthropology, and languages and literatures. Importantly, in response to changes in the world and in higher education, the University has committed itself to the internationalization of the curriculum as a whole. There is a large and growing number of courses in all departments that include international components. Interdisciplinary majors such as environmental studies, German studies, American studies, and international studies also examine international and global issues and regional politics that may cross national borders. Students interested in international issues can combine a major in a traditional academic discipline with an interdisciplinary program, for example, international studies and biology. The curricula of the Jepson School of Leadership Studies and the Robins School of Business also offer a significant number of courses that are international in scope and focus, including the concentration in international business in the Robins School of Business.

The University of Richmond places strong emphasis on the integration of international education into the academic and work, and volunteer information is located in the OIE.

Campus Activities

The University of Richmond provides a wide range of on-campus activities and events in support of international education. Courses, lectures, and seminars are offered by resident and visiting international scholars, writers, and artists. Exhibits, concerts, and the annual International Film Series bring to campus arts from around the world. Students are able to participate in a variety of international organizations such as the Asian Students Association, Multicultural Student Union, International Club, Model United Nations, Phi Beta Delta, Amnesty International, and Americans for Informed Democracy. Familiarization with other countries and cultures is enhanced on campus through contacts with a significant and growing number of international students, including exchange students from Richmond’s partner institutions who are fully integrated into the life of the University.

Study Abroad

The University of Richmond has relationships with over 70 distinguished universities and study abroad programs around the world. These study abroad opportunities enhance Richmond's curriculum by offering students a wide variety of courses and experiences. Students who meet the stated eligibility criteria as stated on the UR study abroad Web page can be considered for study abroad for a semester, year, or summer. With faculty approval, students may earn major, minor, and elective credits toward graduation. Each year a few short faculty led programs abroad related to specific courses are offered during semester break periods.

At the University of Richmond, we believe that study abroad is most effective when students are integrated into the local educational system and culture. Therefore, most Richmond semester programs involve direct enrollment in universities abroad (international.richmond.edu/about/partners.html) with on-site support provided by the host university's international office. Professional staff offer guidance, advising, and support throughout the entire study abroad process. The office organizes extensive orientation programs to help prepare students prior to departure. Upon return from study abroad, the OIE organizes a re-entry event to help reintegrate students into the University community and to identify opportunities for continuing international education on campus and in the community.

Direct experience of cultures is the best way to learn to communicate across barriers of language, customs, politics, and geography. An encounter with different values and educational systems, when supported by good will and serious study, broadens students' understanding of the complexities of our rapidly changing world. Students who study abroad find their experiences both in and out of the classroom to be stimulating and rewarding. They return with a better understanding not only of other cultures, but also of their own.

While study abroad has long been recognized as a significant component of a liberal arts education, today students majoring in the sciences, leadership studies, or business are actively participating in study abroad in growing numbers.
Study abroad is possible and encouraged for all students, regardless of their major and financial situation. Students who meet required procedures and standards may transfer up to 5.5 units per semester from study abroad and graduate with their class in four years. It is a common misconception that proficiency in a foreign language is necessary for study abroad. It is, in fact, quite feasible to study in English in non-English-speaking countries where English is widely used and courses in English are offered. It is also possible to combine intensive study of a foreign language with other courses taught in English.

Early planning
(international.richmond.edu/semester/apply/index.html) is crucial to any successful study abroad experience. The selection of an appropriate program must take into account the student's academic background and personal interests.
Students are encouraged to begin exploring the opportunities for foreign study as early as the first year and to plan their University of Richmond courses accordingly. When deciding when and for how long to study abroad, a variety of options can be considered. Richmond students have opportunities to study abroad for a year, a semester, or a summer, in the second, third, or even the fourth year. Combining summer study after the first year with semester or year study abroad during the third year is among the best choices.

There are a number of study abroad options. During the academic year there are opportunities to study through the University's exchange and affiliate programs worldwide (international.richmond.edu/about/partners.html). During the summer, the University of Richmond School of Professional and Continuing Studies (spcs.richmond.edu/summer/study-abroad/) sponsors a number of summer study abroad programs directed by Richmond faculty. Internships are available in Australia, England, Germany, Ireland, Mexico, and South Africa. The University invests considerable resources to create study abroad programs consistent with the standards and educational objectives of this university and the needs of its students. Richmond students will be expected to enroll in Richmond programs, unless there is a compelling reason why a Richmond program does not meet a student's academic needs. Decisions regarding petitions for non-Richmond semesters abroad are made by a subcommittee of the International Education Committee, in collaboration with the OIE and the departments from which the student is seeking academic credit. See OIE web page for information on deadlines by which such petitions must be submitted.
Transfer credits for semester study abroad will be awarded only for preapproved programs.

After an appropriate study abroad program has been selected, each student should meet the established admission criteria as listed on the OIE study abroad Web page. Students are expected to meet deadlines and follow procedures as stated

Advanced Standing

The University of Richmond has, for each academic program, with international exams on a case by case basis. Credit transfer for study abroad can be assured only if the program and courses have been approved and an equivalent grade of C or better is earned. Credit for repeat courses or in disciplines not taught at Richmond will not be granted. Please see the Academic Procedures section for additional administrative information.

For specific information on financial aid for study abroad, consult the Office of Financial Aid. Almost all financial aid is transferable to University of Richmond academic semester and year programs. See studyabroad.richmond.edu for more information.

International Student Advising

The Office of International Education is the primary "port of call" for international students, scholars, and visitors before and during their stay at the University. Immigration, employment, health insurance, academic, cultural, and practical matters are addressed by the staff in consultation with relevant academic departments and administrative units of the University. In order to help international students and scholars integrate to the University and the United States, the office organizes orientation sessions as well as cultural and social activities throughout the year.

Academic Procedures

The University of Richmond has, for each academic program, procedures and degree requirements that must be satisfied before the degree can be granted. The student is responsible for knowing the specific requirements and planning appropriately to allow for the completion of these requirements. Depending on the program, the University provides either or both academic advisors and administrative personnel to assist students with their plans. In any case, the final responsibility for following procedures and meeting degree requirements rests solely with the student.

The following sections describe academic policies, regulations, and procedures. If no indication of school is given, that section pertains universally to the School of Arts and Sciences, the Robins School of Business, and the Jepson School of Leadership Studies. When a statement pertains to a particular school or schools, it is listed under the appropriate school heading.

Advanced Placement

Credit by Examination

The University of Richmond accepts several credit-by-examination options. All students at the University may apply a maximum of seven units of transfer credit from work, including credit by exam, to a University of Richmond degree. The following are guidelines for the most common examinations warranting credit. Specific details regarding each of these options and advanced standing examinations from French, German, and English-based educational systems can be found in the Credit by Exam policy. This policy is available from the Office of the University Registrar and the Office of Admission. Both offices will further serve students with international exams on a case by case basis.

A. Advanced Placement

The University of Richmond participates in the Advanced Placement program of the College Board. Successful candidates for admission who have taken Advanced Placement examinations and have the official results submitted may be eligible for credit or an exemption. The exams must have been taken prior to the student's initial enrollment at the University. Students who have received appropriate scores on Advanced Placement examinations (as established by the departments concerned) may receive credit for or may be exempt from a general education requirement if the Richmond equivalent courses for which they will receive credit can be used by Richmond students to meet fields of study requirements. Specific allocations of AP credit for communication skills or fields of study requirements may vary from year to year. Current information is available from the Office of the University Registrar.

B. CLEP

The University of Richmond awards credit on a limited basis for an acceptable performance on a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) examination recognized by the University academic department concerned. Generally a student may not attempt credit by examination for a course in which a failing grade was received or for a basic course in an area in which acceptable college credit has been earned at a more advanced level. Students who have received appropriate scores on CLEP examinations (as established by the departments concerned) may receive course credit that satisfies fields-of-study requirements of the general education requirements, if the Richmond courses for which they will receive credit can be used by Richmond students to meet fields-of-study requirements. Specific allocations of CLEP credit for communication skills or fields-of-study requirements may vary from year to year. Arrangements to take CLEP examinations may be made with the College Board. Current information
Credit for U.S. Armed Services Veterans

In accordance with the recommendations of the American Council on Education, the following advanced credit will be allowed veterans:

A. A veteran may receive credit for specialized training courses and for correspondence courses taken from accredited colleges under the auspices of the U.S. Armed Forces Institute. A veteran desiring such credit should present the record of training to the University Registrar either on the transcript form of the college at which the work was taken, or on the form prepared for such purposes by the U.S. Armed Forces Institute. In cases of question, the appropriate academic council will determine the amount of credit to be granted.

B. In allowing further advanced credit for educational experience in the armed services, the University is guided largely by recommendations of the American Council on Education.

Transfer Credit

Credit in transfer may be accepted only for courses which are comparable to courses offered in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and/or Robins School of Business curriculum at the University of Richmond. Moreover, the coursework must have been taken at an institution accredited by a regional accrediting agency or the international equivalent at the time the work was taken, and a grade or equivalent of C (2.0) or better must have been earned. In the Robins School of Business, all upper level courses (including all Business Core courses, Finance, Marketing, Management, International Business, Accounting courses above 201, and Economics courses above 102) must be taken at an AACSB accredited school or as a part of a University of Richmond approved study abroad program in order to be considered for transfer credit towards the major/minor.

Approved credit earned at another institution will be converted to the University of Richmond unit (one unit is the equivalent of 3.5 semester hours) and applied to the record accordingly. Up to five 3-semester hour courses will be transferred in as one unit; additional 3-semester hour courses will be transferred in as .86 units. Coursework accepted in transfer shall be applied to specific degree requirements subject to the discretion of the academic department concerned. Units awarded are added into units required for graduation, but grades are not calculated in the grade point average.

Students entering the University of Richmond as first-year students must complete 28 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree, which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs. Students entering as first-year students must complete at least 17.5 units in residence at the University of Richmond.

Students entering the University of Richmond as transfer students (having matriculated after graduation from high school as a degree-seeking student at another post-secondary institution) with at least 6.82 units of transfer work will have the 28-unit requirement prorated.

Transfer students who attended another institution for one year must earn 23 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs. Transfer students who attended another institution for one year must complete at least 17.5 units in residence at the University of Richmond.

Transfer students who have attended another institution for one and one half years must earn 20.5 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs. Transfer students who attended another institution for one and one half years must complete at least 17.5 units in residency at the University of Richmond with one exception: they may apply up to 1 unit earned on an approved exchange or study abroad program towards the 17.5-unit residency requirement.

Transfer students who attended another institution for two or more years must earn 17.5 units in residence at the University of Richmond with one exception: they may apply up to 4 units earned on an approved exchange or study abroad program towards the 17.5-unit residency requirement.
First Year Students Bringing in Credit

Students who enroll as first-years may bring in no more than seven units of credit, including credit by examination and transfer credit, to be applied toward their University of Richmond degree. Additional transfer work can be entered on the transcript and can be used to fulfill prerequisite requirements (not general education requirements), but only seven units of credit will count toward a degree.

Credit in transfer may be accepted only for courses which are comparable to courses offered in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and/or Robins School of Business curriculum at the University. Moreover, the coursework must have been taken at an institution accredited by a regional accrediting agency or the international equivalent at the time the work was taken, and a grade or equivalent of C (2.0) or better must have been earned. Work taken through other institutions prior to initial enrollment is evaluated on an individual basis. Not all departments will accept work taken as a part of a high school program even if transcripted by an accredited institution. In order for work taken at another institution to be evaluated for transfer credit, the University must receive an official transcript mailed directly from the institution at which the work was completed. The student and transferring institution must also complete the Transfer Work Certification form available from the Office of the University Registrar.

No transfer credit shall be formally accepted or recorded until the University has received an official transcript directly from the records office of the institution which offered the coursework. If coursework is being transferred from more than one institution, an official transcript must be received from each institution. For applicability of transfer work to general education requirements, see General Education Curriculum.

Transcripts and documents from other institutions are the property of the University of Richmond and, as such, are under the control of the Office of the Registrar. Under federal policy, a student has the right to view the documents in his or her file; the University is not required to provide (or allow the making of) copies of these documents. Transcripts submitted to the University of Richmond for admission or credit transfer become the property of the University of Richmond and cannot be returned to the student or forwarded to other institutions.

Registration Policies

Registration

Registration is limited to admitted, degree-seeking students unless specific approval is granted for unclassified status.

Students shall register by following the policies.

Note: A student is not fully registered for any term until satisfactory arrangements have been made for that term's fees.

Late registrations may be accepted subject to the policies for adding classes, as indicated in the section titled Change of Registration.

Enrollment

Students are not technically enrolled until the first day of class in a semester. Verification of enrollment cannot be made until that time.

Prerequisites

Students should consult the catalog and/or department for required prerequisites before registering for a course. Successful registration for a course does not mean that prerequisites have been fulfilled. A student registered in a course without the required prerequisites may be unenrolled from the course.

Limits of Work

A student normally enrolls for four or five units per semester. The minimum load for a full-time student is 3.5 units.

No student may enroll for more than 5.5 units or fewer than 3.5 units of work without the permission of the dean of his or her school. (Arts and Sciences - see coordinate college dean; Business and Leadership Studies - see academic dean.) Enrollments in either category are subject to special charges as specified in the Financial Affairs section. Students enrolled for fewer than 3.5 units are classified as part time. During the summer, a student may enroll in a maximum of 5.5 units.

School of Professional and Continuing Studies Courses

Courses taken through the School of Professional and Continuing Studies after students have been admitted may not be used to meet general education requirements and may be used to meet major requirements only with special permission from the department chair. Courses in the School of Professional and Continuing Studies will be granted unit credit that is equivalent to the semester hours granted for the course. In order to apply to the bachelor's degree, courses must taken at the undergraduate level.

Students may take no more than one School of Professional and Continuing Studies course per semester and no more than four courses in cumulative total during their undergraduate degree. School of Professional and Continuing Studies courses are not available to Arts and Sciences, Business, or Leadership Studies students for registration until the first day of class and only on a space available basis.

Change of Registration

Students are able to register for classes through BannerWeb, a secured website that may be accessed over the Internet at bannerweb.richmond.edu or through the University’s website. Through BannerWeb, students can register for classes, add and drop classes through the end of add/drop period, view their class schedules, view grades for a specific term, and view their unofficial University of Richmond transcript. Students are responsible for all activity on their BannerWeb account including PIN maintenance, registration, and security. If a student has questions or needs assistance with any aspect of BannerWeb, he or she should contact the Office of the University Registrar at (804) 289-8639 or registrar@richmond.edu.

Once registered, students may change their registration (add/drop) according to the published schedule. For a regular term, adds and withdrawals without academic record may generally be made during the first two weeks of classes. Summer terms have abbreviated add/drop and withdrawal periods, so please consult the summer academic calendar for those dates. After the end of the first 10 days of classes, but before the end of the seventh week, a withdrawal-with-record period is in effect where students may withdraw from courses provided that they receive the permission of the appropriate course instructor and academic advisor. Students will receive an M grade if failing at the time of withdrawal or a W grade if passing at the time of withdrawal. Ordinarily, a student may not withdraw from a course after the end of the seventh week of classes except for medical reasons. The student's dean may, under special circumstances, make an exception to this policy.

Auditing Courses

Auditing a course means that the course instruction is undertaken but not for credit or a grade. With the approval of the student's academic advisor, dean, and the instructor of the course, a student may declare a course to be taken on an audit basis. A permission form must be obtained from and returned with appropriate signatures to the Office of the University Registrar by the end of the 10th day of classes. The student must first register for the course and then file the permission form. The regular rate of tuition is charged, and audited coursework does not count toward the student's load. However, audited coursework does not count toward the required, full time enrollment status for financial aid purposes. If you are receiving financial aid and plan to audit a course, you are encouraged to check with the Office of Financial Aid before submitting the permission form to determine the impact, if any, on your financial aid eligibility. Once the permission form is submitted to the Office of the University Registrar, the decision may not be reversed. An audited course cannot subsequently be taken for credit unless approved by the leadership studies student who has completed at least 18 appropriate courses.

Pass/Fail Option

School of Arts and Sciences and Jepson School of Leadership Studies (excluding leadership studies courses)

(Not available to business students)

An arts and sciences or leadership studies student who has completed at least 18 units of academic work may opt for one normally standard-graded course per semester to be graded on a pass/fail basis or if more than one course not more than one unit of total credit. The resulting credit may only be used to count as total credit toward a degree, and cannot be used to satisfy any general education requirement or any major or minor requirement. No Jepson School of Leadership Studies or Robins School of Business courses may be taken for pass/fail grading except those in the Department of Economics. No more than four student-opted pass/fail courses are acceptable for degree credit.

Note: Some courses are only available as pass/fail courses, such as internships, student teaching, and some research courses. The restrictions stated above do not apply to such courses.

The level of performance necessary to earn a pass grade in a student-opted pass/fail course is D- or better. A passing grade will be recorded as P on the permanent record. The credit will be added into credit earned toward graduation and will not affect the grade point average. A failing grade will be recorded as F on the permanent record. The credit will affect the grade point average.

To opt for pass/fail grading, a permission form must be obtained from and returned with appropriate signatures to the Office of the University Registrar by the end of the 10th day of classes. The student must first register for the course and then file the permission form. Once the form is submitted to the University Registrar, the decision may not be reversed.

Repeated Courses

Coursework may not be repeated for credit toward graduation except as sanctioned by the University; however, particular coursework may meet more than one requirement for graduation. An example of a sanctioned repeat-for-credit is the subsequent registration for a course in which the content changes from term to term, such as special topics or independent studies. Also, certain courses in a major or program may have to be repeated if the grade earned the first time does not meet requirements; in such a case, the credit will be counted only once but both grades will be calculated in the cumulative grade point average.

Courses taken on an audit basis cannot be repeated for credit unless approved by the appropriate dean.

Except in clear situations, the Office of the University Registrar should be consulted before registration to learn if a proposed repeat is sanctioned for credit or if sanction is possible.

All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record. The grade for a course repeated at the University of Richmond becomes a part of the grade point average if the grade otherwise would be included in the computation.

Registration Holds

The following holds will prevent students from registering (students can access BannerWeb to check holds): Admissions Office, Cashier, Dean's Office, Library, Long-Distance (Student Account Hold), Parking Services (Student Account Hold), Student Credit Service, Perkins Loan in Repayment, Registrar's Office, Student Health, and Student Accounts. For further information on these types of holds, contact the
A student will be held responsible for all work of a class or course, subject to the section on University Holidays below. At the start of each semester, the instructor is responsible for describing the class attendance policy in the syllabus and distributing it to students.

Academic events sponsored by the University under supervision of faculty advisors include, but are not limited to: theatre/dance and musical performances, debate, mock trial, model UN, conference attendance, and ROTC field leadership exercise. Because such events and varsity athletic competitions are recognized as integral to the educational experience, the appropriate coordinate college dean will provide official notification of student participation in these activities. It is also the student's responsibility to request such notification and to deliver it to the faculty member as early as possible in the semester. Faculty members will honor notification from the college deans that a student is to be excused for participation in a University-sponsored event. All other absences will not be officially announced by a dean, but may be excused at the discretion of faculty. Examples include, but are not limited to, class field trips, illness, funerals, and family functions. The University policy regarding absences related to University or religious policies is stated below. The University encourages students to weigh the consequences of missing class and other sponsored academic or varsity athletic events, and to make their choices accordingly.

Misrepresenting the reason for class absences to a professor is a violation of the University's honor code.

Note: The health center does NOT provide "medical excuse" notes for students.

A student will be held responsible for all work of a class or laboratory missed during any absence.

Note: Students enrolled in business school or School of Continuing Studies courses must attend at least 75 percent of the class meetings-regardless of the reasons for absence-to be eligible to receive credit for the course.

Religious Observance Policy

The University is a secular institution that values a diversity of religious expression. The University is also an active community with a wide range of personal commitments and academic and extracurricular activities.

Planning for academic and extracurricular activities should be done with sensitivity to the diverse religious commitments of the community and an awareness of religious holidays. Scheduling large-scale, one-time academic or extra-curricular events on a religious holiday should be avoided whenever possible.

Any student may be excused from class or other assignments because of religious observance. A student who will miss an academic obligation because of religious observance is responsible for contacting his or her professor within the first two weeks of the semester. The student is responsible for completing missed work in a timely manner.

Faculty are expected to be mindful of potential conflicts with religious observances and should make reasonable accommodations when students' religious practices conflict with their academic responsibilities.

The religious observance calendar is meant to serve as a scheduling guide. It lists significant holidays from the five largest global faith traditions. However, it is not comprehensive and students may choose to observe a holiday not included on the calendar.

The holidays listed are those which occur during the academic year when the University is open.

Examination

Most classes have examinations at the close of each term, according to a published schedule.

Each student is responsible for taking final examinations as scheduled. No rescheduling, excuse for absence, and/or provision for making up final examinations will occur without the written approval of the student's dean. Such approval shall be made only for illness certified by a physician, participation in authorized University activities, and/or personal emergencies such as death in the family.

Appeals of the rulings associated with the administration of these regulations shall be directed to the student's dean and, if necessary, through that dean to the academic council of the faculty concerned.

Evaluation

Instructors establish grading criteria for their courses and prepare and submit the final course reports (using the grades defined under Grading Policies) to the University Registrar for recording. In the event of a question about the accuracy of the recorded grade, a student should direct inquiries to the instructor.

It is recognized that each class and each student in a class has unique characteristics that the instructor alone is in the best position to evaluate; consequently, except in unusual circumstances, formal appeals to others concerning the evaluation on which a grade is based are not appropriate.

If unusual circumstances appear to have existed that could have affected the evaluation, the student should first bring the matter to the attention of the instructor (if available). If that informal inquiry is impossible, or if its results are disputed, the student may next bring the matter to the attention of the department chair and the instructor, jointly... or, for courses in Jepson School of Leadership Studies, to the Associate dean for Academic Affairs.

School of Arts and Sciences and Robins School of Business

In the event of continued dispute, students in the School of Arts and Sciences and the Robins School of Business may formally petition the dean of the school the course is taught in. In the School of Arts and Sciences, the dean, in consultation with department faculty, may present the matter to the academic council for a decision. In the Robins School of Business, the dean, in consultation with department faculty, will present the matter to the academic council for a decision.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

Faculty members are expected to evaluate student performance based on the criteria and requirements outlined in the course syllabi. All students are to be treated impartially and fairly in relation to those requirements. Students have two bases for a grade appeal: 1) the alleged failure of a faculty member to assign the proper weight as stated in the course syllabus to various parts of the assessment elements that contribute to the final grade; 2) alleged prejudicial treatment of a student in relation to the treatment afforded other students in the course. A student should be prepared to demonstrate a direct link between the circumstances of the awarding of his/her grade and one of the bases above. Should a student have reason to appeal the final grade in a course, the student should first bring the matter to the attention of the instructor (if available). If the results of that inquiry are disputed, the student may next bring the matter to the attention of the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs no more than three calendar weeks from the first day of classes of the following semester. In the event of continued dispute, the Academic Affairs Committee will review the complaint and report its findings to the dean.

Grading Policies

The level of student's performance in classwork and examinations is indicated by letters. A (excellent), B (good), C (average), and D (poor) indicate that the work has been passed. The foregoing grades may be accompanied by a plus (+) or minus (-) to indicate a relative position within the grade category. P shows credit has been earned in a pass/fail course, and Z shows that a course was audited. S and U indicate satisfactory or unsatisfactory performance in nonacademic courses. W indicates that the student withdrew from a course with a passing average. Marks indicating failure and included as such in the grade point average are F, M (withdrawn from a course with a failing average), and V (failure because of excessive absences). The X indicates that the grade is not available from the instructor.

I and Y* mean that coursework has not been completed by the end of the term. The I, which provisionally counts as a failing grade, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed justifiable by the instructor. The work is to be made up by the date the instructor specifies, but no later than 45 calendar days from the last day of the term in which the I was given. If the work is not made up during the grace period, the I will be converted to F. The Y, which does not count as a failing grade, is given when the reasons for incomplete work are deemed justifiable by the instructor, or at the end of the first term of a course that continues into a succeeding term. There is no deadline for completion of the work unless the instructor so specifies. In the case of an I, once the make-up grade is received, it appears to the right of the incomplete grade on the permanent record. In all cases, it is the student’s responsibility to make arrangements for and progress toward the completion of an incomplete course.

*The change to the Y grade policy for the School of Arts and Sciences, Business, and Leadership Studies—removing the permanence of the ‘Y’ grade—was approved by University Faculty Senate on February 17, 2017.

Grade Availability

Grades are due to the Registrar’s Office from instructors as specified in the academic calendar published annually by the Office of the University Registrar. They will be available to students as soon as possible after they have been received by the registrar’s office. Students may access grades via the Internet by using BannerWeb. Students will need their student ID number and student PIN. Grades are deemed correct unless notification to the contrary is received by the University Registrar within three (3) months after the close of the term specified.

Credit and Grade Point Average

The University of Richmond uses the unit credit value. A unit is determined by a combination of factors that include contact time with a faculty member in a formal setting and expectations of independent student work through a nominal 15-week semester. One unit is the equivalent of 3.5 semester hours. Courses worth .25 units are graded pass/fail only and those worth 0 units are graded satisfactory/unsatisfactory.

Calculation Points

The grade point average is calculated by dividing the total number of grade points earned by the total number of GPA units. The grade point average is represented to two significant decimal figures and truncated, not rounded.

The accumulations and average are shown each term on the permanent academic record and on the transcript. Also shown on these reports is the accumulation of earned units. Earned units are the academic units in which the student has earned passing grades, plus unit credit, if any, for accepted transfer work.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Academic Reports
Reports of the student's progress are prepared each term in the form of the permanent academic record. The information included is the record of the student's registration and grades, with such other information as may be deemed important. All courses taken at the University of Richmond become a part of the permanent academic record.

Work Taken Elsewhere
This section pertains to students who wish to take academic work elsewhere while actively pursuing a degree at the University of Richmond. Only coursework taken at an institution accredited by a regional accrediting agency or the international equivalent at the time the work was taken will be considered, and a grade of at least C (2.0) or better must have been earned. The unit credit or equivalent as awarded at the other institution will be the units transferred. Units awarded are added into units earned for graduation, but grades are not calculated in the grade point average. (Individuals admitted as transfer students, please see the Advanced Standing section.) Students must complete 28 units of University of Richmond-approved work toward the undergraduate degree, which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through dual degree and cross-registration programs (transfer students will have this requirement prorated-see section on Transfer Credit).

Study in the United States
The student is to obtain the approval of each department concerned before taking work elsewhere. The approvals ensure that the work is acceptable to the University, its departmental standards and the student's curriculum. The Office of the University Registrar provides a special form for this purpose and will also answer questions about the procedure.

School of Arts and Sciences and Jepson School of Leadership Studies
While students are expected to obtain approval before taking work elsewhere, work taken without prior approval may be accepted subject to transfer credit policies.

Robins School of Business
The Robins School of Business may approve for transfer credit those courses that meet the following criteria: The course is completed at an institution accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB); the student receives a final course grade of at least C as verified by an official transcript; the approval of the appropriate department chair and dean is obtained. Approvals should be obtained prior to taking the coursework elsewhere. Courses completed at nonaccredited institutions generally are not accepted for credit. Grades for courses taken at another institution are not included in the calculation of the University's grade point average.

Study Abroad
Students wishing to study abroad should contact the Office of International Education for information about the range of opportunities and the procedures they must follow. The procedures ensure that academic work abroad will qualify for transfer credits to the University of Richmond. Only work taken through approved programs will be eligible for transfer credit. Further information about study abroad is presented in the chapter on International Education.

Note: Students should contact the Office of International Education regarding summer abroad programs not offered by the University of Richmond.

Visiting Student Status
Under certain circumstances, students, while not enrolled at the University of Richmond, are granted visiting student status. This status is based on attending a University-approved program of study. To determine if a domestic program is approved, contact the Office of the University Registrar; for study abroad programs, contact the Office of International Education.

Acceptance of Credit

Summer Study Abroad Programs
Only programs with a University of Richmond director or faculty that also are administered by the University are included in this category.

For academic record, degree progress, and grade point average purposes, coursework taken in these programs is treated as if the work were completed on campus except where noted in the program description. There are a number of University study abroad programs including programs in Argentina, Czech Republic, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Peru, Spain, and Taiwan. All of the programs above are administered through the University of Richmond Summer School office.

Study Abroad – Degree-seeking Students
Richmond offers its students many opportunities for educational experiences abroad throughout the year.

Degree-seeking students wishing to study abroad during the academic year must apply through the University's Office of International Education (OIE) to participate in one of our exchange or affiliate programs (international.richmond.edu/about/partners.html). Admission to any program is dependent on meeting the eligibility criteria as stated on the study abroad web site, academic fit, and places available. Richmond students may not study at Richmond exchange or affiliate programs and transfer credit back to the University without having been accepted into the program through the OIE.

Richmond invests considerable resources in creating study abroad opportunities consistent with the standards and educational objectives of the University and the needs of its students. Richmond students must study on a Richmond semester abroad program unless they can demonstrate, through a petition process, that no Richmond program meets their academic needs. Petitions are reviewed by a subcommittee of the International Education Committee in collaboration with the OIE and the departments from which the student is seeking academic credit. Transfer credit for non-UR semester study abroad experiences will be awarded only for pre-approved petitions. The deadline for filing a petition to take part in a non-UR program abroad is typically one to two weeks prior to the application deadline for Richmond semester abroad programs. See website for details.

During the summer, the University of Richmond School of Professional and Continuing Studies (spcs.richmond.edu/summer/study-abroad/index.html) offers a number of summer study abroad programs directed by Richmond faculty, as well as internships offered on a credit or non-credit basis, in many different countries. Note: Students should contact the Office of International Education regarding summer abroad programs not offered by the University of Richmond.

Academic Standing

General Information

Students are expected to achieve in the classroom and make steady progress toward completion of degree requirements. Relevant designations are specified in the following sections.

Class Standings of Students

The class standing is established at first matriculation and is evaluated after grade posting for each subsequent term of enrollment. The standing is based on units passed including, if applicable, acceptable transfer and/or advanced standing credit. The standings are:

- Year 1 0 - 6.82 units
- Year 2 6.83 - 15.40 units
- Year 3 15.41 - 23.97 units
- Year 4 23.98 or more units

Academic Deficiencies

Academic deficiencies are of two types: academic warning and academic probation.

Academic Warning

At any time when a student's overall grade point average falls below 2.00, the student automatically will be on academic warning. A student on academic warning should take active steps to improve academic performance.

Academic Probation

Academic reports are evaluated at the end of each grade-posting period. Regardless of the specific provisions for each school stated below, if at the end of any term a student's record reveals such significant deterioration in performance that extraordinary action is deemed appropriate by the dean of the student's school or college, that student may be placed on probation, limited in units of enrollment, or recommended for suspension from the school or college regardless of grade point average. In addition, such student may be restricted from participation in certain University activities. While suspended, students may not take classes at other institutions and transfer them back to University of Richmond.

Appeals of rulings associated with the administration of these regulations shall be directed to the relevant academic council.

School of Arts and Sciences and Robins School of Business

A student who falls below the following minimum accumulations of semester units and grade point average (GPA) will be placed automatically on academic probation:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Units Passed</th>
<th>GPA</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>0-6.82</td>
<td>1.50</td>

<td>1.85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>

</tr>
</tbody>

If at the end of the second consecutive semester* of enrollment after being placed on academic probation, the student fails to meet the minimum standard based on units then passed, the student shall be allowed to enroll for no more than two units of academic work per regular semester or during the entire summer. Such a student has a maximum of four units of work attempted in which to achieve the minimum requirement. Otherwise, he or she will be suspended from the School of Arts and Sciences or the School of Business.

The above provisions notwithstanding, the dean of the student's college, in circumstances which seem to warrant such action, may allow the student to continue as a full-time student on probation for a single additional semester.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

A student will be placed on academic probation when the student's leadership studies GPA falls below 2.0 or the student earns a grade below C- (1.7) in a leadership studies course. While on academic probation, a student's participation in athletics, debating, dramatic or musical organizations, as well as their representation of the University in any public capacity, may be restricted.

If the student does not meet academic standards in the following semester, he or she will be dismissed from the program in leadership studies. The student may request one-semester extension of the probationary status. The appeal should be directed to associate dean for academic

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Withdrawal from the University

Students who plan to withdraw from the University of Richmond must submit an official withdrawal letter to their Dean. The Dean’s Office will notify the appropriate offices of the student’s withdrawal from the University of Richmond including the actual withdrawal date. Readmission to the University

Students who have withdrawn from the University for whatever reason, other than participating in an approved study abroad, exchange, or visiting away program, and wish to return must make their request for readmission in writing to the dean of the appropriate academic school. Students seeking readmission to the School of Arts and Sciences should contact the dean of Richmond College (men) or dean of Westhampton College (women). Students seeking readmission to the Robins School of Business or the Jepson School of Leadership Studies should contact the associate dean of that school.

Readmission to the University

Students who have withdrawn from the University for whatever reason, other than participating in an approved study abroad, exchange, or visiting away program, and wish to return must make their request for readmission in writing to the dean of the appropriate academic school. Students seeking readmission to the School of Arts and Sciences should contact the dean of Richmond College (men) or dean of Westhampton College (women). Students seeking readmission to the Robins School of Business or the Jepson School of Leadership Studies should contact the associate dean of that school.

Graduation

Qualifications

To graduate a student must meet certain qualifications described below.

Curriculum and Achievement

A candidate for the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree must satisfactorily complete all degree requirements (see Summary of Degree Requirements section) and 35 units. Undergraduate degree candidates must earn a grade point average of not less than 2.00 on all coursework attempted and must receive credit for attendance at assemblies and convocations, as required.

Time Limits

School of Arts and Sciences

There is no time limit in regard to the completion of general education requirements. In the event of catalog changes, a student may choose to fulfill admission and general education requirements for graduation from a subsequent catalog provided all of the requirements of the chosen catalog are met.

Robins School of Business and Jepson School of Leadership Studies

A student must complete the requirements for the degree, as stated in the catalog at the time of entrance, within five years from the date of original entry. Reinstatement to a program after five years requires permission of the academic council of the student's school. If an extension of time is granted, the student may be required to satisfy the degree requirements in effect at the time of reentrance.

Changes in Catalog Information

Caution: The course offerings and requirements of the University of Richmond are under continual examination and revision. This catalog is not a contract; it merely presents the offerings and requirements in effect at the time of publication and in no way guarantees that the offerings and requirements will not change. The University specifically reserves the right to change requirements for any major, minor, and/or program, and to implement them during any particular year.

The student assumes full responsibility for compliance with all academic requirements. Current course offerings may be obtained from the appropriate department. Current major, minor, program, and degree requirements may be obtained from the University Registrar, the deans' offices of the Schools of Arts and Sciences, Business, and Leadership Studies, and Richmond and Westhampton Colleges; or from the department chair of the appropriate department.

In the event the University adopts new general education and/or major, minor, and program requirements, efforts will be made to accommodate hardships during the transition period.

Declaration of Majors/Minors

All undergraduate degrees at the University of Richmond require satisfactory completion of one major. Multiple majors and/or minors for a single degree also may be pursued, and upon completion will be recorded on the permanent academic record. For dual degree requirements, refer to the Dual Bachelor's Degree section. With the exception of leadership studies and majors and minors within the Robins School of Business, students have the option to declare a major as early as the end of the first year. They are encouraged to declare during the second year, and are expected to declare by the end of the second year.

All declarations of majors and minors must be received in the Office of the University Registrar during the two-week add/drop period to be effective for that term. Declarations received after add/drop will not be processed until the end of the term. For procedures on how to declare majors and/or minors both in the home school and between schools, contact the Office of the University Registrar.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Undergraduate Work Taken After Graduation

Students who have graduated from an accredited college or university and who wish to take undergraduate courses in the liberal arts and sciences during the academic year, but not for degree purposes, should apply to the Office of Admission for acceptance as an unclassified student. Permission to take such classes may be granted on a space-available basis and with due regard for prior achievements. Application for such undergraduate work to be taken in the summer will be received by the summer school office.

Additional majors or minors may be completed after graduation and recorded subject to the following: the student must have a Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree from the University of Richmond; all work required to complete the additional major or minor subsequent to graduation must be taken at the University in the School of Arts and Sciences, Robins School of Business, or Jepson School of Leadership Studies; the academic department concerned must certify that the major or minor is complete; and the student must complete the work within two years of graduation unless additional time is granted by the major or minor department concerned, and the department notifies the University Registrar.

Work at the University

To earn an undergraduate degree, a student must complete 28 units of University of Richmond approved work which includes approved exchange and study abroad programs, approved visiting away, dual-degree and off-campus programs as well as courses taken through cross-registration (transfer students will have this requirement prorated—see section on Transfer Credit).

A student must have completed at least 17.5 units of acceptable coursework required for the degree in residence at the University of Richmond (transfer students will have this requirement prorated—see section on Transfer Credit). The last eight units are expected to be included within the 17.5 units required in residence.

In no case may a student count more than 17.5 units from a single subject area toward the minimum number of units necessary for graduation. Students may not apply more than four courses from the School of Professional and Continuing Studies towards their degree.

Note: No degree is conferred if the student's responsibilities to the University have not been met. These responsibilities include, but are not limited to, such matters as the payment of fees, parking fines and library fines, and the return of library books.

Robins School of Business

All transfer students, as part of their degree requirements, must complete at least 12 units of coursework in business/economics within the Robins School of Business.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

At least 10 of the required 17.5 residence units required for a degree must be taken in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies.

Financial/Administrative Responsibilities

No degree is conferred if the student's responsibilities to the University are in an unsatisfactory condition. Responsibilities in this sense include financial and administrative matters such as, but not limited to, delinquent payments, parking fines, or overdue library books.

Degree Application

To graduate a student must file a degree application with the Office of the University Registrar. Degree applications are to be filed by the second Friday in September for the coming May or August commencement. Those enrolled only in the spring file by the first Friday in February. Students enrolled only in the summer culminating in their graduation file by the third Friday in June. Students planning to graduate in December should file a degree application by the first Friday in February.

If degree requirements are not completed prior to the intended graduation date, the student must file a new degree application according to the schedule above.

Degree applications are available online via BannerWeb and in the Office of the University Registrar.

Attendance At Commencement

Students are required to attend the commencement ceremony for the award of the degree in person except by decision of the University not to do so. A student who expects to have a degree awarded at the spring commencement may request absentia status from the graduation ceremony by explaining in writing the circumstance which prevents participation. Students who have a degree application on file and anticipate summer completion of degree requirements are also expected to participate in the spring graduation ceremony. Students who expect to complete degree requirements in December may participate in the spring commencement either prior to or following their December completion. If a winter or summer degree candidate does not intend to participate in the ceremony a written statement requesting absentia must be submitted. The request for absentia status must be received by the University Registrar by the last working day before the ceremony. The registrar will notify the degree candidate of the status granted by the University. Unless approved for absentia status a candidate for graduation who does not participate in the commencement ceremony does not graduate. Such candidate may graduate by again filing a degree application and by following the appropriate graduation attendance policy.

August degrees are conferred as of the date specified in the academic calendar, and diplomas are mailed to those qualified. December degrees are conferred as of the date specified in the academic calendar. Diplomas for December graduates are mailed to students who have previously participated in the commencement ceremony. Those who will be participating in a future ceremony will receive their diploma at that time.

Degree With Honors (Latin Honors)

General academic honors of three ranks are awarded to members of the graduating classes on the basis of their grade point average on work completed at the University of Richmond.

Second Undergraduate Degree

General Information

A student may earn more than one undergraduate degree either consecutively or concurrently in relation to another undergraduate degree provided the degrees are not alike, e.g., not two B.A.s or two B.S.s. For information on completing one degree with multiple majors, see Declaring Majors/Minors above.

The following policies apply to any student seeking a second undergraduate degree.

Consecutive Bachelor's Degree

A consecutive bachelor's degree is one which is begun after a first degree has been conferred or after the degree requirements for the first degree have been recorded as completed on the student's permanent academic record. A student who wishes to pursue the second bachelor's degree consecutively shall apply to the dean of the school concerned. (Arts and Sciences students should contact the dean of the appropriate coordinate college.) The dean shall make a decision for admission based on the quality of prior work, the favorable recommendation of the intended major department, and space availability. Once admitted, the student's grade point average shall be based only on the work taken at the University of Richmond while pursuing the second degree. The student's dean may limit or deny further registration if the quality of the student's work indicates that at least a 2.00 average will not have been achieved by the time the student has attempted 9 units. A student admitted for a consecutive degree shall be considered a member of the senior class for registration purposes.

To earn a consecutive bachelor's degree, a student must achieve at least a 2.00 grade point average on a minimum of nine additional units of resident academic coursework selected from the catalog of courses. Courses in which a student-opted Pass is earned shall not count in the nine units. In addition, general education requirements appropriate to the degree being sought, as well as requirements for the major, must be met satisfactorily. Work taken for the preceding degree may be considered as transfer credit for the purpose of meeting these requirements; however, at least half of the major must be taken at the University of Richmond, and all other degree requirements must be met as outlined under Graduation, including the 17.5-unit residency requirement.

A student who completes the requirements for the consecutive degree is ineligible for Latin honors, and will not be assigned a graduating class rank.

Concurrent (Dual) Bachelor's Degrees

Dual bachelor's degrees are two different bachelor's degrees that are pursued concurrently and completed at the same time.

A student who wishes to pursue two bachelor's degrees concurrently shall notify the dean of his or her school promptly after the decision is reached. (Arts and Sciences students should contact the dean of the appropriate coordinate college.) Students in the Robins School of Business or the Jepson School of Leadership Studies who desire a second undergraduate degree in the arts and sciences must receive the approval of the dean of the appropriate coordinate college as well as the sanction of the dean of their home school. Even when approved for the second degree, such student remains a member of their home school for academic, administrative and extracurricular purposes.

When two degrees are being sought concurrently, the grade point average computation and all academic policies are administered on the basis of the then-accumulated work for both degrees.

To earn concurrent bachelor's degrees, a student must complete 44 units of academic work plus the additional degree requirements with at least 28.5 units taken at the University of Richmond. In addition, the general education requirements appropriate to each degree being sought, as well as requirements for the majors, must be completed satisfactorily. At the proper time, two degree applications must be submitted simultaneously to the University Registrar. Latin honors, if earned, will be shown on both degrees.
Courses and Curriculum

The University of Richmond provides a collaborative learning and research environment unlike any other in higher education, offering students an extraordinary combination of the liberal arts with law, business, leadership studies, and continuing education.

Small class sizes with zero teaching assistants facilitate close interaction between students and faculty. And learning opportunities such as undergraduate research, study abroad and internships give a hands-on perspective to classroom study.

All first-year undergraduate students also enroll in a First-Year Seminar, which encourages exploration across a wide range of fields, from bioethics and math to art history and English. From the start, a Richmond education gives students the communication and critical thinking skills, the curiosity, and the confidence to pursue opportunities with passion.

General Education Curriculum

A liberal arts education is typically characterized by the development of broad intellectual and cultural interests and by the achievement of a significant body of skills and knowledge. It is the particular responsibility of a general education curriculum to address the first of these goals, the broadening of students' interests, while also laying the foundation for the acquisition of advanced skills and deeper knowledge within optional areas of concentration, normally defined as majors.

So it is at the University of Richmond, where a distinctive general education curriculum has been designed:

- To provide a stimulating and challenging introduction to collegiate life through a first-year seminar courses
- To establish the basic prerequisites of productive scholarship through a set of communication skills requirements
- To familiarize students in a meaningful way with some of the major approaches to intellectual and cultural life through a series of fields of study requirements

This curriculum is offered by a faculty that sees general education as fundamental to its mission. Through its various general education courses, the faculty intends to incorporate each and every student into a community of learners who value and practice the life of the mind. Beginning with their general education courses and continuing through the courses in their major, their elective courses, and their various cocurricular and extracurricular learning experiences, University of Richmond students are expected to develop their ability to think critically and independently, to learn to tolerate ambiguity where true ambiguity exists, and to grow in their respect for and their ability to deal with the kinds of multiplicity that characterize our complex world. The common goal of the University's faculty is the education of independent, responsible, and contributing members of society.

Curriculum

First-Year Seminars

First-Year Seminars (FYS) provide entering students the excitement of engaged learning through a diverse array of seminar topics. With small classes, a variety of topics, and close contact with faculty, First-Year Seminars offer a hands-on introduction to academic inquiry. A wide variety of seminars will be offered each year, drawn from every school of the University. Each entering student will take a FYS 100 course in the fall and spring of the first year. Readmitted students must complete the First Year Seminar requirement within a year of their readmission. First-Year Seminars serve as an introduction to academic inquiry and the modes of expression that lie at the heart of a liberal arts education. They foster habits of mind fundamental to students' intellectual and academic development, including critical reading and thinking, sharing ideas and research through discussion, and the ability to write and think clearly and effectively. Integrating explorations of specific questions and topics with the development of skills, seminars aim to foster intellectual curiosity and students' ability to act on it.

Communication Skills

Ideas and experiences must be communicated if they are to be shared, scrutinized, and transformed into effective knowledge. Toward these ends, the faculty expects each student to develop skills in oral communication and a second language.

Oral Communication

Oral communication is another skill that is essential to both education and life. Students should be able to speak so that their ideas are expressed logically, lucidly, and effectively, and they should be able to provide relevant evidence whenever appropriate. In addition, students should be able to analyze the spoken discourse of others. The general education curriculum at the University of Richmond assists students in these regards by immediately immersing them into frequent and intensive oral exchanges and presentations in the First-Year Seminars and by offering relevant courses, such as Rhetoric and Communication Studies 101, through the Department of Rhetoric and Communication Studies. In addition, many faculty and departments have been increasing the oral communication components in their courses and seminars, with the goal of enhancing this fundamental skill. Their efforts are assisted by the University's Weinstein-Jecklin Speech Center. There is no required course that students must take to fulfill this portion of their general education.
The field of literary studies concerns itself with verbal texts. The knowledge of a second language is critical for achieving a second language has become more and more important as they arose. Courses with a historical perspective enable us to understand the values and institutions of disparate societies and cultures as they have developed over time.

By emphasizing the critical analysis of sources and the interrelationships among ideas, institutions, social structures, and events within one or more interpretive frameworks, these courses foster students' awareness of the methods and perspectives for understanding past societies and cultures in historical context. Courses that focus narrowly on the history of a discipline, that only use chronology as an organizational structure, or that do not stress the context in which ideas and events occurred fall outside the category of historical studies.

The field of literary studies concerns itself with verbal texts read as structures of meaning. While language is a practical tool for thought and communication of many sorts, the particular focus of literary studies is on linguistic creations as meaningful in themselves and not purely as documents that record meaning outside themselves.

Courses satisfying the literary studies requirement are centrally concerned with the textual analysis of primary works. They consider a variety of interpretive frameworks and attend to one or more collateral areas of investigation, including the study of the process by which texts are created and received, the historical and cultural contexts in which they are created and received, and their relationships to each other and to other fields of experience and analysis. The field of literary studies brings its perspectives and methods to bear on imaginative and nonimaginative works alike.

Field of Study - Natural Science (FSNB, FSNC, FSNP)

The field of natural science is concerned with the physical universe from subatomic to cosmic levels of organization, including inanimate as well as living systems, their structure, diversity, interaction, and evolution. Based upon the generation and testing of hypotheses, scientific inquiry is restricted to the study of repeatable, measurable, and verifiable phenomena. Within this field, knowledge may be gained either by controlled experiment or diligent observation, depending upon the phenomena being studied. Similarly, some of the field's methodologies rely upon quantitative analysis, while others are primarily qualitative.

The natural science requirement is designed to enhance students' appreciation of the beauty of science as well as their understanding of the challenges of doing science. Students gain experience in the formulation and testing of hypotheses and are introduced to scientific methodology. The natural science requirement consists of a single laboratory course selected from the three areas of science represented at the University of Richmond, namely, chemistry, physics, and the biological sciences.

Field of Study - Social Analysis (FSSA)

Social analysis is the systematic study of individual and social human behavior. This field of study involves a systematic theoretical and empirical examination of the patterns of human behavior within or across various societies and cultures.

Courses satisfying this requirement focus on human behavior. They teach students to analyze individual and group behavior by using a variety of theoretical and empirical frameworks. All courses in this field of study must include the reading of or involve students in research on patterns of human behavior. Courses that employ social contextual analysis for purposes of providing a frame of reference for the study of other phenomena, such as literary texts, works of art, etc., do not fulfill this requirement.

Field of Study - Symbolic Reasoning (FSSR)

As a field of study, symbolic reasoning is distinguished by its attention to internal logical consistency and by its wide external applicability. This field of study emphasizes symbolic problem solving, a process that includes translating problems into terms that are amenable to treatment within a symbolic system; understanding consistent rules by which the information relevant to the problem may be processed in order to obtain a solution; recognizing important underlying principles that govern the application of these rules; and judging both the appropriateness of known solution methods to a particular problem and the quality or reasonableness of the solution obtained.

Courses in this field of study aim to develop in students the skills to obtain valid solutions using one or more symbolic systems, the ingenuity to translate new problems into appropriate terms for such systems, and the persistence to carry a solution method through to completion. The focus of a symbolic reasoning course should be on understanding the symbolic system and how it can be used to develop problem-solving tools rather than on the tools themselves. Applications of these tools, while a welcome addition, should not be the primary objective of the course.

Field of Study - Visual and Performing Arts (FSVP)

The field of visual and performing arts considers questions having to do with the forms, traditions, meaning, and historical contexts of works in visual and performance media and explores issues of method, process, and personal resources in the media.

Courses satisfying this requirement are centrally concerned with the roles of creation and interpretation in the study of art. They develop in students an enhanced understanding of art both by fostering their intellectual appreciation of works of art and by involving them in the creative process. These courses are suffused with the notion that the arts are a powerful and profound influence on human perception and understanding.

Conclusion

In addition to the fundamental educational experiences represented by these requirements, the faculty recognizes that thoughtful reflection upon an even wider range of topics and issues such as those that pertain to gender, race, ethics, international perspectives, and other matters, is an important component in the education of Richmond students. While some of these topics and issues may be addressed in one or another course in the general education curriculum, the faculty feels strongly that they are best treated - sometimes focally, sometimes incidentally - within many different courses, outside as well as inside that curriculum. By addressing them in a variety of ways, from a variety of viewpoints, and with a variety of voices across the entire curriculum, the faculty as a whole will ensure that students are aware of the many complex and serious ways in which these issues touch their lives and the lives of others.

Note: Courses meeting general education requirements are approved by the General Education Committee and denoted with the appropriate code following the course description in this catalog, as well as in the schedule of classes, published each semester on BannerWeb. A course will only meet the general education requirement if approved and the corresponding code is noted on the schedule of classes for the semester in which the class is completed. The codes are as follows:

- FYS - First-Year Seminar
- COM2 - Communication Skills - Second Language
- FSHT - Field of Study: Historical Studies
- FSLT - Field of Study: Literary Studies
- FSNB - Field of Study: Natural Science, Biological Sciences
- FSNC - Field of Study: Natural Science, Chemistry
- FSNP - Field of Study: Natural Science, Physics
- FSSA - Field of Study: Social Analysis
- FSSR - Field of Study: Symbolic Reasoning
- FSVP - Field of Study: Visual and Performing Arts

Summary of General Education Requirements

Summary

Courses used to satisfy the First-Year Seminars and the communication skills requirement of the general education requirements may not be used to meet the fields of study requirements for the degree. The First-Year Seminars must be taken in the first year of matriculation.

First-Year Seminars

A student may satisfy this requirement by passing two FYS 100 seminar courses. The same seminar topic may not be repeated more than once for credit.

First Year Seminar Policy for Students Transferring to Richmond

Students who are admitted to the University of Richmond as transfer students with 6.82 or more transferable units are exempt from the First Year Seminars.

Students transferring with less than 6.82 units*, excluding credit for advanced standing, must meet the following First-Year Seminar requirement(s)

- 1-3.13 transferable units: must take two First Year Seminars during the first two semesters of enrollment.
- 3.14-6.81 transferable units: must take one First Year Seminar during the first semester of enrollment. May take an additional First Year Seminar in the second term of enrollment, if desired.

Note: Students are only accepted as transfer students with less than 6.82 transferable units on an exception basis. These students must demonstrate exceptional qualifications.

Communication Skills II - Second Language

A student may satisfy this requirement in a modern or classical language by meeting one of the following alternatives:

1. Passing the intermediate (221 or 202) level of one language (credit varies from 1-2 units depending on the intensity of the courses).

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
2. Presenting a score of 3, 4, or 5 on a modern language Advanced Placement exam taken prior to initial enrollment (student would receive an exemption, but no credit, for a score of 3; the credit varies for a score of 4 or 5); presenting a score of 4 or 5 on the Latin Advanced Placement exam (carries 1 unit of credit).
3. Presenting a score of 5, 6, or 7 on an IB Higher Level exam in a modern language (credit varies).
4. Presenting an acceptable score on the SAT-II Subject Test - Language taken prior to initial enrollment (carries no credit).
5. Achieving an acceptable score on a departmental placement exam (carries no credit).
6. For non-native English speakers, submission of TOEFL scores for admission (carries no credit).

Fields of Study

A student may satisfy the fields of study requirements by passing one approved course in each of the areas of historical studies, literary studies, social analysis, symbolic reasoning, visual and performing arts, and the natural sciences. Such courses must have been approved by the General Education Committee and the faculties of the schools of Arts and Sciences, Robins School of Business, and Jepson School of Leadership Studies as meeting these requirements.

Courses meeting general education requirements are designated in this catalog following the course description, as well as in the list of classes on the website. All courses used to meet general education requirements must be passed with a grade of D- (.7) or higher.

Wellness Requirement

In keeping with the University's objective of fostering knowledge and personal well-being, every undergraduate student will complete a three-part wellness series prior to graduation. Before arriving on campus, first year and transfer students will complete Alcohol Edu, an on-line alcohol prevention and education program. Once on campus, students will complete a two-hour alcohol seminar (WELL 085) specific to policies of the University and the Commonwealth of Virginia. Students are also required to complete two WELL 090 health education topics courses. Classes are geared towards topics that will promote academic success and personal health.

Students who have not satisfactorily completed WELL 085 by registration for the spring semester of their second year will have an administrative hold put on their record and will not be able to register until they have made arrangements to take the class. The Plus2 component, Wellness 090, is strongly urged to be taken and satisfactorily completed before or during the third year.

Completion of a Major

All undergraduate degrees at the University of Richmond require satisfactory completion of one major. Multiple majors and/or minors may also be pursued and upon completion will be recorded on the permanent academic record.

The major is a field of academic study chosen as an area of specialization. A major may be in a subject area and will include courses in that subject area along with courses prerequisite to those required courses and may also include designated courses outside the subject area. Interdisciplinary programs will include courses from a number of different subject areas. Majors require between 9 and 18.5 total units, counting all courses both inside and outside the subject area, including all prerequisites for those courses. (See the section for each school for specific major or minor requirements.)

The School of Arts and Sciences offers the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees. The Robins School of Business offers the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers the Bachelor of Arts degree.

In addition to the degree requirements previously stated under Graduation, a candidate must satisfy major requirements outlined in the following sections.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Major Requirements</th>
<th>9 -18.5 total units</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Curriculum and Achievement

Undergraduate degree candidates must earn a grade point average of not less than 2.00 on all coursework attempted.
Candidates for the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration must complete 35 units.

Additional Degree Requirements

- 17.5 unit on-campus residency requirement (transfer students should see section on Transfer Credit)
- 28 unit residency requirement, to include work taken on approved exchange and study abroad programs

School of Arts and Sciences

The School of Arts and Sciences offers a majority of the courses taken by undergraduate students at the University. Even students who major in business or leadership studies take up to two-thirds of their courses, elective as well as general education courses, in the School of Arts and Sciences. The school provides a broad range of majors and offers numerous opportunities for interdisciplinary study. Such study takes many forms, from self-designed programs to interdisciplinary concentrations within traditional fields to fully developed interdisciplinary majors. Graduates today live in a world in which the ability to integrate knowledge and skills from a variety of disciplines is increasingly important. The School of Arts and Sciences fully recognizes this fact and is constantly working to create opportunities for students to integrate and apply what they are learning.

Engagement in active and interactive learning is the hallmark of education in the School of Arts and Sciences. Students are involved in guided independent study projects, collaborative research with faculty and other students, internships and other service-learning experiences, and artistic and creative projects. Active engagement enables students to assume increasing responsibility for their own learning and development and prepares them for life-long growth and adaptation to change.

The faculty of the school are committed, first and foremost, to teaching and learning and to the overall education and development of their students. Faculty take the advising and mentoring of students very seriously and meet frequently with their students and advisees to discuss course-related projects as well as career plans and long-term goals.

The school's faculty are also productive scholars and artists who introduce students to the excitement of research and creative activity. As distinguished scholars, scientists, artists, and practitioners, they are able to teach by example as well as by precept.

By graduation, arts and sciences students are well-prepared for further study in graduate or professional schools and for employment in a variety of fields, including healthcare, government, business, law, and nonprofit work. The knowledge and skills fostered by a liberal arts education serve students well in the world of work, as well as in their personal lives. In addition, an education in the School of Arts and Sciences prepares students to become well-informed and thoughtful citizens, to be able to contribute to the lives of others, and to help advance the society of which they are a part.

Curriculum Requirements

The School of Arts and Sciences offers the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees.

In addition to the degree requirements previously stated under Graduation, a candidate must satisfy major requirements outlined in the following pages.

Course limitations- Of the following, no more than the stated units of credit can count toward any degree in a given school:
- 3.5 units - Internship courses of whatever kind, excluding student teaching, legislative internship and Theatre 330-341 Practicum
- 1.5 units - Internship 388 taken in the same academic department

Bachelor of Arts

Degree Requirements

To qualify for a Bachelor of Arts degree, students must complete the degree requirements listed previously, including general education requirements, wellness, curriculum, achievement, and residency requirements, along with completion of the requirements for at least one major.

Requirements for the Major

The major is a field of academic study chosen as an area of specialization. A major will include courses in a subject area*, such other courses outside the subject area as may be designated, and any courses prerequisite to those required courses. Unless a special waiver of the Academic Council has been granted to a department or program and endorsed by the arts and sciences faculty, a major will require 9 to 11 units in a single subject area, including all prerequisites within the subject area. In addition, a major will require no more than 15.5 total units, counting all courses both inside and outside the subject area, including all prerequisites for those courses. Majors in interdisciplinary programs will require a minimum of 9 units and no more than 15.5 total units, including all prerequisites.
A student may not count more than 17.5 units from a single subject area toward the minimum number of units necessary for graduation. In certain rare circumstances, when a student has the written support of the department chair, she or he may petition the Arts and Sciences Academic Council to exceed the limit.

Basic modern second language courses through the intermediate level, and the wellness requirements will not be counted toward the major. Classical languages are exempt from this exclusion.

A student may concurrently fulfill the requirements of more than one major. To initiate more than one major, the student should declare the majors in the manner currently provided. Upon graduation, only one degree will be conferred, but each completed major will be recorded on the student’s permanent academic record, provided the student has listed the major on the degree application and is certified to have completed all of the requirements specified for the given major.

If a student's major(s) and other coursework can be arranged to meet the requirements for either the Bachelor of Arts degree or the Bachelor of Science degree, no more than one degree has been earned; however, the student must specify which degree is desired. Any major associated with a degree not chosen shall be recorded according to the provisions previously stated.

Specific major requirements may be found under the appropriate academic department listing in the Curricula section. In that section, the requirements are presumed to be for the Bachelor of Arts degree unless otherwise stated. For a description of the minor option, see that heading in the Interdisciplinary Programs section of this chapter.

* Subject area refers to coursework listed under a single specified rubric.  Students interested in earning more than one undergraduate degree should refer to the Second Undergraduate Degree section.

Bachelor of Science

Degree Requirements

To qualify for a Bachelor of Science degree, students must complete the degree requirements stated under Graduation, including general education requirements, wellness, curriculum, achievement, and residency requirements, along with completion of the requirements for at least one major. The B.S. degree at the University of Richmond requires a concentration in science and quantitative reasoning. The B.S. degree will require depth of coursework and/or research as determined by the department or program along with Math 211 (or equivalent) and a second course that focuses on advanced quantitative methods appropriate to scientific inquiry.

Requirements for the Major

The provisions listed under the B.A. apply. The B.S. is offered only in biochemistry, biology, chemistry, computer science, environmental studies, interdisciplinary studies, mathematics, mathematical economics, physics, interdisciplinary physics, and psychology. For differences in the major requirements for the degrees, consult the appropriate departmental description under Curricula.

The major is a field of academic study chosen as an area of specialization. A major will include courses in a subject area, such other courses outside the subject area as may be designated, and any courses prerequisite to those required courses. Unless a special waiver of the Academic Council has been granted to a department or program and endorsed by the arts and sciences faculty, a major will require 9 to 13 units in a single subject area, including all prerequisites within the subject area. In addition, a major will require no more than 18.5 total units, counting all courses both inside and outside the subject area, including all prerequisites for those courses, Math 211 (or equivalent) and a second course that focuses on advanced quantitative methods appropriate to scientific inquiry. The interdisciplinary studies program will require a minimum of 9 units and no more than 18.5 total units, including all prerequisites.

A student may not count more than 17.5 units from a single subject area toward the minimum number of units necessary for graduation. In certain rare circumstances, when a student has the written support of the department chair, she or he may petition the Arts and Sciences Academic Council to exceed the limit.

Special Program Opportunities

Honors Program

Outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond standard coursework have the opportunity to broaden and deepen knowledge in selected major fields through the Honors Program. Departmental honors coordinators invite promising qualified majors to apply, but an interested student may contact his or her major department or the faculty committee on the Honors Program to indicate interest and obtain further information. To qualify, a student should have at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average, 18 or more units completed and, excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 3.5 or more units completed with distinction in the major field. Successful completion of an Honors Program is shown on the student’s permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum (CLAC)

The Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum program allows students to use their language skills and other cultural perspectives to enhance learning and research in all disciplines. Certain courses in the School of Arts and Sciences, Jepson School of Leadership Studies, and the Robins School of Business are offered in conjunction with a Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum component, an optional quarter unit of work in a second language associated with a regular class. The CLAC component is worth one quarter unit and is graded pass/fail. To find a CLAC section, look for courses marked "CLAC credit available" or go directly to each semester's listings under cultures and Languages across the curriculum. The following departments have recently offered courses with CLAC sections: English, history, leadership studies, modern literatures and cultures, music, and philosophy. More CLAC sections are being developed in other departments. For further information, contact the CLAC program coordinator.

Dual-Degree Engineering Programs

In cooperation with selected engineering schools, the University offers the opportunity for students interested in engineering careers to earn two bachelor's degrees in five years, one from the University of Richmond and another from a cooperating engineering school. In the 3-2 Engineering Program, a student spends three years at Richmond, completing all of the general education requirements, almost all of the requirements for a major in physics, plus selected other courses. The student spends the remaining two years at the engineering school. The Columbia University School of Engineering and Applied Science is a participant. The University of Richmond's physics department's pre-engineering advisor can provide information about participating programs and requirements.

Internships

Internships provide students with supervised opportunities to understand by direct experience how skills and theories learned in the classroom are applied in business, industry, community agencies, and government. Each internship must include an academic base, such as an appropriate reading list or other resources, which demonstrates or stresses the interrelatedness of the academic background with the selected workplace.

Any academic department may offer an individual internship under the following general description: 388 Individual Internship. Application of academic skills and theories in a selected work environment, plus related academic work supervised by a member of the faculty. Pass/fail grading may be designated by a department for any or all enrollments. May be repeated; however, no more than 1.5 units in the same department may be counted toward the total number of units required for a degree. Prerequisite: Permission of department concerned.

Credits from visiting away programs will be treated as transfer credits, requiring transfer approval and affecting units toward graduation. The credits are not calculated in the GPA and require a C or better to transfer. Credits are applied to the student's record only upon receipt of an official transcript from the sponsoring institution. Exceptions to this would be programs in which the decision is made to partner with the sponsoring institution, in which case the courses would be listed as Richmond courses on the transcript and the grades treated as having been earned at Richmond. Approval for such programs would be submitted through the same channels as outlined above.

Marine Studies

The University of Richmond Department of Biology and the Duke University Marine Laboratory (DUML) offer a program supplement in marine science. Instruction is given by DUML and may be accepted as transfer credit in the student's University of Richmond program. Further information about the program can be obtained from the University of Richmond Department of Biology.

Minor Option

Students who wish to study away from the University of Richmond for a semester or year and maintain active status must participate in a program that has been approved for visiting away status. Students leaving the University on any program that does not carry visiting away status must withdraw from the University and apply to the appropriate dean for readmission.

Visiting away programs are approved by the academic council of the appropriate school and the Office of the University Registrar, which maintains a list of approved visiting away programs. This list is subject to change and will be reviewed on a periodic basis. (A program that is approved for one student will not necessarily be approved for another student since the decision is based not only on the academic reputation of the program, but also on the relevancy of the program to the student's individual academic program.)
A minor is a secondary academic specialization that may be sought in addition to the required academic major. A minor consists of at least 4.5 units and may include certain other requirements as specified by the academic department concerned. A student may elect to complete more than one minor in the degree program. The minor is declared in the same manner as the major. Upon graduation, each completed minor will be recorded on the student’s permanent academic record, provided the minor is listed on the degree application form and the requirements have been met. Many academic departments offer a minor. The requirements in the minor, for the departments in which the minor is available, are presented under the appropriate departmental listing in the Curricula section.

Research Grants for Undergraduates

Each year the School of Arts and Sciences offers its students unusual opportunities for research projects. Grants are awarded by the Undergraduate Research Committee to support research projects in a variety of ways such as the purchase of materials and equipment, travel or other such expenses and presenting or publishing the results of the research. The grant may be awarded for a project that is the student’s own idea or an idea that has been conceived in cooperation with a faculty member; in any case, there must be a faculty member who is willing to supervise the project. Generally, the project is approved for academic credit, and often the student and the faculty member will coauthor one or more professional papers on the work. Application forms and further information are available from the associate dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, whose office is in the administrative wing of Boatwright Library, or through the departmental chair of the department in which the project is to be supervised.

Interdisciplinary Programs

Self-Designed Interdisciplinary Studies Major

Under the general supervision of two faculty advisors and the coordinator of interdisciplinary studies, the University offers a self-designed interdisciplinary major. The interdisciplinary major provides a student the opportunity to propose and pursue, with faculty supervision, a unique program of study leading to either a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in interdisciplinary studies. A senior thesis, which is the culmination of the major and for which the student receives one unit, is required.

Applications and further information are available from the coordinator of interdisciplinary studies. Applications are to be submitted to the coordinator of interdisciplinary studies by April 1 of the second year. At least a 3.00 cumulative grade point average is recommended.

Interdisciplinary Majors

In addition to the self-designed interdisciplinary major, the School of Arts and Sciences offers support for interdisciplinary study through a number of interdisciplinary programs that offer majors within the Bachelor of Arts degree. They are American studies, classical civilization, cognitive science, criminal justice, environmental studies, film studies, geography, international studies, philosophy, politics, economics, and law, and women, gender, and sexuality studies. Environmental studies, interdisciplinary physics, and mathematical economics are the interdisciplinary major options within the Bachelor of Science degree. Further information is available from the program coordinators listed under each program.

International Studies Major

International studies is a cross-cultural, interdisciplinary major composed of six areas of concentration, of which the student selects one. The concentrations are Africa, Asia, international economics, Latin America, Middle East, modern Europe, and world politics and diplomacy. Further information is available from the program coordinator.

Interdisciplinary Concentrations

The School of Arts and Sciences offers a series of curricular configurations known as interdisciplinary concentrations within disciplinary majors or minors. Instead of constituting stand-alone majors or minors, these concentrations are tied closely to selected majors, thus fostering an integrated learning experience that offers depth in a traditional discipline combined with breadth in interdisciplinary study. Current interdisciplinary concentrations include arts management (for art history, studio art, dance, music, and theatre majors or minors); comparative literature (for English majors); medieval and Renaissance studies (for art history or English majors); and neuroscience (for biology or psychology majors). An interdisciplinary concentration within a disciplinary major toward a B.A. will require no more than 21 total units, counting all courses and including all prerequisites for those courses. An interdisciplinary concentration within a disciplinary major toward a B.S. degree will require no more than 22 total units, counting all courses and including all prerequisites for those courses and Calculus II. For specific descriptions and requirements, refer to the Interdisciplinary Concentrations section.

American Studies

Nicole Sackley, Coordinator (History)

American studies is an interdisciplinary program that provides opportunities for students to study American culture, society, identity, and politics by combining coursework in anthropology, art, history, journalism, literature, music, philosophy, politics, religion, and sociology into a single major. Our approach to American studies emphasizes the "local" and the "global." In the program's Richmond Seminars, students investigate the American experience through community studies and community-based learning. In its Tocqueville Seminars, students place the study of the United States in comparative and international perspective. A core group of American Studies faculty, who serve as faculty advisors to majors, specialize in American history, religion, and literature; Native American studies, African American studies, Latino/a studies; memory and museum studies; and urban studies. The program emphasizes student initiative and hands-on practice and encourages students to craft a distinctive program of study that meets the intellectual interests of each major.

The American studies major consists of nine courses, including AMST 201, a topical survey open primarily to first-year students and sophomores, and AMST 301, a junior/senior seminar that explores theories and methods in the field. In addition, students must complete at least one Richmond Seminar (AMST 381) and one Tocqueville Seminar (AMST 391).

Majors work closely with the program coordinator to determine a specialized course of study for the remaining five electives. These courses must be drawn from at least two allied departments; two must be taken at the 300 level or higher. Students may count one approved First-Year Seminar toward their American studies electives. Introductory courses for other majors are ineligible. Students must complete all prerequisites for electives taken in allied departments in addition to the requirements for their American studies major. For a list of past, current, and upcoming AMST courses and electives, see the "Courses" link on the American Studies website.

The discipline of American studies increasingly emphasizes explorations of U.S. culture and society in relation to international politics, the global economy, and population migrations. For this reason, students who study abroad are strongly encouraged to pursue coursework related to their American studies majors.

In addition to completing the standard requirements for the major, qualified students may elect to write an honors thesis (AMST 401) during the spring semester of their senior year. Theses are written under the supervision of a sponsoring faculty member and require the prior approval of a formal prospectus submitted to the American studies advisory board before November 15.

Students interested in learning more about the American studies major are encouraged to contact the program coordinator for more information.

The American Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70).

9 units, including:

- AMST 201 Introduction to American Studies
- AMST 301 Seminar in American Studies
- AMST 381 Richmond Seminars
- AMST 391 Tocqueville Seminars
- Five electives in allied departments, chosen in consultation with the faculty advisor, including two at 300 level or higher

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for electives in allied departments. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

The American Studies Minor

The grade point average of coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70).

5 units, including:

- AMST 201 Introduction to American Studies
- AMST 381 Richmond Seminars
- AMST 391 Tocqueville Seminars
- Two elective courses from the approved list, drawn from two allied departments.

Courses for American Studies Credit

See the departmental listings for descriptions of the following courses offered for AMST credit. Ordinarily, the electives should be drawn from at least two affiliated departments and two must be taken at the 300-level or higher. Introductory courses for other majors are ineligible. Students may count one approved First-Year Seminar toward their American Studies major. A supplemental listing of courses is published each semester on the American Studies website.

Courses

AMST 201 Introduction to American Studies
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement FSHT
Description
Surveys multidisciplinary approaches to American studies with specific emphasis on methodologies, sources, themes, and major ideas.

AMST 301 Seminar in American Studies
Units: 1
Description
Advanced seminar that examines the historical, methodological, and theoretical development of American studies as an academic discipline. Offered in alternate years.
Prerequisites
American Studies 201 and junior or senior status.

AMST 381 Community Problem Solving Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Combines community investigation with reading and discussion about community problems from multidisciplinary perspectives.

AMST 388 Individual Internship
Units: .25-1
Description
Application of academic skills and theories in a selected work environment, plus related academic work supervised by a member of the faculty. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Departmental approval.

AMST 391 Tocqueville Seminar: Special Topics
Units: 1
Description
Multidisciplinary seminar that encourages students to examine the United States from international perspectives. Uses theory and a variety of forms of texts--music, film, literature, popular culture, and more--to deepen student understanding of the U.S. as they see the country from different points of view.

AMST 398 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
Varying interdisciplinary topics related to American studies. Area of study will vary according to instructor and course topic.

AMST 399 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Individually designed reading or research program conducted under faculty supervision.
Prerequisites
American Studies 201 and permission of program coordinator and faculty supervisor.

AMST 401 Thesis
Units: 1
Description
Thesis project designed, researched, and written by students under faculty supervision. Offered spring semester only.
Prerequisites
American Studies 201, senior status, 3.5 grade point average within the major, and a prospectus with bibliography approved by the American studies advisory council.

AMST 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

Anthropology

Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Jan H. French, Chair

Associate Professors French, Hass, Nourse, Ransom
Assistant Professors Goldman, Richards, Sweis
Professionals from the field also are employed as adjunct faculty

The major in anthropology stresses cultural anthropology, the study of contemporary and historically recent human societies around the world. Specifically, cultural anthropology focuses on the ways in which various individuals and groups (societies) construct their ideas (culture) about the world and the ways in which these ideas influence how various people behave. Courses in anthropology compare diverse cultures to ascertain their similarities as well as their differences. Some courses in cultural anthropology study particular regions of the world and the way in which those peoples construct their realities and find meaning in their lives. Other courses in cultural anthropology select various dimensions of human life - family, gender, religion, politics, art, etc., and examine how one of these subjects relates to all the other dimensions in one particular culture or across cultures in general.

The Anthropology Major

Note: The grade point average of the anthropology coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

10 units, including
ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
ANTH 211 Field Methods in Ethnography
The Anthropology Honors Program

The goal of the Anthropology honors program is to give those students with superior interests and talents in the field to explore both anthropology and personal intellectual interests and themes beyond the limits of typical courses offered. This will prepare these advanced students for possible graduate work or more advanced career prospects. Successful completion of the Honors Program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Eligibility and Admission

To qualify for the honors program in Anthropology, a student should have:

1. 18.5 or more units completed overall
2. At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses
3. Excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 4 or more units completed with distinction in the major field and a 3.5 cumulative grade point average for Anthropology courses.

To enter the honors program, the student must submit a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of his or her junior year. A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of all members of the anthropology program. Students may request consideration by the department, or the department may invite a student to apply.

Program of Study

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal BA requirements for Anthropology, with required methods and theory courses (Anthropology 211 and 290) completed by the end of the junior year to facilitate work on the senior thesis (see below). The program of study for Honors is 12 units (10 units for the BA plus 2 units -- one for Honors Independent Study and one for the Honors Thesis).
- Complete a senior thesis that addresses an original question or issue and that produces some original research (so as not to be a pure literature review of existing work). The thesis should be data-driven, ethnographic in nature, and demonstrate a grasp of existing literature and theory related to the issue at hand. In preparation for undertaking the senior thesis, the student must agree with a faculty member, whose interests and expertise have the best possible fit with the student's intended thesis topic, to be his or her advisor for the thesis. The student and advisor should devise a basic plan for the project by the end of the spring semester of the junior year. The student and his/her advisor should develop a schedule for meetings and assessment they find most appropriate.
- For credit for the thesis, the student will take two one-unit Honors courses in the senior year, both involving work on the senior thesis: Honors Independent Study (Fall) and Honors Thesis (Spring). This will involve at a minimum meeting once a week with the thesis supervisor to discuss and monitor progress in data collection, analysis, and write-up. The former will involve monitoring

The Anthropology Minor

Note: The grade point average of the anthropology coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

5 units, including
- ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- ANTH 211 Field Methods in Ethnography or ANTH 290 Cultural Theory
- Three additional units from the list below (no more than one course may be taken at other institutions, including study abroad institutions, with departmental approval).

List of Courses

- ANTH 279 Selected Topics (as approved by department)
- ANTH 300 Sexuality and Gender Across Cultures
- ANTH 302 Medicine and Health from a Global/Anthropological Perspective
- ANTH 304 Ritual, Witchcraft and Divination
- ANTH 307 Indigenous Peoples of the Americas
- ANTH 308 Latin America: An Ethnographic Perspective
- ANTH 328 Anthropology of Human Rights
- ANTH 329 Anthropology of Race
- ANTH 335 Law and Order: The Anthropology of Justice
- ANTH 336 Politics, Power and Ritual
- ANTH 338 Africa: Cultural Change in a Post-Colonial Setting
- ANTH 340 Southeast Asia: Cultural Representations
- ANTH 350 Sex and Gender in the Middle East
- ANTH 360 Power and Society in the Middle East
- ANTH 379 Selected Topics (as approved by the department)
- ANTH 388 Individual Internship
- ANTH 400 Capstone Seminar
- ANTH 401 Honors Independent Study
- ANTH 402 Honors Thesis
- ANTH 426-ANTH 427 Directed Independent Study

and assessing progress in data collection and analysis through regular reports -- the timetable depending on the particular project, in agreement with the student and advisor. Assessment for the latter will be the thesis product itself. The thesis will be due in time for a final grade to be submitted to the registrar -- preferably the Friday before the School of Arts & Sciences Student Symposium. The grade for the Honors Thesis course is that for the senior thesis. The department encourages students who are prepared sufficiently early to apply for a summer grant to facilitate research.

- The senior thesis will be assessed and graded by the student's thesis advisor and one other member of the anthropology program. If one person fulfills both these roles, an outside person whose expertise is sufficiently close to the thesis topic will be asked to aid with assessment. In case of disagreement, another member of the department will be asked for his/her opinion on the appropriate grade to resolve the disagreement.

- The student must take two standard one-unit upper-level courses for Honors credit that include additional extra work agreed upon by the student, the course instructor, and the student's thesis advisor. One of those must be related to the intended senior thesis topic. This one course may be in any department, but in any case it should meet with the approval of the student's thesis advisor.

The student may withdraw at any time. Should he/she not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for Anthropology coursework, the student will not receive credit for the Honors Program.

The Anthropology faculty will encourage students in their junior year who appear qualified to consider the Honors Program seriously as soon as possible, to facilitate preparation for the senior thesis and any required summer work/research.

Courses

ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Examines how people make cultural meaning out of their lives and explores the way in which anthropologists come to understand other people's construction of culture. Cross-cultural perspective on family, kinship, language, religion, gender and sexuality, and other aspects of social life.

ANTH 211 Introduction to Ethnographic Field Methods
Units: 1
Description
Introduces the methodologies used in cultural anthropology, as well as theories behind these methodologies. Issues of objectivity, ethical research and presentation, the political nature of the production of knowledge, positioning the researcher, and the uses to which training in ethnographic methods might be put.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101.

ANTH 279 Selected Topics in Anthropology
Units: 1
Description
Various topics in the field of anthropology. May be repeated for credit if topics are different.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101.

ANTH 290 Theoretical Foundations of Cultural Anthropology
Units: 1
Description
History of cultural and social anthropological thought, major theoretical perspectives and contemporary issues as to how humans construct their social worlds.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101.

ANTH 300 Sexuality and Gender Across Cultures
Units: 1
Description
Theoretical and ethnographic examination of masculinity and femininity within various worldwide cultures.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101.

ANTH 302 Medicine and Health from a Global/Anthropological Perspective
Units: 1
Description
Examines, through an anthropological lens, ways in which non-western and western cultures conceptualize human bodies, medical practice and the process of healing. Considers ways in which ethnomedical (shamanistic, Ayurvedic, acupunctural, and herbal) practices coincide and/or clash with biomedical practices in the US and globally. Reflects on international policies, pharmaceutical corporations and indigenous movements to nationalize ethnomedicine and reject biomedicine.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101, SOC 101, or IS 290

ANTH 303 Biopolitics in Medical Anthropology
Units: 1
Description
Advanced anthropology course examining the intersections of culture, politics and medicine from a variety of theoretical and scholarly approaches. With a strong emphasis on contemporary states and governments, the readings focus on how biology and politics--or biopolitics--converge in a myriad of ways to shape human experience, past and present. Study of the biopolitics in countries such as Cuba, Egypt, Haiti, South Africa, France, the United States, and more. Topics include: the history and culture of modern western biomedicine; religious perspectives of the body; organ donation and transplantation; sex, gender and reproductive technologies; racialized bodies in medical science; global poverty and infectious disease; ethics and medical humanitarianism; and how big pharmaceutical companies shape our ideas of health and personhood.

Prerequisites
ANTH 101

ANTH 304 Ritual, Witchcraft & Divination
Units: 1
Description
Examines the ways ritual, witchcraft and divination permeate all societies and cultures throughout the world. Includes discussions of shamanism and drug use for religious purposes, as well as voudou, cults, and New Age healing.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101.

ANTH 307 Indigenous Peoples of the Americas
Units: 1
Description
Historical development, culture, relations with governments and international organizations, and current issues of indigenous peoples throughout the Americas, including the U.S.

Supervised independent field work. Requires permission of a supervising faculty member and approval by the department chair. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
ANTH 101 and permission of instructor.

ANTH 400 Capstone Seminar
Units: .5
Description
Preparation of senior thesis to complete anthropology major.

ANTH 401 Honors Independent Study
Units: 1
Description
Preparation course for honors thesis. This course is taken in fall of senior year. Students work to write Institutional Review Board proposal, conduct research, and compile an extensive annotated bibliography in preparation for the spring semester in which the thesis is written.
Prerequisites
ANTH 211 and 290 with a minimum GPA of 3.3 overall and 3.5 in Anthropology. Also must submit proposal in spring of junior year.

ANTH 402 Honors Thesis
Units: 1
Description
Taken in the spring of the senior year and it is the second course in the honors program. The majority of the semester will be spent writing drafts for the final thesis. A schedule is drawn up for submission of chapters. The mentor aids the student in finding a theoretical angle coupled with ethnographic evidence to support it that will allow the student to express their ideas eloquently and powerfully. If there are symposia and conferences during the spring semester, the mentor assists student in preparation. Students will be encouraged to submit their finished thesis, or an abbreviated form of it, to a journal for publication.

ANTH 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor.

ANTH 426 Directed Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Intensive study of a specific topic within anthropology under the direction of a member of the faculty. Requires approval by the department chair.
Prerequisites
ANTH 211 and ANTH 290 with a grade of C or better.

ANTH 427 Directed Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Intensive study of a specific topic within anthropology under the direction of a member of the faculty. Requires approval by the department chair.
Prerequisites
ANTH 211 and ANTH 290 with a grade of C or better.

ANTH 489 Research Practicum
Units: .5-1
Description
Work closely with professor on research project, including design, data collection, data analysis, and dissemination of results. Requires permission of a supervising faculty member and approval by the department chair.
Prerequisites
ANTH 211 and ANTH 290 with a grade of C or better.

Archaeology
Elizabeth Baughan, Coordinator (Classical Studies)

Archaeology is the study of the human past through its material remains. The minor in Archaeology draws upon courses in Anthropology, Art History, Biology, Classical Studies, and Geography that focus on archaeological evidence, material culture, methods of archaeological inquiry and analysis, and/or the study of human behavior. This minor gives students who are already focusing on archaeology through such courses (and, in some cases, summer fieldwork) the opportunity to declare their interest more officially and the incentive to specialize more closely. The curriculum is designed to prepare students for careers or postgraduate study not only in archaeology, but also in fields such as ancient art history, GIS (geographic information systems), conservation, architectural history, museum studies, and cultural property law.

The Archaeology Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7)

6 units, including

Two courses, chosen from:
- CLSC 220 Introduction to Archaeology
- CLSC 301 Greek Art and Archaeology
- CLSC 302 Roman Art and Archaeology
- CLSC 321 Archaeology of the Middle East

Four additional courses, chosen from:
- ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- ANTH 290 Theoretical Foundations of Cultural Anthropology
- ARTH 121 Survey I: Prehistory through the Middle Ages
- ARTH 211 Byzantine Art and Architecture
- ARTH 309 Image and Icon in Medieval Art
- ARTH 310 Late Antique and Early Christian Art
- ARTH 312 Medieval Art in Western Europe, 8th-15th Centuries
- ARTH 322 Seminar in Museum Studies
- BIOL 199 Mesoamerican Ethnobotany
- CLSC 212 Dining and Drinking in Classical Antiquity
- CLSC 220 Introduction to Archaeology
- CLSC 301 Greek Art and Archaeology
- CLSC 302 Roman Art and Archaeology
- CLSC 320 Cultural Property: Archaeology, Ethics, and Law
- CLSC 321 Archaeology of the Middle East
- CLSC 398 Special Topics, depending on the subject and approval of the minor program coordinator
- GEOG 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
- GEOG 365 Advanced Spatial Analysis

Up to three units of archaeological field school transfer credit and/or study-abroad archaeology courses, with approval of the minor program coordinator, may apply to the archaeology minor. Up to two units of archaeologically-focused independent study (CLSC 498), with approval of the minor program coordinator may apply to the archaeology minor. Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

Art History

Department of Art and Art History
Jeremy Drummond, Chair
Professors Softic
Associate Professors Calvillo, Denton, Drummond, Rhodes, Sjovold
Assistant Professor Kersey
University Museums Executive Director Waller and Deputy Director Schlatter
Visual Resources Librarian Keefer
Visiting Lecturer of Art Condon
NEH Visiting Associate Professor of Art History Hamilton
Professinals from the fields in art are also employed as adjunct faculty members.

The Department of Art and Art History offers programs in the studio arts, Western and non-Western art history, and museum studies. Students work in an environment where they can develop their intellectual and creative abilities to the fullest potential. In addition to a rigorous and stimulating curriculum, students also participate in the activities of the University Museums. The museums present exhibitions of both historical and contemporary art with related lectures, workshops, and symposia with visiting artists, critics, and art historians. A study abroad program allows students to study art and art history in approved programs under the direction of the Office of International Education.

The Art History Major

Note: A grade of not less than C (2.0) is required in each course comprising the major.

10 units, including
- ARTH 121 Survey I: Prehistory through the Middle Ages
- ARTH 122 Survey II: Renaissance to the Present
- Four 200 or 300-level electives in Art History from each of the following areas. One of the electives must be ARTH 319 Advanced Seminar:
  - Late Antique and Medieval Art
  - Renaissance and Baroque Art (1300-1700)
  - The History of Art after 1700
  - Non-western Art History
  - (Note: ARTH 322 Museum Studies, and ARTH 345 Philanthropy in the Arts, do not meet one of these electives)
- One studio art course
- ARTH 365 Art Theories and Methodologies
- ARTH 465 Thesis: Research Seminar
- ARTH 466 Thesis: Research Project

Students propose their thesis topics in the spring of their junior year, completing their thesis research and preliminary research writings in ARTH 465 and the final text of their thesis and associated oral presentation in ARTH 466.
Majors should take ARTH 121-ARTH 122 before enrolling in 300-level art history courses. Independent studies cannot be substituted for required courses in the art history major. In addition to the above, the following are strongly recommended to supplement the major:

ARTH 388 Individual Internship
CLSC 220 Introduction to Archaeology
CLSC 301 Greek Art and Archeology
CLSC 302 Roman Art and Archeology
CLSC 321 Archaeology of the Middle East
PHIL 281 Philosophy of Art
RELG 251 Sacred Arts of India
REGL 262 Sacred Arts of Native America

Note: These courses cannot be substituted for major requirements, which must be fulfilled through art history department offerings. No more than two courses taken abroad will count for the major.

The Art History Minor

Note: A grade of not less than C (2.0) is required in each course comprising the minor.

6 units, including

ARTH 121 Survey I: Prehistory through the Middle Ages
ARTH 122 Survey II: Renaissance to the Present

One studio art course

Three art history electives at the 200 or 300-level from the following areas:
  - Non-Western Art
  - Late Antique and Medieval Art
  - Renaissance and Baroque Art (1300-1700)
  - History of Art after 1700

Two of the three courses must be in two different areas.
(Note: Neither ARTH 322 Museum Studies, nor ARTH 345 Philanthropy in the Arts, meets these electives requirements.)

No more than one course taken abroad will count for the minor.

Related Fields

Interdisciplinary concentration in arts management for studio art, art history, music, theatre, and dance majors or minors

Courses

ARTH 121 Survey I: Prehistory through the Middle Ages
Units: 1
Description
Survey of Western art, with some attention given to non-Western art, from prehistoric times through the Middle Ages. Intended as introductory course for general student as well as art majors and minors. 121 and 122 may be taken independently and in any sequence.

ARTH 122 Survey II: Renaissance to the Present
Units: 1
Description

Survey of Western art from the Renaissance in the 15th century to the late 20th century. Introduces basic historical and formal methodologies for general student and art major.

ARTH 211 Byzantine Art and Architecture
Units: 1
Description
Focuses on art and architecture created in the eastern Mediterranean between the seventh century and the fall of Constantinople in 1453. Explores cultural dialogue among the Byzantine Empire and its Western European, Eastern European, and Islamic neighbors.

ARTH 213 American Art, 1700-1900
Units: 1
Description
Examines the production of art and architecture from the eighteenth through the nineteenth centuries. Considers city plans, buildings, paintings, sculpture and other objects as works created under specific historical, social and cultural conditions.

ARTH 217 Nineteenth-Century Art in Europe
Units: 1
Description
Overview of the major artistic developments of the period, yet allows for closer study of particular issues. For example, how does a work of art become politically charged? How does a landscape painting become a religious painting? Why are the most famous artists male?

ARTH 218 Modern Art, 1900-1960
Units: 1
Description
Studies the major movements and developments of modern art in Europe and America. Examines the theoretical bases of modern art, such as the concept of the avant-garde, and considers the public’s relationship to modern art.

ARTH 223 Studies in the History of Photography
Units: 1
Description
Combines a chronological survey of the developments in photography since its invention in 1839 with an examination of issues dealing with how photography has informed modern attitudes and perspectives. It carefully considers certain claims made on behalf of photography, such as its objectivity, truthfulness, and ability to be an agent of social change.

ARTH 225 Art and Asia
Units: 1
Description
Art, architecture, and material cultures of South, Southeast, and East Asia—premodern and modern. Provides an overview of the vast artifactual record of this segment of the world and engenders a series of fundamental art-historical skills such as description, compare-and-contrast, critical viewing, slow looking, and close reading. Calls into question the Eurocentrism of "art" and its histories. No prior coursework or experience is necessary.

ARTH 226 Art and Culture of Japan
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
A chronological introduction to the art and culture of Japan beginning with the prehistoric period, moving through the introduction to Buddhism and varieties of Buddhist art, the influence of China and Korea, the art of the court, the art of samurai, the art of townsmen (such as Japanese prints), and finally a look at contemporary trends in Japanese culture. Social and historical elements will be integrated with specific studies of visual arts, and literature will also be examined in context. Assignments will include creative work.

ARTH 227 Gender and the Arts of Japan
Units: 1
Description
Representation, construction, and politics of gender in the visual and performing arts of Japan. Topics of analysis include medieval stories of gender transformation, gender's relationship to Buddhist salvation, the patronage and artistic practice of women, the gendering of script and clothing, the inter-war visual culture of hyper-masculinity, and the theatricality of gender performance in kabuki. Also addresses the gendering of abstract concepts—especially that of the nation state—in modern discourse. Concludes with a look at the stakes of gender in postwar and contemporary Japanese art. No previous experience with Japan, art, feminist theory, or gender theory is necessary.

ARTH 228 Graphic Arts of Japan
Units: 1
Description
Addresses the long history of image-making in two dimensions in Japan—a field of inquiry that includes calligraphy, painting, rubbing, print-making, book-making, manga, photography, film, and new media. A unifying theme throughout will be the intersections of words and images (i.e., depicting and inscribing) in Japanese visual culture. Begins in the Heian court and ends in postmodernity. No prior coursework or experience is necessary.

ARTH 279 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
Examples include African art, history of architecture, and other specialized topics. May be repeated for credit if topics differ.

ARTH 309 Image and Icon in Medieval Art
Units: 1
Description
Focuses on role of the panel painted image in Medieval world. Explores the conventions, aesthetics, and ideology of Medieval images, as well as their production, use and restoration. Provides introduction to techniques of medieval panel painting, and asks students to try their hand at the creative process.

ARTH 310 Late Antique and Early Christian Art
Units: 1
Description
Surveys artistic developments in the Mediterranean basin from the first to eighth centuries. Concerned with continuities as well as changes and innovations in visual culture associated with the rise of Christianity in the Roman Empire.

ARTH 312 Medieval Art in Western Europe, 8th-15th Centuries
Units: 1
Description
Surveys the rich and varied production of visual culture in Western Europe from early Middle Ages to beginning of the Renaissance. Considers the changing visual experiences associated with the Early Medieval, Carolingian, Ottonian, Romanesque, and Gothic periods.

ARTH 315 Art of the Italian Renaissance
Units: 1
Description
A survey of Italian painting, sculpture, and architecture between 1250 and 1500, with emphasis on the historical context of particular objects or monuments. Students will examine primary sources whenever possible and consider issues related to the systems of patronage, spirituality, intellectual life, and art criticism of the period.

ARTH 316 Art in the Age of Reform
Units: 1
Description
Beginning with the Italian High Renaissance and ending with baroque art in early 17th-century Europe, this course considers artistic production during a period of religious, political, and cultural crisis. Lectures, readings, and discussions evaluate the agents, ideas, and circumstances that brought about the practical and theoretical developments in the art of the period.

ARTH 319 Advanced Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Highly focused in-depth studies on topics of art history related to departmental course offerings. Topics to be chosen by instructor. Representative topics: Zen art, Surrealism, Artists' Biographies and Art Criticism in early Modern Europe. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

ARTH 322 Museum Studies
Units: 1
Description
History, philosophy, functions, and future of museums; collection research, evaluation, publications, and museum procedures and education. Does not satisfy major or minor requirements.

ARTH 324 Art Histories
Units: 1
Description
Courses in areas of art history at a 300-level not covered in regular departmental offerings. May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

ARTH 345 Philanthropy in the Arts
Units: 1
Description
(See Music 345; same as Theatre 345.) Does not satisfy major or minor requirements.
Prerequisites
ARTH 322 or permission of the instructor.

ARTH 365 Art Theories and Methodologies
Units: 1
Description
Study of theoretical approaches and methods used in discipline of art history. Required for art history majors, recommended before the senior year.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor required for non-art history majors.

ARTH 378 Topics in Asian Art
Units: 1
Description
In depth examination of a single topic in the arts of Asia. Possible themes include Japanese prints, ceramics and the tea ceremony, Chinese literati art, the relationship of calligraphy to painting, narrative art, Buddhist art, etc. May be repeated for credit if the topic differs.

ARTH 383 East Asian Painting, Poetry and Calligraphy
Units: 1
Description
In East Asian painting, poetry and calligraphy are often referred to as the "three jewels" for the high respect that they are given, and the way that they interact. A poet, using brush and ink on paper, may add a design to his words, and in that moment the three arts become one.

ARTH 388 Individual Internship
Units: .25-1
Description
Supervised work experience at approved museum, gallery or other art institutions. May be repeated for credit at a different institution. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor and departmental approval.

ARTH 395 Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
Individually designed program under faculty supervision. Independent studies cannot be substituted for required courses in the art history major.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

ARTH 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

ARTH 465 Thesis Research Seminar
Units: 1
Description
The first half of a one-year capstone experience for the senior major in art history. Serves to strengthen those research and critical thinking skills introduced in First Year Seminars and further developed in upper-level seminars in art history. Assignments center on identifying, evaluating and presenting primary and secondary sources for the senior thesis proposed during the preceding spring term. Completion of thesis research, production of annotated bibliography and beginning of thesis draft for the spring semester seminar, ART 466.
Prerequisites
ARTH 365

ARTH 466 Thesis Research Project
Units: 1
Description
Required for art history majors in their senior year.
Prerequisites
ARTH 465.

Biochemistry and Molecular Biology

Jonathan Dattelbaum, Co-Coordinator (Chemistry)
Krista Stenger, Co-Coordinator (Biology)

The biochemistry and molecular biology program is an interdisciplinary program based in the biology and chemistry departments, and is jointly administered by a coordinating committee consisting of several faculty from each department. The program is designed to offer a flexible route to either the B.A. or B.S. degree and actively encourages student participation in research, which may be conducted with faculty in either department. The flexibility of the program lends itself to combination with study abroad and outreach opportunities. The major is designed to prepare students for future study in any area of the biological sciences, the health professions, or for employment in the biotechnology industry.

The Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Major

Note: A grade of C- (1.7) or better is required in each chemistry and biology course applied toward the major.

For the Bachelor of Arts degree

14.75 units, including:

BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 1 with Laboratory or BIOL 192 Science, Math and Research Training I
BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II
BMB 300 Junior Seminar
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
CHEM 205-CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry
CHEM 309 Physical Chemistry
CHEM 324 Experimental Biochemistry
CHEM 325 Experimental Biophysical Chemistry
CHEM 326 Biochemistry

One Macromolecular Structure and Function course, chosen from:
- BIOL 317 Mechanochemical Cell Biology
- BIOL 335 Structural Biology
- CHEM 329 Protein Structure, Function and Biophysics
- CHEM 330 ST: Chemical Biology

One Gene Regulation course, chosen from:
- BIOL 307 Advanced Cell and Molecular Biology
- BIOL 313 Bacterial Pathogenesis
- BIOL 314 Molecular Biology
- BIOL 324 Molecular Virology
- BIOL 340 Introduction to Immunology
- BIOL 343 Neurobiology
- BIOL 345 Cellular Neurophysiology
- BIOL 352 Evolutionary Developmental Biology
- BIOL 354 Biological Basis of Neurodegenerative Diseases with Laboratory

Two senior seminars, to include the presentation of a research topic, chosen from:
- BMB 310 Biochemistry Senior Seminar I
- BMB 311 Biochemistry Senior Seminar II

MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II
PHYS 127 or PHYS 131 General Physics I
One unit in physics, chosen from:
- PHYS 132 General Physics II
- PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics
- PHYS 134 Biological Physics

For the Bachelor of Science degree

The above courses plus one additional approved upper level biology or chemistry elective and an approved research experience (BIOL 406 or CHEM 406 or 1 unit in BIOL 350 or BIOL 395 or CHEM 320 or CHEM 321) that culminates in a written report or poster presentation to give a total of 15-16 units.

For either of the above degrees

Additional upper-level elective courses in chemistry and biology are highly recommended. Students wishing to double major in biochemistry and molecular biology and either chemistry or biology are required to use upper-level electives for only one degree program or the other. Similarly, upper-level electives cannot be counted for both a major and a minor in either department. In addition, starting with the class of 2018, double majors in biochemistry and molecular biology and chemistry will not be able to double count seminar courses and will be restricted to presenting their research project only once between the two seminar programs.

Honors Program

Students are invited to participate in the biochemistry and molecular biology honors program by the program co-coordinators. A student graduating with an honors degree in biochemistry and molecular biology must complete two units of upper-level elective work (above the BA degree requirements) in chemistry, biology, or courses approved by the BCMB committee. The student also must fulfill the following research requirements:

- A research proposal to the student's research advisor
- 1.5 units of independent research total
- A written thesis upon completion of their research that is approved by at least two BCMB program committee members or their designees (one of which must be a BCMB program committee member)
- An oral defense of the thesis

Additionally, students must have a GPA of 3.30 or better in 200-level and above courses towards the major and 3.30 or better overall. The total number of units for honors course work (including formal courses and research) is three and a half. Courses used for Honors credit may also apply towards Bachelor of Science degree requirements.

Courses

BMB 300 Biochemistry Junior Seminar
Units: .25
Description
Regular attendance at Biology and Chemistry Departments invited speaker series as well as students presentations of selected topics in the natural sciences. Normally taken in the junior year.
Prerequisites
CHEM 206.

BMB 310 Biochemistry Senior Seminar I
Units: .25
Description
Regular attendance at Biology and Chemistry Departments invited speaker series, student presentations of selected topics in the natural sciences, and one presentation given during one of the two semesters. Presentations will encompass selected topics in the natural sciences. One class hour per week.
Prerequisites
BMB 300, CHEM 322, or BIOL 387.

BMB 311 Biochemistry Senior Seminar II
Units: .25
Description
Regular attendance at Biology and Chemistry Departments invited speaker series, student presentations of selected topics in the natural sciences, and one presentation given during one of the two semesters. Presentations will encompass selected topics in the natural sciences. One class hour per week.
Prerequisites
BMB 300, CHEM 322, or BIOL 387.

Biology

April Hill, Chair
Professors de Sá, Hayden, A. Hill, M. Hill, Runyen-Janecky
The Biology Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework in biology and chemistry must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

For the Bachelor of Science Degree
14 units, including

• BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 1 with Laboratory or BIOL 192 Science Math and Research Training with Laboratory
• BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
• BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II
• Five additional units in biology, including at least four approved courses at the 300 level and four with a lab. Students with one unit of research may take three of the five with a lab. The one unit of research may be satisfied by BIOL 350 (taken twice for 0.5 U each), BIOL 395 (1 Unit) or completion of BIOL 406 (summer undergraduate research) or by the dept chair's approval of an external summer research program.
• MATH 212 Calculus II or MATH 232 Scientific Calculus II
• CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry or CHEM 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or CHEM 192 Science, Math and Research Training with Laboratory
• CHEM 205 Organic Chemistry I
• CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry II

Quantitative-physical science, two units chosen from:
Note: Only one unit of the quantitative-physical science requirement may be satisfied by an introductory statistics class (either MATH 209, PSYC 200, or BIOL 320)

• CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing
• CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
• CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
• CMSC 222 Discrete Structures for Computing with Lab
• MATH 209 Introduction to Statistical Modeling
• MATH 219 Introduction to the Design of Experiments
• MATH 330 Mathematical Statistics
• PHYS 127 General Physics 1 or PHYS 131 General Physics with Calculus I or PHYS 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 2 with lab.
• PHYS 128 General Physics 2 or PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus II or PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics or PHYS 134 Biological Physics
• PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
• BIOL 320 Experimental Design and Biostatistics (may count only for quantitative-physical science requirement or 300 level additional unit in biology, but not both)

Completion of the 2 semester IQS course meets the quantitative-physical science requirement for the BS in Biology

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major/minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the major/minor unless otherwise noted.

For the Bachelor of Arts Degree
11 units, including

• BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 1 with Laboratory or BIOL 192 Science Math and Research Training I with Laboratory
• BIOL 200 Integrated Principles of Biology I
• BIOL 202 Integrated Principles of Biology II
• Five additional units in biology, including at least four approved courses at the 300 level and four with a lab. Students with one unit of research may take three of the five with a lab. The one unit of research may be satisfied by BIOL 350 (taken twice for 0.5 U each), BIOL 395 (1 Unit) or completion of BIOL 406 (summer undergraduate research) or by the dept chair's approval of an external summer research program.
• CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry or CHEM 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or CHEM 192 Science, Math and Research Training II with Laboratory

For both the B.A. and the B.S. degree

Credit may not be earned toward the Biology major for the following combinations of courses due to significant overlap

• BIOL 200 in combination with BIOL 201, BIOL 205, or BIOL 217
• BIOL 202 in combination with BIOL 207, BIOL 217, or BIOL 225

Approved Courses for the Biology Major and Minor

All 200- and 300-level courses may be used to meet major or minor requirements with the following exceptions:

• BIOL 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
• BIOL 350 Undergraduate Research
• BIOL 370 Women In Science
• BIOL 387 Biology Seminar
• BIOL 388 Individual Internship
• BIOL 389 Independent Study
• BIOL 391 Honors Seminar I
• BIOL 392 Honors Seminar II
• BIOL 395 Honors Research

Biochemistry (CHEM 326) may count toward the major or minor as a non-lab 300-level biology course.
Biochemistry with lab (CHEM 327) may count toward the major or minor as a lab-based 300-level biology course.

The Biology Minor

6 units, including

• BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 1 with Laboratory or BIOL 192 Science Math and Research Training with Laboratory I
• BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
• BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II
• Two additional units in Biology, at least one with lab, and at least one at the 300 level elected from approved 300-level courses
• CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry or CHEM 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or CHEM 192 Science, Math, and Research Training II

Credit may not be earned toward the Biology minor for the following combinations of courses due to significant overlap

• BIOL 200 in combination with BIOL 201, BIOL 205, or BIOL 217
• BIOL 202 in combination with BIOL 207, BIOL 217, or BIOL 225

Approved Courses for the Biology Major and Minor

All 200- and 300-level courses may be used to meet major or minor requirements with the following exceptions:

• BIOL 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
• BIOL 350 Undergraduate Research
• BIOL 370 Women In Science
• BIOL 387 Biology Seminar
• BIOL 388 Individual Internship
• BIOL 389 Independent Study
• BIOL 391 Honors Seminar I
• BIOL 392 Honors Seminar II
• BIOL 395 Honors Research

Biochemistry (CHEM 326) may count toward the major or minor as a non-lab 300-level biology course.
Biochemistry with lab (CHEM 327) may count toward the major or minor as a lab-based 300-level biology course.

Honors Program

Students are eligible for the honors program after completing at least 18.5 units of course work (with at least 3.5 units in Biology at the 200 level or higher) and GPAs of 3.3 or higher overall and in Biology. A student may earn honors in biology by completing the following requirements:

1. a minimum GPA of 3.30 in biology and overall;
2. two units BIOL 395 Honors Research (taken for two semesters at 1 unit per semester);
3. one unit of biology in addition to those already required for the major. A grade of B or above in this course would allow it to count towards the honors degree;
4. BIOL 391 Honors Seminar I;
5. BIOL 392 Honors Seminar II; and
6. Honors thesis written under the supervision of a research advisor and presented to the department in an oral presentation.

Students may contact Carrie Wu, Associate Professor of Biology, for more information.

Environmental Studies

Marine and Ecosystem Studies

Opportunities are available to study marine biology or marine and other ecosystems through cooperative agreements with the Duke University Marine Sciences Laboratory (DUML), Beaufort, N.C., and the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., Semester in Environmental Science (MBL-SES). Work taken in the program may be included in the student’s University of Richmond curriculum only with the prior approval and under the direction of the Department of Biology. Students interested in this option are encouraged to apply to the department for further information.

Courses

BIOL 108 Environmental Biology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Basic ecological principles and selected topics in environmental science, including worldwide impact of growing human population, patterns of energy consumption, and issues of water quality, water management, land use, and biological resources. Application of the scientific method will be incorporated in laboratory component. Will not serve as basis of further work in science nor meet entrance requirements for any health profession. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

BIOL 109 Introduction to Ecology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Introduction to causes and consequences of ecological patterns at all scales: individuals, species, communities, and ecosystems. Terrestrial, aquatic, and marine systems are studied, as well as theories and the mathematical and graphical models used to understand them. Some labs require work outside. Will not serve as basis for further work in science nor meet entrance requirements for any health profession. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Same as Environmental Studies 109.

BIOL 111 Marine Biology of the Chesapeake Bay
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Introduction to the ecology and biological diversity of the Chesapeake Bay and its watershed. Environmental issues facing the bay will be explored through direct data collection, observation, and hands-on activities. This is a service-learning course and students will join local 5th-grade classrooms to help teach elementary students about the bay. Will not serve as basis for further work in science nor meet entrance requirements for any health profession. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Same as Environmental Studies 111.

BIOL 120 Modern Concepts in Biology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Scientific reasoning as applied in biology. Different sections may address different topics, but each one will study the nature of evidence and how knowledge is gained in biology through diligent observation or controlled experimentation. Assumes completion of high school chemistry and biology. Designed for students not majoring in the sciences. Does not satisfy biology requirements for graduate school or the health professions. Repeatable for credit if topics differ. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science I with Laboratory
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
One of two courses taught fall semester as part of Integrated Quantitative Science program. Will integrate topics from Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Math and Computer Science and will include instructors from all five disciplines. Each semester of the course will be organized around a guiding principle that integrates several concepts. Along with co-requisite, will include ten hours for lecture and lab combination.
Prerequisites

BIOL 192 Science, Math and Research Training I
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Year-long course provides an, interdisciplinary, integrated introduction to biology and chemistry, with an accompanying integrated lab. Based on the material in the first course of the major in each of these disciplines, this course will focus on current scientific problems facing today's world such as HIV/AIDS or antibiotic resistance. The course is team taught by two faculty members, one from each discipline. Teaching will be integrated so that links between concepts are readily apparent and students are stimulated to think beyond traditional science methodology. The laboratory will be comprised of hands-on and investigation based experiences using both experimental and computer simulation approaches. The SMART course is designed for students considering a major in either biology or chemistry and also meets requirements for students who go on to study medicine or other health sciences fields. To be taken in consecutive semesters in the first year and with an accompanying year-long calculus course. Completion of the full year of SMART (CHEM 192) will substitute for CHEM141 and BIOL 199. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
An introduction to how biologists pose questions, design experiments, analyze data, evaluate evidence, and communicate scientific information. Individual sections will have different topics and formats, but all sections will involve intensive student-directed investigation and include a laboratory component. Required for prospective biology majors and biochemistry and molecular biology majors. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Same as ENVR 199.

BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
Units: 1
Description
First of two-part series on the fundamental principles of biology. Examines genetics, cellular and molecular biology, and physiology within the context of biological evolution. Builds upon the competencies and skills learned in BIOL 199. Serves as preparation for upper level biology courses and beyond. Intended for majors in biology and biochemistry and molecular biology. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
(BIOL 199 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or CHEM 112) and [CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192 (CHEM may be taken concurrently)]

BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II
Units: 1
Description
Second of two-part series on the fundamental principles of biology. Examines organismal physiology and ecology within the context of biological evolution. Builds upon the competencies and skills learned in BIOL 199 and 200 Serves as preparation for upper level biology courses and beyond. Intended for majors in biology and biochemistry and molecular biology. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 200

BIOL 206 Cell Structure and Function SA
Units: 1.5
Description
Introduction to general aspects of animal cell structure and associated physiology. Overview of cell shape and form, and cell and tissue types, along with intracellular organelles. Investigates the function cell membranes in maintaining homeostasis. Investigates in more detail the cellular function of nerve, muscle, and blood cells, and signaling by endocrine and immune system cells. Taught at the University of St. Andrews, Scotland. Fall semester only.

Prerequisites (BIOL190 or BIOL192 or BIOL199 or CHEM112) and (CHEM141 or CHEM191 or CHEM192)

BIOL 207 Ecology
Units: 1
Description
Examines forces that shape the patterns of species interactions, abundance and distribution. Three lecture and three laboratory hours a week plus overnight field trips.

Prerequisites BIOL190 or BIOL192 or BIOL199 or CHEM112 or CHEM141 or CHEM191 or CHEM192 or ENVR 201

BIOL 216 Botany
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Diversity, structure, growth, physiology, and reproduction of photosynthetic organisms. Three lecture and three laboratory hours a week.

Prerequisites BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or CHEM 112 or ENVR 201 or permission of instructor

BIOL 220 Human Physiology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
A study of the human nervous, sensory, skeletal muscle, cardiovascular, respiratory, renal, gastrointestinal, endocrine, and reproductive systems. Emphasis will be placed on forging conceptual links between biology at the molecular, cellular, tissue, and organ levels and the function (and dysfunction) of the human body. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites (CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192 and BIOL 200 or BIOL 206) or permission of instructor.

BIOL 225 Evolution
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to biological evolution, including history of field and mechanisms of evolution that result in biological diversification, speciation, extinction, and the fossil record. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites (BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or CHEM 112) and (CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192).

BIOL 229 Microbiology
Units: 1
Description
Microorganisms are everywhere and an integral part of our world. This course introduces a broad range of topics in the field, including microbial cell structure and function, microbial growth and nutrition, unique aspects of microbial metabolism, viruses, microbial ecology, and microbial pathogenesis. The contributions of microbes to the world, both positive and negative, will be highlighted throughout the course. Laboratory investigations will allow students to explore microbiological-based questions. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites (BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199)

BIOL 303 Plant Morphology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Structure, life histories, and phylogeny of major divisions of algae, fungi, and terrestrial plants. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites BIOL 202 or BIOL 206 or BIOL 207, or BIOL 216, or BIOL 225, or BIOL 229 or permission of instructor.

BIOL 305 Plant Anatomy with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Microscopic structure of vascular plants with emphasis on function, development, and evolution. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 202 or CHEM 112 or permission of instructor.

BIOL 306 Systematic Botany with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Identification and classification of vascular plants; emphasis on local flora, principles of systematics. Two lecture and four laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites BIOL 202 or BIOL 206 or BIOL 207 or BIOL 216 or BIOL 225, or BIOL 229 or permission of instructor.

BIOL 307 Advanced Cell and Molecular Biology
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of molecular mechanisms by which cells interact with each other and the environment. Topics include signal transduction, cell cycle regulation, and molecular models of cancer and microbial pathogenesis. Three lecture hours per week.

Prerequisites BIOL 202 or BIOL 206

BIOL 308 Comparative Vertebrate Anatomy with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Comparative anatomy and biology of several systems of organs of representative vertebrates in an evolutionary context. Two lecture and four laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 202 or CHEM 112

BIOL 309 Invertebrate Zoology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Comprehensive study of systematics, morphology, physiology, development, behavior, and ecology of invertebrates, the most abundant animals on the planet.

Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week plus field trips.

Prerequisites

BIOL 190 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 202 or CHEM 112

BIOL 311 Microanatomy with Lab

Units: 1

Description

Microscopic structures and functions of vertebrate tissues and organs. Laboratory emphasizes quantitative light and electron microscopy and computer-assisted image analysis. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites

(BIOL 206 and BIOL 216) or BIOL 202

BIOL 312 Developmental Biology with Lab

Units: 1

Description

Development of animals, concentrating on fertilization and early embryonic development. Emphasizes mechanisms of cell differentiation and pattern formation. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites

BIOL 206 or BIOL 202

BIOL 313 Microbial Pathogenesis with Lab

Units: 1

Description

Exploration of the general mechanisms used by pathogens to cause disease. Topics include entry into the host, attachment to and invasion of host cells, cell and tissue damage, and microbial elimination/dissemination, as well as the techniques used to study these processes. Students will examine these topics in detail in context of several specific pathogens to more thoroughly appreciate the clinical disease that results from infection. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites

BIOL 202 or BIOL 206 or BIOL 229

BIOL 314 Molecular Biology with Lab

Units: 1

Description

Exploration of the molecular mechanism of genome maintenance, expression, and evolution in prokaryotes and eukaryotes. Mechanisms of gene regulation will be emphasized, using primary literature to introduce new discoveries in the field. Topics include transcription and translation regulation, genome editing, and epigenetics. The lab will focus on using modern molecular techniques to address novel questions. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites

BIOL 202 and CHEM 141

BIOL 315 Landscape Ecology

Units: 1

Description

(See Geography 315.)

Prerequisites

BIOL 202

BIOL 316 Biological Imaging with Lab

Units: 1

Description

Laboratory based course in the theory and practice of techniques used to study biological structures. Combines instruction in specimen preparation, light and electron microscopy, and digital image analysis. Will be useful to students who plan to do independent research in cell, molecular, or organismal biology. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites

BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 202 or CHEM 112

BIOL 317 Mechanochemical Cell Biology with Lab

Units: 1

Description

Focuses on the chemical and physical nature of cellular function, and the approaches used to study cells. Topics include biophysical principles, kinetics, macromolecular self-assembly, and the impact of regulatory mechanisms on cellular properties. Laboratory component includes an active research project studying the machinery of cell division, including quantitative microscopy approaches. Three lecture hours and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites

(BIOL 202 or BIOL 206) and (CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192)

BIOL 320 Experimental Design and Biostatistics

Units: 1

Description

Introductory course in designing, analyzing, and interpreting biological experiments. This course is structured to develop students¿ understanding of when to apply different quantitative methods, how to implement those methods using statistical software, and how to effectively communicate the analyses. Topics include summary statistics, distributions, randomization, replication, parametric and nonparametric tests. Additional topics may include multivariate methods, randomization tests, and Bayesian statistics.

Prerequisites

[BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 and (BIOL 207 or BIOL 225)] OR BIOL 202

BIOL 321 Strategies of Sex and Death

Units: .5-1

Description

Exploration of life history theory, which explores how natural selection shapes an organism's ability to achieve reproductive success. The course will consider how extrinsic and intrinsic factors (e.g., mortality caused by environmental factors, trade-offs, constraints) affect survival and reproduction. Students will be introduced to "optimality thinking" through a variety of theoretical and empirical approaches. Adaptations in age and size at maturity, the number and size of offspring, reproductive lifespan, and aging will be considered.

Prerequisites

BIOL 202

BIOL 324 Molecular Virology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the molecular biology of viruses. Topics include virus entry, viral gene expression, genome replication, assembly, and exit. Each step of the viral life cycle will be illustrated through examples of well-studied viruses, accompanied by primary literature readings. Laboratory involves development of a virologist skill set and designing and carrying out self-directed experiments. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206. CHEM 326 or CHEM 327 are recommended.

BIOL 325 Molecular Evolution with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to molecular evolution with focus on genome structure, mutation selection and random genetic drift at molecular level. Evolution by gene duplication, exon shuffling and transposition. Lab focuses on cloning and recombinant DNA techniques. Strong lab component, two lecture and four laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 202 or CHEM 112

BIOL 326 Biochemistry
Units: 1
Description
(See Chemistry 326.)
Prerequisites
CHEM 206.

BIOL 328 Vertebrate Zoology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Comprehensive survey of vertebrate classes emphasizing phylogenetic theory, natural history, behavior, and ecology. Two lecture and four laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 202 or
CHEM 112

BIOL 331 Molecular Ecology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Examines how molecular genetic techniques are used to study ecological and evolutionary processes in natural populations. Relying heavily on the primary literature, explores methods for evaluating population genetic structure, studying the adaptation of organisms to changing environments, and assessing quantitative predictions from ecological and evolutionary theory. Applied topics covered include molecular identification, hybridization, conservation genetics, transgene escape, the evolution of invasive species, and environmental genomics. The laboratory will emphasize experimental design and training in molecular techniques commonly used in molecular ecology. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or [BIOL 207 or BIOL 225]. BIOL 201 is recommended.

BIOL 332 Tropical Marine Biology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to marine biology and other oceanographic disciplines using tropical marine habitats as specific examples. Three lecture hours per week and laboratory portion composed of field trips and exercises including spring break field experience in Caribbean (extra fee required).
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 207 or BIOL 225.

BIOL 333 Microbial Ecology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Community dynamics play an important role in organismal interactions. Examines the role of microorganisms in terrestrial, freshwater, and marine habitats, as well as animal-plant systems. The laboratory will emphasize molecular techniques used to study microorganisms in situ and includes independent research project. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202, or BIOL 206, or BIOL 207, or BIOL 216, or
BIOL 225, or BIOL 229

BIOL 334 Oceanography with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Integrated introduction to biological, geological, chemical, and physical oceanography. Multidisciplinary approach to ocean processes. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week, plus field trips.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202, or BIOL 206, or BIOL 207, or BIOL 216, or
BIOL 225, or BIOL 229

BIOL 335 Structural Biology
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the study of molecular structures of macromolecules using techniques such as X-ray crystallography, molecular dynamics simulations, and electron microscopy. Covers mathematical theory behind X-ray and electron diffraction phenomena and computational modeling of macromolecules. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
(CHEM 326 or 327) and PHYS 132

BIOL 336 Eco-epidemiology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Explores various ways environmental heterogeneity influences disease risk in humans, with specific emphasis on diseases harbored by wildlife species and transmitted by arthropod vectors. Molecular, field-based, computational, and geospatial approaches to characterizing and studying infectious disease dynamics. Readings draw heavily from primary scientific literature. Development of research ideas and implementation of group investigations. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
[BIOL 206 and (BIOL 207 or BIOL 225)] or BIOL 202

BIOL 338 Comparative Animal Physiology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to major characteristics of animal function at level of whole organism and component structures and organ systems. Emphasis on physiological function and processes related to survival in natural environment. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206
BIOL 339 Physiology of Marine Organisms
Units: 1
Description
Physiological adaptations, including osmoregulation, respiration, diving physiology, and temperature regulation of organisms to marine environments, such as estuaries, the open ocean, and deep sea. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202

BIOL 340 Introduction to Immunology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Overview of immunology. Current theories and their explanation of pertinent contemporary issues included. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206

BIOL 341 Animal Physiological Ecology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to animal physiological adaptation to the natural environment. Emphasis will be on physiological responses of animals to both biotic and abiotic factors and interaction with ecology and population dynamics of species. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202

BIOL 343 Neurobiology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Broad course focusing on study of neurons and neuronal systems. Topics to be explored include the neuron and its mechanisms for the transmission of signals, neuronal organization, sensory perception, integration, behavioral output, development, and basic neurogenetics. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206

BIOL 344 Behavioral Ecology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to analysis of behavior of organisms, including humans, by study of how behavior affects survival and reproduction. Behaviors studied include foraging, aggression, cooperation, and reproduction. Verbal, graphical, and mathematical models to describe and predict behavior are studied and tested. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week; may include overnight field trips.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202, BIOL 207 or BIOL 225

BIOL 345 Cellular Neurophysiology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
The study of how nerve cells generate electrical excitability and use changes in excitability to communicate information in the nervous system. The basic principles of how ion channels and receptors operate will be studied and applied to their physiological function in nerve cells including networks of nerve cells and nerve-muscle communication. The key principles of channel and receptor function will be determined by students in laboratory exercises using contemporary electrophysiological instrumentation. Advanced topics such as the modulation of channel and receptor function, disease-causing mutations, and the molecular mechanisms of synaptic plasticity will also be studied. The course culminates in student-led investigations of a special topic, designed and completed by research teams. Two lecture and four laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206

BIOL 346 Medical Entomology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Introduces students to biology of medically important arthropods, life cycles of transmitted pathogens, disease symptoms and epidemiology. Discusses the economic and social impact of these arthropods and strategies for their control; covers unorthodox points of intersection between entomology and medical sciences, including psychiatry, surgery and forensic medicine.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206

BIOL 350 Undergraduate Research
Units: 0.5
Description
Independent research conducted with faculty supervision. May be repeated eight times for credit.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

BIOL 351 Special Topics
Units: 0.5-1
Description
Special course areas covered when sufficient interest exists. Considers subject matter not covered in other biology courses. Three lecture hours per week. Some topics will include three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or CHEM 112 or BIOL 202

BIOL 352 Evolutionary Developmental Biology with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Study of how evolution occurs through inherited changes during the embryonic development of organisms. The genetic basis of animal diversity will be studied by examining conserved molecular, cellular, and developmental processes. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202
BIOL 354 Biological Basis of Neurodegenerative Diseases with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Examines the biological mechanisms that underlie human neurodegenerative diseases. Also examines the genetic, molecular, and cellular mechanisms of diseases like Alzheimer, Huntington, and Parkinson diseases by discovering how normal biological processes fail and lead to neuronal death. Also examines the biological basis of potential cures. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 206

BIOL 370 Women in Science
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Critical analysis of involvement of women in science, including the history of participation of women in science; trends and barriers to full participation in science, including real and perceived differences in the biology of the scientist; objectivity/subjectivity in science; and feminist analyses of science. Continuing dialogue on how science is done and impact that feminist scholarship has had on this dialogue. Class research project will be conducted. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Students must have fulfilled their Fields of Study-Natural Science requirement or have permission from the instructor.

BIOL 380 Philosophical Issues in Evolutionary Biology
Units: 1
Description
Philosophical problems within evolutionary biology and its influence on society. Issues studied include how natural selection works, evolution and human behaviors, and the influence of evolutionary theory on our ethical and legal codes. Lecture/seminar format, with student presentations and term paper. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 207 or BIOL 225

BIOL 381 Advanced Topics in Ecology
Units: 1
Description
Discussion-based course exploring the development of ecological theories in scientific literature from the foundations of the discipline through contemporary research and cutting-edge approaches. Readings draw from contemporary and foundational scientific research articles; critical analysis and discussion of the methods, data, and ideas found in each paper. Culminates in the development of one or more synthetic projects such as a synthesis paper that approaches current and historical thinking on a foundational ecological theory, and or a team-developed educational lab module that could hypothetically be used to teach undergraduate ecology students. The specific topical content of this course will vary by semester.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202 or BIOL 207

BIOL 382 Conservation Biology
Units: 1
Description
Study of biological diversity (species, habitats, ecosystems) and efforts to conserve it. Specific topics may include ecological models of population regulation, coexistence, maximum sustainable harvest rates and minimum viable population size. Study of local, national and/or international policies for the conservation of biodiversity. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 202.

BIOL 383 Tropical Biology and Conservation
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to principles of tropical biology and conservation, including historical and economic components. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199 or BIOL 202 or CHEM 112

BIOL 387 Biology Seminar
Units: .25
Description
Regular attendance in program seminars and written analysis of presentations. May be repeated for credit, normally taken in junior year. Meets one hour per week.
Prerequisites
Instructor approval

BIOL 388 Individual Internship
Units: .5
Description
Supervised independent work under field conditions. Designed to give student applied experience in biological specialty. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Biology, biochemistry and molecular biology, or environmental studies major at junior or senior rank and instructor approval.

BIOL 389 Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
An in-depth study of biological topics not included in other courses. Students work independently, but under the supervision of a faculty member. Must be approved by department chair and instructor.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

BIOL 390 Advances in Biology
Units: .5
Description
Engages students with discoveries at the boundaries of traditional biology disciplines and examine the kinds of questions researchers ask about living systems. The course builds upon foundational concepts in introductory biology courses and studies research fields for which an interdisciplinary approach is needed to advance our understanding. No individual topic may be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites

BIOL 202

BIOL 391 Honors Seminar I

Units: .25

Description

Special topics for junior and senior students with emphasis on topics presented in the Biology Seminar Series. One lecture hour per week.

Prerequisites

Permission of instructor.

BIOL 392 Honors Seminar II

Units: .25

Description

Special topics for junior and senior honors candidates. One lecture hour per week.

Prerequisites

Permission of instructor.

BIOL 395 Honors Research

Units: 1

Description

Laboratory or field-centered independent study. May be taken twice for credit.

Prerequisites

Permission of instructor.

BIOL 406 Summer Undergraduate Research

Units: 0

Description

Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.

Prerequisites

Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

For the Bachelor of Arts degree

12 units, including

CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192, Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis or Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or Science, Math and Research Training II

CHEM 205-CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry

CHEM 300 Measurement Statistics

CHEM 301 Quantitative Methods of Chemical Analysis

CHEM 309 and CHEM 314 or CHEM 310 and CHEM 315 Physical Chemistry

CHEM 317 Inorganic Chemistry

CHEM 322 Junior Seminar

CHEM 421-CHEM 422 Senior Seminar

One additional 1-unit upper-level course in chemistry (other than CHEM 320 or CHEM 321)

MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II or Scientific Calculus II

PHYS 127 or PHYS 131 General Physics I

One unit in physics, chosen from

PHYS 132 General Physics II

PHYS 133 Atomic and Subatomic Physics

PHYS 134 Biological Physics

Participation in undergraduate research is encouraged as an important part of the program.

For the Bachelor of Science degree

13.5-14.5 units, including

CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192, Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis or Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or Science, Math and Research Training II

CHEM 205-CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry

CHEM 300 Measurement Statistics

CHEM 301 Quantitative Methods of Chemical Analysis

CHEM 309 and CHEM 314 Physical Chemistry I and Laboratory

CHEM 310 and CHEM 315 Physical Chemistry II and Laboratory

CHEM 317 Inorganic Chemistry

CHEM 322 Junior Seminar

CHEM 421-CHEM 422 Senior Seminar

One additional 1-unit upper-level course in chemistry (other than CHEM 320 or CHEM 321)

An approved research experience (CHEM 406 or 1 unit of CHEM 320 or CHEM 220) that culminates in a written report or in a formal presentation outside the Chemistry Department.

MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II or Scientific Calculus II

PHYS 127 or PHYS 131 General Physics I

One unit in physics, chosen from

PHYS 132 General Physics II

PHYS 133 Atomic and Subatomic Physics

PHYS 134 Biological Physics

The Chemistry Major

Note: A grade of not less than C- (1.7) is required in each chemistry course applied to the major.
And for either of the above degrees

Additional upper-level elective courses in chemistry and two full years of either biology or physics are highly recommended.

Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM 141, CHEM 191, or CHEM 192

Please note that CHEM 326 (Biochemistry) and CHEM 327 (Biochemistry with lab) may only count towards a Biology degree (major or minor) or a Chemistry degree (major or minor), not both.

The Chemistry Minor

Note: A grade of not less than C- (1.7) is required in each course in the minor.

6.5 units, including

CHEM 141 or CHEM 191 or CHEM 192, Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis or Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or Science, Math and Research Training II
CHEM 205-CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry
CHEM 317 Inorganic Chemistry
At least 2.5 units of additional course work at the 300 or 400 level. Please note that CHEM 300, research (CHEM 320 or CHEM 321), and seminar (CHEM 322, CHEM 421 and CHEM 422) cannot be used to satisfy coursework for the minor.

Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM 141, CHEM 191, or CHEM 192

Please note that CHEM 326 (Biochemistry) and CHEM 327 (Biochemistry with lab) may only count towards a Biology degree (major or minor) or a Chemistry degree (major or minor), not both.

ACS Certified Degree in Chemistry

Certifications by the department, based on American Chemical Society specifications, require:

For Chemistry Majors

The Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry with the addition of CHEM 326 or CHEM 327. Note that CHEM 326 or CHEM 327 is in addition to, not in place of, the upper-level elective required for the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry. In addition, a written research report must be submitted to the chemistry department and approved by at least two chemistry faculty members or their designees.

For Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Majors

The completion of the Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry and molecular biology and CHEM 317, as well as either CHEM 300/ CHEM 301 or CHEM 302 also meets the certification requirements. Note that CHEM 317, as well as either CHEM 300/CHEM 301 or CHEM 302 are in place of, not in addition to, the upper-level elective required for the Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry and molecular biology. In addition, a written research report must be submitted to the chemistry department and approved by at least two chemistry faculty members or their designees.

Honors Program

Departmental honors in chemistry requires 1) a GPA of 3.3 overall and in the major; 2) completion of the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry with the addition of CHEM 326 (or CHEM 327) and 2 units total of an approved research experience; and 3) a research thesis turned in to the honors coordinator and approved by at least two chemistry faculty members or their designees. (Note that CHEM 326 (or CHEM 327) is in addition to, not in place of, the upper-level elective required for the Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry.)

To obtain honors in chemistry, a student must apply to the University honors program. An application can be submitted through the chemistry honors coordinator after a student has completed 18.5 units total coursework and 3.5 units in chemistry past CHEM 141.

Students may contact the Chemistry Honors Program Coordinator, Dr. Kristine Nolin, for additional information.

Cooperative Program

Engineering Opportunities for University of Richmond students at Virginia Commonwealth University

A fundamental understanding of chemistry, physics, and biology coupled with problem-solving and analytical skills in chemical and life science engineering represents a unique opportunity to position students for broad employment opportunities in chemical process technology and in the rapidly growing areas of biotechnology, bioengineering, and nanoscience. Toward this end, opportunities have been created for University of Richmond students who seek the advantages of a liberal arts education coupled with a strong background in the fundamentals of engineering.

A sequence of four courses offered in the School of Engineering at Virginia Commonwealth University has been approved for University of Richmond students. The requisite math background for this core and for easy transfer into the VCU M.S. program upon graduation is three semesters of calculus and one semester each of differential equations and statistics (which may be satisfied with CHEM 300). A course in computer programming is also required.

The core courses taken at VCU are
CLSE 201 Material Balances (3 semester hours)
CLSE 202 Energy Balances and Engineering Thermodynamics (3 semester hours)
CLSE 301 Transport Phenomena I (3 semester hours)
CLSE 305 Thermodynamics of Phase Equilibria and Chemical Reactions (3 semester hours)

The core courses listed above will be accepted as transfer credit. Up to one unit will count as required elective credit within the chemistry major. For a Richmond student to qualify, the following criteria would have to be met:

- Junior or senior standing at Richmond
- Enrollment in at least 3.5 units at Richmond during each term coursework is taken at VCU
- Minimum GPA of 3.00 at Richmond
- Enrollment in no more than one course at VCU in any given semester
- Prerequisites for elective courses must be completed
- Payment of any lab fees required by VCU
- Acceptance by the School of Engineering at VCU
- Student's registration must be approved in advance by VCU registrar (case-by-case approval)

Courses

CHEM 110 Pollutants in the Environment
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNC)
Description
Sources, behavior, and effects of chemical pollutants in the air, water, and soil. Topics include global warming, ozone depletion, acid rain, pesticides, and radioactive waste. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Does not count toward the chemistry major or minor. Same as Environmental Studies 110.
Prerequisites
None (high school chemistry desirable).

CHEM 111 Chemistry Detectives: Solving Real-World Puzzles
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNC)
Description
A laboratory-based course in which students learn the language and techniques used in industrial and forensic laboratories to conduct organic chemical analysis. Students become "chemistry detectives," able to solve the types of "chemistry puzzles" that are characteristic of the fun part of doing chemistry (e.g. how chemists, such as forensic and pharmaceutical chemists, determine the structure of real-world unknown compounds). A range of applications of this chemistry is discussed, including such topics as environmental, medicinal, polymer, forensic and industrial chemistries, government regulations, natural products, pheromones, and information retrieval. In the process, students will gain hands-on experience using modern instrumentation, including IR, NMR, GC-Mass Spec, and UV-Visible spectroscopy. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Does not count toward the chemistry major or minor.
Prerequisites
High school chemistry or permission of instructor.

CHEM 112 Biochemistry in the Real World
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNC)
Description
The genomics revolution of the last 10 years has given birth to the "proteome," emphasizing the central role that proteins play in virtually all life and death processes. This course will explore central features of what proteins look like and how they perform their varied functions in a variety of biological and chemical processes. These will include aspects of cell differentiation, cell death, and disease states such as cancer, Alzheimer's, and viral infections by Epstein-Barr virus, papillomavirus, and AIDS. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Does not count toward the chemistry major or minor.

CHEM 113 Catching Criminals with Chemistry
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNC)
Description
Investigation of how chemistry can be applied to solving crimes. The nature of physical evidence will be discussed, along with the chemical techniques used to gather and analyze that evidence. The course will also introduce students to the legal aspects surrounding the introduction of evidence into a court of law, thus providing an interdisciplinary focus for those interested in science and law. By combining case studies with applicable technology, students will gain a heightened understanding of the important roles that chemistry plays in forensic science. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. This course does not count towards the chem major or minor.

CHEM 114 The Chemistry of Cooking and Modernist Cuisine
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement FSNC
Description
Improves understanding of the scientific principles of food and cooking. Investigates how scientific principles and techniques have revolutionized the culinary industry. Focuses on the molecular bases of food and their reactivity under various conditions. A hands-on look at applied chemical principles as seen in cooking during three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. One year of High School Chemistry is recommended. This course does not count towards the chemistry major or minor.

CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNC)
Description
Fundamental principles of chemistry, including atomic and molecular structure, bonding, periodicity; chemical reactions, including stoichiometry, acid base chemistry, oxidation-reduction; and an introduction to kinetics and thermodynamics, chemical reactions and, equilibria. Introductory course for science majors and those pursuing degrees in the health sciences. It is a prerequisite for upper-level courses. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. Previous knowledge of chemistry is helpful but not assumed. Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM 141, CHEM 191, or CHEM 192.

CHEM 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory
Units: 1
Description

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
One of two courses taught spring semester as part of Integrated Quantitative Science program. Will integrate topics from Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Math and Computer Science and will include instructors from all five disciplines. Each semester of the course will be organized around a guiding principle that integrates several concepts. Along with co-requisite, will include ten hours for lecture and lab combination. Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM 141, CHEM 191, or CHEM 192.

Prerequisites

CHEM 192 Science, Math and Research Training II
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement FSNC
Description
Year-long course provides an, interdisciplinary, integrated introduction to biology and chemistry, with an accompanying integrated lab. Based on the material in the first course of the major in each of these disciplines, this course will focus on current scientific problems facing today's world such as HIV/AIDS or antibiotic resistance. The course is team taught by two faculty members, one from each discipline. Teaching will be integrated so that links between concepts are readily apparent and students are stimulated to think beyond traditional science methodology. The laboratory will be comprised of hands-on and investigation based experiences using both experimental and computer simulation approaches. The SMART course is designed for students considering a major in either biology or chemistry and also meets requirements for students who go on to study medicine or other health sciences fields. To be taken in consecutive semesters in the first year and with an accompanying year-long calculus course. Completion of the full year of SMART (CHEM 192) will substitute for CHEM141 and BIOL 199. 3 lecture and 3 laboratory hours per week. Students may only receive credit for one of the following: CHEM 141, CHEM 191, or CHEM 192.

Prerequisites
BIOL 192.

CHEM 205 Organic Chemistry I
Units: 1
Description
Chemistry of compounds of carbon, which is fundamental to understanding of both chemistry and biology. Nomenclature, structure-physical property relationships, reactions, reaction mechanisms, spectroscopy and introduction to macromolecules, including those of biological significance. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Chemistry 141 or 191 or 192 with a grade of C- or better.

CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry II
Units: 1
Description
Chemistry of compounds of carbon, which is fundamental to understanding of both chemistry and biology. Nomenclature, structure-physical property relationships, reactions, reaction mechanisms, spectroscopy and introduction to macromolecules, including those of biological significance. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Chemistry 205 with a grade of C or better.

CHEM 220 Projects
Units: .25-.5
Description
Laboratory or community-based learning experience with a faculty member.

CHEM 230 Special Topics in Chemistry
Units: .5-1
Description
Considers subject matter not covered in other chemistry courses. See the chemistry department home page for special topics currently scheduled.

CHEM 300 Measurement Statistics
Units: 1
Description
Overview of statistics of measurements on chemical systems. Includes characteristics of data which contain random error. Statistics used to describe and summarize trends of measured data will be introduced, as well as a number of statistical tools needed to draw meaningful and objective conclusions based on data. Should be taken simultaneously with, or prior to, Chemistry 301. Three lecture hours per week.

CHEM 301 Quantitative Methods of Chemical Analysis
Units: 1.5
Description
Principles and techniques of chemical and instrumental methods used for quantitative analysis. Includes lecture coverage and extensive laboratory use of gravimetric, titrimetric, electrochemical, and spectroscopic methods. Three lecture and four laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Chemistry 300 and 317. Chemistry 300 may be taken concurrently.

CHEM 302 Spectroscopy and Instrumentation
Units: 1.5
Description
Principles and techniques of chemical and instrumental methods used for compound identification. Focus on modern instrumental methods for compound structure elucidation and the principles underlying both the spectroscopic methods and the instrumentation itself. Three lecture and four laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Chemistry 206.

CHEM 303 Separations
Units: 1
Description
Principles, theory, and techniques central to chemical separation sciences--both classical and instrumental methods used for compound separation and purification, as well as factors important to industrial scalability versus nanoscale applications. Focus on modern theories and implementations of instrumental methods for compound separations and principles underlying instrumentation. Three to four hours of lecture and/or laboratory per week.

Prerequisites
Chemistry 301 or 302.
CHEM 308 Statistical Mechanics
Units: 1
Description
(See Physics 308.)

CHEM 309 Physical Chemistry I
Units: 1
Description
Study of the principal laws and theories of chemistry: gas laws and kinetic molecular theory, classical and statistical thermodynamics, wave mechanics and molecular structure, and chemical kinetics. Principles and properties of liquids, solids and solutions, and phase equilibria are also examined along with electrochemistry. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 141 or 191 or 192; Physics 132, 133, or 134; and Mathematics 212 or 232, or permission of instructor.
Chemistry 317 is highly recommended.

CHEM 310 Physical Chemistry II
Units: 1
Description
Study of the principal laws and theories of chemistry: gas laws and kinetic molecular theory, classical and statistical thermodynamics, wave mechanics and molecular structure, and chemical kinetics. Principles and properties of liquids, solids and solutions, and phase equilibria are also examined along with electrochemistry. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 141 or 191 or 192; Physics 132, 133, or 134; and Mathematics 212 or 232, or permission of instructor.
Chemistry 317 is highly recommended.

CHEM 311 Theoretical and Computational Chemistry
Units: 1
Description
Involves the fundamental study of the structure, energetics, and behavior of molecular systems using tools from mathematics, physics, chemistry, and biology as implemented on a computer. Will cover the basics of the field including, but not limited to, molecular mechanics, quantum mechanics, hybrid methods, and docking. These tools can be applied to problems in drug design, protein folding, reaction mechanisms, and prediction of molecular phenomenon, to name a few.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 141 or 191 or 192 and Mathematics 212 or 232

CHEM 312 The Natures of the Chemical Bond
Units: 1
Description
Builds on the bonding ideas introduced in the general and introductory chemistry curriculum. Enables meaningful access to the chemical literature on experimental and computational studies of bonding in molecules and solids for systems spanning the entire periodic table. Spans orbital and atoms-in-molecules models of bonding (with perspectives on functional group), phenomena such as halogen, aurophilic (metallophilic) interactions, aromaticity (organic and inorganic), thermodynamic vs. kinetic stability of compounds, and chemical views on extended solids.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 141, 191 or 192 and Mathematics 212 or 232.

CHEM 313 The Natures of the Chemical Bond
Units: 1
Description
Builds on the bonding ideas introduced in the general and introductory chemistry curriculum. Enables meaningful access to the chemical literature on experimental and computational studies of bonding in molecules and solids for systems spanning the entire periodic table. Spans orbital and atoms-in-molecules models of bonding (with perspectives on functional group), phenomena such as halogen, aurophilic (metallophilic) interactions, aromaticity (organic and inorganic), thermodynamic vs. kinetic stability of compounds, and chemical views on extended solids.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 141, 191 or 192 and Mathematics 212 or 232.

CHEM 314 Physical Chemistry Laboratory I
Units: .5
Description
Experimental course corresponding to Chemistry 309. Covers critical experiments related to the theoretical treatments of gas laws, thermodynamics, and chemical kinetics. Introduction to scientific writing and basic error propagation.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 309

CHEM 315 Physical Chemistry Laboratory II
Units: .5
Description
Experimental course corresponding to Chemistry 310. Covers critical experiments related to the theoretical treatments of quantum mechanics, spectroscopy and to a lesser extent, statistical mechanics.
Prerequisites
CHEM 310 is a co-requisite for CHEM 315.

CHEM 316 Environmental Chemistry
Units: 1
Description
Study of the fate, transport, and distribution of chemicals in the environment. The chemistry of the atmosphere, hydrosphere, and geosphere will be covered, highlighting effects of inorganic and organic pollutants. Topics such as global warming, stratospheric ozone depletion, acid rain, photochemical smog, and groundwater contamination will be discussed in detail. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 205 or permission of instructor.

CHEM 317 Inorganic Chemistry
Units: 1
Description
Inorganic chemistry embraces the chemistry of all of the elements. This course will focus on the synthesis and behavior of inorganic materials. As such, it will include certain aspects of thermodynamics, atomic and molecular bonding theories, kinetics, and electrochemical processes as they pertain to inorganic compounds and materials. Three lecture and four laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 206.

CHEM 320 Introduction to Research
Units: .5-1
Description
Laboratory research experience with a faculty member. Please note that students are not allowed to take both CHEM 320 and CHEM 321 in the same term.

CHEM 321 Advanced Independent Research
Units: .5-1
Description
Advanced laboratory research experience with a faculty member. Students are limited to two units of CHEM 321. Please note that students are not allowed to take both CHEM 320 and CHEM 321 in the same term.
Prerequisites
CHEM 406 or 2 semesters of CHEM 320.

CHEM 322 Junior Seminar

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
CHEM 324 Experimental Biochemistry
Units: .5
Description
Experimental course that will cover critical techniques in biochemistry, including protein purification, enzyme kinetics, and protein structural analysis.
Prerequisites
CHEM 326 (may be taken concurrently)

CHEM 325 Experimental Biophysical Chemistry
Units: .5
Description
Experimental course that will cover critical techniques in biophysical chemistry, including thermodynamics, bioinformatics, and macromolecular function.
Prerequisites
CHEM 309, 326 (326 may be taken concurrently)

CHEM 326 Biochemistry
Units: 1
Description
Structure and chemistry of biologically important macromolecules and chemical processes involved in cellular synthesis, degradation, and assembly of these macromolecules. Three lecture hours and an extra experience per week. (Same as BIOL 326.) Please note that CHEM 326 may be used to satisfy program requirements in only one department. For example, it cannot count as elective credit for both the Biology major (or minor) and a Chemistry major (or minor).
Prerequisites
Chemistry 206.

CHEM 327 Biochemistry with Laboratory
Units: 1
Description
Structure and chemistry of biologically important macromolecules and chemical processes involved in cellular synthesis, degradation, and assembly of these macromolecules. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week. This course is restricted to students who are Biochemistry and Molecular Biology majors or obtain permission from the instructor. Please note that CHEM 327 may be used to satisfy program requirements in only one department/program. For example, it cannot count toward the BMB major and also be used as an elective for the Chemistry or Biology major or minor.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 206.

CHEM 329 Protein Structure, Function and Biophysics
Units: 1
Description
Advanced topics in protein structure, function, and biophysics. Comprises brief treatment of essential elements of kinetics, thermodynamics, and quantum mechanics necessary for a thorough understanding of topics to be presented later and continues with detailed coverage of enzyme kinetics and ligand binding, chemical modification, site-directed mutagenesis, x-ray crystallography, spectroscopic techniques used to investigate conformation, and the folding of proteins, including Circular Dichroism, Fluorescence and NMR; and computational approaches used to compute and visualize both structure and reaction. Second half of course focuses on three classes of proteins and associated themes: 1) kinases, phosphatases, and regulation, 2) proteases and processes and 3) oligomeric enzymes and allosteric models. Three lecture and three laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 327.

CHEM 330 Special Topics in Biochemistry
Units: .5-1
Description
Special course areas in biochemistry will be covered when sufficient interest exists. Considers subject matter not covered in other chemistry courses. See the chemistry or biochemistry and molecular biology department home pages for special topics currently scheduled.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 326 or 327 or Biology 200.

CHEM 332 Molecular Spectroscopy
Units: 1
Description
Covers the major forms of molecular spectroscopy including vibrational-rotational spectroscopy of diatomic molecules, rotational spectroscopies of polyatomic molecules, vibration of polyatomic molecules, electronic spectroscopy and nuclear magnetic spectroscopy. Particular attention will be paid to the quantum mechanical theory of each of these forms of spectroscopy, especially time-dependent perturbation theoretical approaches. In addition, emphasis will be placed on the full range of structural and dynamical information that can be extracted from each type of spectrum.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 310.

CHEM 342 Medicinal Chemistry
Units: 1
Description
Provides basic principles of the drug discovery process. Topics include general considerations, mode of action, quantitative structure activity relationships, absorption, distribution, metabolism, and inactivation of medicinal agents. In addition, major drug classes will be presented along with specific case studies for each category. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 206.

CHEM 343 Organic Reactions and Mechanisms
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics may include reaction mechanisms, physical organic chemistry concepts, the development of catalysts for organic reactions, stereochemically controlled reactions, and/or the application of inorganic chemistry to organic reactions. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
CHEM 206.
CHEM 344 Organic Synthesis
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics may include modern synthetic methods, organic reaction mechanisms, examples of syntheses from recent literature, and the design of synthetic approaches to target molecules of interest. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 206.

CHEM 401 Quantum Mechanics
Units: 1
Description
(See PHYS 309-PHYS 310.) Please note that CHEM 401 (PHYS 309) may be used to satisfy program requirements in only one department. For example, it cannot count toward both a Physics major (or minor) and a Chemistry major (or minor).

CHEM 402 Quantum Mechanics
Units: 1
Description
(See PHYS 309-PHYS 310.) Please note that CHEM 402 (PHYS 310) may be used to satisfy program requirements in only one department. For example, it cannot count toward both a Physics major (or minor) and a Chemistry major (or minor).

CHEM 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

CHEM 417 Organometallic Chemistry
Units: 1
Description
Overview of the structure, reactivity, and applications of organometallic compounds. Topics include main group and transition metal complexes, catalysis, applications to organic synthesis, and bioorganometallic chemistry. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 317 or permission of instructor.

CHEM 419 Advanced Inorganic Chemistry
Units: 1
Description
Study of principles of chemistry involved in bonding, structure, properties and reactions of main group transition metal, coordination and organometallic compounds with emphasis on periodic trends, thermodynamic, and kinetic factors and symmetry. Three lecture hours per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 309 and 317 (309 may be taken concurrently).

CHEM 421 Senior Seminar
Units: 0
Description
Participation in departmental seminar program, to include regular attendance and one presentation during one of the two semesters. Presentation will include both written and oral component, each prepared on specific topic in chemistry. One class hour per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 322 or Biology 387.

CHEM 422 Senior Seminar
Units: .5
Description
Participation in departmental seminar program, to include regular attendance and one presentation during one of the two semesters. Presentation will include both written and oral component, each prepared on specific topic in chemistry. One class hour per week.
Prerequisites
Chemistry 421.

CHEM 427 Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
In-depth exploration of subjects not included in other courses, done independently but under faculty member's supervision.
Prerequisites
Four semesters of chemistry and permission of instructor.

CHEM 433 Special Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Special course areas covered when sufficient interest exists. Considers subject matter not covered in other chemistry courses. See chemistry department home page (chemistry.richmond.edu) for special topics currently scheduled.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

Chinese Studies Program

Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures
Jessica Chan, Section Coordinator
Assistant Professors Chan, Gao
Affiliated Faculty: Geaney (Religion), Loo (History)

This section contains information specific to courses taught in Chinese. Other courses relevant to the Chinese Studies major/minor are listed under Languages, Literatures, and Cultures (LLC). For full information regarding departmental policies relevant to all LLC programs, study abroad, and course sequencing, see the main page of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

The Chinese Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).
9 courses including:
At least 4 language courses chosen from the following, one of which must be a 400-level course:

- CHIN 301 Advanced Intermediate Chinese
- CHIN 315 Myths and Parables in Chinese Literature and Film
- CHIN 401 Topics in Advanced Chinese I
- CHIN 402 Topics in Advanced Chinese II
- CHIN 410 Business Chinese
- CHIN 497 Selected Topics

Five elective courses chosen from the list below, including 2 MLC electives in conjunction with CLAC in Chinese. Up to 2 language courses at or above the 300-level may be counted as electives.

- HIST 250 Modern East Asia 1600-1960
- HIST 251 Chinese Revolutions
- HIST 252 China Modern: 1900-1940
- HIST 341 History and Memory: WWII in East Asia
- LLC 225 Chinese Culture and Civilization
- LLC 227 The Action Genre in East Asian Cinema
- LLC 325 Revolution and Modernity in Chinese Literature
- LLC 355 Chinese Cinema
- PLSC 345 Politics of China, Hong Kong, and Taiwan
- PLSC 357 International Relations of East Asia
- PLSC 358 The U.S. and Asia's Great Powers
- RELG 253 Body/Sex in World Religious Literature
- RELG 255 Queers in Religion
- RELG 350 Dao of Sex
- RELG 355 Selected Asian Religions

Students MUST complete an approved study abroad experience as part of the Chinese Studies major. The study abroad experience can be fulfilled through a summer study abroad program associated with the University of Richmond, or other summer or semester programs in Chinese universities approved by the Chinese Studies faculty.

Students must take one 400-level course in Chinese at the University of Richmond after they return from abroad.

Students can transfer up to five courses to fulfill their Chinese Studies major requirements.

Cross-School Major in Chinese Studies and International Business

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

- 9 courses and an interdisciplinary research project (IDST 379), in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including
- CHIN 410: Business Chinese, and
- FOUR courses at the 300-level or above, chosen from
  - CHIN 301 Advanced Intermediate Chinese
  - CHIN 302 Conversational Chinese
  - CHIN 311 Insights into Chinese Culture
  - CHIN 401 Topics in Advanced Chinese I
  - CHIN 402 Topics in Advanced Chinese II
  - CHIN 497 Selected Topics

One semester full-time study in China or Taiwan at an approved university.

The cross-school major in Chinese Studies and International Business represents a collaborative project between the Department of Modern Literatures and Cultures and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions (for example, Tsinghua University in Beijing or National Chengchi University in Taiwan). There, students will continue their course work in Chinese Studies and business in classes with both local and other international students.

To prepare for the experience abroad, students must have taken CHIN 202 or the equivalent. Upon returning to the University of Richmond, they will broaden their knowledge of literary and cultural studies through advanced seminars as well as additional Robins School of Business coursework. The Chinese component of this program thus consists of five courses at the 300-level or above taken on campus plus four courses taken abroad, or the equivalent of a nine-course major in LLC.

The Chinese Studies Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

5 courses including

At least 2 language courses at the 300-level or above

3 elective courses from the list below. Up to 2 language courses at or above the 300-level may be counted as electives.

- HIST 250 Modern East Asia 1600-1960
- HIST 251 Chinese Revolutions
- HIST 252 China Modern: 1900-1940
- HIST 341 History and Memory: WWII in East Asia
- LLC 225 Chinese Culture and Civilization
- LLC 227 The Action Genre in East Asian Cinema
- LLC 325 Revolution and Modernity in Chinese Literature
- LLC 355 Chinese Cinema
- PLSC 345 Politics of China, Hong Kong, and Taiwan
- PLSC 357 International Relations of East Asia
- RELG 253 Body/Sex in World Religious Literature
- RELG 255 Queers in Religion
- RELG 350 Dao of Sex
- RELG 355 Selected Asian Religions

Students must take one 400-level course in Chinese at the University of Richmond after they return from abroad.

Students can transfer up to five courses to fulfill their Chinese Studies minor requirements. Minors are strongly encouraged to take at least one 300 or 400-level language course on campus after studying abroad. Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Study Abroad

For students of Chinese, the department offers a summer study program in China. Semester or year study abroad at our partner institutions in Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Beijing is encouraged. For a complete list of study abroad options, contact the Office of International Education.

Courses

CHIN 101 Elementary Chinese
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to standard Mandarin in cultural context; development of skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing.

CHIN 102 Elementary Chinese
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to standard Mandarin in cultural context; development of skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing.
Prerequisites
CHIN 101.

CHIN 201 Intermediate Chinese
Units: 1
Description
Reinforcement and expansion of skills in speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Appreciation of Chinese culture.
Prerequisites
CHIN 102.

CHIN 202 Intermediate Chinese
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement COM2
Description
Reinforcement and expansion of skills in speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Appreciation of Chinese culture.
Prerequisites
CHIN 201.

CHIN 301 Advanced Intermediate Chinese
Units: 1
Description
A continuation of Chinese 202. Focuses on the further development of the four language skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing.
Prerequisites
CHIN 202.

CHIN 315 Myths and Parables in Chinese Literature and Film
Units: 1
Description
Advanced intermediate language course. Integrates language with pre-modern Chinese culture and philosophy by introducing students to Chinese myths, parables, and popular beliefs. Through close reading of selected tales written entirely in Chinese, introduces the core of Chinese thought: Confucianism (yujia), Taoism (daojia), and Buddhism (fojia). Viewing of modern and contemporary film adaptations of supernatural tales such as animation films that are based on the novel Journey to the West. Taught in Chinese. All films are subtitled in Chinese and English.
Prerequisites
CHIN 301.

CHIN 388 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
Internship experiences outside of the department in fields related to Chinese studies. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

CHIN 389 Practice Assistantship
Units: .25
Description
Students lead practice sessions associated with the elementary and intermediate language sequence in Chinese. The practice assistantship does not count as credit toward the major or minor. Up to one unit can be applied toward graduation credit.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

CHIN 401 Topics in Advanced Chinese I
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of themes and issues in contemporary Chinese culture including social issues, popular culture, traditions, politics, and history providing a range of views across culture boundaries.
Prerequisites
One 300-level course in Chinese or permission of instructor

CHIN 402 Advanced Chinese II
Units: 1
Description
Further refines Chinese syntax and develops academic writing skills sufficient to complete a research project in Chinese.
Prerequisites
CHIN 401 or permission of instructor

CHIN 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

CHIN 410 Business Chinese
Units: 1
Description
Designed for students who are interested in learning business Chinese. Focusing on topics of international business and foreign trade, the course offers advanced training in vocabulary, grammar, and rhetoric. The aim is to equip students with necessary language skills to function in the business world related to China.

Prerequisites
CHIN 402 or permission of instructor.
CHIN 495 Independent Study
Units: .5-1

Description
Special projects individually pursued under supervision of faculty member.

Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

CHIN 497 Selected Topics
Units: 1

Description
Special interest topics offered at department's discretion. Recent topics include contemporary readings in culture, literature and history; and romance.

Prerequisites
CHIN 301 or permission of instructor.

Classical Studies

Julie Laskaris, Chair
Professor Simpson
Associate Professors Bangham, Laskaris, Stevenson
Assistant Professor Damer

The Department of Classical Studies offers majors and minors in classical civilization, Greek language and literature and Latin language and literature.

The Department of Classical Studies also offers three combined majors with the English department. The combined programs in classics and English, Greek and English, and Latin and English are intended for students who wish to pursue in-depth work in both the classical and the English literary traditions.

The Classical Civilization Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

9 units, including

CLSC 305 Greek and Roman Values or CLSC 306 The Classical Tradition
CLCV 498 Major Seminar

Seven units selected from courses offered by the Department of Classical Studies or approved courses in related fields

The Classical Civilization Minor

Note: No course grade below C- (1.7) will count toward the minor.

Five units selected from courses offered by the Department of Classical Studies (excluding courses in Greek and Latin) or approved courses in related fields, of which three must be in the Department of Classical Studies.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major or minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the major or minor unless otherwise noted.

Approved Courses in Related Fields for the Classical Civilization Major or Minor

ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
ARTH 121 Survey I: Prehistory through the Middle Ages
ARTH 211 Byzantine Art and Architecture

RHCS 323 Classical Rhetoric
RHCS 325 Medieval to Modern Rhetorics

Other courses considered at the coordinator's discretion.

Required Course for the Classical Civilization Major

CLCV 498 Major Seminar
Units: 1

Description
Methodologies appropriate to the study of classical civilization and the writing of a research paper.

Prerequisites
Permission of department.

Courses Offered in English for Classical Civilization, Major and Minor

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
CLSC 101 Classical Mythology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
Introduces students to the myths of the ancient Greeks and Romans and to some of the modern theoretical and interpretive approaches (e.g., historical, religious, psychoanalytic, anthropological) to the study of myths in ancient literature.

CLSC 102 Classical Elements in the English Language
Units: 1
Description
A study of how Latin and Greek have contributed to English vocabulary -- basic, learned, and technical. In addition to developing the skill of seeing within English words meaningful prefixes, roots, and suffixes, topics of interest include the history of English, the expansion of English vocabulary via borrowing and neologism, and the ways words' meanings may change over time.

CLSC 201 Classical Elements in the English Language
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
Selected mythic themes in Greek and Roman epic literature from Homer to Ovid. Emphasis on myths prominent in Western literature.

CLSC 205 Greek and Roman Mythology: Epic
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
Selected mythic themes in Greek and Roman epic literature from Homer to Ovid. Emphasis on myths prominent in Western literature.

CLSC 207 Greek Magic
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSHT)
Description
Exploration of magic as a means to understanding and affecting the natural world. Major topics include erotic magic, dreams and divination, ritual purification, sacred plants, and healing.

CLSC 208 Mythology: Greek Drama
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
Study of myths preserved in Greek dramas, and historical and literary analysis of these plays.

CLSC 210 A History of Early Medicine
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSHT)
Description
Medical concepts and practices of several ancient peoples of the Aegean and Mediterranean, with a focus on the Greeks and Romans. The development of medicine in Western, Byzantine, Islamic, and Arabic traditions is traced into modern times.

CLSC 212 Dining and Drinking in Classical Antiquity
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
A social history of eating and drinking in the ancient Mediterranean world, from communal religious feasts to private banquets. Using primary ancient sources (literary texts, artistic representations, and archaeological finds), examines the roles of dining and drinking in ancient societies and social ideologies.

CLSC 220 Introduction to Archaeology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
What can we learn about people and societies, past and present, from their material remains? Introduces archaeological method and theory, with special focus on sites of the ancient Mediterranean basin.

CLSC 301 Greek Art and Archaeology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
A survey of architecture, sculpture, ceramics, and painting in the Greek world, from the Bronze Age through the Classical period, and an exploration of how art and buildings functioned in Greek society. Introduces students to basic methods of analyzing and interpreting archaeological remains.

CLSC 302 Roman Art and Archaeology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
A survey of Roman art and architecture from the early republic through the late empire, and throughout the Roman world, from Spain to Syria. Explores the meanings of 'style' in Roman art and the social and political significance of Roman sculpture, painting, and architecture.

CLSC 304 The Feminine in Greco-Roman Literature
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSILT)
Description
Concept of the feminine as seen in major works of Greek and Roman poetry, prose, and drama.

CLSC 305 Greek and Roman Values
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSHT)
Description
Investigation of ancient Greco-Roman values -- artistic, religious, political, and personal -- as found in an eclectic survey of primary texts.

CLSC 306 The Classical Tradition
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSHT)
Description
Legacy of classical Greece and Rome in Medieval, Renaissance, and modern worlds.

CLSC 308 Women in Greece and Rome
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Structure of Greek and Roman societies based on analysis of the position of women within them. Comparison with other disenfranchised groups, particularly ethnic minorities.

CLSC 312 The Land of Hellas: Ancient Topography-Modern Legacy
Units: 1
Description
(Summer only; taught abroad.) Study of ancient remains of Bronze Age and Classical Greece and their role as a binding force for the ethnic and national identity of the modern country.

CLSC 320 Cultural Property: Archaeology, Ethics, and Law
Units: 1
Description
Who owns the past? Exploration of current issues of archaeological ethics and cultural heritage management. Topics may range from the ancient history of looting and appropriation to the illicit antiquities market and site preservation today, and how local and international property and tax laws affect collecting practices. Class presentations and research papers explore these legal and ethical issues through specific case studies, primarily from the Mediterranean region.

CLSC 321 Archaeology of the Middle East
Units: 1
Description
Art and cultures of the ancient Middle East, from the dawn of civilization to the age of Alexander, with a primary focus on Mesopotamia, Anatolia, and Syro-Palestine. While surveying the ancient sites and monuments of these regions of the Middle East, we will also consider how cultural heritage has played a role in the history of archaeology and the creation of modern identities, and how it may be used in varying ways today as 'cultural capital.'

CLSC 329 The Ancient World in Cinema
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
Examines cinematic representations of the ancient Greek and Roman Mediterranean, viewed through a variety of literary and cinematic genres in European and American cinema of the 20th Century. The films offer an opportunity to reflect on how our various modern visions of (and desires for) the ancient world illuminate the present as much as they animate the past. Students will read selections from Greek and Roman history and poetry (in translation) in conjunction with weekly viewings and written assignments; secondary readings will be drawn from contemporary film criticism and theory.

CLSC 388 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
Supervised independent work. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

CLSC 398 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
Topics or themes in Classics.

CLSC 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

CLSC 499 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Content suited to the requirements and interests of student, chosen by student and faculty director in advance of the semester in which the independent study is to be done.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

Cognitive Science
L. Elizabeth Crawford, Coordinator (Psychology)
Cognitive science is the interdisciplinary study of the structures and functions of the human mind. Cognitive science investigates such topics as our sensory/perceptual apparatus, including vision, audition, olfaction; internal mental processes such as language, thinking, reasoning, and problem solving; motor control and the organization of skilled behavior such as speech and musical performance; memory; consciousness; attention; and many other aspects of the human mind. Cognitive science requires a multi-disciplinary approach and includes such fields as psychology, biology, neuroscience, philosophy, anthropology, linguistics, sociology, and computer science.

The cognitive science major is offered as a Bachelor of Arts degree only.

The Cognitive Science Major
Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70).

12 units, including
PSYC 100 Introduction to Psychological Science
PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
PSYC 331 Neuroscience
PSYC 333 Cognitive Science or PSYC 333 Human Cognition
PSYC 341 Cognitive Neuroscience
Two additional foundation courses chosen from:
CMSC 101 Minds and Machines
CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing or CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
LLC 350 Linguistics
PHIL 370 Philosophy of Mind

One advanced senior-level course chosen from:
BIOL 391 Senior Seminar
CMSC 395 Artificial Intelligence
PSYC course in the 433-449 range
The combined majors offer options for students who want to combine in-depth study in two different areas and conduct independent research. Students should select a focus for the writing project no later than spring of the junior year, and will have two supervisors, one from the English department and one from the classical studies department. By the beginning of senior year, the student should designate one of the supervisors as the primary supervisor, and this supervisor will have primary responsibility for determining the student's grade on the writing project after considering an evaluation and a suggested grade supplied by the second supervisor. If there is sharp disagreement between the two supervisors over the final grade, the primary supervisor's departmental chairperson will appoint a third reader/grader, whose decision will break the deadlock between the first and second supervisors.

English/French Major

Note: A grade of C (2.0) is required in all coursework comprising the major.

14 courses and a senior project to be distributed as follows:

Combined Majors

Designated faculty members from each department will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The combined majors offer options for students who want to combine in-depth study in two different areas and conduct independent research. Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

English/Classical Studies

Note: A grade of C (2.0) is required in all coursework comprising the major.

15.5 units, including

Eight courses in Classics, to include

- CLSC 205 Greek and Roman Mythology: Epic
- CLSC 208 Mythology: Greek Drama
- CLSC 305 Greek and Roman Values or CLSC 306 The Classical Tradition
- Two other literature classes in classics (may include language classes at the 200 level or higher)
- A minimum of three other classics department courses

Seven courses in English, to include

- ENGL 297 Literature in Context: Genre and Mode
- ENGL 298 Literature in Context: Texts in History
- One 300-level course from Group A (literature before the early to mid-19th century)
- One 300-level course from Group B (literature after the early to mid-19th century)
- Two additional courses at the 300 level

No more than one unit of internship credit in women, gender, and sexuality studies will be counted towards the combined major.

English/Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies

Note: A grade of C (2.0) is required in all coursework comprising the major.

13.5 units, including

Six courses in Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies, to include
WGSS 200 Introduction to Women, Gender & Sexuality Studies
WGSS 489 Research Methods and Capstone Preparation
Four additional WGSS electives (not from the English Department) at least two of which must be above the 200-level

Seven courses in English, to include
ENGL 297 Literature in Context: Genre and Mode
ENGL 298 Literature in Context: Texts in History
One 300-level course from Group A (literature before the early to mid-19th century)
One 300-level course from Group B (literature after the early to mid-19th century)

The Computer Science Major
Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no computer science course grade below C- (1.70). Students are strongly advised to consult with faculty in planning their major curriculum.

For the Bachelor of Arts degree
11.5 units, including
CMSC 150 or CMSC 155 Introduction to Computing or Scientific Computing or MATH 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 2 with Laboratory
CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
CMSC 222 Discrete Structures for Computing
CMSC 240 Software Systems Development
CMSC 301 Computer Organization
CMSC 315 Algorithms
CMSC 323 Design and Implementation of Programming Languages
Three additional 1-unit CMSC electives at the 300 level. Without departmental approval, no more than one of these courses can be an Independent Study course.
MATH 211 Calculus I
MATH 245 Linear Algebra

For the Bachelor of Science degree
14.5 units, including
CMSC 150 or CMSC 155 Introduction to Computing or Scientific Computing or MATH 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 2 with Laboratory
CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
CMSC 222 Discrete Structures for Computing
CMSC 240 Software Systems Development
CMSC 301 Computer Organization
CMSC 315 Algorithms
CMSC 323 Design and Implementation of Programming Languages
Three additional 1-unit CMSC electives at the 300 level. Without departmental approval, no more than one of these courses can be an Independent Study course.
MATH 211 Calculus I
MATH 212 Calculus II or MATH 232 Scientific Calculus II
MATH 245 Linear Algebra
Two units at the 300 level or above in mathematics or two units (or more) beyond the introductory level in one of the following fields: physics (200 level or above), chemistry (200 level or above), or biology (beyond 205).

The Computer Science Minor
Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no computer science course grade below C- (1.70). Students are strongly advised to consult with faculty in planning their minor curriculum.

5.5 units, including
CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing or CMSC 155
Scientific Computing or MATH 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 2 with Laboratory
CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
CMSC 222 Discrete Structures for Computing
CMSC 240 Software Systems Development
CMSC 301 Computer Organization or CMSC 315 Algorithms
One elective unit chosen from:
- A 1-unit 300-level Computer Science elective or
- A 1-unit computationally intensive upper level course from another department approved by the computer science faculty.

Honors Program
Students invited into the honors program may earn honors in computer science by completing the following requirements:
1. Two 300-level courses for honors credit (one of which has a 300-level prereq: 321, 322, 323, 326, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 344);
2. Two semesters of directed independent study (CMSC 340);
3. Honors paper

Courses
CMSC 101 Minds and Machines
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Formal deduction in propositional logic. The fundamentals of computer architecture. An elementary exploration of the extent to which symbolic reasoning can be automated, including a consideration of related results in fields such as neuroscience and artificial intelligence. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.

CMSC 105 Elementary Programming with Lab
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Solving problems by writing computer programs. Introduction to computer architecture. Emphasis on symbolic reasoning using examples from a particular computing context. For non-majors. Not open to students who have completed any computer science course that fulfills major requirements. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.

CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Techniques for writing computer programs to solve problems. Topics include elementary computer organization, object-oriented programming, control structures, arrays, methods and parameter passing, recursion, searching, sorting, and file I/O. Three lecture hours and two laboratory hours per week. A student may not receive credit for both CMSC 150 and CMSC 155. Students who have received credit for courses numbered CMSC 221 or higher may not take CMSC 150 for credit. Note: Knowledge of the topics of CMSC 150,
CMSC 155, or MATH 190 (IQS) is a prerequisite to all higher numbered Computer Science courses.

CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Same course as CMSC 150 but with greater emphasis on programming applications in the sciences. A student may not receive credit for both CMSC 150 and CMSC 155. Students who have received credit for courses numbered CMSC 221 or higher may not take CMSC 155 for credit. Note: Knowledge of the topics of CMSC 150, CMSC 155, or MATH 190 (IQS) is a prerequisite to all higher numbered Computer Science courses.
Prerequisites
MATH 211

CMSC 195 Special Topics
Units: .25-1
Description
Special topics satisfying neither major nor minor requirements.

CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Introduction to data structures, including stacks, queues, linked lists, and binary trees. Topics include abstraction, object-oriented programming, recursion, and computational complexity. Three lecture hours and two laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 150 or CMSC 155 or MATH 190.

CMSC 222 Discrete Structures for Computing with Lab
Units: 1
Description
Sets, functions, elementary propositional and predicate logic, elementary graph theory, recurrence relations, proof techniques (including mathematical induction and proof by contradiction), combinatorics, probability, and random numbers, with applications to computing. Three hours lecture and one hour lab per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 150 or 155 or MATH 190.

CMSC 240 Software Systems Development
Units: .5
Description
Introduction to techniques necessary for development of large-scale software systems, including design of software systems, adapting to legacy code, testing, debugging, and group work. Introduction to the C++ programming language, including pointers, dynamic memory allocation, and the C++ Standard Template Library (STL). One and one-half lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 221.

CMSC 288 Computer Science Apprenticeship
Units: .25-.5
Description
Participation in development of software, with supervision of computer science faculty. Does not count for computer science major or minor. No more than a total of 1.5 units of CMSC 288 may count toward the total number of units required for a degree.

CMSC 301 Computer Organization
Units: 1
Description
Fundamentals of computer organization. Topics include instruction and, data representations, assembly language, processor data path design, memory systems and I/O. Also includes examination of how software characteristics impact hardware design and optimization. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 221 and CMSC 240 (CMSC 240 may be taken concurrently)

CMSC 315 Algorithms
Units: 1
Description
Design, analysis, and implementation of advanced computer algorithms. Emphasis is given to problem-solving techniques, including the greedy method, divide-and-conquer, and dynamic programming. Specific problem domains vary.
Topics may include sorting, graphs, networks, computational geometry, NP-completeness, approximation algorithms, text processing, distributed systems, and numerical algorithms. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 221 and CMSC 222.

CMSC 321 Operating Systems
Units: 1
Description
Structure of operating systems, process management, memory management, file systems, and case studies. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 222 and CMSC 301.

CMSC 322 Software Engineering Practicum
Units: 1
Description
Project-oriented course. Principles of software engineering will be emphasized throughout. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
Two courses at the 300 level that have CMSC 301 or CMSC 315 as a prerequisite, or permission of instructor.

CMSC 323 Design and Implementation of Programming Languages
Units: 1
Description
Concepts in design and implementation of programming languages, including compile-time and run-time issues. Support for block-structured procedural languages, object-oriented languages, and functional languages. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
Senior standing and CMSC 301 and CMSC 315 , or permission of instructor.
CMSC 325 Database Systems
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to systematic management of data: design and implementation of relational databases, data modeling, normalization, indexing, relational algebra, query processing, and transaction management. Programming projects include substantial use of SQL and its extensions. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 221 and CMSC 222.

CMSC 326 Simulation
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to simulation. Discrete-event simulation, Monte Carlo simulation, simulation of queuing and inventory systems, random number generation, discrete and continuous stochastic models, elementary statistics, point and interval parameter estimation, and input modeling techniques. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 222 and CMSC 301.

CMSC 328 Numerical Analysis
Units: 1
Description
(See MATH 328.)
CMSC 330 Theory of Computation
Units: 1
Description
Finite state machines, regular languages, push-down automata, and context-free languages. Turing machines, recursive functions, and related topics. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 315.

CMSC 331 Introduction to Compiler Construction
Units: 1
Description
Regular languages, context-free languages, finite automata, push-down automata, lexical analysis, parsing, intermediate representation, and code generation. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 222 and CMSC 301.

CMSC 332 Computer Networks
Units: 1
Description
Principles and techniques for data communication between computers. Topics include design and analysis of communication protocols, routing, congestion control, network-centric applications, and recent advances. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 301.

CMSC 333 Parallel Programming
Units: 1
Description
Principles and techniques for programming computers that have multiple processors. Writing programs for parallel computers that enhance run-time efficiency, portability, correctness, and software modifiability. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 222 and CMSC 301.

CMSC 334 Computer Security
Units: 1
Description
Theory, mechanisms, and implementation of computer security and data protection. Topics include encryption and authentication, program and language security, operating system security, and network security. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 301, or permission of instructor.

CMSC 335 Computer Graphics
Units: 1
Description
Device independent two- and three-dimensional computer graphics, interactive graphics, user interfaces, and human factors. Consideration of advanced modeling and rendering. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
MATH 245 and CMSC 222 and CMSC 301.

CMSC 340 Directed Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
To enable well-qualified students who have completed basic requirements for major to work independently in areas not included in curriculum.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair and instructor.

CMSC 344 Advanced Computer Architecture
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to different computer architecture types and the resource demands created by their respective application domains. Discussion of superscalar processors, cache-coherence multiprocessor systems, graphics processing units, embedded systems, and network processors. Material includes reading and discussion of technical papers as well as programming projects on several different architectures. Three lecture hours and one laboratory hour per week.
Prerequisites
CMSC 301

CMSC 388 Individual Internship
Units: .25-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

CMSC 395 Selected Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Selected topics in Computer Science
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.
CMSC 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research (or produce a creative arts project) in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor.

Creative Writing
Department of English
Louis Schwartz, Chair
Professors Browder, Greens, Henry, Hickey, S. Jones, Schwartz
Associate Professors Apte, Cheever, Crumra, Lurie, MacAllister, Outka, Pelliter, Russell, Siebert, Stevens
Assistant Professor Singh
Director of Writing Center Eisaid
Director of the Bridge to Success Program Sneza

The Creative Writing Minor
Note: A grade of C (2.0) or better is required in all coursework comprising the creative writing minor. Each writing course beyond English 200 may be taken up to three times for credit.

6 units, including
ENGL 200 Introduction to Creative Writing
Four courses, chosen from the following
ENGL 385 Fiction Writing
ENGL 386 Poetry Writing
ENGL 387 Writing for the Stage and Screen
ENGL 390 Literary Translation
ENGL 392 Creative Nonfiction Writing
ENGL 397 Selected Topics in Writing
ENGL 401 Creative Writing Portfolio

One additional 200- or 300-level English course, either in literature, writing, or editing OR one of these courses from another department:
FREN 324 Francophone Cultures and Literature
FREN 461 From Modern to Postmodern
LAIS 332 Introduction to Spanish-American Literature II
LAIS 462 Visions of Contemporary Spain
LAIS 472 Contemporary Spanish-American Theater
LAIS 474 Contemporary Writing in Latin America: Sex, Drugs and Rock ‘n Roll
LAIS 477 Literature of the Spanish-Speaking Caribbean
LAIS 485 Latin American Narrative
LAIS 486 U.S. Latino/a Literature
LLC 322 Introduction to Twentieth-Century and Contemporary Russian Literature
THTR 325 Script Analysis
VMAP 257 Artist Book

Criminal Justice

Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Jan H. French, Chair
Associate Professors French, Hass, Nourse, Ransom
Assistant Professors Grollman, Richards, Sveis
Professionals from the field also are employed as adjunct faculty

PLEASE NOTE: THIS PROGRAM IS NO LONGER ACCEPTING NEW STUDENTS

The criminal justice major is an interdisciplinary program designed to provide students with a basic understanding of significant issues in the criminal justice system. Students majoring in criminal justice select courses together with their advisor. Upon completion of the major, students are prepared to enter a variety of fields, such as law enforcement, correctional counseling, probation and parole counseling, and criminal justice administration. In addition, many students elect to continue their education by pursuing graduate degrees in criminal justice, public administration, social work, sociology, or law.

Upper-level courses are taught on a rotating basis.

The Criminal Justice Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

10 units, including
SOC 207 Crime and Justice in a Post-Modern Society
One course in philosophy, chosen from:
PHIL 260 Philosophical Problems in Law and Society
PHIL 364 Philosophy of Law
One course in political science, chosen from:
PLSC 331 Constitutional Law
PLSC 333 Civil Rights/Liberties
PLSC 337 The American Legal System
One course in social science research methods, chosen from:
SOC 211 Sociological Research Methods and Data Analysis
PLSC 270 Social Science Inquiry
CJ 490 Senior Seminar
Five elective units, chosen from above or CJ 320 Fundamentals of Criminal Law
CJ 321 Fundamentals of Criminal Procedure
CJ 330 Victims and the Justice System
CJ 379 Selected Topics
CJ 388 Individual Internship
CJ 400 Directed Independent Study
CJ 450 Research Practicum
PHIL 260 Philosophical Problems in Law and Society
PHIL 364 Philosophy of Law
PLSC 331 Constitutional Law

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum

Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum (C-LAC) offers quarter unit, pass/fail courses in a variety of languages. C-LAC sections are small discussion groups taught by a faculty member well versed in a second language or by selected international or bilingual students called C-LAC Assistants. All C-LAC sections are offered in conjunction with primary courses throughout the curriculum, including FYS, political science/social sciences, arts/literatures, science/health, business administration, professional and continuing studies, and leadership studies. The purpose of C-LAC sections is to ensure that Richmond students acquire cross-cultural competency through the use of their language skills in the context of another discipline. C-LAC students will generally meet once a week for a roundtable discussion of assignments in the target language, accommodating the range of fluency present among the students. Some faculty might choose to provide students with the opportunity to complete research projects instead of the weekly meetings. A C-LAC course will not count toward a major or minor. No more than one unit of C-LAC credit may count toward the total number of units required for a degree.

Courses

DANC 218 Capoeira Angola
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduction to the movements, music and history of capoeira, an Afro-Brazilian self-defense hidden in dance. Capoeira is thought to have developed in part by African slaves as a form of cultural resistance towards liberation. Later, it was made illegal and associated with criminals, and now has become the unofficial 'sport' of Brazil. It is an art form for self-expression from the African-Diaspora that uses Portuguese in its songs and is a truly unique fusion of music, dance, and self-defense. Capoeira will be looked at in a contemporary context as a tool towards building a multicultural community founded on respect.

DANC 238 Introduction to Contact Improvisation
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
The practice and exploration of contact improvisation, an improvised movement form that relies on partners in constant physical dialog and connection. Class is devoted to developing balance, strength, flexibility, trust, support, weight-sharing, risk-taking, play, and body awareness. The class is ideal for students pursuing dance, theater, biology, psychology, or anyone wanting a physical challenge.

DANC 248 Movement Improvisation
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Focus on unraveling habitual ways of moving to discover impromptu motion and new patterns in groups, duets, and alone. A range of contemporary theoretical, artistic, and ethnographic techniques from American and international improvisers will be explored for strategies, techniques, motivations, and process.

DANC 251 Contemporary Dance I

ECON 101.

ECON 231 Law and Economics
Units: 1
Description
Application of economic analysis to legal concepts. Using goals of efficiency and wealth maximization, shows how economic theory can unify property law, contract law, tort law, criminal law, and family/sex law, as well as offer new insights to old problems.
Prerequisites
ECON 101.

ECON 233 Ethics and Economics
Units: 1
Description
Explores ethical considerations that arise in economic analyses. In positive economics, how are choices informed by considerations of duty or virtue (in addition to utility)? In normative economics, how do concepts of welfare and efficiency derive from ethical theories, and how have these changed over time? What competing ethical theories add to our understanding of public policy issues? Preparation for a complex world when economic analysis is viewed as complementary to a critical-thinking process about ethical frameworks. Addresses additional questions such as: What is the moral philosophy behind capitalism? What are the moral limits to markets? Do businesses create and rely upon moral capital?
Prerequisites
ECON 101.

ECON 234 Urban Economics
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the field of urban and regional economics. Study of urban growth and decline, the monocentric city model, and urban challenges. Application and interpretation of computer-generated statistical output.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 260 Selected Economic Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Major areas in economics, application of economic principles, and analysis of policy issues.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 269 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Specialized study or directed research in an area of economics.
Prerequisites
A written outline worthy of academic credit and permission of department chair.

ECON 270 Introductory Econometrics
Units: 1
Description
Techniques for rigorously testing economic theory and preparation for basic empirical work in economics. Topics will include basic data analysis, a review of comparisons of means, regression analysis (including estimation, functional form, dummy variables, inference, assumptions, violations of assumptions, corrections for violations), and forecasting. Students will be provided with the opportunity to use actual economic data to test economic theories.

Prerequisites
Major in ECNA, ECNB, or MTEC. ECON 101 and 102 and one of BUAD 202, MATH 329 or MATH 330, all with a C- or better.

ECON 271 Microeconomic Theory
Units: 1
Description
Theory of price determination in both output and input markets; in-depth analysis of behavior of individual consumers, firms, and industries under various market structures; theories of exchange and distribution.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 101 & 102 & (MATH 190 or MATH 211).

ECON 272 Macroeconomic Theory
Units: 1
Description
Theory of national income determination; short/medium-run monetary and fiscal policy issues are examined using Keynesian and New Classical models; long-run analysis focuses on recent extensions of the neoclassical growth model.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 102 & ECON 271.

ECON 300 Industrial Organization and Public Policy
Units: 1
Description
Designed to identify features of industries with various degrees of competition. Issues to be explored include: identifying dominant firm, tight or loose oligopoly, competitive, and monopoly industries; product vs. geographic markets; technological innovations; collusion, product differentiation; mergers; advertising; efficiency; price discrimination; etc. In addition, antitrust policies will be reviewed as they pertain to these issues.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 310 International Trade: Causes, Consequences, and Controversies
Units: 1
Description
Through both theoretical and empirical approaches, students will study international trade in goods and services and develop a framework for analysis of trade policy issues. Major themes include the causes and patterns of trade, the gains from trade and their distribution, the consequences of trade policies such as tariffs and voluntary export restraints, and the institutions of the world trading system including regional trade agreements. The course also considers many of the current issues related to trade such as dumping, trade-related intellectual property rights, trade and the environment, and the decisions of multinational firms. Economics 270 is recommended but not required before you take this course.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 315 Advanced International Macroeconomics
Units: 1
Description
An advanced course in international finance and macroeconomics focusing on the factors that determine countries' capital flows and trade balances. The course will introduce several models of intertemporal welfare maximization to help students think about optimal consumption and investment decisions across time as well as the influence of fiscal policy in an open economy setting.

Prerequisites
C- or better in all 4 prerequisite courses: Economics 101, 102, 271, and 272.

ECON 330 Environmental and Resource Economic Theory
Units: 1
Description
A rigorous treatment of environmental and resource issues, with particular emphasis on problem of designing appropriate institutions and regulations under uncertainty. Topics include emission fees and marketable permits; enforcement, risk regulation, the economics and regulation of the fishery; depletion of nonrenewable resources; and forest use. Economics 270 is recommended but not required before you take this course. (Same as Environmental Studies 330.)

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 331 Labor Economics
Units: 1
Description
Economic analysis of labor markets including labor supply, investment in human capital, labor demand, and wage determination. Policy issues include labor unions, discrimination, and analysis of government programs affecting labor markets.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 332 Public Economics
Units: 1
Description
Economic analysis of government spending and taxation with particular emphasis on current public policy issues (e.g., social security, health care and fundamental income tax reform). Economics 270 is recommended but not required before you take this course.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 341 Mathematical Economics
Units: 1
Description
Examines various economic concepts by means of mathematical analysis.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271 & (MATH 212 or 232) & MATH 245.
ECON 360 Selected Economic Topics
Units: 0.5-1
Description
Major areas in economics, application of economic principles, and analysis of policy issues.
Prerequisites
A core course to be announced.

ECON 368 Global Vision: A Student-Managed ETF Portfolio
Units: 0.5
Description
Introduces students to the role of pure economic analysis in the construction of investment portfolios. The asset class and sector allocations of the portfolio flow from on-going assessment of domestic and international economic conditions. The portfolio choices are implemented using Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). This investment vehicle eliminates the need for the technical training necessary for evaluating individual securities. The portfolio recommended by the class is implemented through the financial support of the university. The formal output of the semester is well suited to student participation at existing undergraduate research conferences and competitions. May be repeated; graded. The course will not count towards the Economics major.
Prerequisites
One 200- or 300-level economics course with a grade of C- or better and permission of instructor.

ECON 369 Independent Study
Units: 0.5-1
Description
Specialized study or directed research in an area of economics.
Prerequisites
ECON 271 or 272, a written outline worthy of advanced credit and permission of department chair.

ECON 370 Advanced Econometrics
Units: 1
Description
Techniques for rigorously testing economic theory. Reinforces and extends the econometric techniques developed in Economics 270. Topics include a review of the classical linear regression model as well as model extensions including dummy and limited dependent variables, panel data estimation, instrumental variables, simultaneous equation systems, time-series analysis, and forecasting. Excel, SPSS, and SAS are used in weekly computer lab sessions.
Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 270.

ECON 372 Advanced Macroeconomics
Units: 1
Description
Examination of selected topics in macroeconomics beyond the basic theory level covered in Economics 272. Topics may include forecasting, time-series econometrics, growth theory, analysis of dynamic, stochastic general-equilibrium models, and open-economy macroeconomics. Selected Topics course that may be repeated with department permission (which is allowed if the course topics are different).
Prerequisites
C- or better in both ECON 270 & ECON 272

ECON 480 Senior Capstone Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Utilizes theoretical and applied economic models from previous economics courses. Semester assignments guide students through a major research project of one of the following forms: contemporary economic analysis, historical economic analysis, viewpoints in economic analysis, or quantitative economic analysis. Students develop an economic question; gain access to existing knowledge; demonstrate command of existing knowledge; use existing knowledge to explore an issue of interest; understand the steps to complete a substantial research project; and sharpen written communication skills. Note: Participation in the honors program fulfills the capstone requirement.
Prerequisites
C- or better in all three prerequisite courses: ECON 270 & 271 & 272, & senior standing.

ECON 490 Honors Seminar in Economics
Units: 1
Description
Honors seminar.
Prerequisites
Departmental invitation.

ECON 491 Honors Thesis in Economics
Units: 1
Description
Capstone independent research project and honors paper. Note: Participation in the honors program fulfills the capstone requirement.
Prerequisites
Departmental invitation.

Mission and Goals
Undergraduate teacher education at the University of Richmond is a campus-wide responsibility, designed to ensure that all of our students are knowledgeable professionals who possess both a theoretical and practical knowledge base. Students acquire a broad undergraduate background of essential intellectual skills through the liberal arts and sciences based on the University’s general education requirements, upon which students then build concentrated study in their major field of study.

The mission of the Teacher Preparation Program at the University of Richmond is to improve the understanding and practice of teaching and learning in preK-12 environments through reflective thought. Graduates are prepared to apply deep and broad content knowledge through multiple pedagogies in diverse settings while demonstrating a commitment to professionalism.

Based on this mission, the goals for the education minor are:

Goal 1
Develop candidates who are knowledgeable about learners and are able to employ instructional strategies that meet the needs of all students, including students with disabilities, gifted students, students with limited proficiency in English, and students with diverse cultural needs.

Goal 2
Develop candidates who have a rich understanding of the subject(s) they teach and appreciate how knowledge in their subject is created, organized, linked to other disciplines, and applied to real-world settings.

Goal 3
Develop candidates who are able to employ best practices in the planning, delivery, and assessment of instruction so that they may transform content for teaching purposes in ways that make it accessible and meaningful to students.

Goal 4
Develop candidates who have the knowledge and skills to bring the highest levels of professionalism to their practice as instructional leaders and have the disposition to reflect upon and change that practice as necessary.

State-Approved Programs at the University of Richmond

The Teacher Preparation Program at the University of Richmond prepares teachers for licensure in Elementary Education (preK-6), Secondary Education (6-12) or Comprehensive Education (preK-12). The University of Richmond was first granted an Approved Teacher Education Program by the Virginia State Board of Education in 1972. Since that time the University's Department of Education has maintained approved program status and, as such, participates in reciprocity of licensure with states that have interstate agreements with Virginia. Currently Virginia has approved as an academic major at the University of Richmond.

In order for programs to remain current with licensure regulations as mandated by the Virginia State Department of Education, the requirements as stated may be subject to change. Please check with the department for the most recent version of licensure and endorsement requirements.

Title II Results

In October 1998, the U.S. Congress enacted amendments to the Higher Education Act (HEA). As amended, Title II of the HEA included new accountability measures and reporting requirements for institutions and states on teacher preparation and licensing. Each year the University of Richmond is required to submit an Institutional Report that contains:

- Program completer pass rates
- Basic features of the teacher preparation program
- Whether the teacher preparation program has been classified as “low performing”
- Supplemental information the institution believes is important to providing necessary context

For the most current copies of the University Institutional Report, visit our website.

Teacher Education Minors Requirements

Teacher Education minors are designed for students who wish to pursue preparation in teaching, and consists of three different areas. The level and subject of teaching endorsement students seek define these areas. Please note that students completing a teacher education minor are NOT automatically eligible for a teaching license. Students who wish to be licensed must be formally admitted to the Teacher Preparation Program and successfully complete student teaching and the student teaching seminar. It should also be noted that even though the units required for the teacher education minor rises to the level of most majors, licensure regulations in the state of Virginia do not allow students to major in education, therefore, teacher education is not approved as an academic major at the University of Richmond.

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.50 with no course grade below C (2.0). A maximum of one course may be taken at another institution or through an approved study abroad program, with departmental approval.

Teacher Education: Elementary (preK-6)

Education and Society Minor Requirements

The Education and Society minor seeks to examine the institution of education and its role in society. It is designed specifically for students concerned with the interpretation, evaluation and reform of the American system of public education. The minor encourages students to reflect on questions of central importance in education such as:

- What is the purpose of education?
- How has the history of the system of public education in the United States contributed to its present state?
- Does our current system of education provide equitable opportunities for all?

The Education and Society minor is NOT designed to prepare teachers or other school personnel and does NOT lead to certification.

Education and Society

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C (2.0). A maximum of one course may be taken at another institution or through an approved study abroad program, with departmental approval.

6 units, including
EDUC 220 Education in America

Four electives chosen from the following list. At least two of these selections must be courses where community-based learning pedagogy for exploring current conditions and issues in education is a significant component. Courses using such pedagogy are indicated with a *

EDUC 333 Alternate Approaches to K-12 Education*
EDUC 334 American Educational History
EDUC 335 Education and Globalization
EDUC 337 Education and Public Policy*
EDUC 339 Education of Minority Groups in America*
EDUC 340 Gender and Education*
EDUC 341 Leadership in Education*
EDUC 344 School Law for the Layman
EDUC 345 Urban Education*
EDUC 346 Philosophy of Education
EDUC 440 Contemporary Issues in Education

Becoming a Licensed Teacher

Students interested in becoming teachers should contact the Department of Education to meet with the Chair to discuss program requirements. All students seeking licensure must be formally admitted to the Teacher Preparation Program.

Admission requires:

- A completed application form
- A Statement of Intent
- An official score report for Praxis I or its equivalent
- Evidence of a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.70

Upon admission, students engage in a series of professional courses and field experiences that serve as the foundation of their program. These include:

- Professional Courses: Foundations of Education, Diverse Learners and Environments, Introduction to Instructional Technology and Classroom and Behavior Management
- Field Experience: Integrated course-related practica and observation experiences
- Program-Specific Courses: Courses vary depending on the level and area of endorsement
- Student Teaching: Fifteen weeks of full-time experience in local school divisions
- Student Teaching Seminar

All formally accepted students must maintain a grade point average of 3.00 in education and a cumulative grade point average of 2.70 to remain in the program and be eligible for student teaching. No more than one grade of C is allowed in education coursework. Therefore, students who earn more than one grade of C in education courses must repeat those courses and earn higher grades or they will not be permitted to remain in the program.

Students wishing to apply for licensure must complete the requirements for the minor, student teaching, the student teaching seminar, and any additional courses required for subject area endorsements.

Teacher Licensure Chronology

With careful planning, most students can complete all degree and licensure requirements in four years. In some cases, students may choose to return for the student teaching semester after graduation.

Year One

Students interested in becoming licensed to teach should contact the Department of Education to meet with the Chair to discuss program requirements. If necessary, students should arrange to take the Praxis I exam before the end of their first year. Students should focus on completing general education requirements

Year Two

Students must submit a formal application to the program and return the completed forms to the Department of Education no later than October 15 of the fall semester or March 15 of the spring semester. Students begin courses in the education sequence appropriate to the minor they have declared. Students must register to take the Virginia Communication and Literacy Assessment (VCLA) exam by the end of the academic year.

Year Four

Students complete the semester-long student teaching experience and accompanying seminar in either the fall or spring semester. Students planning to student teach during the spring semester of their senior year must:

- Attend a fall orientation session and submit the student teaching application
- Complete all testing requirements for licensure
- Maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.70, and a grade point average of 3.00 in education.

Please note that the Department of Education will forward applications and recommendations for licensure only for those students who successfully complete the student teaching experience through the University of Richmond.

Requirements for Endorsement Areas

For all endorsement areas, students seeking a particular endorsement must meet the requirements of that major. For some endorsement areas, additional courses are required outside of the subject major and education minor to meet competencies required for licensure. Requirements for each endorsement area are listed below.

Dance Arts Endorsement (preK-12)

Students seeking the dance arts endorsement must meet the requirements of the dance major.

Elementary Endorsement (preK-6)

Students seeking the elementary endorsement MUST complete the requirements for ANY liberal arts major. Students majoring only in business or leadership studies are NOT eligible for an elementary teaching license in Virginia.

English Endorsement (6-12)

Students seeking the English endorsement must meet the requirements of the English major or one of the following combined majors: English/Classical Studies, English/French, English/German, English/Greek, English/Latin, English/Theatre, English/Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies. Additionally, the following courses or equivalent experiences are required:

- One Shakespeare course selected from ENGL 234 or ENGL 304
- One grammar course selected from ENGL 381 or JOUR 301
- One writing course selected from ENGL 201 or ENGL 383
- One course in communication arts selected from ENGL 219, ENGL 220, ENGL 372, ENGL 374, JOUR 202, RHCS 100, or RHCS 201

Foreign Language Endorsements (preK-12)

Students seeking a language endorsement must meet the requirements of the major in French, German, Latin American and Iberian Studies. Additionally, the following courses are required:

- French, German, and Latin American and Iberian Studies
- LLC 410 The Teaching of a Modern Second Language
- Latin
- LATN 411 The Teaching of High School Latin

History and Social Sciences Endorsement (6-12)

Students seeking the history and social science endorsement must meet the requirements of the history major. Additionally, the following courses or equivalent experiences are required:

- One course in American government selected from PLSC 220
- One course in Virginia government selected from PLSC 304
- One course in economics selected from ECON 101, ECON 102, or ECON 105
- One course in geography selected from GEOG 210, GEOG 320, or GEOG 370

Mathematics Endorsement (6-12)

Students seeking the mathematics endorsement must meet the requirements of the major in mathematics or mathematical economics.

Science Endorsements (6-12)

Biology

Students seeking the biology endorsement must meet the requirements of the biology major. The biochemistry major does NOT meet the standard for this endorsement. Additionally, the following courses or equivalent experiences are required:

- At least one course in genetics/molecular biology selected from BIOL 229, BIOL 307, BIOL 314, or BIOL 384
- At least one course in botany selected from BIOL 216, BIOL 303, BIOL 305, or BIOL 306
- At least one course in zoology selected from BIOL 308, BIOL 309, BIOL 312, or BIOL 328
- At least one course in anatomy/physiology selected from BIOL 220
- At least one course in ecology selected from BIOL 207

Though not required, one course in evolution is highly recommended (BIOL 225).

Chemistry

Students seeking the chemistry endorsement must meet the requirements of the chemistry major. Additionally, the following courses or equivalent experiences are required:

- At least one course in inorganic chemistry selected from CHEM 317
- At least one course in organic chemistry selected from CHEM 205, CHEM 206, CHEM 343, CHEM 344
- At least one course in physical chemistry selected from CHEM 309 and CHEM 314 or CHEM 310 and CHEM 315
- At least one course in analytical chemistry selected from CHEM 301

Physics
Students seeking the physics endorsement must meet the requirements of the physics major. Additionally, the following courses or equivalent experiences are required:

- At least one course in mechanics selected from PHYS 303, PHYS 308, PHYS 309 or PHYS 310
- At least one course in electricity and magnetism selected from PHYS 305 or PHYS 306
- At least one course in optics selected from PHYS 231 or 479

Though not required, one course in computational methods is highly recommended (PHYS 215).

Theater Arts Endorsement (preK-12)
Students seeking the theater arts endorsement must meet the requirements of the theatre major.

Visual Arts Endorsement (preK-12)
Students seeking the visual arts endorsement must meet the requirements of the studio art major.

Add-On Endorsement Requirements
Students who meet the endorsement requirements for ANY teaching area may apply for an add-on endorsement if they meet the requirements for a minor that is compatible with one of the following licensure (endorsement) areas:
- Journalism
- Mathematics - Algebra I
- Speech Communication

Adding Endorsements Through Testing
Students who meet the elementary endorsement requirements may add any endorsement for which they take and submit passing scores on the appropriate Praxis II examination.

Students who meet the endorsement requirements for all other areas may add any endorsement for which they take and submit passing scores on the appropriate Praxis II examination WITH THE EXCEPTION OF elementary education.

Courses

EDUC 217 Foundations of Education
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the American educational system. Explores the philosophical, sociological, historical, and political roots of schools today. Attention also given to the legal status of teachers and students, including federal and state laws and regulations, school as an organization/culture, and contemporary issues in education including the use of relevant data in instructional decision-making.

EDUC 218 Diverse Learners
Units: 1
Description
Introduces students to the developmental stages experienced by students between the ages of birth through adolescence with an examination of speech/language, social, physical, intellectual, and emotional development. Explores diverse cultures, communities, and family values. Provides a historical and contemporary perspective on critical issues, professional practices, and state and federal laws influencing the teaching of students with diverse learning needs.

EDUC 220 Education in America
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of contemporary public education and its impact on American society and citizenship. Includes an examination of the history of education in creating responsible citizens in the United States and the interaction of policy and reform in contemporary education.

EDUC 306 Content and Pedagogy for Elementary Science and Social Studies
Units: 1
Description
In-depth examination of core elementary science and social studies concepts and subject-specific pedagogy. Course content emphasizes and integrates state and national standards, problem-solving approaches, curriculum integration strategies, content area literacy, and current research.

EDUC 312 Independent Study in Education
Units: .25-1
Description
Special projects and practical experience in educational programs.

EDUC 313 Independent Study in Education
Units: .25-1
Description
Special projects and practical experience in educational programs.

EDUC 314 Independent Study in Education
Units: .25-1
Description
Special projects and practical experience in educational programs.

EDUC 324 Reading Foundations for Early Literacy Instruction
Units: 1
Description
In-depth examination of the teaching methods, literacy concepts and development, and materials which are utilized to support and scaffold children’s literacy acquisition from birth to the primary grades. Addresses a foundational understanding of the components of reading including phonemic awareness, concepts of print, phonics, fluency, comprehension, vocabulary, and writing. Examines early literacy assessment tools and how to implement interventions for diverse learners. Investigates language development,
EDUC 326 Assessment, Intervention, and Literacy Strategies for Elementary Readers
Units: 1
Description
In-depth examination of reading comprehension, vocabulary development, critical thinking, word study, and writing instruction within elementary classrooms. Exploration across the components of reading of the methods, materials, and assessment tools associated with elementary literacy instruction. Examines assessment tools and learn techniques for meeting the needs of struggling readers. A supervised practical experience will be incorporated into the course. Emphasis is placed on making decisions based upon students' individual needs and critical reflection to improve instructional effectiveness. Analysis of assessment data and use of this information to inform instructional practices including developing reading and writing interventions. Studies effective literacy techniques designed to support diverse learners.
Prerequisites
EDUC 324.

EDUC 327 Content and Pedagogy for Elementary Mathematics
Units: 1
Description
In-depth examination of fundamental mathematical concepts and subject-specific pedagogy. Course content emphasizes and integrates state and national standards, problem-solving approaches, use of manipulatives and technology, current research, and learning theory.
Prerequisites
Education 217 or 218.

EDUC 333 Alternate Approaches to K-12 Education
Units: 1
Description
Examination of the multiple alternatives to traditional PK-12 public schools currently available across the United States, including the increasing variety of public, private, parochial, charter, and virtual opportunities available to families seeking choices beyond traditional public education.
Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220.

EDUC 334 American Educational History
Units: 1
Description
Examination of the development of American education from the Colonial Period through today. Includes an examination of how political change, economic growth, immigration, social movements, and related factors influenced the content of the American curriculum and the nature of the educational experience. Emphasis placed on the period since 1945, examining how integration, changes in special education law, the growth of English-language learners, the accountability movement, educational technology, and economic conditions have shaped today's public schools.

Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 335 Education and Globalization
Units: 1
Description
Investigation of the influence of globalization and technology on America's school systems. Globalization is characterized by the power of individuals living around the world to communicate, collaborate, and compete. The death of distance resulting from technological advances has resulted in a new "global village" or "flat world". Examination of how today's global world is transforming education and the role of America's schools in preparing students for this interconnected, global world.
Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 337 Education and Public Policy
Units: 1
Description
Survey of contemporary issues and examination of legislation affecting educational policy at both the state and local level. In-depth examination of current and emerging policy issues, strategies for influencing policy, and techniques for adapting new policy into current school culture and processes.
Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 338 Instructional Technology Applications for the Classroom
Units: 1
Description
Theory and pedagogy of integrating common and practical instructional technologies within the teaching and learning environment and across the curriculum. Includes current practice, skill building and exploration of resources to better prepare educators to fully understand the potential, the consequences, and future uses of instructional technology to address the needs of all learners.
Prerequisites
Education 306 or 342.

EDUC 339 Education of Minority Groups in America
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the educational histories of minority groups in the United States with a primary focus on Native Americans, African Americans, Mexican American, and Asian/Pacific Americans. Perspectives will be primarily explored from the late eighteenth century to the early twenty-first century. Includes an an-depth examination of issues of equity and opportunity as it pertains to these minority groups, particularly as it relates to funding. Also includes an examination of how education can serve as an effective means to increase social tolerance and improve relations between various groups in society.
Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 340 Gender and Education
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the multiple and complex relationships between gender and education, primarily in the context of formalized schooling. Topics include the history of women’s education; gender identity and socialization, gender discrimination and biases in curriculum and classroom teaching, gender gaps in academic performance, stratification in schools, and the relationship between educational choices and gender. In all topics, gender will be explored in connection with other socially constructed aspects of identity, such as race, class, ethnicity and sexual orientation.

Description
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 341 Leadership and Education
Units: 1
Description
Examination of the role of leadership in education through a historical, philosophical, theoretical and political/policy lens. Critical review of how leadership is the cornerstone of understanding the importance of education and citizenship in American society. Includes profiles of historical and contemporary leaders in education who have been at the forefront of public school reform efforts. Examines the role that followers or stakeholders have played in historical movements for public school reform.

Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 342 Teaching in Middle and Secondary Schools
Units: 1
Description
Comprehensive introduction to pedagogy to include principles of learning; application of skills in discipline and grade-specific methodology; selection and use of materials; state and national curriculum standards; and evaluation of student performance.

Prerequisites
Education 217 or 218.

EDUC 344 School Law for the Layman
Units: 1
Description
Overview of school law with an emphasis on how public law and court decisions have shaped the practice of public schools today. Includes an in-depth examination of critical court decisions that have shaped educational practice, the legal environment today, and the influence of school law on students, parents, teachers, and administrators.

Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220.

EDUC 345 Urban Education
Units: 1
Description
Examination of the relationship between urban issues and education policies and practices. Includes a broad interdisciplinary look at the relationship between school and urban society and communities. Sociological and philosophical theories will be used to examine how culture, race, and class influence the structure and function of urban education systems. A critical self-reflection on schooling, socio-cultural identity, and philosophical beliefs about education.

Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 346 Philosophy of Education
Units: 1
Description
Examines exemplars of educational philosophy from ancient times to the present day, emphasizing important thinkers and writers that contributed to the philosophy of the American public education system. Includes a consideration of their relevance and application to current controversies in education (e.g., multiculturalism, gender equity, and school choice).

Prerequisites
Education 217 or 220

EDUC 350 Content Area Literacy
Units: 1
Description
In-depth examination of reading, writing, and critical thinking in secondary content areas. Specific techniques for teaching and assessing comprehension, vocabulary knowledge, and study skills. The English Major

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
To enrich the value of the major in English by doing focused work in an allied field, students have the option of taking four courses in one of the following fields: art history, classics (literature in the original language or in translation), history, philosophy, religion, theatre, and the modern literatures (Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, or Spanish). Students are expected to select four courses that seem relevant to, or that promise to complement, the study of English. In making the selections, a student must consult both with the major advisor in English and with a secondary advisor in the allied field. Students who successfully complete an allied field option will receive a certificate and a letter of recognition at the time of Commencement.

Medieval and Renaissance studies

Allied Fields

To earn honors in English, a major must complete ENGL 498, Honors Thesis Research, and ENGL 499, Honors Thesis Writing. Units earned for ENGL 498 and ENGL 499 are in addition to the 10 units required in the English major. Honors students also designate two of the courses from their major program as Honors Courses. In each case, the instructor, in consultation with the student and the honors coordinator, determines an appropriate honors component for the course. Students must have attained a departmental GPA of 3.50 by the beginning of the fall semester of the senior year. They also must maintain that GPA through the completion of the program and an overall GPA of no less than 3.30 while in the program. The thesis must be submitted to a faculty committee in the spring of the student's senior year. Honors will be granted only to those students whose theses meet departmental standards. Students should declare their intention to seek honors and meet with the honors coordinator in the spring of their sophomore year or fall of their junior year. Students who have not declared by the second semester of their junior year are disqualified from further honors consideration. Those who have declared that they are seeking honors will be considered candidates until they fail to meet one of the program's requirements. For further information and advice on standards and curriculum, see the honors coordinator.

English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 371 Versions of Tragedy
Units: 1
Description
An exploration of the nature and function of tragedy in the West, based on a study of the theory of tragic drama and of representative works from the Greeks to the moderns.
Prerequisites
English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 372 Theater and Society
Units: 1
Description
Study of theater with regard to its social relevance. Examination of the ways in which theater not only reflects but also seeks to intervene in cultural and political debates relevant to a given society. Attention to the politics of form and production as well as to the politics of reception.
Prerequisites
English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 374 Film Theory
Units: 1
Description
Surveys the various ways in which thinkers have conceived of cinema since before its inception--what André Bazin referred to as "the film idea"--to contemporary debates about the "end" of film and the advent of New Media.
Prerequisites
English 220, 297, or 298 or Film Studies 201 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 375 Critics Since Plato
Units: 1
Description
Ways of looking at art and literature in their philosophical context. Theories applied to a variety of literary texts.
Prerequisites
One unit of 300-level English with a grade of C or better.
ENGL 376 Modern Literary Theory
Units: 1
Description
Developments in literary theory from Formalism to the present. Schools and approaches include New Criticism, Feminism, Marxism, Structuralism, Deconstruction, Psychoanalytic Criticism, New Historicism, and Cultural Studies.
Prerequisites
One unit of 300-level English with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 377 Poetics
Units: 1
Description
How creative tools available to poets shape and influence presentation of theme.
Prerequisites
English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 378 The Novel in Theory and Practice
Units: 1
Description
Considers novels in the context of a variety of theoretical approaches, asking what theory can tell us about the novel and, equally important, what the novel can tell us about theory.
Prerequisites
English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 379 Film Directors
Units: 1
Description
Examines the work of individual or a small group of film directors. The directors considered will vary and include figures such as Alfred Hitchcock, Stanley Kubrick, and the Coen Brothers. Special attention will be paid to theories of film authorship, the concept of film style and film aesthetics, and various critical approaches.
Prerequisites
English 220, 297 or 298 or Film Studies 201 with a C or better

ENGL 380 Special Topics: Film Genres
Units: 1
Description
The close consideration of single or small numbers of film genres: their inception, evolution, aesthetic and stylistic properties, and interaction with other cultural forms and institutions. The genres under consideration will vary and include Film Noir, Melodrama, and the Western, among others. May be repeated for credit as topic varies.
Prerequisites
Film Studies 201, English 220, English 297, or English 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 381 Modern Grammar
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to linguistics, including theories and practices of structuralists and transformationalists. (Meets state licensure requirements for teaching.)
Prerequisites
First Year Seminar 100.

ENGL 383 Introduction to Composition Theory and Pedagogy
Units: 1
Description
Serves as practicum for writing consultants - and students seeking teacher licensure.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

ENGL 385 Fiction Writing
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of literary models. Discussion and evaluation of students' own fiction. May be taken up to three times for credit.
Prerequisites
English 200 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 386 Poetry Writing
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of literary models. Discussion and evaluation of students' own poetry. May be taken up to three times for credit.
Prerequisites
English 200 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 387 Writing for Stage and Screen
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of literary models. Discussion and evaluation of students' own dramatic work. May be taken up to three times for credit.
Prerequisites
English 200 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 390 Literary Translation
Units: 1
Description
Introduces students to the history, theory, and practice of translation, with a particular emphasis on translation after 1900.
Prerequisites
One 200-level English course or 300-level MLC or LAIS course with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 391 Themes and Methods in Comparative Literature
Units: 1
Description
Interdisciplinary approach to selected themes or topics in comparative literature. While theme may vary from year to year, it will provide basis for the study of literary relations as they exist across various boundaries: generic, historical, disciplinary, and linguistic. Will also contain component on history and theory of comparative literature as a discipline, as well as brief unit on journals, bibliographies, and resources particular to the discipline.
Prerequisites
English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 392 Creative Nonfiction Writing
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of literary models. Discussion and evaluation of students' own creative nonfiction. May be taken up to three times for credit.

Prerequisites
English 200 with a grade of C or better.
ENGL 393 Literary Editing and Publishing
Units: 1
Description
Provides students the opportunity to learn about literary editing and publishing from both editors' and writers' perspectives.
Prerequisites
One 200-level English course or JOUR 202 or JOUR 314.

ENGL 397 Literary Editing and Publishing
Units: 1
Description
Provides students the opportunity to learn about literary editing and publishing from both editors' and writers' perspectives.
Prerequisites
One 200-level English course or JOUR 202 or JOUR 314.

ENGL 398 Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
Individually designed course of study conducted under supervision of faculty member.
Prerequisites
Approval of directing faculty member.

ENGL 399 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
Topics will vary from semester to semester. May be repeated for credit as topic varies.
Prerequisites
English 297 or 298 with a grade of C or better.

ENGL 400 Junior/Senior Seminar
Units: 1
Description
In-depth treatment of topics in genre, historical periods, critical theory, single authors such as Milton, Faulkner, or Woolf, and other areas of literary study. Topics vary from semester to semester. Recently offered topics include Mixed-Media Writing and Micro Narratives. May be repeated for credit, provided topics are different.
Prerequisites
English 297 and 298, and two 300-level English courses with grades of C or better.

ENGL 401 Creative Writing Portfolio
Units: 1
Description
An advanced creative writing course in which students pursue a semester-long project or portfolio in any genre (poetry, fiction, drama, creative nonfiction, screenwriting, multimedia, etc.) and workshop their works in progress. Appropriate for students working in traditional forms (e.g., short-story, poetry, memoir, etc.) or students working in forms not typically covered by other writing courses (e.g., graphic novel, screenplay, multimedia, etc.). May be repeated once for credit, but only one may count towards the minor in Creative Writing.
Prerequisites
One of the following: English 385, 386, 387, 392, or 397.

Other English courses

ENGL 388 Individual Internship
Units: 25-1
Description
Application of academic skills and theories in placement approved by department. Includes academic work. Supervised by member of the English faculty. No more than one unit of credit may be earned in English 388.
Prerequisites
One unit of 300-level English with a grade of C or better, written application in advance of internship, and recommendation of the English faculty member who will supervise the internship.

ENGL 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

ENGL 498 Honors Thesis Research
Units: .5
Description
Research for the honors thesis in English under the direction of a faculty advisor.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

ENGL 499 Honors Thesis Writing
Units: 1
Description
Writing of the honors thesis in English under the direction of a faculty advisor.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

Environmental Studies

Samuel A. Abrash, Coordinator (Chemistry and Environmental Studies)
Associate Professors Finley-Brook (Environmental Studies and Geography), Salisbury (Environmental Studies and Geography), Stevenson (Chemistry and Environmental Studies)
Assistant Professor Lookingbill
The environmental studies major consists of courses in the natural sciences, social sciences, humanities, law, and business.

The Environmental Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of all the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70) in all courses other than Calculus II.

For the Bachelor of Arts degree

12 units, including:

- ENVR 201 Introduction to Environmental Studies
- ENVR 230 Environmental Economics
- ENVR 269 Topics in Environmental Ethics
- ENVR 362 Environmental Law and Policy
- ENVR 391 Environmental Senior Seminar

One course in environmental life science chosen from:
- BIOL 109*/ENVR 109 Introduction to Ecology
- BIOL 111/ENVR 111 Marine Biology of the Chesapeake Bay
- BIOL 207* Ecology

One course in physical environmental science chosen from:
- CHEM 110/ENVR 110 Pollutants in the Environment
- CHEM 316 Environmental Chemistry
- ENVR 250 Introduction to Earth Systems and Physical Geography

Introductory statistics requirement: MATH 209 (preferred), BIOL 320, BUAD 202, CHEM 300, PSYC 200, or equivalent course approved by the ES coordinator

One course in environmental research methods, chosen from:
- ANTH 211 Introduction to Ethnographic Field Methods
- CHEM 301 Quantitative Chemical Analysis
- CHEM 302 Instrumentation and Spectroscopy
- CHEM 303 Chemical Separations
- ECON 370 Advanced Econometrics
- ENV R 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
- MATH 219 Introduction to the Design of Experiments
- MATH 304* Math Models in Biology and Medicine
- MATH 324* Continuous Math Methods
- PLSC 270 Social Science Inquiry
- SOC 211 Sociological Research Methods and Data Analysis

Three units of electives approved for environmental studies, at least one-half unit of which must be an experiential learning course (ENVR 320, ENVR 388, ENVR 406, GEOG 406, or equivalent)

For the Bachelor of Science degree

15 units, including:

- ENVR 201 Introduction to Environmental Studies
- ENVR 230 Environmental Economics
- ENVR 269 Topics in Environmental Ethics
- ENVR 362 Environmental Law and Policy
- ENVR 391 Environmental Senior Seminar

One course in environmental life science chosen from:
- BIOL 109*/ENVR 109 Introduction to Ecology
- BIOL 111/ENVR 111 Marine Biology of the Chesapeake Bay
- BIOL 207* Ecology

One course in physical environmental science chosen from:
- CHEM 110/ENVR 110 Pollutants in the Environment
- CHEM 316 Environmental Chemistry
- ENVR 250 Introduction to Earth Systems and Physical Geography

Introductory statistics requirement: MATH 209 (preferred), BIOL 320, BUAD 202, CHEM 300, PSYC 200, or equivalent course approved by the ES coordinator

One course in environmental research methods, chosen from:
- ANTH 211 Introduction to Ethnographic Field Methods
- CHEM 301 Quantitative Chemical Analysis
- CHEM 302 Instrumentation and Spectroscopy
- CHEM 303 Chemical Separations
- ECON 370 Advanced Econometrics
- ENV R 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
- MATH 219 Introduction to the Design of Experiments
- MATH 304* Math Models in Biology and Medicine
- MATH 324* Continuous Math Methods
- PLSC 270 Social Science Inquiry
- SOC 211 Sociological Research Methods and Data Analysis

Three units of electives approved for environmental studies, at least one-half unit of which must be an experiential learning course (ENVR 320, ENVR 388, ENVR 406, GEOG 406, or equivalent)

MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II

Two units in biology, chemistry, or physics at or above the 300 level

*The following courses involve significant overlap in content:
  - BIOL 109/Biol 207; and MATH 304/MATH 324. Credit toward the major can be given for only one course in each pair; for example, credit can be given for either BIOL 109 or BIOL 207 but not both.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

The Environmental Studies Minor

Note: The grade point average of all the coursework comprising the minor in environmental studies must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70).

6 units, including:

- ENVR 201 Introduction to Environmental Studies
ENVR 269 Topics in Environmental Ethics

Either ENVR 230 Environmental Economics or ENVR 362 Environmental Law and Policy

One course in environmental life science chosen from
BIOL 109*/ENVR 109 Introduction to Ecology
BIOL 207 Ecology
BIOL 111/ENVR 111 Marine Biology of the Chesapeake Bay

One course in physical environmental science chosen from
CHEM 110/ENVR 110 Pollutants in the Environment
CHEM 316 Environmental Chemistry
ENVR 250 Introduction to Earth Systems and Physical Geography

One approved elective in environmental studies

*Credit toward the Environmental Studies minor will be given for either BIOL 109 or BIOL 207, but not both.
Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

Concentrations in Environmental Studies

Note: A student does not have to choose a concentration in order to receive a degree in environmental studies. Students may satisfy the elective units requirement of the degree by pursuing one of the following concentrations:

Environmental Science Concentration

Three units of electives, chosen from:
BIOL 111/ENVR 111 Marine Biology of the Chesapeake Bay
BIOL 225 Evolution
BIOL 306 Systematic Botany
BIOL 331 Molecular Ecology
BIOL 332 Tropical Marine Biology
BIOL 333 Microbial Ecology
BIOL 334 Oceanography
BIOL 344 Behavioral Ecology
BIOL 383 Tropical Biology and Conservation
CHEM 110/ENVR 110 Pollutants in the Environment
CHEM 316 Environmental Chemistry
ENVR 250 Earth Systems and Physical Geography
ENVR 350 Environmental Gradients
GEOG 315 Landscape Ecology

Environment and Society Concentration

Three units of electives, chosen from:
ECON 211 Economic Development in Asia, Africa and Latin America
ENVR 330 Environmental and Resource Economic Theory
GEOG 220 Ecotourism
GEOG 320 Power, Space, and Territory: Geographies of Political Change
GEOG 333 Geographies of Amazonia
GEOG 345 Society, Economy, and Nature: Global Perspectives on Sustainable Development

GEOG 370 Geographies of Economic Development and Globalization
HIST 390 Food and Power in Africa and Asia
JOUR 304 Reporting on the Environment
MGMT 348 Environmental Management
PLSC 260 Introduction to Public Policy
PLSC 360 International Development Policy

Experiential learning (ENVR 388, ENVR 320, or equivalent) and Special Topics (ENVR 300) may be counted towards a concentration with approval of the environmental studies coordinator.

Courses

ENVR 109 Introduction to Ecology
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
See BIOL 109.

ENVR 110 Pollutants in the Environment
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNC)
Description
See CHEM 110.

ENVR 111 Marine Biology of the Chesapeake Bay
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
See BIOL 111.

ENVR 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
Same as BIOL 199.
Prerequisites
Cross-listed with BIOL 199 when appropriate.

ENVR 201 Introduction to Environmental Studies
Units: 1
Description
Overview of contemporary environmental issues, including species extinction, resource depletion, and pollution. Students examine behavior leading to environmental degradation, the scientific, ethical, and economic aspects of the resulting problems, and study policies intended to provide solutions.

ENVR 215 Geography of the James River Watershed
Units: 1
Description
(See Geography 215)

ENVR 220 Ecotourism
Units: 1
Description
(See Geography 220)

ENVR 230 Environmental Economics
Units: 1
Description
(See Economics 230)
Prerequisites
Economics 101.

ENVR 250 Introduction to Earth Systems and Physical Geography
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNB)
Description
(See Geography 250.)

ENVR 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
Units: 1
Description
(See Geography 260; same as Biology 260.)

ENVR 269 Topics in Environmental Ethics
Units: 1
Description
Introduces students to the moral issues and ethical approaches that characterize interaction with our natural environment. Topics will vary but will typically include issues such as our moral obligation to nonhuman species and to future human generations, and ethical analysis of contemporary environmental issues such as climate change and species extinction.

ENVR 300 Special Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Selected topics about the environment.

ENVR 315 Landscape Ecology
Units: 1
Description
Applied science that focuses on the development, consequences, and management of environmental patterns. These patterns include the spatial distributions of species and the environment resources upon which they depend. Attention is paid to the importance of scale in natural resource management. Landscape ecology also emphasizes the role of humans in the environment.
Prerequisites
Geography/Environmental Studies 250, Environmental Studies 201, Biology 207, or permission of instructor

ENVR 320 Directed Research
Units: .5
Description
Research with a faculty member in an environmental area.

ENVR 321 Land Use Law
Units: .86
Description
A study of comprehensive plans and the planning process of land. Topics will include land use control by zoning, including history, power and purposes of zoning, types of zoning and uses. Types of zoning relief, historic and agricultural preservation, private land use controls and eminent domain will also be discussed. Particular emphasis will be placed on Virginia law and procedure and field trips to local Planning Commission and Board of Zoning hearings may be included.

ENVR 322 The Global Impact of Climate Change
Units: 1
Description
Rapid climate change is causing an increase in the temperature of the atmosphere and oceans. This is a truly global problem that requires international research and collaboration to resolve. The USA is a major producer of the atmospheric "greenhouse" gases that make a significant contribution to this global "anthropogenic" warming. The aim of this course is to introduce students to the global environmental impact of anthropogenic climate change, and to challenge students to think about the possible impact of the way we live in the USA on poor, marginalized and at risk communities around the world. Same as Geology 322U.

ENVR 323 The Geology of Disaster
Units: .86
Description
Basic geological principles as applied to help predict the occurrence and impact of natural disasters. Application of basic scientific principles to earth science. Exploration of the impact of the earth's varied internal processes on environmental change and human evolution. Same as Geology 320U.

ENVR 324 Environmental Law
Units: .86
Description
Survey of issues involved in the field through examination of major cases that have shaped the implementation of major federal environmental statutes since their passage beginning in the 1960s. Topics covered include the common law basis for environmental protection, constitutional and statutory authority to protect the environment, standing to bring environmental cases, the rules of judicial review, and substantive issues involving major environmental statutes and their implementing regulations. The cases are predominantly federal, but Virginia cases are used where appropriate. Same as LA 320U.

ENVR 325 Global Sustainability
Units: 1
Description
Examines the twenty-five global issues that the United Nations Commission on Sustainable Development has identified as the most critical global social, economic, and environmental challenges that are driving global change. Development of approaches to address the challenges. Same as BIOL 302U.

ENVR 330 Environmental and Resource Economic Theory
Units: 1
Description
(See Economics 330)
Prerequisites
Economics 271.

ENVR 350 Environmental Gradients
Units: 1
Description
(See Geography 350)
Prerequisites
Geography/Environmental Studies 250, Environmental Studies 201, Biology 207, Chemistry 110, or permission of instructor
ENVR 360 Environmental Remote Sensing
Units: 1
Description
(See Geography 360; same as Biology 360.)
Prerequisites
Environmental Studies/Biology/Geography 260 or permission of instructor.

ENVR 362 Environmental Law and Policy
Units: 1
Description
(See Political Science 362.)
Prerequisites
Environmental Studies 201 or Political Science 260.

ENVR 365 Advanced Spatial Analysis
Units: 1
Description
(See Geography 365.)
Prerequisites
Environmental Studies/Geography/Biology 260.

ENVR 388 Individual Internship
Units: .5
Description
Supervised independent field work. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of environmental studies coordinator.

ENVR 390 Independent Studies
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics independently pursued under supervision of a faculty member.
Prerequisites
Permission of instructor

ENVR 391 Environmental Senior Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Close study of a current environmental problem. Student develops a project to address the problem using approaches and skills from the environmental studies core and elective courses.
Prerequisites
Permission of environmental studies coordinator.

ENVR 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor.

Film Studies
Peter Lurie, Coordinator (English)
Professor Ravaux-Kirkpatrick (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures)
Associate Professors Bower (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures), Cheever (English), Drummond (Visual Media and Arts Practice & Art History), Fernandez (Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Studies), Hodierne (Journalism), Lurie (English), Raebel (Music), Siebert (English)
Assistant Professor Chan (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures), Damer (Classical Studies)

The film studies major is designed to furnish an integrated, interdisciplinary approach to the study of cinema, providing work in film history, theory, aesthetics, and production and considering U.S., international, indigenous and ethnic films. Students choose among courses offered in a number of different departments and programs to explore how individual movies, particular genres and stylistic movements, groundbreaking directors, and different regional, ethnic, and national film traditions reflect and influence the worlds of which they are a part. In so doing, students develop crucial skills in critical thinking, visual and textual analysis, and written and verbal communication that are vital for success in the majority of today's careers.

The major consists of ten courses. Three core courses are required: the introduction to film studies, the introduction to film production, and a capstone research seminar to be taken in the senior year. The remaining courses are electives offered by departments such as art and art history, classical studies, English, journalism, Latin American and Iberian studies, modern literatures and cultures, and music. These courses have been divided into three groups (A, B, and C); students choose two courses each from groups A and B. This range of courses provides students with the opportunity to construct a program of study that is targeted to their particular interests.

New courses are continually being developed, so check the film studies web site and BannerWeb for the most up to date schedule of recent and upcoming courses.

The Film Studies Major

Note: A grade of C (2.0) or better is required in all coursework comprising the Film Studies major.

10 units, including,

FMST 201 Introduction to Film Studies
FMST 202 Introduction to Film Production
FMST 400 Research Seminar
2 Group A courses
2 Group B courses
Three additional courses from either Group A, B, or C
(The course groupings are listed under the major/minor courses tab.)

Note: No more than three courses can be taken at the 200-level or below without permission of the relevant professor and the film studies coordinator.

The Film Studies Minor
6 units, including
FMST 201 Introduction to Film Studies
FMST 202 Introduction to Film Production
1 Group A course
1 Group B course
Two additional courses from either Group A, B, or C.
(The course groupings are listed under the major/minor courses tab.)

Note: No more than three courses can be taken at the 200-level or below without permission of the relevant professor and the film studies coordinator.

Film Studies Course Groups

Core Curriculum:
FMST 201 Introduction to Film Studies
FMST 202 Introduction to Film Production
FMST 400 Research Seminar

Group A Courses:
ENGL 367 Indigenous Film in North America
FMST 265 German Cinema
FMST 367 Culture in the Making: Conception and Actualization of a Film Festival
FMST 371 Introduction to Latin American Film
FMST 473 Political Action and Latin American Indigenous Film
FREN 465 French Film
LLC 227 Action Genre in East Asian Cinema
LLC 355 Chinese Cinema

Group B Courses:
CLCS 329 The Ancient World in Cinema
ENGL 361 Literature and Film
ENGL 368 History and Aesthetics of Film
ENGL 369 American Culture/American Film
ENGL 379 Film Directors
ENGL 380 Film Genres
FMST 374 Film Theory
MUS 221 Music in Film

Group C Courses:
FMST 203 Images and Sound: Introduction to the Language of Film
FMST 302 Intermediate Film Production
JOUR 307 Documentary Journalism I
JOUR 308 Documentary Journalism II
VMAP 117 Introduction to Film, Sound and Video
VMAP 260 Thematic Explorations in Sound and Video Art
VMAP 310 Time-Based Media Studio

Additional courses
FMST 397 Selected Topics in Film Studies (depending on subject matter, each iteration of this course would be categorized as either Group A, B, or C and apportioned accordingly)

Courses

FMST 201 Introduction to Film Studies
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Study of prominent examples of Latin American film production with special attention paid to aesthetic aspects of cinematographic language and cultural questions embodied in the films examined. (Same as LAIS 371.)

Prerequisites
For LAIS majors/minors: LAIS 309. For FMST majors/minors: FMST 201 or 202 with a grade of C or better.

FMST 374 Film Theory
Units: 1
Description
The course examines several different approaches to understanding what is unique the film medium as both an expressive art and a social and critical discourse. Models include the classic theories of realism of André Bazin and Siegfried Kracauer; the social and material history of Walter Benjamin, Theodor Adorno, and the Frankfurt School; feminism and gender studies; phenomenology; sound in cinema; critical race theory and whiteness studies; and digital media, among others. (Same as English 374.)

Prerequisites
Film Studies 201 or English 220, 297, or 298 with a grade of C or better.

FMST 388 Individual Internship
Units: 1
Description
Application of skills outside of the department in areas related to film studies. Possibilities might include working for a film festival or film series, on a film under production, or in associated fields. No more than one unit may apply towards the degree.

Prerequisites
Departmental approval

FMST 397 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
Selected topics in film studies (such as various national cinemas; the significance of particular directors, schools, or movements; period designations, or thematic approaches) for students pursuing a Film Studies major.

FMST 399 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Individually designed course of study supervised by a faculty member.

Prerequisites
Department Approval

FMST 400 Research Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Required seminar for majors taken in junior or senior year. Seminar focused around the in-depth study of an individual topic, culminating in a substantial research paper. Topics and instructors vary from semester to semester.

Prerequisites
Film Studies 201 or English 220 with a grade of C or better

FMST 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.

Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

FMST 473 Political Action and Latin American Indigenous Film
Units: 1
Description
Examines the main cinematic movements in Latin America, in which political action and the vindication of indigenous peoples and their land coalesce with a concern for a new film aesthetic. (Same as LAIS 473.)

Prerequisites
LAIS 321, 331, or 332 or FMST 201 or 203.

First-Year Seminar

Mary Kelly Tate (Law), Coordinator

First-Year Seminars (FYS) provide entering students the excitement of engaged learning through a diverse array of seminar topics. With small classes, a variety of topics, and close contact with faculty, First-Year Seminars offer a hands-on introduction to academic inquiry.

A wide variety of seminars will be offered each year, drawn from every school of the University. Each entering student will take a FYS in the fall and spring of the first year.

First-Year Seminars serve as an introduction to academic inquiry and the modes of expression that lie at the heart of a liberal arts education. They foster habits of mind fundamental to students' intellectual and academic development, including critical reading and thinking, sharing ideas and research through discussion, and the ability to write and think clearly and effectively. Integrating explorations of specific questions and topics with the development of skills, seminars aim to foster intellectual curiosity and students' ability to act on it.

All First-Year Seminars have the same five common goals:
1. expand and deepen students' understanding of the world and of themselves
2. enhance their ability to read and think critically
3. enhance their ability to communicate effectively, in writing, speech, and other appropriate forms
4. develop the fundamentals of information literacy and library research
5. provide the opportunity for students to work closely with a faculty mentor

French Program

Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures
Françoise Ravaux-Kirkpatrick, Section Coordinator
Professor Kapanga, Ravaux-Kirkpatrick
Associate Professors Delors, Pappas, Radda
Director of Intensive Language Program Baker
Director of Global Studio Scinicariello

This section contains information specific to the degree programs in French. For full information regarding departmental policies relevant to all the LLC degree programs, study abroad, and course sequencing, see the main page of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

The French Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70). Majors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the major requirements.

9 courses including

FREN 305 Writing in French through Culture and Literature

One course, chosen from:
FREN 301 French Conversation through Cinema
FREN 304 French Grammar Review
FREN 306 French at Work
FREN 311 French and Francophone Cultures

Two courses, chosen from:
FREN 320 The Individual in Society
FREN 324 Francophone Literatures and Cultures
FREN 325 Medieval and Early Modern Society
FREN 326 Revolution in France
FREN 327 The Question of Modernity

Four 400-level courses, at least three of which are numbered 411 or higher
One unit elective at the 300 or 400 level (may be an LLC course with CLAC component)

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

The French Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70). Minors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the minor requirements.

5 courses, including

FREN 305 Writing in French through Culture and Literature

One course, chosen from
FREN 301 French Conversation through Cinema
FREN 304 French Grammar Review
FREN 306 French at Work
FREN 311 French and Francophone Cultures

Two courses, chosen from
FREN 320 The Individual in Society
FREN 324 Francophone Literatures and Cultures
FREN 325 Medieval and Early Modern Society
FREN 326 Revolution in France
FREN 327 The Question of Modernity
One 400-level course

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

The Residency Requirement

For all French majors, at least 5 of the 9 courses required for the major must be taken on the University of Richmond campus. French majors and minors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the major or minor requirements.

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. For students of French, the department offers a summer study program in La Rochelle, France. In addition, there are exchange agreements for study during the academic year in France, Switzerland, and West and North Africa. For a complete list, contact the Office of International Education. Students majoring and minoring in French are strongly encouraged to complete one course in the French 320 series before studying abroad; minimally students should have completed French 305. For information on transferring courses for the French major and minor, contact Dr. Kapanga or Dr. Pappas.

The French Major/International Business Option

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

9 courses and an interdisciplinary research project in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major including:

Three 300-level courses (at least one FSLT), normally taken prior to study abroad
Two 400-level seminars following required study abroad
One semester full-time study at an approved business school (with all-French curriculum) in a French-speaking country (four courses)
IDST 379 Interdisciplinary Research Project

The French major/international business option represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University’s partner institutions with all-French curriculum (for example, ESSEC, Rouen Business School, or Université Catholique de Lille). There, students will continue their business concentrations in classes with both local and other international students.

To prepare for the experience abroad, students will have a solid base of 300-level French courses taken on the Richmond campus. Upon return, they will broaden their knowledge of literary and cultural studies through advanced seminars as well as additional Robins School of Business coursework. The French component of this program thus consists of five courses taken on campus plus four or five courses taken abroad, or the equivalent of a nine-course major in L.I.C.

Honors Program

The French Honors Program is designed for outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard course work. Students will engage in independent research and work closely with a faculty advisor on an Honors Thesis during their senior year.

Eligibility and Admission

To qualify for the Honors Program in French, a student should have:

- 18.5 or more units completed overall
- At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses, and a 3.50 cumulative grade point average for French courses

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of the faculty of the French section of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures and the approval of the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program. To enter the Honors Program, students must submit to the Honors coordinator of the French program a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of their junior year. Each student will be assigned an Honors research advisor with whom he or she will design a program of study that indicates how the student’s Honors Program will be accomplished.

Program Requirements

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal requirements for the B.A. in French.
- Take two 400-level French courses on campus for Honors credit. These courses will require extra work (supplementary readings and/or assignments, independent research on a topic related to the course, for instance). The extra work will be decided by the course instructor and vetted by the French Honors coordinator to ensure consistency.
- Take FREN 491 (Honor Thesis I, 0.5 unit, fall of senior year) and FREN 492 (Honors Thesis 2, 1 unit, spring of senior year) in order to complete a 25-30 page Honors Thesis written in French. This thesis will be based on extensive research and make an original contribution to French and Francophone studies. The student and his or her advisor should develop a schedule to meetings and assessment that they find appropriate and meet at least once a month. Honors students must present their thesis at the French Studies symposium at the end of their senior year. They are also strongly encouraged to apply for a Summer Research Fellowship during their junior year. The thesis will be graded by at least two readers, including the student's thesis advisor.

Students may withdraw at any time. If they do not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for French coursework, students will not receive credit for the Honors Program, and the department will submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Geography

Todd Lookingbill, Chair
Associate Professor Finley-Brook, Lookingbill, Salisbury
Director of Spatial Analysis Laboratory Klinker

The Geography Major

Note: No grade below a C- (1.70) will be allowed for credit within the major.
9 units, including
GEOG 210 Geographic Dimensions of Human Development
GEOG 250 Introduction to Earth Systems and Physical Geography
GEOG 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems
MATH 209 Introduction to Statistical Modeling (or equivalent research methods course, with approval of department)
GEOG 401 Geography Capstone

Four units in electives, which must include an approved experiential learning component (internship, field work, study abroad). Three of the electives must be at the 300 level or higher.

The Geography Minor

Note: No grade below a C- (1.70) will be allowed for credit within the minor.

6 units, including
GEOG 210 Geographic Dimensions of Human Development
GEOG 250 Introduction to Earth Systems and Physical Geography
GEOG 260 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems

Three units of electives in geography, to include no more than 1.0 unit of GEOG 390 nor more than 0.5 units of GEOG 388.

Courses

GEOG 210 Geographic Dimensions of Human Development
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Introduction to geographic approaches to study of cultural, societal, economic, political, and environmental change. Topics include: spatial analysis techniques and theories; population distributions and migration; cultural geographies; global economic development and its distribution; urbanization; political geography; and human-environment relations. (Same as International Studies 210.)

GEOG 215 Geography of the James River Watershed
Units: 1
Description
Study of the local environments and protected areas within the James River watershed. Explores the natural and human connections that define the resource challenges and opportunities within this urban watershed. (Same as Environmental Studies 215)

GEOG 220 Ecotourism
Units: 1
Description
Ecotourism integrates environmental protection, education, empowerment, local livelihoods, and responsible travel. The study of ecotourism allows students to document and analyze complex interactions between society and nature. (Same as Environmental Studies 220)

GEOG 279 Middle Eastern Geographies: Patterns of Space and Place
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to geography of the Middle East, increasing understanding of this exciting, dynamic region. Explores the physical and historical geographies of the region, and patterns of language, ethnicity, religion, settlement, and conflict. Includes Orientalism, Post-Colonial theory, identity, and urbanization. The discipline of Geography provides a unique perspective on the Middle East by integrating an understanding of the people with an understanding of the land.

GEOG 280 Selected Topics
Units: .25-1
Description
May be repeated when topics vary.

GEOG 315 Landscape Ecology
Units: 1
Description
Applied science that focuses on the development, consequences, and management of environmental patterns. These patterns include the spatial distributions of species and the environment resources upon which they depend. Attention is paid to the importance of scale in natural resource management. Landscape ecology also emphasizes the role of humans in the environment.
Prerequisites
GEOG/ENVR 250, ENVR 201, BIOL 207, or permission of instructor

GEOG 320 Power, Space, and Territory: Geographies of Political Change
Units: 1
Description
Analyses of and explorations into the spatial dimensions and geographic characteristics of global, regional, and local political change; and the political economy and ecology of globalization. Topics include: imperialism; world systems theory; nationalism; regionalism; electoral geography; race, class and gender; political economy of trade and foreign aid; and political ecology.

Prerequisites
GEOG 210 or PLSC 240 or 250.

GEOG 325 Latin American Geographies: Transnational and Local Connections
Units: 1
Description
Latin America is a culturally and ecologically diverse region with historical and contemporary connections to locations around the world, including Richmond, Virginia. Documenting the movement of people and flows of ideas, goods, and services, this course analyzes the political economy and ecology of transnational networks in areas such as immigration, security, transportation, communication, energy, and commerce while examining place-based consequences in local communities.

Prerequisites
GEOG/IS 210 or IS 290

GEOG 333 Geographies of Amazonia
Units: 1
Description
Explores the contradictions and connections of Amazonia. Considers the region's importance and relevance to the rest of the world through a study of the ecologies, histories, and geographies of Amazonia. Looks at the Amazon basin as much more than the world's greatest rainforest, richest reserve of biological and cultural diversity, and largest source of fresh water flow.

Prerequisites
IS/GEOG 210 or IS 290 or ENVR 201

GEOG 345 Society, Economy and Nature: Global Perspectives on Sustainable Development
Units: 1
Description
Applies geography’s human-environment tradition to examine social, cultural, and economic dimensions of sustainability and sustainable development. Examinations into foundations and theories behind the concept of sustainable development, discussions and debates about its real-world applicability, and explorations into case studies addressing relationships and contradictions between human desires for material well-being, environmental protection, and maintenance of cultural and/or social traditions.

Prerequisites
ENVR 201, GEOG 210, or IS 210.

GEOG 350 Environmental Gradients
Units: 1
Description
Investigation of the approaches, key concepts, and methods of studying environmental gradients. Explores quantitative methods for describing different aspects of climate, water, nutrient, and biotic systems and their interactions. A modeling approach is introduced and different types of conceptual, statistical, and simulation models are used to explore the different systems.

Prerequisites
GEOG/ENVR 250, ENVR 201, BIOL 207, CHEM 110, or permission of instructor

GEOG 360 Environmental Remote Sensing
Units: 1
Description
Concepts of image acquisition, image interpretation, and satellite remote sensing. Includes electromagnetic spectrum concepts, acquisition of image data, visual characteristics of vegetation and landforms, image interpretation, classification and transformation, and integration of remotely sensed imagery into other spatial analysis systems. Student research projects. (Same as Environmental Studies 360.)

Prerequisites
ENVR/GEOG 260 or permission of instructor.

GEOG 365 Advanced Spatial Analysis
Units: 1
Description
Advanced topics in Geographic Information Systems (GIS) theory, application, and analysis. Topics include use of Model Builder, analysis of aerial imagery and LiDAR data, use of 3D Analyst and ArcScene, and use of Network Analyst and topologies. Emphasis on practical and real-world applications of GIS for biological, environmental, and social science issues, culminating in student projects. This course may be repeated as specific course material frequently changes. (Same as Environmental Studies 365.)

Prerequisites
ENVR/GEOG 260.

GEOG 370 Geographies of Economic Development and Globalization
Units: 1
Description
Geographic perspectives on economic development and spatial analysis of trends in the global economy. Topics include: natural resource location and distribution; commodity flows and chains; technological change and diffusion; international trade; entrepreneurship and innovation; industrial location theory; social and cultural dimensions of development; geographies of labor; and regional development theories and trends.

Prerequisites
GEOG 210 or ECON 101 and 102.

GEOG 380 Selected Topics
Units: .25-1
Description
May be repeated when topics vary. (Same as International Studies 350.)

GEOG 388 Individual Internship
Units: .25-1
Description
Supervised independent work. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.

Prerequisites
Permission of supervising instructor.

GEOG 390 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics independently pursued under supervision of a faculty member. May be repeated twice for a total of up to two units.

Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

GEOG 401 Geography Capstone
Units: 1
Description
Capstone course is the culmination of the Geography major. The primary objective is to further develop students’ ability to conduct geographic research through the practical application of geographic methods and theory. Students will synthesize their knowledge of geography with an individual thesis or group project.

Prerequisites
GEOG/IS 210, GEOG/ENVR 260, and two 300-level GEOG courses of permission of instructor

GEOG 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.

Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

German Studies Program

Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures
Kathrin Bower, Section Coordinator
Associate Professor Bower
Assistant Professor Weist
Affiliated Faculty: Thomas Basfio (Comparative Literature & Linguistics), Erik Craft (Economics), Ladelle McWhorter (Philosophy), Judith Schrapt-Stirling (Management), Martin Salger-Reichel (Arabic Studies), John Treadway (History), Hugh West (History)

This section contains information specific to the degree programs in German studies. For full information regarding departmental policies relevant to all the LLC degree programs, study abroad, and course sequencing, see the main page of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

The German Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70). Up to three classes may be transferred in toward the minor. Minors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the minor requirements.

Five courses, including:
GERM 301 Conversation and Composition
GERM 321 Introduction to German Literature (18th-20th century)

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. German studies students can take advantage of semester or year exchange programs in Konstanz, Mannheim and Münster, Germany, as well as the summer program in Berlin.

The Residency Requirement
For all German Studies majors, at least 5 of the 9 courses required for the major must be taken on the University of Richmond campus. Majors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the major or minor requirements.

Cross-School Major in German Studies and International Business
(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

9 courses and an interdisciplinary research project in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including:
- Five units in German at the 300 or 400 level
- One semester full-time study at the Universität Münster School of Business and Economics or at the Universität Mannheim Business School (four courses)
- IDST 379 Interdisciplinary Research Project

The German major/international business option represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions. There, students will continue their Robins School concentrations and German Studies courses in classes with both local and other international students.

In order to prepare for the experience abroad, students in German will need to have completed at least GERM 202 on the Richmond campus. Students must take at least two courses in German at the Universität Münster or at the Universität Mannheim.

Students are required to take one 400-level course in German upon their return.

Courses

HCS 100 Introduction to Health Care Studies
Units: 1
Description:
Survey of: (1) how health care is financed, organized, and delivered both in the U.S. and in other countries; (2) major health policy areas and issues; and (3) what constitutes the study of public health, health administration, health services and bioethics. Surveys the key stakeholders: those who pay for, provide and receive care. Contrasts the different ways... that health care providers are paid, how and why reimbursement methods have changed over time, and their consequences for the quality, cost and accessibility of health care services. Finally, as a case study, the Affordable Care Act will be dissected for the purposes of illustrating the ways in which the U.S. health care system differs from those of other wealthy countries. No particular disciplinary background is assumed, nor is any special familiarity with the field of health care required.

Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the journeys that China, Korea, and Japan took that have resulted in the shape of East Asia as we know it today, examining their long history of interconnection and philosophical, cultural, and political traditions and the different ways they respond to similar issues at the same time.

HIST 251 Chinese Revolutions
Units: 1
Description
Study of the several Chinese revolutions that together spanned the better part of the twentieth century and changed China in fundamental ways, with particular focus on the life and work of the main instigator of those revolutions, Mao Zedong.

HIST 252 Modern China: 1900-1940
Units: 1
Description
Investigation of the period 1900-1940, during which many aspects of the modern Chinese state and society were established. Includes the emergence of Chinese national identity, Chinese vernacular, and the political ideologies that continue to define China today. Also studies the emergence of a sophisticated urban culture in cities like Shanghai, and radical transformations in the social fabric of Chinese society.

HIST 255 Meiji Japan: An Emperor and The World Named for Him
Units: 1
Description
Examination of the reign of the Meiji emperor (1868-1912), considered to be the period in which modern Japan emerges, as a loose unifying metaphor for the many radical shifts in Japanese society, politics, and culture that occurred in his time.

HIST 260 Colonial Latin America
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the multiple meanings and impacts of the complex, cataclysmic and often times bloody encounter between conquering Iberians (people from Spain and Portugal), Africans and the indigenous people of the Americas and the development of Latin America colonial societies until their national independence in the early nineteenth century.
Units: 1
Description
Introductory survey of Latin American history from independence; focus on the quest for political stability, economic development, and social change.

HIST 262 The Making of Modern Brazil
Units: 1
Description
Study of how modern Brazil came to be with special attention to comparative issues in the study of slavery, race, gender, and ethnicity.

HIST 263 Latin America in the Cold War Years
Units: 1
Description
Examination of internal and external forces behind the conflicts across Latin America during the Cold War (1948-1989): revolutionary regimes, guerrilla warfare, military repression, counterinsurgency and "dirty wars," Liberation Theology, evangelical movements, land reforms, economic development, genocide, and proxy wars.

HIST 264 Beyond Samba, Futebol, and Favelas: The History of Afro-Brazil
Units: 1
Description
Examination of race as a significant aspect of Brazilian history and Brazilian nationhood from the colonial era to the contemporary period. Ideological constructs of the state and elites will be considered alongside the political projects and social experiences of the popular classes. Ideas about race and being "Brazilian" will be traced from early cultural and scientific debates to modern political projects and conflicts involving labor relations, immigration policies, and education programs.

HIST 265 Gender and Sexuality in Latin American History
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the socio-political, cultural and economic processes through which gender, sexuality, class, and ethnic/cultural dynamics are interconnected and constructed in Latin America from the colonial era to the contemporary period. Focus will be on the complicated relationships between historically specific ideologies and socio-economic systems of production and domination, and the respective privileged or unprivileged positions of women and men under the colonialist, capitalist, socialist, and neoliberal states of Latin America.

HIST 270 Early Islamic World
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the major institutions that evolved under the aegis of Islamic Civilization from the advent of Islam in the early seventh century C.E. through the Mongol invasion in 1258. Since "Islam" in this context encompasses an entire cultural complex, the course will examine religious, political, economic, and social institutions.

HIST 271 The Modern Middle East
Units: 1
Description
Survey of Middle East from last years of Ottoman Empire to the present. Emphasis on culture, Zionism, Arab nationalism, diplomacy, and the Arab-Israeli conflict.

HIST 272 The Ottoman Empire
Units: 1
Description
Survey of the history of Ottoman Turkish power from its origins as an obscure band of frontier warriors (ghazis), to its emergence as a world-empire and its eventual collapse in the aftermath of World War I.

HIST 274 Latin America in the Cold War Years
Units: 1
Description
Examination of internal and external forces behind the conflicts across Latin America during the Cold War (1948-1989): revolutionary regimes, guerrilla warfare, military repression, counterinsurgency and "dirty wars," Liberation Theology, evangelical movements, land reforms, economic development, genocide, and proxy wars.

HIST 275 Beyond Samba, Futebol, and Favelas: The History of Afro-Brazil
Units: 1
Description
Examination of race as a significant aspect of Brazilian history and Brazilian nationhood from the colonial era to the contemporary period. Ideological constructs of the state and elites will be considered alongside the political projects and social experiences of the popular classes. Ideas about race and being "Brazilian" will be traced from early cultural and scientific debates to modern political projects and conflicts involving labor relations, immigration policies, and education programs.

HIST 276 Gender and Sexuality in Latin American History
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the socio-political, cultural and economic processes through which gender, sexuality, class, and ethnic/cultural dynamics are interconnected and constructed in Latin America from the colonial era to the contemporary period. Focus will be on the complicated relationships between historically specific ideologies and socio-economic systems of production and domination, and the respective privileged or unprivileged positions of women and men under the colonialist, capitalist, socialist, and neoliberal states of Latin America.

HIST 290 Britain and the World
Units: 1
Description
Survey of British history from the late eighteenth century to the present day, including Britain's relationship with its empire and the wider world. Topics include social relations during industrialization, imperial crises in Jamaica and India, feminism, the world wars, and the making of the welfare state.

HIST 299 Special Topics: Periods and Regions
Units: 1
Description
First-time or one-time courses in regions and periods not covered or not yet covered in the history program.

HIST 300 Claiming the American Revolution
Units: 1
Description
Consideration of the changing interpretations of the American Revolution and its legacies over time, from 1783 to the present. Explores key moments when early Americans argued over the meaning of the war in the first few decades after its conclusion. Examines the ways in which historians--and the public--have clashed over interpretations of the Founding Era.

HIST 301 The Civil War in Film and Literature
Units: 1
Description
Comparison of historians' treatments of the Civil War with its portrayal in documentaries, feature films, and literature.

HIST 306 American Identities Units: 1
Description
Thematic exploration of historical issues of identity development and construction in the twentieth-century United States, focusing on such questions as: What do historians mean by "identity"? How do they use categories like race, class, and gender to understand the American experience? How have they approached issues of status, power, and individuality?

HIST 321 History of Work in Europe Units: 1
Description
Historical study of the world of work in early modern and modern Europe. Focus on the nature of work itself, how it framed mentalities, created social classifications, informed economic thought, and shaped the political process. Topics include history of wage labor and guilds, early industry from countryside to cities, working class formation, division of labor in industry, and policing labor.

HIST 322 Conquest and Coexistence: Medieval Frontier Society Units: 1
Description
Examination of Medieval frontier societies in a comparative perspective, considering such themes as political organization and allegiances, and social, economic and religious life. Consideration given to both geographic and cultural frontiers—places where movement, confrontation, and intersection among peoples occurred. Particular emphasis on the dynamic of contact and separation, cultural exchange, and resistance in Southern Italy, Spain, the Crusader States, and the British Isles.

HIST 324 Text and Context: Anna Karenina and Her World Units: 1
Description
Interdisciplinary investigation of the Russian Great Reforms (1861-1881) through the lens of L.N. Tolstoi's "Anna Karenina." Examines issues connected to imperial Russian literary, social, cultural, and political history, as well as the subject of gender relations.

HIST 325 The Enlightenment Units: 1
Description
An exploration of approaches to and conceptions of what historians have come to call the "Enlightenment." What do they mean by "The Enlightenment?" In what ways do they seek fuller understanding of it? How and why do they disagree about its features? Although the main focus will be on secondary literature, primary texts will be read and discussed as examples of the kind of evidence scholars are trying to interpret.

HIST 326 Communism Units: 1
Description
An examination of the historical and philosophical issues surrounding the modern communist experience via the work of nearly two dozen major thinkers. A course in intellectual history, it pays special attention to the changing makeup of this supposedly monolithic ideology.

HIST 341 History and Memory: WWII in East Asia Units: 1
Description
Examination of the lingering controversies surrounding the history of WWII in East Asia. The focus is on the intersections of history and memory, and the politics of remembering and representing difficult historical events associated with the war. Issues include the Nanjing Massacre, comfort women, the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and the Battle of Okinawa.

HIST 361 Madness and Society in the Modern Era Units: 1
Description
Historiographical examination of such questions as: What is insanity? How do we define the normal and the pathological? Who in society is best suited to determine psychological health and sickness? Can there be sciences of the emotions and sexuality? How do class, race, religion, and gender influence our views of human mental functioning? Can the human mind know itself? How did the sciences of the mind (i.e. psychiatry, psychoanalysis, clinical psychology, psychopharmacology, and the cognitive neurosciences) claim tremendous scientific authority and exert enormous cultural influence at the turn of the twentieth century? A variety of settings will be considered, including continental Europe, North America, Latin America, and Africa from the late eighteenth to the early twentieth centuries.

HIST 370 Contending Visions of the Middle East Units: 1
Description
Examination of major debates in the field of Modern Middle Eastern and Islamic History, exploring what the main approaches and their critiques are, how the field (especially recently) came to be polarized and politicized, and where more fruitful middle ground might be found between these hardened categories. Topics will include Orientalism and its discontents, the rise of political Islam, nationalism, and "civilizational identities."

HIST 380 Women and Gender in African History Units: 1
Description
Examination of women's roles in and perspectives on some of the major issues in African history, including slavery, colonialism, and development.

HIST 390 Food and Power in Africa and Asia Units: 1
Description
Comparative exploration of the connection between food (cultivation, processing, distribution, consumption, and denial) and political legitimacy, social institutions, and individuals' identities and values in Asia and Africa from antiquity to present.

HIST 391 Transnational Social Reform
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the ideas, institutions, and social networks around which movements for transnational reform have been built. Students will examine the history of four movements for transnational social reform since the early 19th century: abolitionism, women's rights, anticolonialism, and environmentalism.

HIST 392 Nations and Nationalisms
Units: 1
Description
Investigation of the confusing theoretical terrain of nation, nationalism, and national identity through a survey of major 19th and 20th century schools of thought, culminating in students' own case studies of specific national movements.

HIST 395 The Historian's Workshop
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to various tools used by historians in their work. Topics covered might include digital methods, the nature of the archive, quantitative methods, paleography, oral history, genealogy, cartographic investigation, and exhibition design.

HIST 398 Historiography
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to principles and practices of historical writing. Although some attention is paid to the history of historical writing since classical times, focus will be on contemporary modes of historical writing.

HIST 399 Special Topics: Focused Themes
Units: 1
Description
First-time or one-time colloquia on focused topics not covered or not yet covered in the history program.

HIST 400 Research Seminar for Majors
Units: 1
Description
Required seminar for majors taken in junior or senior year. Investigation of a topic of limited focus culminating in substantial paper based on common reading and individual research in primary and secondary materials. Topics and instructors vary. See departmental Web site for seminar topics. Enrollment limited to 12 students.

HIST 401 Directed Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Individually designed reading or research program conducted under faculty supervision.
Prerequisites
Five courses in history and permission of department.

HIST 402 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
Practical history-related work combined with some academic study.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

HIST 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor.

HIST 411 Honors Thesis Prospectus
Units: .5
Description
Preparation of research prospectus for honors research seminar under direction of appropriate faculty.
Prerequisites
History 410 and admission to departmental honors program.

HIST 412 Honors Research Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Research and writing of honors thesis in history.
Prerequisites
History 410 and 411 and admission to departmental honors program.

HIST 413 Honors Research Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Research and writing of honors thesis in history.
Prerequisites
History 412.

Integrated Quantitative Science Program
Professors Bell (Chemistry), A. Hill (Biology)
Associate Professors Barnett (Mathematics and Computer Science), Boland (Biology), Kerckhove (Mathematics and Computer Science), Lipan (Physics)

The integrated quantitative (IQ) science course is a first-year course for prospective science majors that provides an integrated introduction to biology, chemistry, physics, mathematics and computer science, with an accompanying integrated lab. It will approach scientific inquiry from multiple perspectives to develop the kinds of cross-disciplinary problem-solving skills that will lead to significant advances in human understanding. The course is structured as six modules, each of which links two or three of the five disciplines under the overarching theme of "Challenges of a Changing Planet".

Instruction will be wholly integrated. The course will be team-taught by five faculty members each semester, one from each of the five disciplines represented. At least two of these faculty members will attend each class meeting, exploring connections between disciplines along with the students. Lab work will require skills from each of the disciplines and will take place in collaborative teams.

Purpose
The yearlong course is designed for high-achieving high school students who enjoy the challenges of solving tough problems, have completed high school calculus and physics and are planning to major in any of the sciences or mathematics. Students are required to apply for the course. The application asks for a listing of high school science and mathematics courses with grades and level (honors, AP, IB, etc.) as well as a short statement indicating the applicant’s interest in interdisciplinary science and motivation for taking the course.

The Course
The IQ Science course has a fall component and a spring component; each component consists of two 1-unit courses. Students who successfully complete one semester of the courses will satisfy both the Field of Study requirement in the Natural Sciences (FSNS) and the Field of Study requirement in Symbolic Reasoning (FSSR). Students who successfully complete both semesters of the course will earn four units toward graduation. The IQS courses may substitute for any of the following requirements: BIOL 199, CHEM 141, CMSC 150, and PHYS 131. For students planning to enroll in the pre-med program, IQS meets three of the program’s course requirements.

BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 1 with Lab - (See Biology section). Co-requisite: Math 190. 1 unit. (FSNB)
MATH 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 2 with Lab - (See Math section.) Co-requisite: Biology 190. 1 unit. (FSSR)
CHEM 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Lab - (See Chemistry section.) Prerequisites: Biology 190 and Math 190. Co-requisite: Physics 191. 1 unit.
PHYS 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 4 with Lab - (See Physics section.). Prerequisites: Biology 190 and Math 190. Co-requisite: Chemistry 191. 1 unit.

Integrated Science

Michael Kerckhove, Coordinator (Math)

The Integrated Sciences minor is designed for the student interested in an interdisciplinary approach to science. The over-arching theme is exploring the richness of types of problems that may be approached using a combination of sciences rather than one alone. Research experience is the cornerstone of the minor.

Coursework for the minor falls chronologically into three categories. In their first two years, students will typically take either the Integrated Quantitative Science (IQS) courses or the Science, Math, and Research Training (SMART) courses, plus PHYS 131. The IQS and SMART classes are structured around common themes that allow students to study topics in depth and from the perspectives of several scientific disciplines. The follow-up for each set of introductory science courses is the Research Training Seminar (IDST 284). Students not enrolled in IQS or SMART during the freshman year may qualify for the minor by taking the first course in the major in each of the five core disciplines as listed below and then enrolling in the Research Training Seminar (IDST 284). This seminar focuses on how interdisciplinary research programs are constructed and the types of problems that can be addressed using this approach.

During their junior and senior years, students will take two interdisciplinary courses that focus on a topic from at least 2 different disciplinary perspectives. A list of approved courses is available here, though students are encouraged to check with the coordinator for updates. The third component of the minor is the Senior Research Seminar (IDST 484). This is a literature-based course, for seniors only, that allows students to knit together their own research experiences with an in-depth study of scientific papers on current interdisciplinary research or an independent project of their design that integrates a study of primary literature with some aspect of interdisciplinary research.

The Integrated Science Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade in the minor below C- (1.7). Students are strongly advised to consult with faculty in planning their minor curriculum.

6.75-7.75 units, including

- Biology - BIOL 190 or BIOL 192 or BIOL 199
- Chemistry - CHEM 191 or CHEM 192 or CHEM 141
- Computer Science - MATH 190 or CMSC 150
- Mathematics - MATH 190 or MATH 211
- Physics - PHYS 191 or PHYS 131

IDST 284 Research Training Seminar
IDST 484 Integrated Science Senior Seminar

Two units, (one of which must be in addition to courses completed for a major or other minor), chosen from:

- BIOL 315/ENVR 315/GEOG 315 Landscape Ecology
- BIOL 316 Biological Imaging
- BIOL 317 Mechanochemical Cell Biology
- BIOL 320 Experimental Design and Biostatistics
- BIOL 321 Strategies of Sex and Death
- BIOL 335 Structural Biology
- BIOL 336 Eco-epidemiology
- BIOL 344 Behavioral Ecology
- BIOL 390 Special Topics: Bioinformatics
- BIOL 390 Special Topics: Epigenetics
- BIOL 390 Special Topics: Genomics
- CHEM 310 Physical Chemistry II
- CHEM 311 Theoretical and Computational Chemistry
- CHEM 316 Environmental Chemistry
- CHEM 330 Special Topics in Biochemistry: Interdisciplinary Thinking in the Molecular Life Sciences
- MATH 304 Mathematical Models in Biology and Medicine
- PHYS 203 Systems Biology
- PHYS 215 Computational Methods in Physics
- PHYS 479 Special Topic: Biophysics or another approved elective

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
An undergraduate research project in any science, math, or computer science area of significant length that culminates in a written report or poster presentation, chosen from:

- One unit in
  - BIOL 350 Undergraduate Research
  - CHEM 320 Introduction to Research
  - PHYS 381 Research
  - CMSC 340 Directed Independent Study
  - MATH 340 Directed Independent Study

or a full time summer research experience of at least 8 weeks.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

Interdisciplinary Concentrations

Interdisciplinary Concentrations within Disciplinary Majors or Minors

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Arts Management

Approachable by studio art, art history, music, theatre, and dance majors or minors and provides curricular links for students interested in further practical and academic experiences in the area of arts management. Faculty coordinators are the director of the Modlin Center for the Arts and the director of University Museums.

5 units, including

- MUS 345/THTR 345/ARTH 345 Philanthropy in the Arts
- MUS 388/THTR 388/ARTH 388 Internship

One unit, chosen from:
- ARTH 322 Seminar in Museum Studies
- MUS 310/THTR 310 Managing Performing Arts Organizations

One unit in accounting, chosen from:
- ACCT 201 Fundamentals of Financial Accounting
- ACCT 202 Fundamentals of Managerial Accounting

One unit in marketing, chosen from:
- MKT 320 Principles of Marketing
- MKT 321U Principles of Marketing

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted. Courses in accounting and marketing may be taken in the School of Business, the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, or by transfer in consultation with one of the concentration's coordinators. A concentration coordinator should be consulted for approval of the internship as appropriate for the concentration.

The arts management coordinators may be consulted for additional recommended courses in areas of arts, business, or leadership that support the student's particular area of interest. An arts course in an area other than a student's major or minor is encouraged, and may include applied music study or music ensembles.

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Comparative Literature for English Majors

The basic assumption behind this concentration is that literary studies can be unduly limited by restricting the context and parameters of scholarly inquiry to the literary works of one particular literary tradition, usually defined in fairly narrow geographical and linguistic terms. Comparative literature in the broadest sense may be defined as the text-based investigation of themes, issues, and works of art, free from the fetters of artificial geographical, cultural, political, or disciplinary demarcations. Students of comparative literature achieve a greater awareness of certain boundaries involved in the traditional study of literature—national, linguistic, generic, disciplinary, etc.—and of the issues and advantages involved in crossing these boundaries. In this concentration, students willing to acquire additional linguistic and disciplinary skills will develop the habits and tools necessary to address problems or topics of interest from a number of literary and disciplinary perspectives.

7 units, including

One upper level English or Languages, Literatures, and Cultures course (approved by the Concentration Coordinator) which focuses on the comparative and/or interdisciplinary study of a particular genre, theme, or historical period.

Three upper-level literature courses from the languages, literatures, and cultures, Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Studies, or classical studies departments, in the original language

Two courses in fields outside of literature (Students will choose from ancillary fields such as philosophy, art history, religious studies, etc., in support of their research concentration, and subject to approval of concentration coordinator.)

A one unit independent study culminating in a substantial research project; honors students can use this research project as their honors thesis.

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Medieval and Renaissance Studies for English and Art History Majors

English Majors

This concentration was created for English majors interested in deepening their knowledge of the cultures of the Middle Ages and Renaissance through interdisciplinary study. It thus requires that in addition to taking upper-level courses in Medieval and Renaissance English literature, majors also explore these periods from the perspective of other academic disciplines including, but not limited to, the history of art and architecture, foreign literatures, philosophy, religious studies, and history. It is hoped that the breadth of knowledge and intellectual flexibility that interdisciplinary study fosters will enable students in this concentration to undertake more complex kinds of research projects and achieve more sophisticated levels of critical thinking and writing than might otherwise have been possible.

7 units, including

ENGL 308 / IDST 390 Interdisciplinary Studies in the Middle Ages and Renaissance

One 300- or 400-level course in Medieval literature and one 300- or 400-level course in Renaissance literature, chosen from:

ENGL 301 Literature of the Middle Ages
ENGL 302 Literature of the English Renaissance
ENGL 304 Shakespeare
ENGL 309 Desire and Identity in the Renaissance: The Lyric Tradition
ENGL 330 Selected Topics in Literature Before the Early to Mid-19th Century
ENGL 400 Junior/Senior Seminar (depending on topic)

Three units from at least two different departments outside of English, chosen from below. Special topics courses in medieval and renaissance may be substituted with prior approval from the departmental coordinator.

ARTH 211 Medieval Byzantine Art 600-1453
ARTH 309 Image and Icon in Medieval Art
ARTH 310 Late Antinque and Early Christian Art
ARTH 312 Medieval Art in Western Europe 8th-15th Centuries
ARTH 314 Northern Renaissance Art
ARTH 315 Art of the Italian Renaissance
ARTH 316 Art in the Age of Reform
CLSC 306 The Classical Tradition
FREN 325 Medieval and Early Modern Society
FREN 411 The French Middle Ages
FREN 421 Renaissance
HIST 225 Medieval Italy
HIST 226 The Early Middle Ages
HIST 227 High Middle Ages
HIST 230 The Renaissance
HIST 233 Reformation Europe
ITAL 423 Le Tre Corone: Dante, Petrarca and Boccaccio
LAIS 421 Christians, Jews and Muslims from Frontier to Empire: Medieval Spain
LAIS 423 Imperial Spain: The Age of Conflict
LAIS 431 Le Siècle Classique
LLC 357 The Idea of the Renaissance: Self, History and Knowledge
LLC 358 Desire and Identity in the Renaissance: Self, History and Knowledge
PLSC 311 Classical Political Thought
RELG 241 Introduction to Early Christian Era
RELG 243 The World of the New Testament
RELG 341 Paul and Christian Origins
RELG 342 Whores, Dragons, and the Anti-Christ:Revelation and the Apocalyptic Imagination

Students also will be encouraged to consider enrolling in any number of the following courses (these courses will not, however, count toward the six courses in Medieval and Renaissance Studies required of English major concentrators):

ARTH 121 Survey I: Prehistory through the Middle Ages
ARTH 122 Survey II: Renaissance to the Present
CLSC 301 Greek Art and Archeology
CLSC 302 Roman Art and Archeology
ENGL 234 Shakespeare
FREN 431 Le Siècle Classique
GREK 301 Greek Epic
GREK 302 Greek Drama
HIST 223 The Roman Empire
PHIL 362 Philosophy of Religion
RELG 241 Introduction to Early Christian Era
RELG 243 The World of the New Testament
RELG 341 Paul and Christian Origins
RELG 342 Whores, Dragons, and the Anti-Christ:Revelation and the Apocalyptic Imagination

Interdisciplinary Concentration in Neuroscience for Biology, Psychology, and Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Majors

Majors in biology, psychology, or biochemistry and molecular biology with a special interest in neurobiology or behavioral neuroscience may apply to pursue an interdisciplinary concentration in neuroscience. Because of the scheduling demands of the concentration, students are strongly encouraged to declare as early as possible (fall of sophomore year is suggested).

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Designated Courses for Biology Majors

16.5 units, including

BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking or BIOL 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science I with Laboratory 1 or BIOL 192 Science, Math and Research Training I

BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II

Five additional units of biology approved for the major, four of which are at the 300 level, 3 of which are chosen from the list below, and four of which must have a lab. Students with one unit of research may take three of the five with a lab. The one unit of research may be satisfied by BIOL 350 (taken twice for 0.5 U each), BIOL 395 (1 Unit) or completion of BIOL 406 (summer undergraduate research) or by the dept chair's approval of an external summer research program.

BIOL 308 Comparative Vertebrate Anatomy with Lab
BIOL 311 Microanatomy with Lab
BIOL 312 Developmental Biology with Lab
BIOL 317 Mechanochmical Cell Biology with Lab
BIOL 338 Comparative Animal Physiology with Lab

Refer to undergraduategatolog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
BIOL 343 Neurobiology with Lab
BIOL 344 Behavioral Ecology with Lab
BIOL 345 Cellular Neurophysiology with Lab
BIOL 351 Special Topics (requires Neuroscience program approval)
BIOL 352 Evolutionary Developmental Biology with Lab
BIOL 354 Biological Basis of Neurodegenerative Diseases with Laboratory

CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry or CHEM 191
Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 3 with Laboratory or CHEM 192 Science, Math and Research Training II with Laboratory
CHEM 205 Organic Chemistry I
CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry II
MATH 212 Calculus II or MATH 232 Scientific Calculus II

Quantitative-physical science, one unit chosen from:
CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing
CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
CMSC 222 Discrete Structures for Computing with Lab
MATH 209 Introduction to Statistical Modeling
MATH 219 Introduction to the Design of Experiments
MATH 329 Mathematical Statistics
PHYS 127 General Physics 1 or PHYS 131 General Physics with Calculus I
PHYS 128 General Physics 2 or PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus II or PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics or PHYS 134 Biological Physics
BIOL 320 Experimental Design and Biostatistics (may count only for quantitative physical science requirement or 300 level additional unit in biology, but not both)

Completion of the 2 semester IQS course meets the quantitative-physical science requirement for the BS degree

PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses*

Two units of neuroscience-related psychology, chosen from:
PSYC 331 Behavioral Neuroscience
PSYC 333 Cognitive Science
PSYC 341 Cognitive Neuroscience
PSYC 441 Clinical Neuroscience
PSYC 442 The Neurobiology of Relationships
PSYC 444 Clinical Case Studies
Approved 400-level seminar

One half unit approved research project in neuroscience, chosen from:
BIOL 350 Undergraduate Research
BIOL 395 Honors Research

*Students who are pursuing the neuroscience concentration may request to bypass the PSYC 100 pre-requisite for the PSYC 200 course. Please make requests to the Chair of the Psychology Department.

Designated Courses for Psychology Majors

18 units, including
PSYC 100 Introduction to Psychological Science
PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
PSYC 331 Behavioral Neuroscience
PSYC 341 Cognitive Neuroscience
Two units of PSYC 361 Independent Research
Two units of senior research, chosen from:
PSYC 461/PSYC 462 Senior Research
PSYC 491/PSYC 492 Senior Honors

Two units of 400-level seminar
MATH 211-MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus I and II
BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II
One unit, chosen from:
BIOL 308 Comparative Vertebrate Anatomy
BIOL 311 Microanatomy
BIOL 312 Developmental Biology
BIOL 317 Mechanosensory Cell Biology with Lab
BIOL 338 Comparative Animal Physiology
BIOL 343 Neurobiology
BIOL 344 Behavioral Ecology
BIOL 345 Cellular Neurophysiology
BIOL 351 Special Topics (requires departmental approval)
BIOL 352 Evolutionary Developmental Biology
BIOL 354 Biological Basis of Neurodegenerative Diseases with Laboratory
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
CHEM 205 Organic Chemistry I
CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry II
Designated Courses for Biochemistry Majors

Note: A grade of C- (1.7) or better is required in each chemistry and biology course applied toward the major.

For the Bachelor of Science degree:

17-17.25 units including
BIOL 199 Introduction to Biological Thinking
BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
BIOL 202 Integrated Biological Principles II
BMB 300 Junior Seminar
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
CHEM 205-CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry
CHEM 309 Physical Chemistry
CHEM 324 Experimental Biochemistry
CHEM 325 Experimental Biophysical Chemistry
CHEM 326 Biochemistry

Two units of neuroscience-related biology courses, chosen from:
BIOL 317 Mechanosensory Cell Biology
BIOL 343 Neurobiology
BIOL 345 Cellular Neurophysiology
BIOL 352 Evolutionary Developmental Biology
BIOL 354 Biological Basis of Neurodegenerative Diseases with Laboratory

Two senior seminars, to include the presentation of a research topic, chosen from BMB 310 Senior Seminar I
BMB 311 Senior Seminar II
MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II

PHYS 127 or PHYS 131 General Physics I

One unit in physics, chosen from
PHYS 132 General Physics II
PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics
PHYS 134 Biological Physics

PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses*

One unit of neuroscience-related psychology, chosen from
PSYC 331 Behavioral Neuroscience
PSYC 333 Cognitive Science
PSYC 341 Cognitive Neuroscience
PSYC 440 Advanced Neuroscience
PSYC 441 Clinical Neuroscience
PSYC 442 The Neurobiology of Relationships
Approved 400-level seminar

One unit of neuroscience-related research in biology or chemistry or an approved experience that culminates in a written report or poster presentation

*Students who are pursuing the neuroscience concentration may request to bypass the PSYC 100 pre-requisite for the PSYC 200 course. Please make requests to the Chair of the Psychology Department.

Approvals for these classes must be requested in writing to the BMB Committee.

Interdisciplinary Studies

L. Stephanie Cobb, Coordinator (Religion)

Interdisciplinary studies offers two distinct programs: interdisciplinary colloquia and the self-designed interdisciplinary studies major (see below).

The Interdisciplinary Studies Major

Note: A grade of not less than C (2.0) is required in each course comprising the major.

10 units of coursework including the senior thesis, noting
- The nature of the approved program will determine whether the degree is a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science. The interdisciplinary studies major provides a student the opportunity to propose and pursue, with faculty supervision, a unique program of study.
- The specific program of study is developed by the student in consultation with two faculty advisors, cohering to a central student-determined theme, involving two or more departments, culminating in a significant senior thesis. The program must be approved by two faculty advisors, the interdisciplinary studies coordinator, and the dean of the School of Arts and Sciences.
- Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major.

Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Interdisciplinary Studies Honors Program

Because all Interdisciplinary Studies majors are unique to the individual student, there are no general requirements for honors beyond those established by the Arts and Sciences Honors Committee. Thus, to write for honors in Interdisciplinary Studies, the student must approach the Interdisciplinary Studies coordinator, be invited to write for honors, and submit the Honors program as required by the Honors Committee. Upon approval of the honors program, IDST 401-402 will be substituted for IDST 398-399 in the student's curriculum. The two thesis advisors will be the readers for honors and the coordinator will be bound by their judgment.

Courses

IDST 270 Pilgrimage Studies
Units: 5
Description
Taken in conjunction with the Chaplaincy's pilgrimage experience. The course provides a context for the academic exploration of the issues at stake in the travel component: to discover the cultural, historical, and political context of the place, to deepen the students' understanding of the religious traditions active in the region, and to cultivate community across lines of difference within the team itself. Restrictions: participation in pilgrimage program.

IDST 281 Principles of the Natural Sciences
Units: 0
Description
Explores foundational principles of biology, chemistry and physics. Students gain experience with using these principles in an applied context that fosters critical thought. The course is designed for pre-medical students who are preparing to take the medical college admissions test (MCAT).
Prerequisites
BIOL 205, CHEM 206, and PHYS 127 or 131.

IDST 284 Integrated Quantitative Science (IQS) Research Training Seminar
Units: .25
Description
Continuation of the appreciation of, and facility with, integrated, interdisciplinary research in science, math, and computer science. Through discussion and hands-on activities students will gain a greater perspective and will develop skills in research that crosses traditional disciplinary boundaries.
Prerequisites
(BIOL 190 and MATH 190 and PHYS 191 and CHEM 191) or (BIOL 192 and CHEM 192 and MATH 211 and MATH 212) or permission of the instructor.

IDST 285 Developing Interdisciplinary Research
Units: 5
Description
Focuses on development of an interdisciplinary research project from inception through writing of grant proposal.
Begins with discussion of scientific question being addressed, followed by discussions of broad concepts of a research proposal and, finally, the development and completion of a final proposal. Involves literature search, discussions concerning design and execution of experiments, as well as interpretation of data (both quantitative and qualitative). Experimentation will involve a variety of techniques and approaches; expose students to interdisciplinary nature of modern biomedically related research and how collaboration leads to enhancement of a project; and promote students' ability to think critically, write a proposal, and discuss and present their ideas to others in an effective manner. The faculty/research student teams will work to develop a final research proposal for NSF or another suitable funding agency.

Prerequisites
CHEM 141 and BIOL 200 and 202.

IDST 290 Selected Projects
Units: .5
Description
Follow-up research project for participants in the Sophomore Scholars in Residence program.

IDST 299 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
One semester elective. Explores a variety of topics that do not typically fall within disciplinary boundaries.

IDST 379 Combined Major Project/Portfolio
Units: .5
Description
Working with faculty mentors, students will write a 20-30 page research paper on an interdisciplinary topic. For students in combined majors with French and German, this paper will become part of a portfolio representing significant achievements in the major and emphasizing the interdisciplinary and/or cross-cultural aspects of the major.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

IDST 388 Individual Internship
Units: .25-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Departmental approval

IDST 390 Interdisciplinary Studies in the Middle Ages and Renaissance
Units: 1
Description
(See English 308.)

IDST 395 Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
Specialized study to provide maximum freedom in research and investigation.

IDST 397 Special Topics
Units: 1
Description
Topics will vary from semester to semester.

IDST 398 Senior Thesis
Units: .5
Description
For students in the interdisciplinary studies major.

IDST 399 Senior Thesis
Units: .5
Description
For students in the interdisciplinary studies major.

IDST 401 Honors Thesis
Units: 1
Description
Thesis course for students invited into departmental honors program. The honors thesis requires an oral defense, which is to include both the thesis advisors and a third party, to be determined by the coordinator in conjunction with the thesis advisors.
Prerequisites
Admission to departmental honors program.

IDST 402 Honors Thesis
Units: 1
Description
Thesis course for students invited into departmental honors program. The honors thesis requires an oral defense, which is to include both the thesis advisors and a third party, to be determined by the coordinator in conjunction with the thesis advisors.
Prerequisites
Admission to departmental honors program.

IDST 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

IDST 484 Integrated Science Senior Seminar
Units: .5
Description
Designed for students to pull together earlier interdisciplinary course experiences; discussions of recently published journal articles and talks by faculty doing interdisciplinary research will allow students to build on their appreciation of, and facility with, integrated, interdisciplinary research in science, math, and computer science. Restricted to seniors.
Prerequisites
Interdisciplinary Studies 284 and Math 212, 232, or 235

International Studies
All International Studies students should experience American, Latino and Iberian Studies.

The International Studies Major

A. Foundational Study in Language and Culture

Students specializing in International Studies should be proficient in at least two languages. For many students this requirement can be met by completing two courses taught in a language other than English at the 300 or 400 level in the departments of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures or Latin American, Latino and Iberian Studies.

B. Approved Experience Abroad

All International Studies students should experience significant cultural immersion via a study abroad program of at least one semester in length, related to the major concentration. Students requesting an exception to this requirement may submit a written petition to the program coordinator for review by a committee of International Studies faculty.

C. International Studies Coursework (three core units and an IS concentration)

Successful completion of IS 290 is a prerequisite for IS 400.

Students work with faculty advisors to choose additional electives, including courses taken abroad, with each concentration. Course selections should comprise an interdisciplinary mix of courses from anthropology, art history, classics, communications, economics, environmental studies, geography, history, law, leadership, literature, music, political science, religion, sociology, theater, and women's studies. Within each concentration, eight units must be selected from three or more departments with no more than four units from a single department. While studying abroad students are encouraged to work with faculty advisors to identify courses not listed in the Richmond catalog that complement their academic program.

The International Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade less than C- (1.7).

13 units, including:

A. Foundational Study in Language and Culture

Students specializing in International Studies should be proficient in at least two languages. For many students this requirement can be met by completing two courses taught in a language other than English at the 300 or 400 level in the departments of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures or Latin American, Latino and Iberian Studies.

B. Approved Experience Abroad

All International Studies students should experience significant cultural immersion via a study abroad program of at least one semester in length, related to the major concentration. Students requesting an exception to this requirement may submit a written petition to the program coordinator for review by a committee of International Studies faculty.

C. International Studies Coursework (three core units and an IS concentration)

One unit, chosen from:

- PLSC 250 Introduction to International Relations
- GEOG 210/IS 210 Geographic Dimensions of Human Development
- IS 290 Perspectives in International Studies
- IS 400 Senior Seminar

An international studies concentration (within the concentration: eight units selected from three or more departments with no more than four units from a single department)

Note: With prior approval, study abroad courses may be applied toward the major.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

International Studies: Africa

Advisors: Sheila Carapico (Political Science), Sandra Joireman (Political Science), Carol Summers (History)

Core Teaching Faculty: Jimmy Kandeh (Political Science), Kasongo Kapanga (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures), Sandra Joireman (Political Science), Elizabeth Ransom (Sociology and Anthropology), Julietta Singh (English), Carol Summers (History)

Note: Within the concentration, the eight units must be selected from three or more departments with no more than four units from a single department. It is expected that students will undertake their study abroad in Africa or at an international university noted for excellence in African studies.

8 units, chosen from the following (may include up to two courses dealing with the African diaspora, marked with an *)

- ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- ANTH 300 Sexuality and Gender Across Culture
- ANTH 304 Ritual, Witchcraft and Divination
- ANTH 328 Anthropology of Human Rights

ANTH 308 Latin America: An Ethnographic Perspective
GEOG 333 Geographies of Amazonia
HIST 261 Modern Latin America
HIST 262 The Making of Modern Brazil
HIST 264 Beyond Samba, Futebol, and Favelas: The History of Afro-Brazil
HIST 265 Gender & Sexuality in Latin American History
LAIS 312 Peoples and Cultures of Latin America
LAIS 473 Political Action and Latin American Indigenous Film
PLSC 349 Politics of Latin America and the Caribbean

Group 4: The Middle East
ANTH 350 Sex and Gender in the Middle East
ANTH 360 Power and Society in the Middle East
GEOG 279 Middle Eastern Geographies: Patterns of Space and Place

Development Related Courses
Possible additional electives from courses listed above, selected topics, courses studied abroad, internships, independent study, or the following courses:

ANTH 300 Sexuality and Gender Across Culture
ANTH 303 Biopolitics in Medical Anthropology
ANTH 328 Anthropology of Human Rights
ECON 105 Introduction to Global Economics
ECON 230/ENVR 230 Environmental Economics
ECON 260 International Policy
ECON 310 International Trade: Causes, Consequences, and Controversies
ECON 360 International Macroeconomics

SOC 306 Social Change in a Global Perspective
SOC 335 Feast and Famine: Inequalities in the Global Food System

All students concentrating in Development are encouraged, but not required, to conduct independent research, in consultation with their IS faculty advisor. Summer research may be eligible for University funding.

International Studies: International Economics

Advisors: Sheila Carapico (Political Science), Jonathan B. Wight (Economics)
Core Teaching Faculty: Maia Kersti Linark (Economics), Jonathan B. Wight (Economics)

Students are strongly encouraged to develop proficiency in economics with either a minor or double major (see Economics department listings for requirements).

Note: Within the concentration, the eight units must be selected from three or more departments with no more than four units from a single department.

8 units, including

Three units, chosen from

ECON 210 The Economics of the European Union
ECON 211 Economic Development in Asia, Africa, and Latin America

In addition to the regularly offered courses there will be others offered occasionally that may count towards an Italian studies major. All courses outside LLC that can be taken for credit towards the major will be announced by the section coordinator at the beginning of each registration period. Students should always check with the section coordinator to make sure that courses outside of LLC will count towards the major. Students are strongly encouraged to satisfy some of the prerequisites of the major by studying abroad. Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. For students of Italian, the department offers summer study programs in Italy. In addition, there are exchange agreements for study during the academic year in Verona, Ferrara, and Milano. For a complete list, contact the Office of International Education.

The Residency Requirement

For all Italian majors, at least 5 of the 9 courses required for the major must be taken on the University of Richmond campus. Majors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the major or minor requirements.

The Italian Studies Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.70). Up to three classes in transfer may be used toward minor requirements. Minors must take at least one 400-level class on campus after studying abroad, regardless of whether or not they have sufficient credits to fulfill the minor requirements.

Students are strongly encouraged to satisfy some of the requirements of the minor by studying abroad.

Cross-School Major in Italian Studies and International Business

(Earned in conjunction with a major in the Robins School of Business with an international business concentration.)

9 courses and a senior project (498-499), in addition to completing all requirements of the international business concentration for the business administration major, including

Five units in Italian at the 300 or 400 level
IDST 379 Interdisciplinary Research Project
One semester full-time study at Bocconi University of Economics and Business Administration or Verona University (four courses)

The Italian major/international business option represents a collaborative project between the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. Designated faculty members from each program will advise students upon declaration and as they progress through the major. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University's partner institutions. There, students will continue work on their Robins School and Italian Studies requirements in classes with both local and other international students.

In order to prepare for the experience abroad, students in Italian will need to have completed at least Italian 221 on the Richmond campus; they must take at least one concurrent course in Italian while at Bocconi. Students are required to take one 400-level course in Italian upon their return.

Honors Program

The Italian Honors Program is designed for outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard course work. Students will engage in independent research and work closely with a faculty advisor on an Honors Thesis during their senior year.

Eligibility and Admission

To qualify for the Honors Program in Italian, a student should have:

1. 18.5 or more units completed overall
2. At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses, and a 3.50 cumulative grade point average for Italian courses.

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the program with the special recommendation of the faculty of the Italian section of the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures and the approval of the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program. To enter the Honors Program, students must submit to the Honors coordinator of the Italian program a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of their junior year. Each student will be assigned an Honors research advisor with whom he or she will design a program of study that indicates how the student’s Honors Program will be accomplished.

Program Requirements

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal requirements for the B.A. in Italian.
- Take two 400-level Italian courses on campus for Honors credit. These courses will require extra work (supplementary readings and/or assignments, independent research on a topic related to the course, for instance). The extra work will be decided by the course instructor and vetted by the Italian Honors coordinator to ensure consistency.
- Take ITAL 491 (Honor Thesis I, 0.5 unit, fall of senior year) and ITAL 492 (Honor Thesis 2, 1 unit, spring of senior year) in order to complete a 25-30 page Honors Thesis written in Italian. This thesis will be based on extensive research and make an original contribution to Italian. The student and his or her advisor should develop a schedule to meetings and assessment that they find appropriate and meet at least once a month. Honors students must present their thesis at the Italian Studies symposium at the end of their senior year. They are also strongly encouraged to apply for a Summer Research Fellowship during their junior year. The thesis will be graded by at least two readers, including the student’s thesis advisor. Students may withdraw at any time. If they do not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for Italian coursework, students will not receive credit for the Honors Program, and the department will submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

For full course listings in Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, and Russian, see the individual program pages.

Study Abroad

Study and travel abroad are strongly encouraged for all students. The department offers summer study programs in China, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Jordan, and Russia. In addition, there are exchange agreements for study during the academic year in Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Quebec, and Russia; others are being negotiated. For a complete list, contact the Office of International Education.
The Residency Requirement

For all LLC majors, at least 5 of the 9 courses required for the major must be taken on the University of Richmond campus. If the student participates in a study abroad program, at least one upper-level course in the major must be taken upon return from the program.

Administration

Placement
A student who desires to continue study of a language begun elsewhere or spoken as a first language will be placed for continuation by the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures. The determination of level may be by the score received on the AP, IB or SATII test in a given language; by placement test; or, in special cases, by interview. Students who meet the language communication skills requirement by placement may not take for credit 100- or 200-level courses in the same language.

Sequential Credit
Once the 100 or 200 level is begun, continuation, if any, must be to the next higher level within the sequence of courses. Students cannot receive credit toward the degree for 100- or 200-level coursework which is taken after credit has been earned in coursework more advanced in the sequence.

Medium of Instruction
All courses taught in the department are taught in the respective language with the exception of the courses listed in the languages, literatures and cultures category.

Self-Directed Language Acquisition Program (SDLAP)

The Self-Directed Language Acquisition Program allows students to study languages not offered in the standard curriculum. Participants in the program develop competence in speaking, reading, and writing a less-commonly-taught language while honing their skills as autonomous learners and exploring the cultural context of language use. Modern Hebrew, Persian, Swahili, and Turkish are routinely offered; other languages are offered upon student request when necessary resources can be arranged.

All students begin the program in SDLC 110 or SWAH 110. SDLAP courses do not fulfill the COM 2 requirement. It is strongly advised that students complete COM 2 before entering the program.

LLC 227 The Action Genre in East Asian Cinema
Units: 1
Description
The action genre is a persistent film genre with a strong literary, theatrical, and operatic tradition in East Asian cinema. This course traces the historical and cinematic evolution of the action genre from swordplay to kungfu to gunplay in Hong Kong, Japanese, and Korean cinema from the 1960s to the digital age. Students will acquire a critical vocabulary in visual analysis such as classical Hollywood narration, montage, continuity editing, and the "pause-burst-pause" pattern that are central to the punctuation of kineesthetic shocks in the action genre. We will explore how culturally specific codes of honor, loyalty, masculinity, and femininity (rooted in literature and theatrical codes) are lost or gained in translation as a result of film adaptations, international co-productions, and cross-cultural readings.
Taught in English. All films are subtitled in English.

LALIS Curriculum for Students with Advanced or Superior Proficiency in Spanish

The following curriculum is designed for students entering the university with advanced or superior proficiency in Spanish. This includes native speakers, heritage speakers, and students who have acquired advanced proficiency through residence in a Spanish-speaking country. Students with advanced or superior proficiency must seek the advice of a faculty member in the department before registering.

Students with advanced or superior proficiency who wish to pursue a major or minor in LALIS should complete their studies with courses higher than 309. The total number of units required for the major remains 9.5; for the minor, 6.

Students with advanced or superior proficiency who wish to take LALIS courses as electives, without pursuing a major or minor, should follow the same criteria. Students cannot take a course below 309 for elective credit, except with permission of the department.

LAIS 496 Senior Symposium

The cross-school major in Latin American, Latino and Iberian Studies and International Business represents a collaborative project between the Department of Latin American and Iberian Studies in the School of Arts and Sciences and the International Business Program in the Robins School of Business. The curriculum includes a semester abroad at one of the University’s partner institutions (for example, Universidad Torcuato Di Tella in Argentina, Universidad de Deusto in Spain, or Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey in Mexico). At such institutions, students will continue their Robins School concentrations in classes with both local and other international students.

In order to prepare for the experience abroad, students in LAIS will have a solid base of 300-level courses taken on the Richmond campus. Upon return they will broaden their knowledge of literary and cultural studies through advanced seminars as well as continue their Robins School coursework.

Note about Portuguese

LAIS 333, Portuguese for Spanish Speakers, is an accelerated language course aimed at students already fluent or proficient in Spanish (either heritage speakers or advanced students who have completed at least one FSLT course in LAIS: 321, 331, or 332). Permission of instructor required in other cases. This course may be taken as elective credit for the LALIS major and minor. Students taking this course may also earn credit towards the Luso-Brazilian Studies Minor.

Law and the Liberal Arts

Nancy Schauber, Coordinator (Philosophy)

Law and the liberal arts is an interdisciplinary minor that consists of courses from across the curriculum. The courses that count toward the major are among those that are generally recommended by law schools for students thinking about going to law school. The purpose of the courses within the minor is to prepare one to think critically and analytically as a well-rounded liberal artist. The courses are divided into eight areas: law, American history, economics, ethics, legal system, logical reasoning, public speaking and debate, and writing.

The Law and the Liberal Arts Minor

Note: Students must receive a C (2.0) or above for these courses to count toward the minor. No course taken for less than .5 units will count toward the minor.

6 units, including

- One unit in Area 1
- Five units from at least five of the remaining areas

No more than three of the courses to be applied toward the minor may be from any one department. At least two courses must be at the 300-level or higher to count toward the minor. No more than two courses at the 100-level may count toward the minor.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

Linguistics

Thomas Bonfiglio, Coordinator (Languages, Literatures, and Cultures)

Linguistics at Richmond is an interdisciplinary minor that studies the system of language as a medium of cognition and perception and as a social institution; it enables students to view human culture through the lens of human language. It focuses on such issues as phonetics; word formation; historical linguistics; syntax; semantics; cultural assumptions coded in texts; variation based on region, gender, class, race/ethnicity; how language determines cultural and social categories; and the relationship between language and thought. The linguistics minor combines the study of phenomena from such disciplines as anthropology, modern and ancient literatures and cultures, psychology, and rhetoric and communication.

The Linguistics Minor

8 units, including

MLC 350: Introductory Linguistics
One full-year sequence chosen from the following non-Indo-European languages:
- ARAB 101-ARAB 102 Elementary Arabic
- CHIN 101-CHIN 102 Elementary Chinese
- JAPN 101-JAPN 102 Elementary Japanese
- SWAH 110-SWAH 111 Mentored Self-Directed Swahili
- SDLC 110-SDLC 111: Self-Directed Language Learning I and II: Hebrew, Turkish, or another self-directed language chosen in consultation with the advisor

One advanced (300 or 400 level) course in a language other than English
Four units of elective chosen from the following (no more than two of the 100-level and no more than two in the same department):
- ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- ANTH 211 Ethnographic Field Methods
- ANTH 290 Theoretical Foundations of Cultural Anthropology
- ANTH 300 Sexuality and Gender across Cultures
- CLSC 201 Classical Elements in the English Language
- EDUC 324 Reading Foundations for Early Literacy Instruction
- ENGL 381 Modern Grammar
- ENGL 390 Literary Translation
- FREN 415 Traduction
- LLC 198 Teaching English as a Second Language through Literature and Film
- LLC 352 Language, Race, and Ethnicity
- LLC 362 History of the Romance Languages
- LLC 410 Teaching of a Modern Second Language
- PSYC 333 Cognitive Science
- PSYC 341 Cognitive Neuroscience
- RHCS 103 Rhetorical Theory
- RHCS 104 Interpreting Rhetorical Texts
- RHCS 327 Contemporary Rhetorical Theory
The Luso-Brazilian Studies Minor

Note: Students must receive a C (2.0) or above for these courses to count toward the minor. No course taken for less than .5 units will count towards the minor.

5-6 units, including

LAIS 333 Portuguese for Spanish Speakers or another comparable intermediate/advanced course in Portuguese language. The requirement in Portuguese language can be fulfilled in one of the following ways:

1. LAIS 333 Portuguese for Spanish Speakers
2. Exemption through a placement test that measures oral, writing, reading, and comprehension skills. Exempted students must still take a total of 5-5.75 units to complete the minor; thus, they may substitute LAIS 333 with an elective
3. Completion of Portuguese language coursework at one of our partner institutions abroad (PUC Rio, SIT, CIEE Brazil, or CIEE Portugal).

LAIS 343 Luso-Brazilian Studies: A Global Perspective with optional C-LAC component in Portuguese language

Three interdisciplinary electives

Students fulfilling their electives on campus will choose from course offerings within the specific field of Luso-Brazilian Studies or from a myriad of related academic disciplines. Students are required to seek approval for each elective in consultation with the program director. As a general rule, advanced courses in related disciplines may be taken for credit within the Luso-Brazilian Studies minor as long as the student seeks prior approval and fulfills a corresponding C-LAC (Cultures and Languages Across the Curriculum) component in Portuguese language or culture (worth 0.25 units). In fulfilling each C-LAC component, a student will complete a project focusing on a Lusophone topic that intersects with the scope of the course. (For example, a student enrolled in PLSC 348 Politics of Africa could complete a project on the economic, migratory, and military relations between the Lusophone country of Mozambique and South Africa). If a Luso-Brazilian Studies elective is taken abroad with Portuguese as the language of instruction, then the C-LAC requirement will be waived.

The following electives in Luso-Brazilian Studies are content specific and this C-LAC is optional:

- DANC 218 Capoeira Angola
- GEOG 333 Geographies of Amazonia
- HIST 262 The Making of Modern Brazil
- HIST 264 Beyond Samba, Futebol, and Favelas: The History of Afro-Brazil

Mathematical Economics

Note: A grade point average of C (2.00) is required in the major, with no course grade below a C- (1.70) in courses counting towards the major.

16 units, including

Required Core

- CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing or CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
- ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
- ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics
- ECON 270 Introductory Econometrics
- ECON 271 Microeconomic Theory
- ECON 272 Macroeconomic Theory
- ECON 341 Mathematical Economics
- MATH 211 Calculus I
- MATH 212 Calculus II
- MATH 235 Multivariable Calculus
- MATH 245 Linear Algebra
- MATH 329 Probability

Two units chosen from:

- MATH 300 Fundamentals of Abstract Mathematics
- MATH 309 Financial Mathematics; Theory of Investments
- MATH 312 Differential Equations
- MATH 320 Real Analysis
MATH 323 Discrete Mathematical Models
MATH 328/CMSC 328 Numerical Analysis
MATH 330 Mathematical Statistics
MATH 336 Operations Research
MATH 396 Special Topics (approved for MTEC major)

Two units chosen from:
ECON 300 Industrial Organization and Public Policy
ECON 310 International Trade and Finance
ECON 315 Advanced International Macroeconomics
ECON 330 Environmental and Resource Economic Theory
ECON 331 Labor Economics
ECON 332 Public Economics
ECON 360 Selected Economic Topics
ECON 370 Advanced Econometrics
ECON 372 Advanced Macroeconomics
ECON 480 Senior Capstone Seminar in Economics

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Honors Program
In order to be eligible, students must have met the following qualifications:

- Completion of at least 18 units of coursework, not including courses in which the student is currently enrolled
- Overall GPA of 3.3 or higher
- Completion of at least four units within the major, excluding courses primarily for first-year students (MATH 211, MATH 212, MATH 232, ECON 101, ECON 102), with a cumulative GPA in all such courses of at least 3.3

The student will select a willing faculty member to serve as lead advisor for the project. Together they find a second faculty member to serve as consultant. One faculty member should be from economics and one from mathematics.

The student and lead advisor will plan the student’s honors program. The student and advisor will plan four units of coursework in support of the honors topic. Two of these units will be MATH 340 Directed Independent Study or ECON 490-ECON 491 Honors Seminar/Research, depending on the department of the lead advisor. These courses are used to prepare the honors thesis. The remaining two units will be selected from the regular curriculum with an additional honors component; one unit will be from upper-level economics and one unit from upper-level mathematics. These courses will be chosen with an eye towards maximizing the student’s ability to produce a quality honors thesis.

A completed honors thesis will be read and approved by a committee of at least three readers, including the lead and consulting advisors, and will be presented to the faculty in both departments.

Math
Department of Mathematics and Computer Science

William Rass, Chair
Professors Charlesworth, Davis, Dumbaugh, K. Hoke, Kram, Nall, Rass
Associate Professors Barnett, Caudill, Kerckhove, Lawson, Shaw, Szajda
Assistant Professors Krehbiel, LeCrone, Rasmussen, Wares
Director of Developmental Mathematics H. Hoke

The Math Major
Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no mathematics course grade below C- (1.7). Students are strongly advised to consult with faculty in planning their major curriculum.

For either the Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree:

- MATH 211 Calculus I
- MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II
- MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus
- MATH 245 Linear Algebra
- MATH 300 Fundamentals of Abstract Mathematics
- MATH 306 Abstract Algebra I
- MATH 320 Real Analysis I
- CMSC 150 or CMSC 155 Introduction to Computing
- Four electives in math at the 300-level

And for the Bachelor of Science degree:

- Four other units in computer science with at least two at the 300 level, or two units beyond the introductory level in one of the following fields: physics (200 level or above), chemistry (200 level or above), or biology (numbered higher than 205).

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Note: Students are strongly advised to complete either MATH 306 or MATH 320 prior to the senior year.

The Math Minor
Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no mathematics course grade below C- (1.7). Students are strongly advised to consult with faculty in planning their minor curriculum.

- 6 units, including
- MATH 211 Calculus I
- MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II
- MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus
- MATH 245 Linear Algebra
- Two units at the 300 level

Actuarial Sciences
Students interested in becoming an actuary should consider either majoring in mathematics or mathematical economics. Either of these options will provide the necessary education that can lead to successful entry into the field. A strong background in mathematics is essential for students interested in a career as an actuary. This should include
Three semesters of calculus (MATH 211, MATH 212, and MATH 235),
One semester of linear algebra (MATH 245), and
Two semesters of calculus-based probability and statistics (MATH 329 and MATH 330).
In addition, courses in applied statistics, computer science, economics, and finance are also extremely valuable.

The best way to ensure that you are attractive from an employment perspective is to pass the beginning actuarial examinations while you are still a student. Actuaries achieve professional status by passing a set of examinations and by satisfying certain educational experiences that are prescribed by the CAS and the SOA. The concepts contained in these assessments can be based on college courses (a B- or better is required), or an exam can be taken. For more information about preparing to be an actuary, contact Dr. Kathy Hoke in the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science.

Pre-calculus
The Math and Computer Science Department at University of Richmond does not offer Pre-calculus. Students needing this course as a pre-requisite to other courses will need to complete it in high school or make their own arrangements to complete it later. The course is not eligible for transfer and will not count toward a B.A., B.S., or B.S.B.A. degree at the University of Richmond.

Honors Program in Mathematics
Promising, qualified math majors are invited by the faculty to apply to the honors program in mathematics. Successful completion of the program is designated on the student’s academic record and diploma.

To qualify, students must have:
• completed 19 or more units of University work;
• earned a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0;
• completed 3.5 or more units in mathematics courses at the level of MATH 235 or higher;
• submitted a recommendation letter from a member of the mathematics faculty;
• submitted an application to the program, working in conjunction with a faculty member to describe a topic and develop a plan for completing the thesis.

To earn honors in mathematics, students must have successfully completed:
• two 300-level courses taken for honors credit;
• one year (2 units) of directed independent study, wherein the student works with one or more faculty members on a selected project;
• the presentation of an honors paper to the mathematics faculty as a culmination of the independent study (the paper must be accepted by the departmental committee.)

Courses
MATH 102 Problem Solving Using Finite Mathematics
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Topics to demonstrate power of mathematical reasoning.
Course has two components: (1) introduction to the fundamentals of mathematical reasoning, and (2) the application of these fundamentals to at least one particular area of mathematics. The area is dependent on the instructor.

MATH 190 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 2 with Laboratory
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
One of two courses taught fall semester as part of Integrated Quantitative Science program. Each semester of the course will be organized around a guiding principle that integrates several concepts. Along with co-requisite, will include ten hours for lecture and lab combination.
Prerequisites

MATH 195 Special Topics
Units: .25-1
Description
Special topics satisfying neither major nor minor requirements.

MATH 209 Introduction to Statistical Modeling
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Topics will include exploratory data analysis, correlation, linear and multiple regression, design of experiments, basic probability, the normal distribution, sampling distributions, estimation, hypothesis testing and randomization approach to inference. Exploratory graphical methods, model building and model checking techniques will be emphasized with extensive use of statistical software for data analysis.
Prerequisites
Pre-calculus.

MATH 211 Calculus I
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Limits, continuity, derivatives, and integrals. Derivatives of trigonometric, exponential, logarithmic, and inverse trigonometric functions; the derivative as a rate-of-change; linear approximations; Fundamental Theorem of Calculus; applications to the sciences, social sciences, and economics.
Prerequisites
High school precalculus.

MATH 212 Calculus II
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Techniques of integration; applications of integration; improper integrals; Taylor's Theorem and applications; infinite series; differential equations; applications to the sciences, social sciences, and economics.

MATH 219 Introduction to the Design of Experiments
Units: 1
Description
The basic theory and principles related to the design of modern scientific experiments. Topics include: analysis of variance (ANOVA) for experiments with a single factor, multiple comparisons of treatment means, factorial experiments, blocking, randomized block designs, Latin square designs, random effects models, analysis of covariance, nested models, and other topics. Taught infrequently.
Prerequisites
Either MATH 119, PSYC 200, CHEM 300, or MATH 330.

MATH 232 Scientific Calculus II
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
Same topics as MATH 212, but with examples and applications drawn from the physical sciences, biology, and medicine.
Prerequisites
MATH 190 or MATH 211.

MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSR)
Description
N-dimensional Euclidean space, functions of several variables, partial derivatives, multiple integrals, line and surface integrals, classical integral theorems, applications.
Prerequisites
MATH 212 or 232.

MATH 245 Linear Algebra
Units: 1
Description
Vector spaces, matrices, systems of linear equations, linear transformations, applications.
Prerequisites
MATH 212 or 232 or CMSC 222.

MATH 289 Applied Regression Analysis
Units: 1
Description
Multiple linear regression, logistic regression, ANOVA and other modeling based topics. Exploratory graphical methods, model selection and model checking techniques will be emphasized with extensive use a statistical programming language (R) for data analysis. This course is intended for students who have taken a basic statistics course such as Math 209 or have scored 4 or higher on AP Statistics exam. Knowledge of simple probability rules and probability distributions is required. Does not fulfill major requirements for math or computer science.
Prerequisites
MATH 211

MATH 300 Fundamentals of Abstract Mathematics
Units: 1
Description
Logic, quantifiers, negations of statements with quantifiers, set theory, induction, counting principles, relations and functions, cardinality. Includes introductory topics from real analysis and abstract algebra. Emphasis on methods of proof and proper mathematical expression.
Prerequisites
MATH 212 or 232.

MATH 304 Mathematical Models in Biology and Medicine
Units: 1
Description
Mathematical models in modern biological and medical applications. Primary focus on practical understanding of the modeling process, and development of requisite modeling skills. Topics include discrete and continuous dynamical systems, including parameter estimation.
Prerequisites
MATH 235, 245 or 300.

MATH 306 Abstract Algebra I
Units: 1
Description
An introduction to the theory of groups. Topics include subgroups, cyclic groups, permutation groups, homomorphisms, isomorphisms, cosets, Lagrange's Theorem, normal subgroups, and the Fundamental Theorem of Finite Abelian Groups.
Prerequisites
MATH 245 and MATH 300.

MATH 307 Abstract Algebra II
Units: 1
Description
An introduction to the theory of rings and fields. Topics include rings, integral domains, ideals, factor rings, polynomial rings, ring homomorphisms, fields, and extension fields.
Prerequisites
MATH 306.

MATH 309 Financial Mathematics: The Theory of Interest and Investment
Units: 1
Description
Develops a practical understanding of financial mathematics and interest theory in both discrete and continuous time. This theory includes the fundamentals of how annuity functions are applied to the concepts of present and accumulated value for various cash flow streams and how this is used for future planning in valuation, pricing, duration, immunization, and investment. Topics include: rates of interest and discount, the force of interest, level and varying annuities, evaluation of financial instruments (e.g. bonds, stocks, leveraged strategies), measures of interest rate sensitivity, and the term structure of interest rates.
Prerequisites
MATH 235 or 245 or 300.

MATH 310 Advanced Multivariable Calculus
Units: 1
Description
Differentiation of vector-valued functions, Jacobians, integration theorems in several variables. Fourier series, partial differential equations.

Prerequisites
MATH 235.

MATH 312 Differential Equations
Units: 1

Description
Introduction to ordinary differential equations and their use as models of physical systems. Linear and nonlinear equations and systems of equations, including existence and uniqueness theorems, analytical solution techniques, numerical methods, and qualitative analysis. Includes studies of global behavior and local stability analysis of solutions of nonlinear autonomous systems; bifurcation analysis. Application and modeling of real phenomena included throughout.

Prerequisites
MATH 212 or MATH 232 and MATH 245.

MATH 315 Modern Geometry
Units: 1

Description

Prerequisites
MATH 235 or 245.

MATH 320 Real Analysis I
Units: 1

Description
Topological properties of the real line and Euclidean space. Convergence, continuity, differentiation, integration properties of real-valued functions of real variables.

Prerequisites
MATH 235 and 300.

MATH 321 Real Analysis II
Units: 1

Description
Borel sets, measure theory, measurable functions, Lebesgue integration, sequence and series of measurable functions, Lebesgue dominated convergence theorem.

Prerequisites
MATH 320.

MATH 323 Discrete Mathematical Models
Units: 1

Description
Applications of discrete mathematics from two viewpoints: how mathematical models are used to solve problems from other fields and how problems from other fields stimulate the development of new mathematics. Probabilistic models are emphasized. Examples of problems include analysis of board games, elections, and DNA.

Prerequisites
MATH 245.

MATH 328 Numerical Analysis
Units: 1

Description
Analysis and implementation of algorithms used in applied mathematics, including root finding, interpolation, approximation of functions, integration, solutions to systems of linear equations. Computer error. (Same as Computer Science 328.)

Prerequisites
MATH 245 and either CMSC 150 or CMSC 155 or MATH 190.

MATH 329 Probability
Units: 1

Description
Introduction to the theory, methods, and applications of randomness and random processes. Probability concepts, independence, random variables, expectation, discrete and continuous probability distributions, moment-generating functions, simulation, joint and conditional probability distributions, sampling theory, laws of large numbers, limit theorems.

Prerequisites
MATH 235 and MATH 245, which can be taken concurrently.

MATH 330 Mathematical Statistics
Units: 1

Description
Introduction to basic principles and procedures for statistical estimation and model fitting. Parameter estimation, likelihood methods, unbiasedness, sufficiency, confidence regions, Bayesian inference, significance testing, likelihood ratio tests, linear models, methods for categorical data, resampling methods.

Prerequisites
MATH 329.

MATH 331 Complex Analysis
Units: 1

Description
Introduction to the calculus of functions of a single complex variable, including series, calculus of residues, and conformal mapping.

Prerequisites
MATH 235 OR PHYS 301.

MATH 336 Operations Research
Units: 1

Description
Linear and Integer Programming: algorithms, complexity, sensitivity, and duality. Applications such as assignments, networks, scheduling.

Prerequisites
MATH 245 and either MATH 300 or CMSC 222, which can be taken concurrently.

MATH 340 Directed Independent Study
Units: .25-1

Description
For well-qualified students who wish to work independently in areas not included in curriculum. Proposal must be approved by departmental committee.

Prerequisites
Permission of department chair and instructor.
MATH 350 Coding Theory and Cryptography: The Mathematics of Communication
Units: 1
Description
Error-correcting codes are used to ensure reliable electronic communication in everything from Blue Ray players to deep-space transmission. Cryptographic systems are developed to keep communication secret in everything from e-commerce to military communication. This course develops the mathematics underlying the transmission of messages. In coding theory, we will develop theoretical constraints on codes, construction methods for good codes, and algorithms for encoding and decoding efficiently. In cryptography, we will explore historically important systems as well as modern public-key cryptosystems.
Prerequisites
MATH 245 and either MATH 300 or CMSC 222 or permission of instructor.

MATH 395 Special Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Selected topics in mathematics.
Prerequisites
Varies with topic.

MATH 396 Selected Topics in Mathematics
Units: 1
Description
Selected topics in mathematics for mathematical economics.

MATH 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor.

Military Science and Leadership

Kim Elniff, Lieutenant Colonel, U. S. Army, Chair
Assistant Professors: R. A. Cook, W. Carter, C. M. Lady, R. Thomas-Walker

The objective of the military science and leadership program is to provide the leadership and management foundation required for military service as a commissioned officer or in a civilian counterpart position. In support of this objective the program includes classroom instruction and activities geared to the development of leadership skills.

Military science and leadership classes may be taken by all University students. Class enrollment in the military leadership classes carries no U.S. Army commitment and there is no obligation to enroll for successive course offerings. College and/or commissioning credit may be awarded for prior military service, attendance at the Cadet Initial Entry Training, or Junior ROTC participation.

International students desiring to attend military science and leadership classes must have written approval from their respective embassies prior to taking classes.

Courses

MSCL 101 Foundations of Officership
Units: .5
Description
Introduction to the personal challenges and competencies that are critical for effective leadership and communication. Learn how the personal development of life skills such as cultural understanding, goal setting, time management, stress management, and comprehensive fitness related to leadership, officership, and the Army profession. Further acquaintance with this course allows additional learning about the structure of the ROTC Basic Course program consisting of MSCL 101, 102, 201, 202, fall and spring leadership labs, and Cadet Initial Entry Training. Focus on developing basic knowledge and comprehension of Army leadership dimensions, attributes and core leader competencies while gaining an understanding of the ROTC program, its purpose in the Army and its advantages for the student.
Prerequisites
First- or second-year class standing or permission of department chair.

MSCL 102 Introduction to Leadership
Units: .5
Description
Introduction to the professional challenges and competencies that are needed for effective execution of the profession of arms and Army communication. Learn how Army ethics and values shape the army and the specific ways these ethics are inculcated into Army culture.
Prerequisites
First- or second-year class standing or permission of department chair.

MSCL 201 Innovative Team Leadership
Units: .5
Description
Explores the dimensions of creative and innovative tactical leadership strategies and styles by examining both team dynamics and the two historical leadership theories that form the Army leadership framework. Aspects of personal motivation and team building are practiced, including the planning, execution, and assessment of team exercises, and participation in leadership labs. The focus continues to build on developing knowledge of leadership values and attributes through understanding Army rank, structure, and duties as well as broadening knowledge of land navigation and squad tactics. Case studies will provide a context for learning the Soldier's Creed and Warrior Ethos as they apply in the contemporary operating environment.
Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 101 and 102 or permission of department chair.

MSCL 202 Foundations of Tactical Leadership
Units: .5
Description

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Examines the challenges of leading tactical teams in the complex contemporary operating environment (COE). Highlights dimensions of terrain analysis, patrolling, and operations orders. Continued study of the theoretical basis of the Army leadership framework explores the dynamics of adaptive leadership in the context of military operations. Provides a smooth transition to MSCL 301. Cadets develop greater self-awareness as they assess their own leadership styles and practice communication and team-building skills. COE case studies give insight into the importance and practice of teamwork and tactics in real-world scenarios.

Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 201 or permission of department chair.

MSCL 204 Leader's Training Course

Units: 1

Description
An intensive 28-day training experience located at Fort Knox, KY for college students unable to meet the basic course requirements (MSCL 100- and 200-level courses) on campus. CIET is the Army's two-year ROTC Program entry point. Through the CIET, students without ROTC experience can qualify for Advanced Course (MSCL 300- and 400-level course) entry. The Army observes these students and determines their officer potential in a leadership-oriented, challenging, and motivating 28-day training program. The camp philosophy is based on an action-oriented training plan. Emphasis is on hands on outdoor training, with rapid, constructive feedback to the cadet. Above all else, CIET is a leadership experience. The training program is designed to inspire students to become outstanding leaders with a sound understanding of traditional leadership values. At the CIET, students are trained to lead and develop their officer leadership potential.

Prerequisites
Enrollment in the ROTC program.

MSCL 205 Foundations of American Military History

Units: 5

Description
Major military engagements from the colonial period through the current operating environment and analysis of conflicts using the Principles of War and After Action Review lessons learned. Describes the military's role in society; examines the evolution of war and the progression of military professionalism; analyzes the major wars fought by the US Army, using the principles of war; discusses the role of the US military in joint operations; discusses the role of the US Army in humanitarian operations and nation-building at home and abroad and analyzes lessons learned from military history to the Contemporary Operating Environment (COE). COE case studies give insight into the importance and practice of teamwork and tactics in real-world scenarios.

MSCL 301 Adaptive Team Leadership

Units: 1

Description
Cadets study, practice, and evaluate adaptive team leadership skills as they prepare for the demands of the mandatory 32-day ROTC Cadet Leader's Course at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Challenging scenarios related to small-unit tactical operations are used to develop self-awareness and critical thinking skills.

The cadet will receive systematic and specific feedback on leadership abilities.

Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 202, 204, or permission of department chair.

MSCL 302 Leadership in Changing Environments

Units: 1

Description
Instruction and case studies that build upon leadership competency and military skills attained in the previous Military Science course prepare students for future responsibilities as Army officers. Specific instruction is given in the development of individual leaders, planning and execution of small-unit operations, individual and team development, and the Army as a career choice. Prepares cadets for the mandatory 32-day Cadet Leader's Course at Fort Knox, KY.

Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 301 or permission of department chair.

MSCL 390 Independent Study

Units: 1

Description
Instruction, case studies, and book analysis that build upon leadership abilities.

Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 201 or permission of department chair.

MSCL 401 Developing Adaptive Leaders

Units: 1

Description
Explores the dynamics of leading in the complex situations of current military operations. Examines differences in customs and courtesies, military law, principles of war, and rules of engagement in the face of international terrorism. Explores aspects of interacting with non-government organizations, civilians on the battlefield, the decision-making processes and host nation support. Significant emphasis is placed on preparation for BOLC B and first unit of assignment. Mission command case studies and scenarios are used in preparation for facing the complex ethical demands of serving as a commissioned officer in the United States Army. Also includes exploration of military professional ethics, organizational ethics and ethical decision making processes. Gains practical experience in Cadet Battalion leadership roles and training management. Begins leadership self-development including civil military and media relations. Prepares for the transition to a career as an Army Officer.

Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 302 or permission of department chair.

MSCL 402 Leadership in a Complex World

Units: 1

Description
Explores the dynamics of leading in the complex situations during Unified Land Operations I, II, and III. Examines the Art of Command and how to properly communicate with NCOs and soldiers during Taking Charge 1, 2, and 3, and Developing Others (counseling). During Cultural Awareness and Property Protection (CPP), discuss numerous situations on how ethical decisions impact personnel and the unit mission. Through understanding of roles and responsibilities, learn about how Comprehensive Soldier Fitness (CSF), Being Ready and Resilient (R2C), and Individual and Family Readiness can assist in preparing Soldiers and their families on reducing and managing stress during times of uncertainty. Places significant emphasis on preparing for BOLC B and first unit of assignment. Uses mission command case studies and scenarios in preparation for facing the complex ethical demands of serving as a commissioned officer in the United States Army. Includes identification of leader roles and responsibilities for enforcing Army policies and programs. Exploration of the dynamics of building a team prepared to handle any future operational environment and win. Examines the importance of understanding culture and how it can affect your unit and mission. Development of both oral and written communication skills by conducting a battle analysis and decision briefs.

Prerequisites
Military Science and Leadership 401 or permission of department chair.

Honors Program

The music honors program recognizes the most distinguished majors, who complete an advanced course of study, culminating in an honors thesis. Successful applicants will be assigned an advisor to guide their work and monitor their progress.

Students should declare their intention to seek honors and meet with the honors coordinator in their sophomore year.

Students must have completed 18 or more units of course work and at least four or more units in music (excluding prerequisites) with an overall grade point of at least 3.3 or above. Honors candidates must be recommended by at least one full-time member of the Department of Music.

Application for departmental honors must include:
1. a one-page letter from the student describing how the program requirements will be met,
2. a letter of recommendation from a full-time faculty member of the music department,
3. the student's transcript, and
4. a writing sample consisting of a paper written in a music course.

Applications must be submitted to the department chair by November 1 (March 1 for the spring term applicant) of the junior year, approved by the music faculty and submitted to the arts and sciences honors committee by November 15 (March 15 for the spring term applicant).

To earn departmental honors, students must complete 3.5 units of honors course work, including MUS 400, MUS 401 / MUS 402, and two honors independent study courses or two standard elective courses with special work above and beyond the norm.

Units earned from MUS 400, MUS 401, and MUS 402 are in addition to the 12 units required for the music major. Honors students are to maintain a grade point average of at least 3.3 while participating in the program.

Prerequisites
Music 109 and permission of instructor.

MUS 112 Topics in Music Literature
Units: 1
Description
Special topics for general study. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

MUS 114 Popular Music of the 1970s and 1980s
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement FSVP
Description
Discusses the historical developments in popular music of the 70s and 80s, and the musics' cultural and social impact and overarching discourses. Through a series of papers, students will investigate how the music of these eras influenced and was influenced by the politics and issues of the day. Students will argue for how these issues affected musical styles and presentations. Students will be able to identify at least some of the ways the musics of the 70s and 80s have impacted the music and bands that came after it.

MUS 115 The Jazz Tradition
Units: 1

MUS 134 Songbirds and Sirens
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement FSHT
Description
Examines the ways in which performers, composers, and operatic works shape and reflect cultural attitudes about gender and music. The interdisciplinary nature of opera, which combines text, music, and theatrical performance, will be considered through methodologies developed in music, literary criticism, theater and gender studies. Interplay between operatic characters and the public and private lives of women singers will deepen our engagement with both the artistic works we study and the cultures in which they were first forged.

MUS 136 The Grotesque in the Arts
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Exploration of the concept of the grotesque through music, literature, the visual arts, film, and contemporary culture. The grotesque will be examined not merely as a category or a list of attributes, but rather as an artistic and cultural phenomenon—something that must be experienced and felt in order to be understood. Creation of grotesque projects required of students.

MUS 137 Gender, Sex, and the Romantic Piano
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
A cultural history of the nineteenth-century piano that examines composers, performers, and musical works in the context of social and cultural events. Performance of piano music at students’ own level. Analysis of texts and images to consider how aesthetics and musical styles relate to social norms, sexuality, gender, spectatorship, and celebrity. No previous piano experience is necessary, but the ability to read musical notation (staff music) is strongly recommended; this skill will be assumed and will not be taught in the course.

PHIL 390 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Faculty member directs student's reading and study.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

PHIL 395 Honors Thesis
Units: 1
Description
Supervised completion of research thesis begun and approved in majors' seminar.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

PHIL 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

The interdisciplinary major in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL) enables students to pursue a rigorous exploration of the historical, methodological, and theoretical interconnections among these four fields of study. Students will acquire knowledge of different conceptual, theoretical and normative perspectives within each discipline, and will learn to use methods appropriate to each of them. The distinctive aim of the major is to assist students in synthesizing what they learn from their study of philosophy, politics, economics, and law so as to apply a combination of practical and theoretical knowledge to questions of social order and public policy.

The Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.0, with no course grade below a C- (1.7).

13-14 units, including

Core Courses
ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
PPEL 261 PPEL Seminar in Theory and Public Policy
PPEL 262 PPEL Seminar in Law and Social Order
PPEL 401 PPEL Capstone Seminar

Area Courses
One course in normative ethics
One course in normative political theory/political philosophy
One law-related course

Note: Area requirements can be fulfilled by courses in a variety of departments and schools. Majors should consult the PPEL website for an up to date list of approved courses. Exactly one area course may also count toward the 5 units within the primary concentration field.

Concentration
A required concentration chosen from Economics, Politics, or Philosophy including:

Five units selected from within the primary concentration field.
One unit from each of the other two concentration fields.

Notes:
Students may petition the coordinator to have a new course count as an area or concentration course.

No more than half of the courses satisfying the requirements of the major may be taken in a single department.

With the exception of Leadership Studies, no more than three courses that count toward the completion of another major may also count toward the PPEL major. No more than four courses that count toward the completion of a Leadership Studies major may also count toward the PPEL major.

Study abroad is strongly encouraged. Upon approval of the PPEL coordinator, relevant coursework abroad can substitute for PPEL major requirements with the exception of PPEL 261, PPEL 262, and PPEL 401.
Students seeking an exception to any of the major requirements must submit a petition to the PPEL Advisory Committee. No exceptions or substitutions will be made for the four core courses. Please see the PPEL coordinator for additional information. Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

- PLSC 362/ENVR 362 Environmental Law and Policy
- RHCS 353 Rhetoric and Law
- SOC 311 Juvenile Delinquency

Concentrations

PPEL Concentration in Economics
Erik Craft (Economics) and Jonathan Wight (Economics), Advisors

7 units, including
- ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics
- ECON 271 Microeconomic Theory

One unit chosen from:
- ECON 231 Law and Economics
- ECON 233 Ethics and Economics

Two elective units in Economics at the 200 or 300 level
One elective in Philosophy
One elective in Political Science

PPEL Concentration in Politics
Stephen Simon (Political Science), Advisor

7 units, including
- Five elective units in Political Science
- One elective in Philosophy
- One elective in Economics (ECON 102 or 200 level or higher Economics course)

PPEL Concentration in Philosophy
Geoff Goddu (Philosophy) and Nancy Schauber (Philosophy), Advisors

7 units, including
- Four elective units in Philosophy
- One elective in Political Science
- One elective in Economics (ECON 102 or 200 level or higher Economics course)

One unit chosen from: PHIL 271 Ancient Greek Philosophy or PHIL 272 Modern Western Philosophy

Courses

PPEL 261 PPEL Seminar in Theory and Public Policy

Units: 1
Description
Aims to bring into contact and conflict various normative theories developed by philosophers, political scientists, and economists - that is, their different accounts of what makes acts right, outcomes good, or societies just - with significant attention paid to the implications these theories have for some issue of public policy such as climate change healthcare reform, or global poverty reduction.
Prerequisites
One course from any two of the following disciplines: Philosophy, Political Science, Economics, or Leadership Studies.

PPEL 262 PPEL Seminar in Law and Social Order

Units: 1
Description
Aims to bring into contact and conflict various normative theories developed by philosophers, political scientists, economists, and legal theorists - that is, their different accounts of what makes acts right, outcomes good, or societies just - with significant attention paid to the implications these theories have for some area of law, such as international or tort law, or some legal institution, such as legislatures or courts.

Prerequisites
One course from any two of the following disciplines: Philosophy, Political Science, Economics, or Leadership Studies.

PPEL 381 Selected Topics in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law
Units: 1
Description
Selected topics in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law not covered by existing courses.
Prerequisites
Departmental approval.

PPEL 388 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
Experiential learning with application of theories and concepts from the disciplines of philosophy, political science, economics, and leadership studies in nonacademic contexts. Students may count no more than one unit of internship credit toward completion of the PPEL major. No more than 3.5 units of internship of any kind may count toward the total number of units required for a degree.
Prerequisites
Permission of PPEL coordinator

PPEL 390 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
In-depth exploration of normative theories, concepts, and questions from the perspective of the disciplines of philosophy, politics, economics, and leadership studies, where these are not covered by other courses students may take in order to complete the PPEL major. Independent study proposals must be submitted to the PPEL Coordinator at least two weeks before the beginning of classes for the semester in which the independent study is to take place. No more than one unit of independent study may count toward completion of the PPEL major.
Prerequisites
Permission of PPEL coordinator

PPEL 401 PPEL Capstone Seminar
Units: 1
Description
A substantial research project that integrates normative theory from the disciplines of philosophy, political science, and economics. Specific topic and instructor will vary from semester to semester.
Prerequisites
Economics 101, Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law 261 and 262.

PPEL 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

The Physics Major

For the Bachelor of Arts degree

11 units, including

PHYS 127 General Physics I or PHYS 131 General Physics with Calculus I
One unit, chosen from:
PHYS 128 General Physics II
PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus II
PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics
PHYS 134 Biological Physics

One unit, chosen from:
PHYS 201 Einstein’s Relativity
PHYS 202 Particle/Wave Duality and the Quantum Revolution
PHYS 205 Introduction to Modern Physics

PHYS 221 Intermediate Laboratory
PHYS 397-PHYS 398 Junior Seminar
PHYS 497-PHYS 498 Senior Seminar
Three additional units in PHYS
MATH 212 Calculus II or MATH 232 Scientific Calculus II
Two additional units in courses approved by the department

This degree is offered primarily for students who wish to pursue a career in education or business or wishing to earn a cultural degree.

For the Bachelor of Science degree

13-14 units, including

PHYS 127 General Physics I or PHYS 131 General Physics with Calculus I
One unit, chosen from:
PHYS 128 General Physics II
PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus II
PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics
PHYS 134 Biological Physics

PHYS 221 Intermediate Laboratory
PHYS 301 Mathematical Methods in Physics
PHYS 303 Classical Mechanics
PHYS 305 Electromagnetism
PHYS 308 Statistical Mechanics
PHYS 309 Quantum Mechanics I
PHYS 397-PHYS 398 Junior Seminar
PHYS 497-PHYS 498 Senior Seminar
0-1 unit of experimental work in addition to PHYS 221 chosen from:
PHYS 216 Electronics
PHYS 231 Experimental Physics
PHYS 381 Research
PHYS 406 Summer Undergraduate Research

One unit, chosen from:
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing
CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus

MATH 245 Linear Algebra
Two additional units in PHYS numbered above 200, excluding PHYS 381

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

The Interdisciplinary Physics Major for the Bachelor of Science Degree

Note: Students cannot major in both physics and interdisciplinary physics.

This degree is intended for students with a broad interest in several sciences or interdisciplinary science or who wish to pursue one of the engineering options.

15 units, including

PHYS 127 General Physics I or PHYS 131 General Physics with Calculus I
One unit, chosen from
PHYS 128 General Physics II
PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus II
PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics

Three additional units in physics at the 200 level or above

One of the concentrations described below. All concentrations require 4-5 additional units beyond those listed above.

Biology Concentration
BIOL 200 Integrated Biological Principles I
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics, and Synthesis
Three additional units in biology

Biochemistry Concentration
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
CHEM 205-CHEM 206 Organic Chemistry
BIOL 326/CHEM 326 Biochemistry or CHEM 327
Biochemistry with Lab

Chemistry Concentration
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
CHEM 309-CHEM 310 Physical Chemistry and CHEM 314-CHEM 315 Physical Chemistry Laboratory
One additional unit in chemistry

Computer Science Concentration
CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing or CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
CMSC 221 Data Structures with Lab
Three additional units in computer science

Mathematics Concentration
MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus
MATH 245 Linear Algebra
MATH 312 Differential Equations
Two additional units in mathematics at the 300 level or above

Engineering Concentration: 5 units of engineering courses
This concentration is intended for students participating in the 3-2 engineering program.
The required units will be earned at another institution.

The Physics Minor

Dual-Degree (3-2) Engineering Program

Building on the strengths of majors in physics, mathematics, computer science, chemistry, and biology, the School of Arts and Sciences offers students with special career goals the ability to pursue dual degrees in a five-year period. Some opportunities allow a student to earn a Bachelor of Science from Richmond and also a Bachelor of Science from a cooperating engineering school, while others enable a student to complete an undergraduate degree from Richmond and an accelerated master's degree in engineering from a partner institution—all within a five-year period. The physics department’s pre-engineering advisor can provide information about participating programs and requirements.

Honors Program

Specific requirements for honors in physics:

1. A cumulative GPA of at least 3.3 in their physics courses, in addition to the 3.3 GPA required overall.
2. At least 3.5 units of courses designated as honors courses. These courses will be divided as follows:
   - (a) 1.0 units must be independent research, typically done as research with an individual physics faculty member. These will typically be fulfilled by two semesters PHYS 381 for 0.5 credit units each.
   - (b) 0.5 units must be from taking both semesters of senior seminar, PHYS 497 and PHYS 498. As a part of this course, physics honors students will be required to present at least one oral presentation on the topic of their independent research undertaken for part (a). Physics honors students will also be required to present a final written thesis describing their research. The thesis and oral presentation must be approved at an honors level by the research supervisor and at least two additional readers within the physics department, or their designees.
   - (c) The remaining courses (2.0 units) may be any courses in physics numbered 200 or higher, including approved transfer courses, that are specifically above the current requirements for a B.S. in physics.

Courses

PHYS 121 Astrophysics
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNP)
Description
Celestial motions, stellar structure, cosmology, and related problems including appropriate concepts of elementary physics. Not among the recommended options for science or math majors. Includes laboratory.

PHYS 125 Elements of Physics
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNP)
Description
Principles and applications of physics. Topics selected from mechanics, sound, light, electricity, magnetism, heat, and modern physics. Not among the recommended options for science or math majors. Includes laboratory.

PHYS 127 General Physics 1
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNP)
Description
First of a two semester sequence in general physics. Topics from mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, light, and modern physics are covered in the two-semester sequence. Includes laboratory. NOTE: Physics 127 is not a prerequisite to 128. A student may not receive credit for both Physics 131 and 127. Physics 127 and 128 are offered very rarely; students should generally plan to take 131 and 132 instead.

Prerequisites
Algebra and trigonometry.

PHYS 128 General Physics 2
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNP)
Description
Second semester of a sequence in general physics. Mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, light and modern physics are covered in the two-semester sequence. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may receive credit for only one of the following courses: 128, 132, 133, 134. Physics 127 and 128 are offered very rarely; students should generally plan to take 131 and 132 instead.

Prerequisites
Algebra and trigonometry.

PHYS 131 General Physics with Calculus 1
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNP)
Description
First semester of a calculus-based introductory sequence. Mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, and light are covered in the two-semester sequence. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may receive credit for only one of the following courses: 128, 132, 133, 134.

Prerequisites
MATH 190 or 211 (may be taken concurrently).

PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus 2
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSNP)
Description
Second semester of a calculus-based introductory sequence. Mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, and light are covered in the two-semester sequence. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may receive credit for only one of the following courses: 128, 132, 133, 134.

Prerequisites
MATH 212 (may be taken concurrently) and PHYS 127 or 131 or 191 or permission of instructor.

PHYS 133 Atomic and Sub-Atomic Physics
Units: 1
Description
Second semester of a calculus-based introductory sequence with emphasis on physics of atoms, molecules, nuclei, and quarks. Mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, and light are covered in the two-semester sequence. Includes laboratory. NOTE: A student may receive credit for only one of the following courses: 128, 132, 133, 134.

Prerequisites
MATH 212 or 232 (may be taken concurrently) and PHYS 127 or 131 or 191 or permission of instructor.

PHYS 134 Biological Physics
Units: 1
Description
Second semester of a calculus based introductory sequence. Mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, and light are covered in the two-semester sequence that includes laboratory. Examples emphasize applications of physics to the biological sciences, and earth and environmental science.
NOTE: A student may receive credit for only one of the following courses: 128, 132, 133, 134.

Prerequisites
MATH 212 or 232 (may be taken concurrently) and PHYS 127, 131 or 191 or permission of instructor.

PHYS 191 Integrated Science/Math/Computer Science 4 with Laboratory
Units: 1
Description
One of two courses taught spring semester as part of Integrated Quantitative Science program. Each semester of the course will be organized around a guiding principle that integrates several concepts. Along with co-requisite, will include ten hours for lecture and lab combination.
Prerequisites

PHYS 201 Einstein's Relativity
Units: .5
Description
Focuses primarily on special relativity as it relates to time, space, velocity, momentum, and energy. This course is identical to the first half of PHYS 205, and meets concurrently with it for the first 7 weeks of the semester. Students may not earn credit for both PHYS 201 and PHYS 205.
Prerequisites
PHYS 132, PHYS 133, PHYS 134, or PHYS 191

PHYS 202 Particle/Wave Duality and the Quantum Revolution
Units: .5
Description
Introduces ideas of particle/wave duality that are central to understanding quantum mechanics, a major revolution in early 20th century physics. This course is identical to the second half of PHYS 205, and meets concurrently with it for the second 7 weeks of the semester. Students may not earn credit for both PHYS 202 and PHYS 205. Students are strongly encouraged to take either PHYS 202 or PHYS 205 before taking PHYS 309.
Prerequisites
PHYS 132, PHYS 133, PHYS 134, or PHYS 191

PHYS 203 Systems Biology
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the fundamentals of systems biology, an emerging field that focuses on complex interactions in biological systems. Topics chosen come from the perspective of the design of biological circuits. For students in the biological sciences, physics, chemistry, and mathematics interested in quantitative biology and the interface between the biological and physical sciences. No laboratory.
Prerequisites
PHYS 131 and BIOL 199 and MATH 211, and CMSC 150 or 155; Or PHYS 191 and CHEM 191.

PHYS 205 Introduction to Modern Physics
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to topics in 20th-century physics including special relativity, quantum mechanics, and statistical physics. The first half of this course is identical to, and meets concurrently with, PHYS 201. The second half of this course is exactly identical to, and meets concurrently with, PHYS 202. Students may not earn credit for both PHYS 205 and either PHYS 201 or PHYS 202. Students are strongly encouraged to take either PHYS 202 or PHYS 205 before taking PHYS 309.
Prerequisites
PHYS 132 or 133 or 134 or 191

PHYS 215 Computational Methods in Physics
Units: 1
Description
Project-oriented: applying computers to solution of problems in physical sciences.
Prerequisites
PHYS 132 or 133 or 134 or 191 and some familiarity with at least one higher-level computer language.

PHYS 216 Electronics
Units: 1
Description
Laboratory course in basic electronics and instrumentation for science majors. Study of dc and ac circuits, diodes, rectifiers, transistors, operational amplifiers, binary logic, Boolean algebra, digital circuits, analog-digital conversion, transducers, and computer interfacing.
Prerequisites
PHYS 127-128 or 132 or 191.

PHYS 221 Intermediate Laboratory
Units: 1
Description
Experiments in classical and modern physics emphasizing independent work. Six laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
(PHYS 127 and 128) or (PHYS 132 or 191).

PHYS 231 Experimental Physics
Units: 1
Description
Focuses on optics. Includes the study of (1) ray optics: lenses, system of lenses, lens aberrations (2) scalar wave optics: diffraction, interference (3) polarization of light: states of polarization, polarizers, wave retarders. Emphasizes the relation between experiment and theory through hands-on experience. Data analysis and its theoretical interpretation is a central part of the course. Upper level laboratory course for science majors, emphasizing independent work. Consists of six laboratory hours per week. Students, working in pairs, will spend approximately 2 weeks on each of 6-7 experimental projects.
Prerequisites
PHYS 132.

PHYS 301 Mathematical Methods in Physics
Units: 1
Description
Selected mathematical topics needed for upper-level work in physics. Topics taken from vector calculus, matrices, calculus of variations, orthogonal functions, and complex analysis.
Prerequisites

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
PHYS 132 or 133 or 134 or 191

PHYS 303 Mechanics
Units: 1
Description
Mathematical analysis of physical laws pertaining to dynamics of particles and rigid bodies. Introduction to moving coordinate systems and Lagrange's and Hamilton's methods.
Prerequisites
PHYS 301 or permission of department.

PHYS 305 Electricity and Magnetism I
Units: 1
Description
Electrostatic fields and potentials, dielectrics, magnetic fields, and potentials. Maxwell's equations, electromagnetic waves.
Prerequisites
PHYS 301 or permission of department.

PHYS 306 Electricity and Magnetism II
Units: 1
Description
Electrostatic fields and potentials, dielectrics, magnetic fields, and potentials. Maxwell's equations, electromagnetic waves.
Prerequisites
PHYS 305.

PHYS 308 Statistical Mechanics
Units: 1
Description
Statistical methods applied to description of physical systems. Statistical calculation of thermodynamic quantities, laws of thermodynamics, statistical distributions, and classical and quantum statistics of ideal gases. (Same as Chemistry 308.)
Prerequisites
PHYS 301 or permission of department.

PHYS 309 Quantum Mechanics I
Units: 1
Description
Wave mechanics and quantization; Schroedinger equation for variety of potentials; hydrogen atom in detail; perturbation methods. (Same as Chemistry 401.)
Prerequisites
CHEM 310 or PHYS 301 or permission of department.

PHYS 310 Quantum Mechanics II
Units: 1
Description
Wave mechanics and quantization; Schroedinger equation for variety of potentials; hydrogen atom in detail; perturbation methods. (Same as Chemistry 402.)
Prerequisites
PHYS 309.

PHYS 381 Research
Units: 0, .25, or .5
Description
Laboratory or independent study. 0.5 units requires six hours per week. PHYS 381 may be taken a maximum of four times. Both available for 0, .25, or .5 units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.
PHYS 397 Junior Seminar

Units: 0
Description
Required of all third-year physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.

PHYS 398 Junior Seminar
Units: .5
Description
Required of all third-year physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.

PHYS 404 Theoretical Physics
Units: 1
Description
Application of mathematics to selected topics in physics.
Prerequisites
PHYS 301 or permission of department.

PHYS 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

PHYS 479 Special Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics include particle and nuclear physics, solid state, modern optics, relativity, field theory.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

PHYS 497 Senior Seminar
Units: 0
Description
Required of all senior physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.

PHYS 498 Senior Seminar
Units: .5 (498)
Description
Required of all senior physics majors. Does not count in units required for minor.

Political Science

Dan Palazzolo, Chair
Professors Carapico, Dagger, Kandeh, Mayes, Palazzolo
Associate Professors Cherry, Datta, Erkulwater, Lang, Pribble, Mayes, Roof, Simon, Simpson, Szajfer Lee
Assistant Professors Bowie, McGowan

The Political Science Major
Note: The grade point average of the coursework in political science comprising the major, must be 2.00 or above with no course grade below C- (1.7).

10 units, including

PLSC 220 Introduction to American Government
Two courses, chosen from:
   - PLSC 240 Introduction to Comparative Politics
   - PLSC 250 Introduction to International Relations
   - PLSC 260 Introduction to Public Policy

PLSC 270 Social Science Inquiry
One unit, chosen from:
   - PLSC 311 Classical Political Thought
   - PLSC 312 Modern Political Theory
   - PLSC 315 American Political Theory

PLSC 400 Senior Seminar

Four elective units at the 300 level.

Note:

The major must include a minimum of six units of University of Richmond political science courses. No more than two units of credit toward the major can be given for courses, including cross-listed courses, offered by other departments or schools at the University.

Study abroad and internships also are encouraged. Students who have an interest in attending law school should consult with the pre-law advisor; students interested in attending graduate school should consult with the department chair about undergraduate courses that they should consider taking.

Honors Program

The political science honors program recognizes the most distinguished majors, who complete an advanced course of study, culminating in an honors thesis. In order to be eligible, students must have completed 22 units of course work overall and at least six units in political science (including Social Science Inquiry) by end of junior year, with an overall and political science grade point average of 3.7 or above, and must be recommended by at least one full-time member of the Department of Political Science. Accepted honors students complete four units of designated honors coursework, including 11 units of political science courses. Honors course work may include honors seminars, standard elective courses with special work above and beyond the norm, or honors independent study courses, though at least two units must be from honors independent study (PLSC 491 and PLSC 492) devoted to proposing, researching, and writing an honors thesis in the senior year. A prospectus for the honors thesis topic must be approved before the end of the second semester junior year, at which time the candidate must identify a thesis advisor and a second reader. The thesis will fulfill the senior capstone requirement for the major; honors students are exempt from taking PLSC 400. Honors students must successfully defend their thesis before a committee of at least two readers, including the thesis advisor, and present their research at the School of Arts & Sciences Student Symposium in April of the senior year.

Courses

PLSC 220 Introduction to American Government
Units: 1
Description
Basic roles, structures, and functions of American political institutions and introduction to American political process.

PLSC 240 Introduction to Comparative Politics
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Concepts, approaches, classifications, and models useful in comparing political structures and processes. Political systems characteristic of countries with different cultures and levels of economic development.

PLSC 250 Introduction to International Relations
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Framework for analyzing contemporary international system goals of nation-states and other actors; how such actors attempt to achieve their goals; and some forces that help or hinder attainment of goals.

PLSC 260 Introduction to Public Policy
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Contemporary social and economic problems in America, public policies adopted or proposed to deal with them, and ways of analyzing those problems and policies.

PLSC 270 Social Science Inquiry
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the process of social science research and inquiry. Includes instruction on forming a research question, preparing a literature review, developing a research design, and undertaking analysis using selected quantitative or qualitative empirical analytical tools.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220, 240, 250, or 260

PLSC 279 Special Topics
Units: 1
Description
May be repeated for credit when topic varies.
Prerequisites
Varies depending on topic.

PLSC 290 Mock Trial
Units: .5
Description
Designed for those students who choose to participate in intercollegiate mock trial activities. Graded pass/fail. One half unit per semester may be earned, but no more than 1 unit will be awarded. Units do not count toward completion of the major.
Prerequisites
Spring sections will require departmental approval.

PLSC 310 Statesmanship
Units: 1
Description
(See Leadership Studies 378.)

PLSC 311 Classical Political Thought
Units: 1
Description
Critically analyzes the political philosophy of Plato, Aristotle, St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Machiavelli, Hobbes, and Locke. Emphasis will be placed on those aspects of their philosophy that are still relevant to contemporary political thought and action. There will be a test on each theorist, and students will be required to write two papers, each summarizing and criticizing one or more aspects of a person’s theory, and a final paper on a basic issue addressed by most of the theorists.

PLSC 312 Modern Political Theory
Units: 1
Description
Critically analyzes the political philosophy of Rousseau, Burke, Tocqueville, Mill, Hobhouse, and one recent thinker. Emphasis will be placed on those aspects of their philosophy that are still relevant to contemporary political issues. There will be a short test on each theorist. Students will also be required to write two papers, one will analyze and criticize a particular person’s theory. The other, written at the end of the semester, will state and defend a position on a major issue addressed throughout the course.

PLSC 315 American Political Theory
Units: 1
Description
Political thought in America from colonial times to present with an emphasis on issues relating to liberty, equality, federalism, community, and national purpose.

PLSC 316 Reason, Rhetoric and Leadership
Units: 1
Description
(See Leadership Studies 379.)

PLSC 321 Interest Groups and Social Movements
Units: 1
Description
A broad look at the role of social movements and interest groups in American politics and political science. Examines the place of interest groups in democratic theory, how groups and social movements are started and maintained, and their roles in politics including their impact on elections and the public policy-making process. Looks at a number of organized interests including the civil rights movement, organized labor, business, and Christian conservatives.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220.

PLSC 323 Money, Politics and Prisons
Units: 1
Description
The connections between the economy, politics, and the prison system in the United States are important for understanding concepts of justice in a democracy. Explores links between privatization of prisons, political incentives, and theories of justice.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220.

PLSC 325 Racial Politics
Units: 1
Description
Comparative examination of the history, problems and political role of minority groups in the U.S., with a concentration on the African-American political experience.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220.

PLSC 326 United States Congress
Units: 1
Description
Organization and functions of American Congress.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 327 The American Presidency
Units: 1
Description
Political leadership in American political system from perspective of chief executive. Particular attention to expansion and use of presidential power.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 328 American Political Parties
Units: 1
Description
Examines American political parties as organizations and their role in elections, government, and public policy. Also explores how parties have changed over time and the causes and effects of growing party polarization.
Prerequisites
PLSC 220 or PLSC 260

PLSC 329 Campaigns and Elections
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of institutions and process of American electoral system and behavior of American electorate.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 330 Creation of the American Republic
Units: 1
Description
(See Leadership Studies 308.)

PLSC 331 Constitutional Law
Units: 1
Description
Role of United States Supreme Court in American politics studied through examination of landmark constitutional decisions pertaining to distribution of governmental powers.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or Political Science 260 or permission of instructor.
PLSC 333 Civil Rights/Liberties
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of contemporary legal status and interpretation of constitutional rights and liberties. Emphasis on landmark Supreme Court decisions involving various provisions of the Bill of Rights and the Fourteenth Amendment.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or Political Science 260 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 336 American Constitutional History
Units: 1
Description
Background, adoption, and development of the Constitution, with emphasis on role of Supreme Court and judicial review in American history and on changing interpretations of key provisions in the Constitution.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220.

PLSC 337 The American Legal System
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of structure, processes, and personnel of American legal system. Emphasis on decision making of private parties, judges, juries, and attorneys in context of civil litigation and criminal prosecution.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or Political Science 260 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 339 Jurisprudence in Contemporary American Politics
Units: 1
Description
Explores basic questions about the nature and function of law as an instrument of state power that are deeply interconnected with a wide range of political and legal problems.

PLSC 341 Humanitarian Interventions
Units: 1
Description
Addresses the changing international legal framework regarding humanitarian interventions. Surveys the literature addressing the effectiveness of external interventions. Discussion of the justifications and consequences of intervention. Application to contemporary conflicts. Reviews changing ideas of sovereignty and the ramifications of state decisions to intervene in the internal affairs of other states.
Prerequisites
PLSC 240 or 250 or IS 290.

PLSC 342 Transitions from Communism in Europe and Eurasia
Units: 1
Description
An overview of developments in the postcommunist region while focusing on the politics of simultaneous triple transition from communist rule: political, economic, and social. Pays particular attention to the determinants of diverse trajectories followed by countries in the postcommunist world as it examines new EU member states, Russia, and the other members of the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS).
Prerequisites
PLSC 240 or 250 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 343 Politics of Asia
Units: 1
Description
Study of historical, cultural, and social forces shaping contemporary politics of Asia. Comparative survey of major political systems and critical examination of key issues. Attempts to link Asian studies with mainstream political science.
Prerequisites
Political Science 240 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 344 Europe Today
Units: 1
Description
An examination of political, social, and economic developments in Europe (both western and east-central) since World War II. Topics include European integration and the development of the European Union institutions, postcommunist transitions and their consequences, and the domestic politics of selected European states.
Prerequisites
Political Science 240 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 345 Politics of China, Hong Kong and Taiwan
Units: 1
Description
Study of contemporary political history of China; analysis of political systems of the People's Republic of China, the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, and the Republic of China on Taiwan; and discussion of key political, economic, and military issues.

PLSC 346 Politics of Cultural Pluralism
Units: 1
Description
Comparative examination of politicization of race, ethnicity, religion, and caste in contemporary world.
Prerequisites
Political Science 240, 240, or 250 or International Studies 290 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 347 Politics of Developing Nations
Units: 1
Description
Comparative analysis of political, social, and economic development or modernization of nations in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. Topics include influence of ideology, revolution and reform, national integration, neo-imperialism and dependency, and economic growth and equality.
Prerequisites
PLSC 240 or 250.

PLSC 348 Politics of Africa
Units: 1
Description
Comparative study of state formation, nation-building, political economy; social structure/movements, selected regions and countries in Africa.
Prerequisites
Political Science 240 or 250 or permission of instructor.
PLSC 349 Politics of Latin America and the Caribbean
Units: 1
Description
Influence of historical, social, and cultural forces on contemporary politics of Latin America and the Caribbean. Effects of social structure and underdevelopment on processes of democratization, institution building, national integration, and economic development. Case studies of selected countries illustrate major themes and issues explored.

PLSC 350 American Foreign Policy
Units: 1
Description
Analyzes the traditions, processes, substance, and goals of American foreign policy, in addition to exploring national security and defense policy, foreign economic policy, international diplomacy, and foreign policy ethics.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or 250 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 351 Globalization
Units: 1
Description
Analysis of the political, economic, and socio-cultural dimensions of globalization. Considers how globalization has affected the nation state, interstate relations, and the democratization and development of countries around the world. Students will evaluate different definitions of globalization; analyze to what extent globalization limits the autonomy of national governments; and consider whether the effects of globalization vary across different regions of the world.
Prerequisites
Political Science 240 or 250 or International Studies 210.

PLSC 352 International Law and Organization
Units: 1
Description
Development, processes and functions of contemporary international law and organization. Emphasis on conflict management, promotion of economic and social welfare, and development of community.
Prerequisites
Political Science 250 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 353 International Security
Units: 1
Description
Investigates international issues that threaten the security and prosperity of societies and individuals in the modern world. Issues include global terrorism, human slavery and trafficking, genocide, civil wars and insurgencies, and the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.
Prerequisites
Political Science 250 or Military Science 205

PLSC 354 International Relations of the Caribbean
Units: 1
Description
The international relations of southwest Asia and northeast Africa with an emphasis on issues related to war, peace, and power, including the role of European empires and the United States in the formation of the regional nation-state system; contemporary conflicts in the Persian Gulf and

Israeli-Arab arenas; the political economy of oil; terrorist attacks and counter-terror strategies; and American foreign policy toward the region.
Prerequisites
Political Science 250.

PLSC 356 International Political Economy
Units: 1
Description
Politics, processes, and institutions underlying contemporary global economic interdependence, with special focus on international trade, finance, and assistance; alternative theoretical models for understanding these events, processes, and institutions.
Prerequisites
Political Science 250 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 357 International Relations of East Asia
Units: 1
Description
Study of interactions among the major powers in the Asia-Pacific region during and after the Cold War. Examines crucial country cases and thematic issues (with focus on identity, security, and economic interdependence) by drawing perspectives from dominant international relations theories (e.g., realism, neorealism, liberal-idealism, liberal institutionalism, Marxism, and constructivism).
Prerequisites
Political Science 240 or 250.

PLSC 358 The U.S. and Asia’s Great Powers
Units: 1
Description
Study of changing U.S. role in the Asia-Pacific region; U.S. relations with the major powers in the region; and salient regional and bilateral political, security, and economic issues.

PLSC 359 Global Governance
Units: 1
Description
Analyzes themes and selected topics in global governance. It explores how state and nonstate actors work together to confront and solve contemporary transnational challenges.
Prerequisites
Political Science 250

PLSC 360 International Development Policy
Units: 1
Description
Assistance policies of wealthy nations and multilateral organizations, development policies and problems of poor or underdeveloped nations, and dynamics of economic, political, environmental, and cultural transactions.
Prerequisites
Political Science 250 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 361 The Politics of Social Welfare
Units: 1
Description
Study of the development and effectiveness of programs in the United States that seek to promote economic equality and alleviate need. A focus on programs for both the poor and the middle class.
Prerequisites

Political Science 220, 260, or Sociology 101 or permission of instructor.

PLSC 362 Environmental Law and Policy
Units: 1
Description
Examines legal aspects, both regulations and case law, of environmental policy. Central issues are whether legal responses (1) effectively address the needs of the parties most affected; (2) properly weigh such facts as economic efficiency, protection of nonhuman species, and the possibility of unintended consequences; and (3) are diluted by the political process. (Same as Environmental Studies 362.)
Prerequisites
Political Science 260 or Environmental Studies 201.

PLSC 363 Global Health, Infectious Disease, and Human Rights
Units: 1
Description
Examines what makes us sick, what keeps us healthy, and what it would take to give good health the upper hand in developing countries. Over the past 150 years, major breakthroughs in public health have enabled humans to live longer, healthier, and more productive lives. The benefits of public health have yet to be extended to many of the poorest nations. In the past two decades, infectious diseases that had nearly been conquered have come surging back, while devastating new diseases have emerged.

PLSC 364 Child Health and Policy
Units: 1
Description
Integrates the study of child health in the United States, focusing on three different policy "worlds" that affect children's well-being: education, physical health, and mental health. Examination of public policies intended to safeguard children's health, educational opportunities, general welfare in the U.S., and judgement of their effectiveness. Emphasis will be placed on dilemmas inherent in policy issues, the political and organizational processes used to influence policy, the process of policy formulation, and the use of frameworks for analyzing public policies aimed at children.
Prerequisites
(PSYC 100 and PSYC 200) or PLSC 260

PLSC 365 U.S. Healthcare Policy and Politics
Units: 1
Description
Examination of political and economic evolution of the American healthcare system: doctors, hospitals, managed care, Medicare, Medicaid, health insurance, public health, epidemiology, mental health, pediatric health, tort reform, and psychopharmacology, among other topics. Includes comparative analysis of other countries' healthcare systems.

PLSC 366 Poverty and Political Voice
Units: 1
Description
Examines how well our nation's anti-poverty policies alleviate the hardships faced by residents of these communities and assesses the ability of the poor to mobilize for effective social change in their communities. Includes a required community-based learning component.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or 260 or Sociology 101

PLSC 367 Applied Political Analysis
Units: 1
Description
Examines the use of research and data analysis to help inform public policy decisions. Issues covered will be based on contemporary events.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or 260 or Sociology 101

PLSC 368 Professional Internship
Units: 1
Description
May be repeated for credit. Prior approval by political science chair and consent of faculty mentor are required.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 or 260 or Sociology 101

PLSC 369 Legislative Internship
Units: 2
Description
Combines weekly seminar on the state legislative process with work as assistant to a state legislator, government agency, interest group, or press during session of the Virginia General Assembly.
Prerequisites
Political Science 220 and permission of instructor.

PLSC 370 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 371 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 372 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 373 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 374 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 375 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 376 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 377 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 378 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 379 Selected Topics
Units: 1
Description
Examples include comparative public policy, constitutional politics, political terrorism, and public policy decision making. May be repeated for credit when topic varies.

PLSC 380 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 381 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 382 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 383 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 384 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 385 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 386 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 387 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 388 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 389 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 390 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 391 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.

Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 398 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 399 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Permission of department chair.

PLSC 400 Senior Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Reading and research focusing on important topics in political science. Both topics and instructors change from semester to semester.
Prerequisites
Senior status and completion of seven units in political science, including 270

PLSC 403 Senior Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Reading and research focusing on important topics in political science. Both topics and instructors change from semester to semester.
Prerequisites
Senior status and completion of seven units in political science, including 270

PLSC 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

PLSC 491 Honors Independent Research and Writing
Units: 1
Description
Reading and research toward an honors thesis.
Prerequisites
PLSC 270 and acceptance in departmental Honors program.
PLSC 492 Honors Independent Research and Writing
Units: 1
Description
Reading and research toward an honors thesis.
Prerequisites
PLSC 270 and acceptance in departmental Honors program.

Psychology

Cindy Bukach, Chair
Professors Allison, Berry
Associate Professor Crawford
Assistant Professor Bukach, Jobe-Shields, Knouse, Lundberg
Clinical Assistant Professor LeViness

The Department of Psychology offers a rigorous, graduated curriculum that combines the highest expectations of achievement in an environment rich in opportunities for intellectual stimulation and growth. Our primary mission is to provide an academic setting for students to become knowledgeable, skilled, reflective, and highly accomplished, preparing them to excel in the best graduate and professional schools and in the most competitive, creative employment contexts. We prepare students to lead productive lives characterized by an inquiring attitude, engagement in the life of mind, and immersion in the larger community. Our faculty are dedicated to excellence in teaching and scholarship, and seek to cultivate in students a love of learning and involvement in their academic community by providing multi-layered mentoring opportunities. The department strives to educate and train its students to reach their potential.

The psychology faculty believe that education is as much an activity as it is a body of knowledge. As professors, we embrace pedagogical approaches that emphasize the scientific method; curiosity about the world and its phenomena; intellectual challenge and complexity; familiarity with primary source materials; interactive and collaborative learning; critical and analytical thinking; mastery in oral and written expression and communication; and the historical and philosophical foundations of psychological science. We value psychology’s connections to the arts, humanities, and natural sciences; we teach professional ethics; we embrace diverse perspectives and individual differences; and we promote student involvement in local and international culture, community, and society. These curricular emphases reflect our educational goals and aspirations. They represent directions for fostering, challenging, and strengthening our students’ intellectual experience, and they pervade all levels of our curriculum.

The Psychology Major

Note: The grade point average of the department-specific and related-area coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

For the Bachelor of Arts degree

10 units, including
PSYC 100 Introduction to Psychological Science
PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
PSYC 299 Integrated Topics
One course from Psychology 310-Psychology 329
One course from Psychology 330-Psychology 349
One additional course from Psychology 310-Psychology 349
One course in the Psychology 433-Psychology 449 series
Three electives at the 300 or 400 level

For the Bachelor of Science degree

14 units, including
PSYC 100 Introduction to Psychological Science
PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
PSYC 299 Integrated Topics
One course from Psychology 310-Psychology 329
One course from Psychology 330-Psychology 349
One additional course from Psychology 310-Psychology 349
One course in the Psychology 433-Psychology 449 series
Three electives at the 300 or 400 level
MATH 211 Calculus I
MATH 212 or MATH 232 Calculus II
One unit, chosen from:
CMSC 150 Introduction to Computing
CMSC 155 Introduction to Scientific Computing
MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus
MATH 245 Linear Algebra
MATH 312 Differential Equations

One unit, chosen from:
CHEM 141 Introductory Chemistry: Structure, Dynamics and Synthesis
PHYS 127-PHYS 128 General Physics I and II
PHYS 131-PHYS 132 General Physics with Calculus I and II

Note: No more than one unit of PSYC 299 may be applied to the 10 units required in psychology. No more than one unit of internship and two units of PSYC 361 may be applied to the major.

The Psychology Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

7 units, including
PSYC 100 Introduction to Psychological Science
PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
PSYC 299 Integrated Topics
One course from Psychology 310-Psychology 329
One course from Psychology 330-Psychology 349
Two electives at the 300 or 400 level

The Senior Capstone Experience

The department’s senior capstone experience is intended to provide psychology majors with an intensive and integrative experience in psychology to culminate their undergraduate careers.

Students pursuing either the Bachelor of Arts or the Bachelor of Science degree must choose one of three Senior Capstone options:

Option 1

One advanced seminar. One course in the Psychology 433-Psychology 449 series to be taken during the fall or spring semester of the student's senior year.

Option 2

Senior research and one advanced seminar. One course in the Psychology 433-Psychology 449 series to be taken during the fall or spring semester of the student's senior year, and collaboration with a faculty member on a year-long senior research project in PSYC 461 and PSYC 462 courses.

Option 3

Senior honors research and two advanced seminars. One course in the Psychology 433-Psychology 449 series to be taken during the fall semester of the student's senior year, a second course from this series to be taken during spring of the senior year, and collaboration with a faculty member on a year-long senior honors research project in PSYC 491 and PSYC 492 courses.

Study Abroad

Psychology majors are encouraged to study abroad. Students should plan to take their 300-level laboratory courses at UR and use their time abroad to take electives for the major, as well as other courses outside of the major that they need for graduation. The key to successful integration of a study abroad experience with a psychology major is early and careful planning with the student's advisor and department chair. More information is available here: psychology.richmond.edu/program/study-abroad.html

Honors Program

Students invited into the honors program may earn honors in psychology by completing the following requirements:

1. Two courses from Psychology 433-Psychology 449 series;
2. PSYC 491;
3. PSYC 492;
4. Honors thesis

Courses

PSYC 100 Introduction to Psychological Science
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)

Descripton
Overview of the study of human behavior, with emphasis on scientific reasoning and the technological skills involved in the process of conducting psychological research and understanding human behavior. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

PSYC 200 Methods and Analyses
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to research methods and statistical procedures in psychological science. Emphasis on mastering fundamental scientific, reasoning, and technological skills associated with literature review, research design, experimental manipulation, data collection, data analysis, data graphics, data interpretation, data presentation, and scientific writing. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
Psychology 100 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 299 Integrated Topics
Units: 1
Description
Courses that provide an integrative perspective of psychological theories, issues, and research across two or more disciplinary (or subdisciplinary) contexts. A maximum of 1 unit of PSYC 299 may be applied to the major.
Prerequisites
Psychology 100 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 300 History and Systems of Psychology
Units: 1
Description
History of psychology and of major schools of thought and their viewpoints. Recommended for majors who are planning to attend graduate school in psychology.

PSYC 311 Child Development
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of research and theory on developmental changes and processes from prenatal through preadolescent periods. Emphasis on theoretical and empirical work on social, emotional, and cognitive development and on various developmental contexts. Includes an intensive laboratory experience focusing on conceptual, methodological, and analytical skills employed in the study of child development. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 313 Social Psychology
Units: 1
Description
Critical overview of current theory and research in social psychology, with emphasis on conceptual and empirical work on social inference, stereotyping, self processes, social influence, affective processes, attraction, interpersonal processes, altruism, aggression, and group dynamics. Includes an intensive laboratory component focusing on conceptual, methodological, and analytical skills associated with social psychological inquiry. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 315 Adult Development
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of changes and stability in behavior from late adolescence through advanced old age, including perception, intelligence, memory, personality, emotion, social networks, death/dying, creativity, and wisdom. Emphasis on theory, research, and applications in class with intensive laboratory component. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 317 Applied Social Psychology
Units: 1
Description
Critical overview of theory and research in applied social psychology. Emphasis will be on applications of experimental behavioral science to societal, institutional, and personal well-being (e.g., inequality, conservation, interpersonal processes, jury deliberation, health). Includes an intensive laboratory component focusing on conceptual, methodological, and analytical skills associated with the study of applied social psychology. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 319 Psychopathology
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of research and theory in psychopathology and behavior disorders including the phenomenology, etiology, assessment, and treatment of major forms of psychological disorders. Emphasis on an integrative approach incorporating clinical, developmental, biological, and sociocultural perspectives. Intensive co-requisite laboratory experience focused on conceptual, methodological, and analytical skills used in clinical psychology and investigation of psychopathology and behavior disorders. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 329 Special Topics
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of concepts in one of the following areas of psychology, including but not limited to life span development, clinical and abnormal, social cognition, health, learning and memory, cross-cultural, personality, human diversity, and other specialized topics in the developmental, clinical, and social psychological sciences. Emphasis on theory, research, and applications in lecture with intensive laboratory component. May be repeated for credit when topic differs. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 331 Behavioral Neuroscience
Units: 1
Description
Focus on the neural regulation of behavior, from animal to human. Intensive lab component with techniques and approaches used in design, execution, and analysis of research in behavioral neuroscience. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 333 Cognitive Science
Units: 1
Description
Examines the nature, function, and mechanism of mental structures that process and represent information, in humans as well as other intelligent agents. Cognitive science integrates methods drawn from psychology, neuroscience, philosophy, computer science, linguistics, and anthropology. Intensive lab component applies techniques from various fields, emphasizing human experimentation and the observation, analysis, and design of simulated creatures. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 337 Human Cognition
Units: 1
Description
Examines the experimental study of cognition, including perception, attention, memory, decision making, and problem solving. An intensive lab component emphasizes experimental design, data analysis, and applications in each subtopic of Cognitive Psychology. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
PSYCH 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 341 Cognitive Neuroscience
Units: 1
Description
Criticall examines what brain injury and cognitive deficits can tell us about the relationship between brain and behavior. Covers the functional anatomy of the major cognitive systems, including action, object recognition, attention, memory, language, emotion, and executive function. Includes an intensive laboratory experience focusing on research skills employed in the field of cognitive neuroscience. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.

Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 349 Special Topics
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of concepts in one of the following areas of psychology, including but not limited to psycholinguistics, stress, sensation and perception, animal behavior, and other specialized topics in the cognitive and brain sciences. Emphasis on theory, research, and applications in lecture with intensive laboratory component. Two and a half lecture and one and a quarter laboratory hours per week.
Prerequisites
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 350 Selfhood
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of the nature, function, and development of the human self. Explores the dynamic, open-ended qualities of the healthy, normal self and focuses in particular on the construction of self-identity.

PSYC 351 Religion and Psychology
Units: 1
Description
For millennia, religion and psychology have addressed issues pertaining to the nature and functioning of the human soul (anima) or mind (psyche). Will explore some of the intertwined history of religion and psychology, touching upon the religious underpinnings of modern psychology and looking into the psychological foundations of religious experience, doctrine, ritual, and belief. (Same as Religion 364.)

PSYC 352 Choice and Decision Making
Units: 1
Description
Critical examination of theories, concepts, and applications in the areas of human choice, judgment, and decision-making. Rational models of choice will be compared and contrasted with strategies that typify human behavior. Also focuses on applications of theoretical concepts to a variety of choices in everyday life as well as to major life decisions.

PSYC 353 Special Topics
Units: 1
Description
Special course offerings to explore specific direction within subdisciplinary area of psychology. May be repeated for credit when topics vary.

PSYC 354 Independent Research
Units: .5-1
Description
Individual research conducted in collaboration with faculty. Note: No more than 2 units may count toward a psychology major. Available as pass/fail only.

PSYC 355 Individual Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
Supervised independent work in field setting designed to give student applied experience after completion of appropriate coursework in psychology. Requires consultation with and approval by department chair. No more than 1.5 unit of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units. Available as pass/fail only.

PSYC 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research or produce a creative arts project in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.

PSYC 433 Multivariate Statistics
Units: 1
Description
Multiple variable research design and applied multivariate analyses, including, but not limited to multiple regression, factor analysis, structural equation modeling, hierarchical linear modeling, and multivariate analysis of variance.

PSYC 441 Clinical Neuroscience
Units: 1
Description
Examination of ways in which brain function is modified to create symptomatology and syndromes that comprise clinical topics in psychology. The contrast between so-called psychological and biological bases of disorder is considered.

PSYC 442 The Neurobiology of Relationships
Units: 1
Description
Examination of complex array of behaviors that animals display toward each other from the perspective of evolutionary pressures that shaped extant neurobiology. Focus on inextricable link between human and animal origins.

PSYC 444 Clinical Case Studies
Units: 1
Description
Intensive seminar that examines select clinical case studies and their contributions to our understanding of brain-behavior relationships. Special emphasis will be placed on the power and limits of the double dissociation methodology: contrasting patients with opposing patterns of deficits.

PSYC 449 Advanced Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Intensive seminar intended for seniors and advanced juniors, based on faculty expertise and research specializations, and offered regularly in fall and spring semesters for capstone requirement.

Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Psychology 200 with a grade of C- or better.

PSYC 461 Senior Research

Units: 1

Description
Intensive year-long research project for seniors, requiring conception, completion, and presentation of a research thesis under faculty mentorship.

Prerequisites
PSYC 200

PSYC 462 Senior Research

Units: 1

Description
Intensive year-long research project for seniors, requiring conception, completion, and presentation of a research thesis under faculty mentorship.

Prerequisites
PSYC 461

PSYC 491 Senior Honors

Units: 1-1

Description
Intensive year-long research project for seniors who meet requirements for University and department honors programs, requiring conception, completion, and presentation of senior honors thesis under faculty mentorship.

Prerequisites
Departmental invitation. PSYC 200.

PSYC 492 Senior Honors

Units: 1-1

Description
Intensive year-long research project for seniors who meet requirements for University and department honors programs, requiring conception, completion, and presentation of senior honors thesis under faculty mentorship.

Prerequisites
Departmental invitation. PSYC 491.

Religious Studies

Douglas Winiarski, Chair
Professors Davis, Eakin, Geaney
Associate Professors Cobb, Shaw, Winiarski
Assistant Professor Hanaoka

The religious studies major is designed to provide students with both breadth and depth in the academic study of religion. When declaring the major, the student must meet with the departmental representative to formulate a course of study appropriate both to his or her interests and to the goals of the major generally.

The Religious Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

9 units, including

Four units at the 300 level, excluding RELG 388, RELG 395, RELG 396
Five elective units in religious studies

The religious studies major is designed to offer students a broad education while providing them with the interpretive tools from the field of religious studies. The department encourages double majors. In addition, cognate courses in other departments may be included within the required nine units, with the approval in advance of the religious studies department. Under no circumstances will more than two extra-departmental courses be accepted as part of those nine units.

The Religious Studies Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

5 units, including

At least two units at the 300 level, excluding RELG 388, RELG 395, RELG 396
Three elective units in religious studies

The religious studies minor is designed to provide basic grounding in the academic study of religion. The religious studies minor requires five units in religion, reflecting the diversity of areas and approaches that make up the religious studies department.

Honors Program

Qualified students may apply to work for honors at the discretion of the department. A major who wishes to pursue honors should meet with the honors coordinator, usually no later than the first semester of the junior year. The department will then invite selected students to apply for honors, at which point those students will meet with the honors coordinator to plan a designated honors program in conjunction with a faculty advisor. The honors program will normally consist of four related courses, approved by the honors committee of the School of Arts and Sciences, two of which will be RELG 403-RELG 404, culminating in an honors thesis. The advisor and two other members of the department will constitute the thesis committee for each thesis and will supervise the required oral defense. Honors will be granted only to those students whose theses meet departmental standards.

Courses

RELG 200 Symbol, Myth and Ritual
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Introduction to study of religion including, but not limited to, social scientific approaches, focusing on symbols, myths, and rituals as constitutive features of individual and communal religious thought and practice.

RELG 201 The Bible as Literature
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
A non-confessional study of the diverse genres of Biblical literature, viewing passages in historical context to understand the multiple layers of the intended message: period about which written, the time of the writer, and the time of the recipient. Within Biblical exegesis, primary emphasis is given to literary and historical criticism.

RELG 204 Choral Music and Creed
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description

Honors Program

The Honors Program is designed for outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond the level of standard course work. Its purpose is to provide these students the opportunity to broaden and deepen their knowledge of the major field.

Eligibility and Admission

To be eligible for admission to the Honors program a student should have:
To demonstrate superior achievement, Honors students are required to maintain a grade point average of at least 3.3, and by about March 15th for the spring term applicant, and by about November 15th for the fall term applicant.

Each application will include a program of study planned in consultation with the major department and will indicate specifically how the student's Honors Program is to be accomplished. The application, along with an advising copy of the student's transcript, will then be presented by the department to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program by about November 15th for the fall term applicant and by about March 15th for the spring term applicant.

Program of Study

Each student's program of study will include at least 3.5 units of Honors course work and must meet all Honors requirements set by the major department. Course work may include Honors seminars, Honors independent/directed study courses in which the student meets at least weekly with one or more professors, Honors research courses, and standard courses taken for Honors credit. Standard courses taken for Honors credit may be either (1) courses in the student's regular course of study that require extra work of a kind approved by the departmental Honors committee or (2) courses, approved by the departmental Honors committee, in the student's area of study, that are in addition to any departmental major requirements. Courses of type (1) are the norm. Any program that wishes to incorporate courses of type (2) as part of their Honors requirements must submit significant justification for approval by the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program. No more than two courses may be standard courses taken for Honors credit (and with work appropriate to Honors status).

To demonstrate superior achievement, Honors students are normally required to submit a written Honors thesis to the major department in time for a final grade to be submitted to the registrar. At the discretion of the major department an alternative work that presents a comparable challenge to intellectual initiative and academic achievement may be substituted. All thesis work should be read and evaluated by more than one reader and, if appropriate, presented publicly in a departmental or Arts and Sciences forum. Departments may also require that students pass written and/or oral comprehensive examinations.

All Honors students are to maintain a grade point average of at least 3.3 while participating in the program. Exceptions require approval by the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

If at any time the student or the major department decides that Honors work should not continue, the department should submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

Recognition of Honors Work

A student who successfully completes the Honors Program will receive the degree with Departmental Honors, to be noted on the student's permanent record along with the title of the Honors Thesis or comparable work. The student's diploma and the Commencement Program will also indicate achievement of Departmental Honors, and the Honors Thesis or equivalent will be preserved in a separate collection in Boatwright Library.

Sociology

Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Jan H. French, Chair
Associate Professors French, Hass, Nourse, Ransom
Assistant Professors Grollman, Richards, Sweis
Professors from the field also are employed as adjunct faculty

Sociology is the systematic study of social life in order to understand the causes and consequences of human action. Sociologists study the structure and processes of modern, industrial societies. They examine how social structures (groups, organizations, and communities) and social institutions (family, education, religion, etc.) affect human attitudes, actions, and life-chances. Sociologists use various theoretical perspectives to understand such areas as culture, socialization, conformity and deviance, inequality, family patterns, race and ethnic relations, and social change. Combining theoretical perspectives with empirical research allows constant testing and refinement of the body of knowledge that comprises the field of sociology. Sociology offers students an opportunity to develop new insights and a different perspective on their lives and to understand everyday social life as a combination of both stable patterns of interaction and ubiquitous sources of social change.

The Sociology Major

Note: The grade point average of the sociology coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7).

10 units, including
SOC 101 Foundations of Society: Introduction to Sociological Analysis
SOC 211 Sociological Research Methods and Data Analysis
SOC 221 Sociological Theory
SOC 401 Capstone Experience
6 elective units in Sociology, with a minimum of 4 at the 300 level or higher

Notes:
• Students must earn a grade of C- or better in either SOC 211 or SOC 221 in order to take 300 or 400-level sociology courses.
• No more than two 200-level courses, excluding SOC 211 and SOC 221, may be taken for credit toward the sociology major.
• No more than three courses may be taken at other institutions, including study abroad institutions.
• SOC 326, SOC 327, SOC 388, and SOC 389 are offered for .5 unit in the majority of circumstances.

The Sociology Minor
To qualify for the honors program in Sociology, a student should have:
1. 18.5 or more units completed overall
2. At least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average for all courses
3. Excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 4 or more units completed with distinction in the major field and a 3.5 cumulative grade point average for Sociology courses

To enter the honors program, the student must submit a letter of intent, with nominating support from one faculty member, by March 15 of his or her junior year. These materials must be submitted to the department’s Honors Committee coordinator for inspection, after which the chairperson and student discuss the details and demands of the honors program.

A student who does not meet these qualifications may be admitted to the Program with the special recommendation of

Students may request consideration by their department, or the department may invite a student to apply.

Program of Study

To receive credit for the Honors Program, the student must:

- Fulfill the normal BA requirements for Sociology, with required Theory & Methods courses (Sociology 221 and 211) completed by the end of the junior year to facilitate work on the senior thesis (see below). There are two additional upper-level one-unit courses (one of which can be outside the department and must be related to the topic of the senior thesis), and independent study for the senior thesis (see below), to be completed by the end of the senior year. (This will allow juniors with a clear program of study to take a useful course that might not be offered in his or her senior year.) The program of study for Honors is 12 units (10 units for the BA + 2 units for Honors Independent Study).

- Complete a senior thesis that addresses an original question or issue and that produces some original research (so as not to be a pure literature review of existing work). The thesis should be data-driven and demonstrate a grasp of existing literature and theory related to the issue at hand. While the senior thesis need not explicitly test sociological theory, it should engage relevant theory and not be purely empirical (although a purely empirical thesis is permissible if the student’s advisor deems the project of having scholarly value). In preparation for undertaking the senior thesis, the student must agree with a faculty member, whose interests and expertise have the best possible fit with the student’s intended thesis topic, to be his or her advisor for the thesis. The student and advisor should devise a basic plan for the project by the end of the spring semester of the junior year.

- For credit for the thesis, the student will take two one-unit Honors courses in the senior year, both involving work on the senior thesis: Honors Independent Study (autumn) and Honors Thesis (spring). This will involve at a minimum meeting once a week with the thesis supervisor to discuss and monitor progress in data collection, analysis, and write-up. (The former will involve monitoring and assessing progress in data collection and analysis through regular reports—the timetable depending on the particular project, in agreement with the student and advisor. Assessment for the latter will be the thesis product itself.) The thesis will be due in time for a final grade to be submitted to the registrar—preferably the Friday before the School of Arts & Sciences Student Symposium (April). The grade for the independent study is that for the senior thesis. The department encourages students who are prepared sufficiently early to apply for a University summer grant to facilitate

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C- (1.7). A maximum of two courses may be taken at another accredited institution or through an approved study abroad program, with departmental approval.

6 units, including

SOC 101 Foundations of Society: Introduction to Sociological Analysis
SOC 211 Sociological Research Methods and Data Analysis
SOC 221 Sociological Theory
3 elective units in Sociology, with a minimum of 2 at the 300 level or higher

Notes:

- Students must earn a grade of C- or better in either SOC 211 or SOC 221 in order to take 300 or 400-level sociology courses.
- No more than one 200-level course, excluding SOC 211 and SOC 221, may be taken for credit towards the sociology minor.
- No more than two courses may be taken at other institutions, including study abroad institutions.
- SOC 326, SOC 327, SOC 388, and SOC 389 may not be counted toward the sociology minor.

Honors Program

The goal of the Sociology honors program is to give those students with superior interests and talents in the field to explore both sociology and personal intellectual interests and themes beyond the limits of typical courses offered. This will prepare these advanced students for possible graduate work or more advanced career prospects. Successful completion of the Honors Program is shown on the student’s permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Eligibility and Admission

To qualify for the honors program in Sociology, a student research. This 2-unit combination is in addition to the 10 units required for the Sociology BA.

- The senior thesis will be assessed and graded by the student's thesis advisor and the chair of the Honors Program. If one person fulfills both these roles, an outside person whose expertise is sufficiently close to the thesis topic will be asked to aid with assessment. In case of disagreement, another member of the department will be asked for his/her opinion on the appropriate grade to resolve the disagreement.

- The student must take two standard one-unit upper-level courses for Honors credit that include additional extra work agreed upon by the student, the course instructor, and the Honors program coordinator. One of those must be related to the intended senior thesis topic. This one course may be in any department, but in any case it should meet with the approval of the student's thesis advisor or Honors Program chair.

The student may withdraw at any time. Should he/she not complete required additional work or maintain an overall 3.3 grade point average and a 3.5 grade point average for Sociology coursework, the student will not receive credit for the Honors Program, and the department will submit a request for withdrawal to the Faculty Committee on the Honors Program.

The department will encourage students in their junior year who appear qualified to consider the Honors Program seriously as soon as possible, to facilitate preparation for the senior thesis and any required summer work/research.

The Honors program coordinator will meet with participating students no less frequently than one time per month (or via email or other means of communication in the summer) to assess progress. The student and his/her advisor should develop a schedule for meetings and assessment they find most appropriate.

Honors Program

Outstanding students with intellectual initiative and the desire to pursue academic achievement beyond standard coursework have the opportunity to broaden and deepen knowledge in selected major fields through the honors program. To qualify, a student should have at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average, 18 or more units completed and, excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 3.5 or more units completed with distinction in the major field.

Students electing to fulfill requirements for the honors program in the Department of Theatre and Dance must designate at least two units of honors credit through a combination of upper-level courses. This will require the student to do additional work over and above the normal requirements of the course. In addition, the student also must take Honors Thesis Preparation (THTR 380) and Honors Performance/Thesis (THTR 381). The student must have attained a departmental GPA of 3.30 by the beginning of the fall semester of the senior year. The student also must maintain that GPA through the completion of the program and an overall GPA of no less than 3.0 while in the program. Students should declare their intention to seek honors and meet with the honors coordinator in their sophomore year. Students who have not declared by the second semester of their junior year are disqualified from further honors consideration. Those who have declared that they are seeking honors will be considered candidates until they fail to meet one of the program's requirements. Successful completion of an honors program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Courses

THTR 115 Theatre Appreciation
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
An introduction to the role of actors, playwrights, directors, designers, and audiences in the highly collaborative art of theatre. Students learn to appreciate the artistic and intellectual processes of theatre artists and to use knowledge of historical forms and traditions in order to evaluate contemporary live theatre. Students will engage in creative projects in the classroom and interact with professional theatre artists via lab work on mainstage productions. Laboratory assignments with mainstage productions.

THTR 119 Broadway Musical Theatre
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Survey of the Broadway musical theatre from its 19th century roots to the present day. Provides basic introduction to music theory and culminates with performance of original one-act musical(s) written and produced by class members. In addition to regular class meetings, weekly labs are held for rehearsals and presentation of special topics. (Same as Music 119.)

THTR 201 Stagecraft
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduction to scene design and construction, lighting design and execution, scene painting, sound design, and properties in theory and practical applications. Laboratory hours required.

THTR 203 Introduction to Light and Sound
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduction to the technical aspects of lighting and sound design and production, and to the creative process required to make informed design choices. Laboratory hours required.

THTR 205 Production Studies I-Fundamentals of Theatre
Units: 1
Description
Examines the meaning of art to theatre/dance and the necessity of research, while exploiting the elements of acting, directing, dance, scene design, lighting, costume design, makeup, and sound design in theatre productions. The study of theatre history and theory will provide students with a framework for the analysis of text and performance. Also, students will learn methods for assembling a theatre portfolio that will represent their course work, research, and creative projects.

THTR 206 Introduction to Costume
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduction to role of costume designer as collaborative artist in theatre process. Survey of historical implications for design. Basic skills of costume construction. Laboratory assignments with mainstage productions.

THTR 210 Performing Diversity: A Cultural Odyssey
Units: 1
Description
Further understanding of minority groups in America by investigating their social condition from an experiential base. Participants will explore existing portraits and issues associated with minorities as well as connect with important notions on cultural diversity in America. Special importance will be placed on celebrating ethnic achievements and lifestyles. Plays, poetry, and other performance art forms (including cooking and dressing) will constitute significant class presentations.

THTR 212 Basics of Acting
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Basic methods of analysis and performance techniques necessary to generate believable human behavior on stage. Study of roots (mind/body processes), not ends of acting (performance). Class exercises to develop and discipline actor's physical, vocal, and imaginative equipment. Laboratory assignments with major productions.

THTR 213 Fundamentals of Stage Makeup
Units: 1
Description
Art and application of theatrical makeup, realism to fantasy. Corrective makeup; specialty makeup (aging, scars, beards, animal faces). Laboratory assignments in conjunction with all major productions.

THTR 215 Physical Theatre: Actor as Creator
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduces students to the contemporary approaches to theatre-making which focus on the body. Through a series of workshops & creative projects, students will learn techniques for generating original material, developing their spontaneity and creativity, and creating theatre that is personally meaningful and collectively engaging.

THTR 219 Ensemble Performance
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Exploratory class which attempts to generate honest and spontaneous responses from the actor to performance and play creating circumstances. Major emphasis is placed on teamwork, the search for truth and attaining actual potential in the art of playing. With a view to synergizing theatre activity with communal responsibility participants are encouraged to draw on issues around them and nurture creative inspiration from societal needs. Improvisation, storytelling, and multiple role playing are primary mediums for advancing the experience.

THTR 229 Going Solo: The Politics of Identity in Contemporary Solo
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Examines the development of solo performance from the 1970s to the present. Pays close attention to the ways solo practitioners use the body to highlight specific cultural, social, and political histories of marginalization encountered by the working class, people of color, women, lesbians, and gays. Engages with a multitude of genres including performance art, autobiographical forms, spoken word, stand-up comedy, and hip-hop based work.

THTR 239 Latina/os On Stage: From the Barrios to Broadway
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Examines the evolving formation of Latina/o identity in Broadway and community productions as well as popular culture with special attention to issues of globalization, migration, and transculturation.

THTR 301 Scene Design
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Artistic aspects of stage setting in theory and in practice. Consideration of mechanical perspective, watercolor sketching, color schemes, and history of period design. Stresses how the design process is inspired by the script and how the design of scenery is only part of the larger creative process called theatre. Laboratory hours required.

Prerequisites
Theatre 115, 201, 205 or permission of instructor.

THTR 302 Scene Painting
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Study of function of scenic artist in theory and practice. Hands-on approach to scene painting. Laboratory hours required.

THTR 305 Sound Design
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the field of sound design through "hands-on" experiences with the design process, as well as the use of various types of recording and editing equipment, software programs, and research protocols and materials used by sound designers to create the aural environment for a production.

Prerequisites
THTR 203 or THTR 205 or Permission of Instructor

THTR 306 Production Studies II: Analysis, Conceptualization and Problem Solving
Units: 1
Description
Continues to build on the foundations established in Theatre 205, focusing more intently upon the process of preparing a play for theatrical production. Students will select a play and develop a production concept by analyzing the text, preparing the necessary dramaturgical research, and using their study of the elements of theatre to realize their production as a classroom project. The various facets of this project will serve as the core elements of a personal theatre portfolio representative of their course work, research, and creative projects.

Prerequisites
Theatre 205.

THTR 307 Lighting Design
Units: 1
Description
Upper-level course in lighting design for the stage. Special emphasis on project-based, "hands on" learning with students implementing their own designs through analysis, research, creative and practical applications. Laboratory hours are required.

Prerequisites
THTR 203 or 206.

THTR 308 Basics of Directing
Units: 1
Description
Principles and techniques of directing the realistic modern play. Case studies and scene work. One-act play prepared for production by each student. Laboratory assignments with major productions.

Prerequisites
Theatre 205 or 212 or permission of instructor.

THTR 309 Theatre History I
Units: 1
Description
Survey of theatre history from ancient Greece to mid 18th-century Europe, with emphasis on representative plays, performance practices, and theories, as well as the cultural, economic, and political contexts from which they emerged. Lecture/discussion format.

THTR 310 Managing Performing Arts Organizations
Units: 1
Description
(See Music 310.)

Prerequisites
Theatre major, theatre minor, dance minor, or permission of instructor.

THTR 312 Special Topics
Units: 5-1
Description
Representative topics: acting for the camera, advanced courses in costume, directing, makeup, critical theory, directing, improvisation, makeup, performance theory, stage combat, documentary film making, voice and speech for the stage. Can be taken more than once for credit if topic varies.

Prerequisites
Theatre 205 or permission of instructor.

THTR 313 Theatre for Social Change I
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
A studio and seminar class inspired by African and European models in Theatre for Development, a specialized field of drama focused on social development and grounded in participatory procedure. The activity involves research, analysis, scenario building, and performance. Participants will be exposed to exercises in devising and performing work for impacting social transformation. The course will highlight issues within the immediate environment as well as the larger Richmond community, and practice will occur in both domains.

THTR 314 Theatre for Social Change II
Units: 1
Description
Designed to enable students to utilize and transfer the skills acquired in Theatre 313 into the larger community. Working in smaller groups, they are responsible for implementing and evaluating a theatre-centered project within the context of social and sustainable development. They will foster the creation of a play by community members on issues affecting their daily lives. Significant emphasis is given to cultivating an interaction with experts in related areas of concern towards galvanizing meaningful future growth in the selected community.

THTR 315 Independent Study
Units: 5-1
Description
Restriction: Prospectus must be submitted and approved prior to the end of advance registration. Does not count for theatre or dance minor.

Prerequisites
Permission of instructor.

THTR 319 Theatre History II
Units: 1
Description
A survey of theatre history from mid 18th-century Europe to the present, with emphasis on representative plays, performance practices, and theories, as well as the cultural, economic, and political contexts from which they emerged. Lecture/discussion format.

THTR 320 Advanced Acting: Twentieth-Century Acting Styles and Theory
Units: 1
Description
An examination of the major theories that have shaped the discourse on, and practice of, the art of acting in the 20th century. Concentrated scene study class that explores relationship between 20th-century dramatic literature and acting techniques and theories that developed to meet demands of these plays. By preparing scenes from various modern genres of theatre, acting students examine techniques and research methods necessary to unlock performance elements of the most demanding dramas of the last 100 years.

THTR 321 History of Apparel
Units: 1
Description
Designed to give students a recognition/understanding of the evolution of clothing from the ancients to the 21st century. Beginning with the physiological and psychological reasons for clothing. Includes focus on the relationship of fashion to the social and political issues of the time period.

THTR 322 Advanced Costume Design
Units: 1
Description
Further exploration of various construction, patterning, design, research and rendering problems and the methods for solving them. Building on the techniques learned in the introductory course, students will gain a deeper understanding of the variety of methods used in problem solving, and how to know which approach is best suited to the needs of the script in question. The course will culminate in a public presentation of students' projects.
Prerequisites
Theatre 206 or permission of instructor.

THTR 325 Script Analysis
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSLT)
Description
Systematic approach to understanding and realizing the theatrical implications of play scripts. Script study as if in preparation for mounting production. Laboratory hours required.

THTR 327 Acting Shakespeare I
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to methods of textual analysis and literary research necessary to prepare a Shakespearean play for performance.

THTR 328 Acting Shakespeare II
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to emotional, physical, and vocal techniques necessary for performing a Shakespearean play. Builds on work of Theatre 327 in providing students with analytical means and research methods necessary to make informed artistic decisions.
Prerequisites
Theatre 327.

THTR 330 Practicum: Performance

Includes research and written work appropriate to the theatrical activity involved. Four units maximum credit; 1.5 units maximum per semester. Does not count for theatre or dance major or minor.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

THTR 331 Practicum: Directing/Choreography
Units: .25-1
Description
Understanding theatre arts through analysis of and participation in creative theatrical efforts. Forty hours work for .25 units of practicum credit. Includes research and written work appropriate to the theatrical activity involved. Four units maximum credit; 1.5 units maximum per semester. Does not count for theatre or dance major or minor.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

THTR 332 Practicum: Stage Management
Units: .25-1
Description
Understanding theatre arts through analysis of and participation in creative theatrical efforts. Forty hours work for .25 units of practicum credit. Includes research and written work appropriate to the theatrical activity involved. Four units maximum credit; 1.5 units maximum per semester. Does not count for theatre or dance major or minor.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

THTR 333 Practicum: Technical Crew
Units: .25-1
Description
Understanding theatre arts through analysis of and participation in creative theatrical efforts. Forty hours work for .25 units of practicum credit. Includes research and written work appropriate to the theatrical activity involved. Four units maximum credit; 1.5 units maximum per semester. Does not count for theatre or dance major or minor.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

THTR 334 Practicum: Design
Units: .25-1
Description
Understanding theatre arts through analysis of and participation in creative theatrical efforts. Forty hours work for .25 units of practicum credit. Includes research and written work appropriate to the theatrical activity involved. Four units maximum credit; 1.5 units maximum per semester. Does not count for theatre or dance major or minor.
Prerequisites
Permission of department.

THTR 340 Practicum: Scenery/Props
Units: .25-1
Description
Understanding theatre arts through analysis of and participation in creative theatrical efforts. Forty hours work for .25 units of practicum credit. Includes research and written work appropriate to the theatrical activity involved. Four units maximum credit; 1.5 units maximum per semester. Does not count for theatre or dance major or minor.
Prerequisites

THTR 345 Philanthropy in the Arts
Units: 1
Description
(See MUS 345; same as ARTH 345.) Does not satisfy major or minor requirements.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer Arts and Sciences fellowship by faculty mentor

THTR 407 Production Studies III—Collaboration and Production
Units: 1
Description
Requires students to form a production organization and produce a substantial play. The production will be staged at the beginning of the next semester and students will receive their final grade after successful completion. Students must select a play, analyze material, provide requisite dramaturgical research, create a budget, design all visual elements, raise funds for and publicize the production, conduct rehearsals, and provide a thorough critique of the results.

Prerequisites
Theatre 306

University Seminar

University Seminars provide students the excitement of engaged learning through a diverse array of seminar topics. With small classes, a variety of topics, and close contact with faculty, University Seminars offer an opportunity to study topics involving perspectives of faculty from two or more of the University’s schools. These cross-disciplinary perspectives are increasingly important in the modern world.

Course
UNIV 401 University Seminar
Units: .5-1
Description
Inter-disciplinary seminar team-taught by faculty from two or more schools of the University. May be repeated for credit when topic varies.
Prerequisites
Junior or senior standing

Visual and Media Arts Practice

Department of Art and Art History
Jeremy Drummond, Chair
Professors Softic
Associate Professors Cabilbo, Denton, Drummond, Rhodes, Sjovold
Assistant Professor Kersey
University Museums Executive Director Waller and Deputy Director Schlatter
Visual Resources Librarian Keefer
Visiting Lecturer of Art Condon
NEH Visiting Associate Professor of Art History Hamilton
Professionals from the fields in art are also employed as adjunct faculty members.

The Department of Art and Art History offers programs in Visual and Media Arts Practice, Western and non-Western Art History, and Museum Studies. In the Modlin Center for the Arts, students work in an environment where they can develop their intellectual and creative abilities to the fullest potential. In addition to a rigorous and stimulating curriculum, students also participate in the activities of the University Museums. The museums present exhibitions of both historical and contemporary art with related lectures, workshops, and symposia with visiting artists, critics, and art historians. A study abroad program allows students to study Art and Art History in approved programs under the direction of the Office of International Education. In Visual and Media Arts Practice, our integrated, rigorous art foundation program offers students broad exposure to the core areas of our curriculum; including Drawing, Painting, Sculpture, Printmaking, Photography, and Film and Video. Emphasis is placed upon developing artwork that bridges established and emerging media and dismantles traditional divisions between the core areas of our curriculum. Our program is tailored to supporting individual student interests through creative studio projects, individual research, gallery and museum visits, and critiques and visual presentations.

The Visual and Media Arts Practice Major

Note: A grade of not less than C (2.0) is required in each course comprising the major.

12 units, including

Group A: Foundation Requirements - 4 Units
Foundations are prerequisites for all upper level Visual and Media Arts Practice classes and should be taken first and as early as possible. Art History Surveys should be taken prior to spring of junior year.

Honors Program in Visual and Media Arts Practice

Majors are encouraged to apply for and pursue the honors program in studio art. To earn honors in visual and media arts practice a student must complete three units of honors credit with distinction through a combination of upper-level courses with thesis development and honors thesis exhibition. The program must be planned in consultation with the student's major advisor and the department. Honors students also must maintain an overall GPA of no less than 3.30 while in the program.

Related Field

Interdisciplinary concentration in arts management for visual and media arts practice, art history, music, theatre, and dance majors or minors.

Courses

VMAP 112 Introduction to Drawing
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Explores materials, methods, and concepts in drawing with an emphasis on observational practice. Fundamental skills and knowledge required for further study within the field as well as insight into the realm of drawing at a general and theoretical level. Studio work is supplemented by lectures, presentations, seminar discussions, and museum visits.

VMAP 113 Introduction to Painting
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduction to the practice of painting with emphasis on fundamental painting modes: perceptual/representational, conceptual/abstract, and process/system-based. Emphasizes working understanding of methods and materials of oil and/or water-based painting while investigating basic aspects of visual perception, historical precedent, contemporary culture, and critical assessment of subject, form, and content in a work of art.

VMAP 114 Introduction to Sculpture
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to basic three-dimensional design and contemporary sculptural practices. Fundamental skills and knowledge required for further study within the field as well as insight into the realm of sculpture at a general and theoretical level. Through hands-on studio assignments, lectures, presentations, seminar discussions, and museum visits, students gain technical and conceptual skills applicable to art, architecture, and all other forms of three-dimensional design and sculpture.

VMAP 115 Introduction to Printmaking
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Explores formal and conceptual problems through printmaking exercises. Understanding of the potential of graphic media and introduction to new imaging methods and concepts, including experimentation with scale, sequencing, and multi-technique works.

VMAP 116 Introduction to Photography
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Explores historical and contemporary film photography as a means of achieving a working knowledge of experimental darkroom methods and processing techniques. Develops an understanding of photography as art through lectures, presentations, critiques, and assignments that encourage creation and interpretation.

VMAP 117 Introduction to Film, Sound and Video
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSVP)
Description
Introduction to film, sound and video production within the context of contemporary art. Uses readings, screenings, workshops, and hands-on assignments, to gain the technical and conceptual skills required to produce resolved independent projects in 16mm film, digital video, and analog/digital sound. By foregrounding the distinct features of these media, this course also illustrates their many similarities and differences -- from the technical and perceptual to the historical, cultural, and socio-political. Production of independent work that explores creative approaches to film, sound and video production that fall beyond the aesthetic and cultural norms of mainstream media.

VMAP 211 Foundations in Visual and Media Arts Practice A
Units: 1
Description
One of two foundation-level classes required for all Visual and Media Arts Practice majors and minors. Serves as a prerequisite for all intermediate and advanced level courses in the curriculum. Explores the fundamentals of printmaking, photography, and time-based media production in three distinct modules. In addition to producing artwork, students are introduced to the history and theory surrounding these media as well as their significance within contemporary art practice. Each module will educate students on health and safety issues and procedures that are applicable to these media and our facilities.

VMAP 210 or VMAP 112; or the former ARTS 105 or 201

VMAP 210 Drawing Techniques and Concepts
Units: 1
Description
Prerequisites
Builds upon the concepts, techniques and media introduced in the two foundation-level classes and introduces drawing as a vehicle of creative visual thought, a tool for observing and recording the world around us, and a versatile medium that extends into media such as printmaking, sculptural installation and animation, for example. Projects in charcoal, pencil, ink, acrylic, collage on paper, and alternative surfaces.

VMAP 211 Human Figure Drawing
Units: 1
Description
Advances understanding and skill in drawing the human figure with emphasis on interpreting formal aspects of proportion, surface anatomy, volume, and composition.

Projects range from rigorous academic, observational studies to independent, interpretive projects. Students draw directly from live models using a variety of drawing media such as graphite, charcoal, ink, color pastel, and watercolor. Explores the human figure through aesthetic, conceptual and historical contexts that inform representations of the figure in past and contemporary cultures.

Prerequisites
VMAP 211 or VMAP 112; or the former ARTS 105 or 201

VMAP 250 Drawing Techniques and Concepts
Units: 1
Description
Explores historical and contemporary film photography as a means of achieving a working knowledge of experimental darkroom methods and processing techniques. Develops an understanding of photography as art through lectures, presentations, critiques, and assignments that encourage creation and interpretation.

VMAP 210 or VMAP 112; or the former ARTS 105 or 201

VMAP 251 Human Figure Drawing
Units: 1
Description
Advances understanding and skill in drawing the human figure with emphasis on interpreting formal aspects of proportion, surface anatomy, volume, and composition.

Projects range from rigorous academic, observational studies to independent, interpretive projects. Students draw directly from live models using a variety of drawing media such as graphite, charcoal, ink, color pastel, and watercolor. Explores the human figure through aesthetic, conceptual and historical contexts that inform representations of the figure in past and contemporary cultures.

Prerequisites
VMAP 211 or VMAP 112; or the former ARTS 105 or 201

VMAP 252 Observational/Representational Painting: The Figure and Its Spaces
Units: 1
Description
EmpHASizes observational skills and the conventions of representational art while exploring the human figure and its contextual spaces as subjects. Develops methods of oil and/or water-based painting and how to assess subject, form and content in a work of art. Begins with traditional academic methods for representing the figure working directly from live model before exploring a series of independent approaches to the figure. Includes historical and contemporary contexts for interpreting the human figure.

Prerequisites
VMAP 211 or VMAP 113; or the former ARTS 105 or 205

VMAP 253 Painting: Abstract, Conceptual, Process, and Material
Units: 1
Description
Emphasizes interpretive and independent based studies while exploring abstract, conceptual, and process/system-based painting. Variety of paint media (ex. Oil, water-based, non-traditional, etc.) and surfaces/supports (ex. Canvas, various papers, polypropylene, wood panel, patterned fabrics, ephemeral supports, non-traditional, etc.) used to investigate historical, contemporary and experimental methods of painting. Refines critical skills in examining painted content, including its forms, concepts, and contexts.

Prerequisites
VMAP 211 or VMAP 113; or the former ARTS 105 or 205

VMAP 254 Sculpture Methods: Materials and Processes
Units: 1
Description
Intermediate-level course engaging students in the material exploration of a variety of sculptural media and processes within the context of contemporary art. Emphasis upon wood fabrication, metal fabrication, mold making and casting, and mixed-media objects and installation. Lectures, presentations, and critiques that address problems dealing with perception, the conceptualization of space, and objects in space.

Prerequisites
VMAP 211 or VMAP 114; or the former ARTS 108, 208, or 210

VMAP 255 Sculpture Methods: Computer Modeling and Fabrication
Units: 1
Description
Intermediate-level course in the exploration of computer modeling techniques within the context of contemporary sculptural practice. Emphasis is upon using 3D printing, laser cutting, and CNC routing to fabricate three-dimensional forms, multiples, and installations. Students participate in lectures, presentations, and critiques that address current issues in the field of sculpture and technology-based production, as well as problems dealing with perception, the conceptualization of space, and objects in space.

Prerequisites
VMAP 211 or VMAP 114; or the former ARTS 108, 208, or 210

VMAP 256 Printmaking Techniques and Concepts
Units: 1
Description
Builds upon the concepts, techniques and media introduced in the two-foundation-level classes and introduces printmaking in the context of creative graphic arts as well as an image/multiple image-making tool in media such as installation, sculpture and graphic design. Work in woodcut, intaglio, screenprint and lithography on paper and alternative surfaces. Explores digital image making and printing methods as well as multi-color printing, postrident interventions, and printmaking applications beyond the paper surface.

Prerequisites
VMAP 212 or VMAP 115; or the former ARTS 105, 206, or 225

VMAP 257 Artist's Book
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to bookbinding (Western and non-Western), material and digital printing techniques, and typesetting skills through work on individual and collaborative studio projects. Explores concepts such as sequencing, text and image, and content and structure relationships. Study of the evolution of the artist's book and contemporary practice in this medium, basic bookbinding and printing skills, and creation of artist books using woodcut, photopolymer etching, digital text and imaging tools, and collage and extended media.

Prerequisites
VMAP 212 or 115; or the former ARTS 206 or 225

VMAP 258 Darkroom Photography
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the fundamental, technical, and aesthetic issues of black and white photography with an emphasis on using the medium for personal expression. Students confront a series of problems that are designed to increase their understanding of basic camera operation, darkroom techniques, and art making strategies. The history of photography is covered through the study of historical and contemporary works and different styles of photography are explored through lectures, presentations, critiques, and assignments.

Prerequisites
VMAP 212 or VMAP 116; or the former ARTS 109, 204, 219, or 265

VMAP 259 Digital Photography
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the field of digital photography and digital imaging within the context of contemporary art. Production of original works of art while studying the impact of technology upon human perception, visual art, and contemporary culture. Emphasis upon the ways in which digital technologies have transformed our understanding of traditional photographic media.

Prerequisites
VMAP 212 or VMAP 116; or the former ARTS 109, 204, 219, or 265

VMAP 260 Thematic Explorations in Sound and Video Art
Units: 1
Description
Intermediate-level course in the study and production of sound and video within the context of contemporary art. Each year, the thematic focus of this course will change based upon current trends in the field. Possible topics may address methods of production (audio/video synthesis, online broadcasting, or multimedia performance and installation), genres significant to the field of contemporary art (appropriation, performance, documentary, narrative), or broader themes that have sustained lasting interest and significance (landscape and the environment, protest and social practice, media criticism, gender and identity politics). In addition to learning production and postproduction techniques, students participate in seminar discussions and presentations that seek to expand our understandings of the theme and/or mode of production in question. May be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites
VMAP 212 or VMAP 117; or the former ARTS 109; or FMST 202 or 203

VMAP 261 Independent Film and Video: Curatorial Practice and Presentation
Units: 1
Description
Refer to undergraduatecatalog.richmond.edu for updated catalog content.
Introduction to all aspects of researching, curating, promoting and presenting public programs of independent film and video art. Research on and participation in seminar discussions, presentations, and readings pertaining to the field prior to developing a curatorial theme or framework for a screening series, festival and/or gallery exhibition. Once determined, students preview works from the collections of international film and video art distributors, resulting in a curated program of works to be presented publicly at the close of the semester. In addition to programming, students are responsible for writing curatorial program descriptions, film and video synopses, and designing program brochures, posters, and websites. Through this process, students are exposed to contemporary trends in the field of independent film and video art while developing skills in graphic design, comparative analysis, writing about art and media, and presenting challenging work to a captive audience.

Prerequisites

VMAP 212 or VMAP 117; or the former ARTS 109; or VMAP 211 or VMAP 113 or the former ARTS 105 or 201; or VMAP 212 or VMAP 115 or the former ARTS 105, 206, or 210; or VMAP 252 or VMAP 253

VMAP 279 Selected Topics

Units: 1
Description
Examples of past courses include: printmaking and cross-cultural communication, figure and narrative, and comic books and zines. May be repeated for credit if topics differ.

VMAP 300 Drawing Media Studio

Units: 1
Description
Studio-intensive course providing students with the opportunity to independently conceive and develop projects that expand their prior knowledge of drawing-based media. Emphasis is placed upon developing a personal voice while exploring various techniques and advanced concepts in drawing. Projects that integrate or extend into media such as painting, printmaking, sculpture, and video, are supported. Prepares students for the advanced and thesis-levels of our curriculum where working across media is encouraged. May be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites

VMAP 211 or VMAP 112 or the former ARTS 109; or VMAP 279 or VMAP 251

VMAP 302 Painting Media Studio

Units: 1
Description
Productive and critical framework for creating independently conceived painting projects within a broad array of painting media, multimedia, and interdisciplinary contexts. Emphasis will shift between highly focused and exploratory processes as each student develops coherence between paint's materiality, supports, concepts, and context. Encourages historical and experimental methods and includes painting's extension into other media such as photography, printmaking, film, video, and sculpture. Prepares students for the advanced and thesis-levels of our curriculum where working across media is encouraged. May be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites

VMAP 211 or VMAP 113 or the former ARTS 105 or 201; or VMAP 252 or VMAP 253

VMAP 304 Sculpture Media Studio

Units: 1
Description
Constructive and critical framework to develop independently conceived projects in a wide spectrum of sculptural media. Emphasis on the production of works that bridge material processes in wood, metal, and various forms of casting with contemporary tools such as 3D printing, laser cutting, and CNC routing. The production of multi-media installations that incorporate or extend into areas such as painting, printmaking, photography, and digital or electronic media is both supported and encouraged. Prepares students for the advanced and thesis levels of our curriculum where working across media is common practice. May be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites

VMAP 211 or VMAP 114 or the former ARTS 108, 208, or 210; or VMAP 254 or VMAP 255

VMAP 306 Printmaking Media Studio

Units: 1
Description
Studio-intensive course providing a constructive and critical framework to develop independently conceived projects across a variety of printmaking media. Emphasis on the exploration of advanced processes and concepts while deepening students’ appreciation for printmaking, broadening their knowledge of the history of print-media, and developing an understanding of contemporary printmaking practices. Projects that integrate or extend into areas such as painting, photography, sculpture, and mixed-media installation, are supported. Prepares students for the advanced and thesis-levels of the curriculum where working across media is common practice. May be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites

VMAP 212 or VMAP 115 or the former ARTS 105, 206, or 225; or VMAP 256 or VMAP 257

VMAP 308 Photography Media Studio

Units: 1
Description
Independent conception and development of projects that expand prior knowledge of digital and/or darkroom photography, image post-production, and printing techniques. Photo-based projects that integrate or extend into other media such as painting, printmaking, film, and video, are supported. Prepares students for the advanced and thesis-levels of the curriculum where working across media is encouraged. May be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites

VMAP 212 or VMAP 116 or the former ARTS 204, 219, or 265; or VMAP 258 or VMAP 259

VMAP 310 Time-Based Media Studio

Units: 1
Description
Critical framework to develop independently conceived projects in a variety of media. Production of electronic time-based works that integrate animation, film, sound, video and performance into interactive, mixed-media installations that may also incorporate other art making processes such as painting, photography, printmaking, and sculpture. A variety of electronic tools (analog and digital) that expand or augment more traditional forms of time-based media are developed and explored. Prepares students for the advanced

VMAP 351 Contemporary Theory and Practice for Artists
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to international contemporary art, theory, and criticism with the purpose of increasing critical aptitude and deepening understanding of art and visual culture. Examines the lasting impact of avant-garde practices as well as current trends in the visual arts. Research contemporary art practices through intensive reading, writing, and seminar discussions. Junior-level requirement for all VMAP majors.
Prerequisites
VMAP 211 and VMAP 212, or the former ARTS 105, 106 and 109. Special Note: For Juniors Only - to be taken in Spring of Junior Year

VMAP 375 Contextual Practice
Units: 1
Description
Interdisciplinary context, changing each year according to the instructor’s expertise and creative interests, as a framework to inform the research and production of independent student projects. Possible areas of focus include relational aesthetics and participatory art, public interventions and installations, or environmentally and politically engaged art. Emphasis on media exploration and experimentation, and the development of artworks that cross boundaries of what is commonly considered "art." Advanced-level course, a junior-level requirement for all VMAP majors. Also appropriate for non-majors with broad creative interests. May be co-taught with a faculty member of guest artist from another discipline.
Prerequisites
VMAP 211 and VMAP 212, or the former ARTS 105, 106 and 109. Special Note: For Juniors Only - to be taken in Spring of Junior Year

VMAP 388 Individual Internship
Units: 25-1
Description
Supervised work experience at approved artist's studio, museum, or gallery. No more than 1.5 units of internship in any one department and 3.5 units of internship overall may be counted toward required degree units.
Prerequisites
Departmental approval.

VMAP 395 Independent Study
Units: .25-1
Description
Individually designed program under faculty supervision. Independent studies cannot be substituted for required courses in the Visual and Media Arts Practice major.
Prerequisites
Departmental approval.

VMAP 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer fellowships to conduct research [or produce a creative arts project] in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 8 weeks, the student must engage in the project full-time (at least 40 hours per week) during this period, and the student must be the recipient of a fellowship through the university. Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Departmental approval.

VMAP 465 Advanced Studio Practice
Units: 1
Description
Senior-level open studio course. Students propose an independently conceived body of work in any medium or media of their choice. Emphasis on the development and completion of a cohesive body of work grounded in independent research and supported by resolved written statements. Provides students with the opportunity to develop a sustainable studio practice that embodies rigorous research, conceptual problem solving, and an in-depth understanding of how their practice exists within field of contemporary art. Work presented in the form of critiques as well as more formal presentations to the Department of Art and Art History faculty. Following a successful final review, the Visual and Media Arts Practice faculty grant acceptance into ARTS 466: Senior Thesis Exhibition.
Prerequisites
VMAP 211 and VMAP 212, or the former ARTS 105, 106 and 109; and VMAP 351 and 375 or the former ARTS 351 and 375. Special Note: For Seniors Only - to be taken in Fall of Senior Year

VMAP 466 Senior Thesis Exhibition
Units: 1
Description
Graduating Visual and Media Arts Practice majors are granted acceptance into this course based upon a successful review of their performance in ARTS 465: Advanced Studio Seminar. In addition to preparing their work for exhibition, students write thesis papers to support their research and creative work and learn practical skills for developing careers as professional artists. This course concludes with a thesis exhibition in the Harnett Museum of Art, where students publicly present their work in the form of a gallery talk, and an off-campus group exhibition that is organized, installed, and promoted as a collaborative class effort.
Prerequisites
VMAP 211 and VMAP 212, or the former ARTS 105, 106 and 109; and VMAP 351 and 375 or the former ARTS 351 and 375; and VMAP 465 or the former ARTS 465, and permission of the Department. Special Note: For Seniors Only - to be taken in Spring of Senior Year

Wellness

Recreation and Wellness
Tracy Cassalia, Health Educator

In keeping with the University's objective of fostering knowledge and personal well-being, every undergraduate student will complete a three part wellness series prior to graduation. Before arriving on campus, first year and transfer students will complete both Alcohol Edu and Haven, an online alcohol prevention and education program. Once on campus, students will complete a two-hour alcohol seminar (WELL 085) specific to policies of the University and the Commonwealth of Virginia. Students are also required to complete two WELL 090 health education topics courses. Classes are geared towards topics that will promote academic success and personal health.

The wellness program, a division of student development, is responsible for the wellness graduation requirement. All students seeking a bachelor's degree must complete the requirement prior to the start of their junior year. The wellness graduation requirement consists of the following classes:

- UR Aware (WELL 085) Alcohol Awareness Program
- Plus 2 (WELL 090) a wellness topic of choice
- Plus 2 (WELL 090) a second wellness topic of choice

Each course is graded with an S or U (Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory). Students who have not satisfactorily completed WELL 085 by the end of their first year of enrollment will have an administrative hold put on their record and will not be able to register until they have made arrangements to take the class.

Courses

WELL 085 URAWARE: Alcohol Awareness Program
Units: 0
Fulfills General Education Requirement (WEL1)
Description
An alcohol prevention/education program designed to assist students in making positive decisions regarding alcohol issues. Students must satisfactorily complete this component of the wellness requirement their first semester on campus. Students will first complete Alcohol Edu, an on-line alcohol prevention and education program followed by a two-hour on-campus alcohol seminar.

WELL 090 PLUS2: Wellness Topics
Units: 0
Fulfills General Education Requirement (WEL2)
Description
The wellness topic component of the wellness graduation requirement. Students will be offered a choice of health and wellness topics every semester. Sample topics include nutrition, sexual health, relationships, and stress management. Students are required to satisfactorily complete two topics for graduation. Topic sessions run for six weeks, 90 minutes each week. Students are encouraged to complete this component of the wellness requirement before or during their sophomore year. (The wellness requirement carries no credit, but is billed at a tuition rate equivalent to .25 units of credit for the cost of instruction.)

WELL 200 College Student Development: Applications to Residential Life
Units: 0
Fulfills General Education Requirement (WEL2)
Description
Theoretical and experiential study of human behavior. Emphasis on self-awareness and growth, and its application to understanding students and their lives. Attention given to leadership skills in a residential setting.

Prerequisites
Must be a recently-selected residential life staff member or receive instructor’s permission to enroll.

Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies

Mari Lee Mifsud, Coordinator
The women, gender and sexuality studies program is grounded in a) the analysis of gender and sexuality as historically emergent concepts and regions of human experience; b) the histories of political and social movements focused on the concerns, needs, and perspectives of women and sexualities minorities; and c) the theoretical and methodological frameworks of feminist analysis across the disciplines. Working in close consultation with an advisor, students may engage in a wide range of coursework emphasizing their specific areas of interest within the interdisciplinary field.

The Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies Major

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the major must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C (2.0).

10 units, including

WGSS 200 Introduction to Women, Gender & Sexuality Studies
WGSS 489 Research Methods and Capstone Preparation
WGSS 490 Senior Capstone Experience

Seven additional units in WGSS or cross-listed courses. At least four of the seven courses must be at the 300-level or above, and no more than .5 unit of internship credit may be counted toward the major.

Students must develop their major course of study plan in consultation with their advisor/WGSS coordinator. Plans must be submitted in writing and kept on file. The procedure for submitting a plan can be found on the WGSS website.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the major. Prerequisites do not count toward the major unless otherwise noted.

Related Fields

Combined major in women, gender and sexuality studies and English literature

The Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies Minor

Note: The grade point average of the coursework comprising the minor must be no less than 2.00 with no course grade below C (2.0).

5 units, including
WGSS 200 Introduction to Women, Gender & Sexuality Studies
Four additional units in WGSS core or cross-listed from at least two different departments, including no more than .5 units of internship credit.

Students are expected to fulfill all prerequisites necessary for courses within the minor. Prerequisites do not count toward the minor unless otherwise noted.

Courses for Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies
Credit
See the departmental listings for descriptions of the following courses offered for women, gender, and sexuality studies credit. Courses marked with an asterisk (*) may or may not carry women, gender, and sexuality studies credit in any given semester. You will need to make arrangements with the instructor and the women, gender, and sexuality studies coordinator at the beginning of the semester in order to count courses marked with an asterisk towards the WGSS major or minor. A comprehensive listing of courses is published each semester on the WGSS website and should be taken as the final arbiter for women, gender and sexuality studies credit.

To qualify, a student should have at least a 3.30 cumulative grade point average, 18 or more units completed and, excluding coursework primarily for first-year students, 3.5 or more units completed with distinction in the major field. Successful completion of an honors program is shown on the student's permanent academic record and on the diploma.

Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (B.S.B.A.)

The Robins School of Business offers the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (B.S.B.A.). Within this degree, there are three majors: accounting, business administration, and economics. All business administration majors must choose one primary area of concentration.

Students may choose a primary concentration in the areas of finance, economics, marketing, management, or international business. In addition, students may electively choose a second area of concentration in accounting or from those listed above.

Students may only have one major in the school of business, chosen from accounting, business administration, or economics. A concentration(s) may be attached to any of these majors but is only required for the business administration major.

Candidates for a B.S.B.A. must:
Satisfy the general degree requirements for graduation;
Complete the following pre-business courses:
ACCT 201 Fundamentals of Financial Accounting
ACCT 202 Fundamentals of Managerial Accounting
BUAD 202 Statistics for Business and Economics
BUAD 205 Business Communication
ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics

The Business Administration Major

In addition to the requirements for the B.S.B.A. degree outlined on the BSBA page, all business administration majors must complete a concentration. Except as otherwise noted on the concentration page, a concentration area requires four courses minimum chosen from a single Robins School of Business department. A maximum of seven courses can be taken in any area of concentration.

Business administration majors must choose a concentration from the following areas: accounting, economics, finance, international business, marketing, or management. A concentration in accounting is always a secondary concentration to a primary concentration or major. Students pursuing a secondary major in Economics in the School of Arts and Sciences may not pursue a concentration in Economics in the Business school.

Electives: Sufficient units to complete degree requirements over and above other major requirements. At least 17 units must be taken outside the Robins School of Business.

Note: There is no business administration concentration area.

The Business Administration Minor

9 units, including

ACCT 201 Fundamentals of Financial Accounting
ACCT 202 Fundamentals of Managerial Accounting
BUAD 202 Statistics for Business and Economics
ECON 101 Microeconomics
ECON 102 Macroeconomics
FIN 360 Principles of Financial Management
MGMT 330 Organizational Behavior
MGMT 340 Operations Management
MKT 320 Principles of Marketing

The business minor student should complete the ACCT 201-ACCT 202 and ECON 101-ECON 102 requirements prior to enrolling in any other business administration course.

Courses

BUAD 101 Introduction to Business
Units: 1
Description
Multidisciplinary course that exposes student to functional areas of business. Focus on acquiring understanding of language and structure of business through study of its functional components: accounting, economics, finance management, and marketing. (Open to first- and second-year students only.)

BUAD 202 Statistics for Business and Economics
Units: 1
Description
Theory, methodology, and applications of statistics to contemporary business and economics problems. Includes descriptive statistics, probability theory, probability distributions, one- and two-population statistical inference, analysis of variance, correlation, and regression.

BUAD 203 Software Tools and Applications
Units: .5
Description
Laboratory course providing introduction to software packages with applications for business decision making. Emphasis on understanding spreadsheet applications, but includes sessions on word processing and graphics software and database searches.

BUAD 205 Business Communication

The Economics Major for the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration Degree

Note: A grade point average of C (2.00) is required in the major with no course grade below a C- (1.7) in an economics course required for the major.

In addition to the pre-business and business core curricula outlined on the BSBA page, 8 economics courses including:

- ECON 270 Introductory Econometrics
- ECON 271 Microeconomic Theory
- ECON 272 Macroeconomic Theory
- Four units of economics electives (at least two of which must be at the 300 level)
- ECON 480 Senior Capstone Seminar or ECON 491 Honors Thesis in Economics

Note: Majors are encouraged to take ECON 101 and ECON 102 and BUAD 202 during their first year, and ECON 271 and ECON 272 during their second year. A basic foundation in calculus (e.g., MATH 190, MATH 211) is required for ECON 271.

Students may plan their course load to pursue a general major in economics or to study a specific area in economics. Students interested in pursuing a graduate degree in economics are encouraged to seek advice concerning the honors program in economics, the mathematical economics major, and/or taking MATH 235 Multivariate Calculus, MATH 245 Linear Algebra, and MATH 321 Real Analysis.
The Economics Concentration (for Business Administration majors only)

The economics concentration is composed of four to six courses of economics electives at the 200 and 300 levels. While no specific courses are required, students are encouraged to coordinate their courses to meet their professional objectives. Electives are grouped into the following areas: business economics, international economics, economic history, public policy, quantitative economics, and intermediate theory.

Honors Program

Students invited into the honors program may earn honors in economics by completing the following requirements:
1. ECON 490;
2. ECON 491;
3. Two 300-level electives taken for honors credit;
4. Honors thesis

Courses

ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics
Units: 1
Fulfills General Education Requirement (FSSA)
Description
Provides students with the analytical perspective to think critically about the market system and social objectives it may serve. Topics include supply and demand, market structure, production, market failure (e.g., pollution), and benefits and costs of government intervention.

ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics
Units: 1
Description
The study of national income determination within a global economy. Topics include inflation, unemployment, GDP determination, money supply, balance of payments, currency markets and role of fiscal and monetary policies.

ECON 201 Games and Experiments in Economics
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to game theory. Based on a scientific metaphor that many interactions that we do not usually think of as games such as market competition, collusion, auctions, elections, bargaining can be treated and analyzed as games. Study of how to recognize and model strategic situations, how and when their actions will affect the decisions of others, and how to gain advantage in strategic situations.
Prerequisites
ECON 101

ECON 210 The Economics of the European Union
Units: 1
Description
Comparative analysis of European and United States' economics systems, including a review of the evolution of the European Union. Although the scope of the course is primarily European, Japan and China also are studied.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 211 Economic Development in Asia, Africa and Latin America
Units: 1
Description
Comparative analysis of economic growth, income and wealth distribution, trade and finance, population, agriculture, and industrialization in Latin America, Africa, and Asia.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 215 International Monetary Economics
Units: 1
Description
Provides an introduction to the fields of open-economy macroeconomics and international finance. The course builds upon the closed-economy models of previous courses and extends them by considering the impacts of domestic and foreign policies on key variables such as interest rates, output, current accounts, and exchange rates. Additional topics covered include national income accounting, government intervention, and the history of international monetary systems.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 221 American Economic History

Topics include Native American development up to the arrival of Europeans, transportation revolutions, slavery, agriculture and monetary controversies in the late 19th century, health and nutrition, immigration, technological change, the Great Depression and New Deal, and civil rights.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 230 Environmental Economics
Units: 1
Description
Development and application of economic principles to understand and evaluate causes and solutions to environmental problems such as pollution and conservation. Topics include economics of biodiversity protection, global warming, natural resource damage assessment, measurement of environmental values, and alternative strategies for pollution control. Special attention given to optimal use of exhaustible and renewable natural resources. (Same as Environmental Studies 230).
Prerequisites
ECON 101.

ECON 231 Law and Economics
Units: 1
Description
Application of economic analysis to legal concepts. Using goals of efficiency and wealth maximization, shows how economic theory can unify property law, contract law, tort law, criminal law, and family/sex law, as well as offer new insights to old problems.
Prerequisites
ECON 101.

ECON 233 Ethics and Economics
Units: 1
Description
Explores ethical considerations that arise in economic analyses. In positive economics, how are choices informed by considerations of duty or virtue (in addition to utility)? In normative economics, how do concepts of welfare and efficiency derive from ethical theories, and how have these changed over time? What competing ethical theories add to our understanding of public policy issues? Preparation for a complex world when economic analysis is viewed as complementary to a critical-thinking process about ethical frameworks. Addresses additional questions such as: What is the moral philosophy behind capitalism? What are the moral limits to markets? Do businesses create and rely upon moral capital?
Prerequisites
ECON 101.

ECON 234 Urban Economics
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to the field of urban and regional economics. Study of urban growth and decline, the monocentric city model, and urban challenges. Application and interpretation of computer-generated statistical output.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 260 Selected Economic Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Major areas in economics, application of economic principles, and analysis of policy issues.
Prerequisites
ECON 101 and 102.

ECON 269 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Specialized study or directed research in an area of economics.
Prerequisites
A written outline worthy of academic credit and permission of department chair.

ECON 270 Introductory Econometrics
Units: 1
Description
Techniques for rigorously testing economic theory and preparation for basic empirical work in economics. Topics will include basic data analysis, a review of comparisons of means, regression analysis (including estimation, functional form, dummy variables, inference, assumptions, violations of assumptions, corrections for violations), and forecasting. Students will be provided with the opportunity to use actual economic data to test economic theories.
Prerequisites
Major in ECNA, ECNB, or MTEC. ECON 101 and 102 and one of BUAD 202, MATH 329 or MATH 330, all with a C- or better.

ECON 271 Microeconomic Theory
Units: 1
Description
Theory of price determination in both output and input markets; in-depth analysis of behavior of individual consumers, firms, and industries under various market structures; theories of exchange and distribution.
Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 101 & 102 & (MATH 190 or MATH 211).

ECON 272 Macroeconomic Theory
Units: 1
Description
Theory of national income determination; short/medium-run monetary and fiscal policy issues are examined using Keynesian and New Classical models; long-run analysis focuses on recent extensions of the neoclassical growth model.
Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 102 & ECON 271.

ECON 300 Industrial Organization and Public Policy
Units: 1
Description
Designed to identify features of industries with various degrees of competition. Issues to be explored include: identifying dominant firm, tight or loose oligopoly, competitive, and monopoly industries; product vs. geographic markets; technological innovations; collusion, product differentiation; mergers; advertising; efficiency; price discrimination; etc. In addition, antitrust policies will be reviewed as they pertain to these issues.
Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 310 International Trade: Causes, Consequences, and Controversies
will study international trade in goods and services and through both theoretical and empirical approaches, students will study international trade in goods and services and develop a framework for analysis of trade policy issues. Major themes include the causes and patterns of trade, the gains from trade and their distribution, the consequences of trade policies such as tariffs and voluntary export restraints, and the institutions of the world trading system including regional trade agreements. The course also considers many of the current issues related to trade such as dumping, trade-related intellectual property rights, trade and the environment, and the decisions of multinational firms. Economics 270 is recommended but not required before you take this course.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 315 Advanced International Macroeconomics
Units: 1
Description
An advanced course in international finance and macroeconomics focusing on the factors that determine countries' capital flows and trade balances. The course will introduce several models of intertemporal welfare maximization to help students think about optimal consumption and investment decisions across time as well as the influence of fiscal policy in an open economy setting.

Prerequisites
C- or better in all 4 prerequisite courses: Economics 101, 102, 271, and 272.

ECON 330 Environmental and Resource Economic Theory
Units: 1
Description
A rigorous treatment of environmental and resource issues, with particular emphasis on problem of designing appropriate institutions and regulations under uncertainty. Topics include emission fees and marketable permits; enforcement, risk regulation, the economics and regulation of the fishery; depletion of nonrenewable resources; and forest use. Economics 270 is recommended but not required before you take this course. (Same as Environmental Studies 330.)

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 331 Labor Economics
Units: 1
Description
Economic analysis of labor markets including labor supply, investment in human capital, labor demand, and wage determination. Policy issues include labor unions, discrimination, and analysis of government programs affecting labor markets.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 332 Public Economics
Units: 1
Description
Economic analysis of government spending and taxation with particular emphasis on current public policy issues (e.g., social security, health care and fundamental income tax reform). Economics 270 is recommended but not required before you take this course.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271.

ECON 334 Mathematical Economics
Units: 1
Description
Examines various economic concepts by means of mathematical analysis.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 271 & (MATH 212 or 232) & MATH 245.

ECON 360 Selected Economic Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Major areas in economics, application of economic principles, and analysis of policy issues.

Prerequisites
A core course to be announced.

ECON 368 Global Vision: A Student-Managed ETF Portfolio
Units: 5
Description
Introduces students to the role of pure economic analysis in the construction of investment portfolios. The asset class and sector allocations of the portfolio flow from on-going assessment of domestic and international economic conditions. The portfolio choices are implemented using Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). This investment vehicle eliminates the need for the technical training necessary for evaluating individual securities. The portfolio recommended by the class is implemented through the financial support of the university. The formal output of the semester is well suited to student participation at existing undergraduate research conferences and competitions. May be repeated; graded. The course will not count towards the Economics major.

Prerequisites
One 200- or 300-level economics course with a grade of C- or better and permission of instructor.

ECON 369 Independent Study
Units: .5-1
Description
Specialized study or directed research in an area of economics.

Prerequisites
ECON 271 or 272, a written outline worthy of advanced credit and permission of department chair.

ECON 370 Advanced Econometrics
Units: 1
Description
Techniques for rigorously testing economic theory. Reinforces and extends the econometric techniques developed in Economics 270. Topics include a review of the classical linear regression model as well as model extensions including dummy and limited dependent variables, panel data estimation, instrumental variables, simultaneous equation systems, time-series analysis, and forecasting. Excel, SPSS, and SAS are used in weekly computer lab sessions.

Prerequisites
C- or better in ECON 270.
ECON 372 Advanced Macroeconomics
Units: 1
Description
Examination of selected topics in macroeconomics beyond the basic theory level covered in Economics 272. Topics may include forecasting, time-series econometrics, growth theory, analysis of dynamic, stochastic general-equilibrium models, and open-economy macroeconomics. Selected Topics course that may be repeated with department permission (which is allowed if the course topics are different).
Prerequisites
C- or better in both ECON 270 & ECON 272

ECON 480 Senior Capstone Seminar
Units: 1
Description
Utilizes theoretical and applied economic models from previous economics courses. Semester assignments guide students through a major research project of one of the following forms: contemporary economic analysis, historical economic analysis, viewpoints in economic analysis, or quantitative economic analysis. Students develop an economic question; gain access to existing knowledge; demonstrate command of existing knowledge; use existing knowledge to explore an issue of interest; understand the steps to complete a substantial research project; and sharpen written communication skills. Note: Participation in the honors program fulfills the capstone requirement.
Prerequisites
C- or better in all three prerequisite courses: ECON 270 & 271 & 272, & senior standing.

ECON 490 Honors Seminar in Economics
Units: 1
Description
Honors seminar.
Prerequisites
Departmental invitation.

ECON 491 Honors Thesis in Economics
Units: 1
Description
Capstone independent research project and honors paper. Note: Participation in the honors program fulfills the capstone requirement.
Prerequisites
Departmental invitation.

The Finance Concentration

The finance concentration requires a minimum of four courses chosen from among the finance courses in addition to the pre-business and business core requirements outlined above. Two of the four courses must be chosen from:
- FIN 361
- FIN 366
- FIN 461
- FIN 466
- FIN 467

A maximum of seven courses can be taken in any area of concentration. The finance concentration offers optional curriculum tracks. Students may pursue one of the optional tracks listed below by taking all of the finance courses listed under each track.

Optional Finance Concentration Program Tracks (suggested courses and sequences)

(1) CFA® Track (emphasis on investments and securities)
- FIN 366 Investments
- FIN 462 International Financial Management
- FIN 466 Fixed Income and Derivative Securities
- FIN 467 Portfolio Management and Analysis
- FIN 468 Student-Managed Investment Fund (senior year)

Suggested Supporting Courses:
- ECON 200 The Economics of Money, Banking and Financial Markets
- FIN 369 Alternative Assets
- FIN 369 Deal Structure and Valuation
- FIN 461 Cases and Financial Modeling

(2) Corporate Finance Track
- FIN 361 Corporate Finance
- FIN 366 Investments
- FIN 461 Cases and Financial Modeling
- FIN 462 International Financial Management

Suggested Supporting Courses:
- ECON 200 The Economics of Money, Banking and Financial Markets
- FIN 369 Deal Structure and Valuation

Notes:
Students planning to enroll in FIN 468 should complete FIN 366 during their junior year.
Program tracks do not affect the finance concentration requirements of the B.S.B.A. degree.
IBUS students taking FIN 462 and concentrating in finance need only three additional courses in finance.

Special Opportunities and Graduate Work Preparation

Students are encouraged to speak to their academic advisors about special opportunities in programs such as the Student-Managed Investment Fund; Chartered Financial Analyst Student Program; Federal Reserve Challenge; Investments Club; and Business Conditions and Analysis Review.

Students interested in graduate work should consider taking ECON 370 Advanced Econometrics. In addition, a math minor or a combination of MATH 212 Calculus II; MATH
FIN 200 Personal Finance
Units: 1
Description
Major changes in financial institutions, new methods of borrowing, expanded insurance products, and new investment vehicles that have changed how we live our lives and organize our finances. Personal finance addresses all of the major personal financial planning problems that individuals and households are expected to encounter, including how to set savings goals, assess career choices, use banking, credit, and other financial services, make good investment decisions, and compare insurance products. This course does not count towards the finance concentration.

FIN 360 Principles of Financial Management
Units: 1
Description
Prerequisites

FIN 361 Corporate Finance
Units: 1
Description
The study of theory and practice of corporate finance with special emphasis on the evaluation and financing of capital expenditures. The goal is for the student to become thoroughly competent in areas of financial mathematics, capital budgeting analysis, and capital structure theory. Topics covered include decision tree analysis, sensitivity analysis, non scale-enhancing projects, dividend policy, rights offerings, call policy, warrants, convertible debt, international corporate finance, financial distress, and financial planning.
Prerequisites
Finance 360. Business School major.

FIN 363 Risk Management and Insurance

International Business

The International Business Concentration

International business issues are covered throughout the Robins School curriculum. However, for those students who wish to study international business in greater depth, the international business concentration is offered. Students concentrating in international business must complete the standard set of courses required of all Robins School students. These courses provide the foundation upon which the business program is built. International business students also must satisfy international knowledge and international experience requirements. A grade of C or better must be earned in each course used to meet international knowledge requirements.

International Knowledge Requirements

These requirements consist of international business knowledge and international cultural and social knowledge.

International Business Knowledge, five courses, including
IBUS 381 International Business Environment
IBUS 411 International Business Strategy

One course chosen from:
FIN 462 International Financial Management
or other international focused accounting or finance course approved by the associate dean for international business programs

One course chosen from:
MKT 325 International Marketing
MGMT 333 Cross Cultural Management
IBUS 390 International Business Issues or other international focused management or marketing course approved by the associate dean for international business programs

One international economics course chosen from:
ECON 210 The Economics of the European Union
ECON 211 Economic Development in Asia, Africa and Latin America
ECON 215 International Monetary Economics
ECON 260 International Policy
ECON 310 International Trade and Finance
ECON 315 Advanced International Macroeconomics
or other international focused economics course approved by the associate dean for international business programs

Note: One course in international business knowledge from accounting, finance, marketing or management can apply to a second concentration.

International Cultural and Social Knowledge, two courses, including
One approved course with an international focus from the humanities. A list of approved humanities courses is available on the international business website.
One approved course with an international focus from the social sciences. A list of approved social science courses is available on the international business website.

International Experience Requirements

The international experience requirements consist of cultural experiences and a work experience. International Cultural Experience: Students concentrating in international business must complete two of three international cultural experiences:

Successfully complete an approved university-level program of study in a foreign country for at least one semester;
Demonstrate proficiency in a second language. This may be done by earning a grade of C or better in a commercial language course.
(e.g., FREN 306 French at Work, LAIS 306 Spanish in Business) or other 300-level course (e.g., ITAL 301 Italian Conversation), or by earning a satisfactory score on an appropriate language proficiency examination; Live in another country for at least 12 continuous weeks other than study abroad experience.

International Work Experience: An international work experience is required for the international business concentration. This requirement may be met by completing an approved internship in the U.S. in an organization's international section, or by working in an organization located outside the U.S.

Notes: Subject to prior approval of the associate dean for international business programs, working abroad may satisfy both the international work experience requirement and one of the two international cultural experience requirements.

Jepson School of Leadership Studies

The Jepson School of Leadership Studies offers a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in leadership studies, as well as a minor in leadership studies. To earn this degree a candidate must satisfactorily complete the curricular requirements outlined in the following section and meet the general degree requirements of the University. The Jepson School of Leadership Studies seeks to develop in each student a base of knowledge for understanding leadership in a variety of settings. Curriculum goals are achieved through courses that emphasize both leadership theory and practice, thus helping students connect knowledge gained through coursework to the world outside of the classroom.

Admission Procedures

Students wishing to major or minor in leadership studies must apply for admission to the Jepson School during the fall semester of their second year.

A faculty committee reviews applications and chooses students based on essays and academic performance as well as faculty recommendations and extracurricular activities.

Prospective majors and minors must have completed or be enrolled in LDST 101 Leadership and the Humanities or LDST 102 Leadership and the Social Sciences to be considered for admission to the program. Both courses are required for the major and minor, but either course may be taken as a first course in leadership studies. After taking LDST 101 or LDST 102 and prior to admission, students may also take LDST 205 Justice and Civil Society. Electives are open to all students at the University.

Students seeking admission to the School need to attend information sessions, which are held in the fall. Application materials will be made accessible by the Associate Dean for Student and External Affairs once a student has attended an information session. The application deadline is September 30 or next business day. For further information, please contact:

Associate Dean for Student and External Affairs, Jepson School of Leadership Studies

Honors in Leadership Studies

The Jepson School faculty offers a track by which students with a proven academic record of intellectual initiative and scholarly drive can earn honors in leadership studies. The faculty invites interested students to apply for the honors track. The deadline for this application is October 1 of the student's junior year. To qualify, a student must be a leadership studies major, hold at least a 3.30 cumulative GPA and at least a 3.30 leadership studies GPA, and have earned a B or higher in at least four leadership studies courses. The application form is available for qualified juniors from the associate dean for academic affairs.

Once accepted to the honors track, in order to receive honors in leadership studies, a student must:

Enroll in LDST 399 Junior Honors Tutorial, for spring semester of junior year.

Submit a five-page proposal and preliminary bibliography to be accepted by the course instructor and a Jepson faculty thesis advisor.

Enroll in LDST 497 and LDST 498, Senior Honors Thesis I and II, during senior year.

Successfully present one chapter, bibliography, and chapter-by-chapter outline of thesis to the student's committee by the last day of classes in the fall semester of senior year.

Successfully defend thesis before the student's committee by the last day of classes in the spring semester of senior year.

Complete undergraduate program with at least a 3.30 cumulative GPA and at least a 3.30 leadership studies GPA.

Students in the honors track must complete all aspects of the standard Jepson curriculum. LDST 497 and LDST 498 can count for a maximum of one unit of advanced course credit.

Study Abroad

Leadership studies students are encouraged to study abroad. Majors may count a maximum of one unit of study abroad credit toward the advanced course requirement. This course must enhance the student's academic plan in leadership studies. Determination of whether a course enhances a student's academic plan in leadership studies will be made by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Students are encouraged to study abroad in the spring of junior year, although alternate arrangements typically can be made to accommodate students planning to study abroad in the fall of junior year.

Examination of knowledge and argumentation as they pertain to leadership. Analysis of scientific methodology and logic, language and interpretation, and their influence on the study and practice of leadership.
Prerequisites
Leadership Studies 101 or 102, and admission to the Jepson School of Leadership Studies as a major or minor.

LDST 290 Selected Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics developed by Jepson school faculty, visiting faculty, or faculty in other schools of the University that address particular issues in leadership studies. Examples may include leadership studies courses in the Sophomore Scholars in Residence program. May be taken more than once for credit if topics vary.
Prerequisites
Varies depending on topic.

LDST 300 Theories and Models of Leadership
Units: 1
Description
Examination of theories and models in leadership studies. Introduces role of theory in social science, and both classic and contemporary leadership theories/models are presented. Emphasis on critical analysis of theoretical perspectives.
Prerequisites
Leadership Studies 101 and 102, and admission to the Jepson School of Leadership Studies as a major or minor.

LDST 302 Leadership in Organizations
Units: 1
Description
Focus on leadership theory and research within and across formal organizational settings such as public/private, profit/nonprofit, professional/nonprofessional, and unitary/multidivisional. Examination of rational, natural, and open systems, and of how leadership differs in each system. Primary focus social/organizational.

LDST 303 Leadership in Political Contexts
Units: 1
Description
Informal and formal processes by which power and authority are exercised and leadership is selected within political systems in various settings. Examination of leadership in basic processes and institutions of government through case study of legislative issues. Primary focus historical.

LDST 304 Social Movements
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of history of leadership in social movements. Comparison and contrast of forms, mechanisms, and practices of leadership in various stages of a social movement. Examination of values of leaders as expressed through stories of ordinary people involved in leadership in social movements. Primary focus historical.

LDST 306 Leadership in Cultural and Historical Contexts
Units: 1
Description
Study of the ecological and cultural factors that shape political organization. Case studies drawn from primatology, cultural anthropology, and political history to illustrate what makes human leadership unique and investigate why leadership and political organization vary across human societies, both historically and cross-culturally. Some of the questions we consider include: Why do humans adopt leader and follower roles at all? What is the nature of leadership in other social animals, particularly chimpanzees? Are there any human societies that lack leadership? What kinds of societies have seen more leadership by women? Why are some human societies more hierarchical than others? Exposes students to the ecological, cultural, and historical contexts that shape leadership and also stimulates critical thinking about human social behavior in general. Primary focus social/organizational.

LDST 307 Leadership in International Contexts
Units: 1
Description
Comparative study of leadership in various cultures and in cross-cultural organizations. Topics include cultural and ethical influences on leadership, the relationship between leaders and followers in various cultures, and problems of cross-cultural leadership. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 308 The Creation of the American Republic
Units: 1
Description
Examines principles and practice of leadership within political context of the founding of the American Republic from 1776 through 1788. Primary focus will be on day-to-day work of the Constitutional Convention and the subsequent debates over ratification of the new constitution. Primary focus historical. (Same as Political Science 330.)

LDST 309 Leadership and the Common Good
Units: 1
Description
Examines political, social, economic, psychological, moral, and/or religious approaches to how societies determine and pursue goods in common. Attention to conceptions of well-being, how individuals and societies determine it, and how leaders and citizens achieve it. Focus on leadership challenge of negotiating tensions between individual and collective welfare, and how leaders in various contexts move citizens to embrace common goals.

LDST 310 Folk Music and Protest Thought
Units: 1
Description
An exploration of leadership in the arts that will examine the subject from three perspectives. First, it will consider figures in traditional, old-time, and folk music whose contributions have been transformative. Second, consideration will be given to folk music as a variety of American political and social thought, as an expression of ideas about human nature and the politics of the day. Finally, there will be an evaluation of the persuasive power of song as a rhetorical means of spreading, and perhaps inculcating political and social ideas in the minds of the people. Primary focus historical.

LDST 340 Early Modern Crises in Leadership
Units: 1
Description
Discussion of primary texts that disclose difficulties in formulating political and religious policy during the crises that start with the later Middle Ages in Western Europe and run into the seventeenth century. Students will be expected to evaluate as well currently influential interpretations of the crises and proposed resolutions. Specific subjects will be selected from a menu that includes medieval papal imperialism and decline, the development of early modern secular bureaucracies, Renaissance political theory, religious reformations, and religious wars as well as Machiavelli, More, Luther, Calvin, Whitgift, Lord Burghley, Queen Elizabeth I, Emperor Charles V, and King Henry IV (France). Primary focus historical.

LDST 342 Dead Leaders Society
Units: 1
Description
Exploration of the lives and times of important leaders of the past to gain insight into leadership, to learn how to evaluate leaders, and to gain expertise in better understanding the complex role that the surrounding context plays in the leadership relationship. Uses historical case studies to identify the leadership challenge and examine the values and activities of individuals in response to the mix of opportunities and constraints provided by fellow stakeholders and contemporary cultures, as well as by the long-term social, economic, and intellectual forces. Primary focus historical.

LDST 345 Civil War Leadership
Units: 1
Description
A study of the events leading to the Civil War, and the military and political leadership on both Union and Confederate sides during the war. Topics include the roles of slavery and political leadership in starting the war, the leadership of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis during the war, and that of Generals Ulysses S. Grant, Robert E. Lee, James Longstreet, George B. McClellan, and William T.
Sherman in shaping the outcome of the war. Primary focus historical.

LDST 351 Group Dynamics
Units: 1
Description
Introduction to scientific study of group processes through vocabulary, concepts, theories, and research. Both classic and contemporary theories and research are presented. Emphasis on both theoretical and applied components of group dynamics. Primary focus social/organizational.

LDST 352 Presidential Leadership
Units: 1
Description
A study of theories of presidential leadership and assessments of several presidencies, including those of George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy, Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, and Bill Clinton. Addresses the personal qualities and capacities as well as the situational and historical contingencies that influence the effectiveness of various presidencies. Also considers the nature of social perception and its role in appraisals of presidential performance. Special attention will be given to presidential campaigning and presidential debates. Each student will undertake the study of one or more presidents. Primary focus historical. (Same as Psychology 449.)

LDST 354 Conflict Resolution
Units: 1
Description
Understanding principles and dynamics of mediating disputes and achieving agreements between groups and individuals. Discussion of negotiating techniques and ethical issues related to use of such techniques by leaders. Use of simulations and exercises to practice skills for resolving conflicts. Primary focus social/organizational.

LDST 355 Competition, Cooperation, and Choice
Units: 1
Description
Economic approach to leadership examines how individuals come together in social settings (a market place, an organization, a political entity) to make distributive decisions. Particular focus on Adam Smith's analysis of the development of modern industrial society and on important policy debates about slavery, the franchise and eugenics. Consideration of Smithian insights applied to contemporary game theoretic and experimental research on the emergence of cooperative behavior in settings where individual interests sometimes conflict with the interest of the group (or society). Special attention to public goods games and institutional frameworks that facilitate cooperation in a repeated prisoner's dilemma setting: competition, repetition, punishment, and reciprocity. Primary focus ethical.
Prerequisites
ECON 101

LDST 361 Sex, Power, and Politics
Units: 1
Description
Explores the processes by which "sexuality" is constituted and informs the leadership process. Readings on the social construction of gender, theories of power, and conceptions of freedom will be coupled with analyses of policy debates on issues such as reproductive freedom, pornography, and gay rights. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 368 Leadership on Stage and Screen
Units: 1
Description
Discussion of primary dramatic texts and films that examine leadership in a variety of settings and frameworks. Uses critical readings to contextualize the works as commentary on the issues and crises of leadership present at the time of their creation and examines the way in which they continue to address ethical and logistical leadership concerns in later periods and alternative contexts. In addition, discussions will focus on the use of film and theater as vehicles for questions of sociopolitical change and ethical inquiry. Course expectations include a theatrical production project working in the greater Richmond community designed to use the theatrical experience to enact social justice and examine leadership at work. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 371 Moral Limits of the Criminal Law
Units: 1
Description
Engages John Stuart Mill's project to determine "the nature and limits of the power which can be legitimately exercised by society over the individual." The starting point for the course is Mill's defense of the "harm principle" in On Liberty. Discussions address questions about whether we would be justified in using the criminal law to limit the liberty of individuals who engage in offensive behavior, behavior that is harmful only to the actors themselves, or behavior that is thought to be immoral. Readings from thinkers such as James Fitzjames Stephen, Patrick Devlin, H.L. A. Hart, and Joel Feinberg. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 374 Contemporary Debates in Democratic Theory
Units: 1
Description
Examination of contemporary debates in democratic theory, drawing primarily on writings of political theorists supplemented by scholarship in empirical political science, sociology, and political economy as appropriate. Specific topics examined may include the distribution of political and economic power in democratic societies; the relationship between political institutions and economic actors; the role of citizens in sustaining democratic regimes; the role of normative values in public-policy making; the role of deliberation in democratic regimes; and possibilities for institutional reform to expand democratic self-governance. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 375 Economic Policy and Leadership
Units: 1
Description
Explores two questions using debates amongst economists as our policy laboratory. First, what is the scope for policy makers to lead the economy through crises and the inevitable ups and downs that accompany economic expansion? How much agency should policy makers assume and when are unusual mechanisms called for? Second, what leadership role do economists legitimately play in the development and implementation of new economic policy? As we read and discuss the policy proposals of the past, we explore the answers to these and other questions in today’s economic contexts. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 376 Leadership and Governance in the Contemporary American Metropolis
Units: 1
Description
Examination of political, economic, and civic structure of contemporary American cities and their surrounding suburbs through the lens of contemporary democratic theory. Critically assesses historical and contemporary strategies for improving urban life employed by leaders in each of these sectors, with particular attention to the constraints these actors face. Specific topics discussed include transportation, land use, economic development and fiscal management, public education, crime, poverty, the formation of governing regimes, multiracial coalition building, and suburban sprawl. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 377 Ethical Decision Making - Health Care
Units: 1
Description
Systematic examination of the central ethical decisions faced by leaders in medicine and healthcare. Topics include deception, decision making for incompetent patients, consent, abortion, euthanasia, disability, resource allocation, organ donation, and experimentation with human and non-human animals. Readings by historical thinkers such as Jeremy Bentham, Immanuel Kant, and John Stuart Mill. Contemporary readings from bioethicists such as John Finnis, Judith Jarvis Thompson, Derek Parfit, Jonathan Glover, James Rachels, Peter Singer, and Ronald Dworkin. Primary focus ethical.

LDST 378 Statesmanship
Units: 1
Description
Focus on statesmanship through historical and biographical case studies of such figures as the American founders, Abraham Lincoln, and Winston Churchill. Also will seek to understand ways in which constitutional, legal, and political institutions can encourage, thwart, or direct leadership on a grand political scale. Primary focus historical. (Same as Political Science 310.)

LDST 379 Reason, Rhetoric, and Leadership
Units: 1
Description
Consideration of the relationship between rhetoric and leadership. Focus will be on such examples as Thucydides' "History of the Peloponnesian War," the Declaration of Independence, "The Federalist Papers," and the oratory of Abraham Lincoln and Winston Churchill. Primary focus historical. (Same as Political Science 316.)

LDST 383 Leadership and the Future of Higher Education
Units: 1
Description
Examines issues of leadership in higher education. Focus on how presidents work with constituents to achieve legitimacy, guide plans, and make decisions. Explore both traditional and emerging models in higher education. Primary focus social/organizational.

LDST 386 Leadership in a Diverse Society
Units: 1
Description
Study of how diversity affects social relations with an emphasis on leadership. Examines diversity, primarily through the lens of social psychology, by examining individual and collective dynamics in pluralistic settings. The primary focus is to familiarize students with basic research on intergroup relations, prejudice, stereotyping, and discrimination, so that they may: (1) evaluate and analyze the scientific merit of this research, and (2) apply this research to real world situations--e.g., reflect on the effect of social identity on achievement, performance, mental health, physical health, etc. Focuses on the causes, correlates and consequences of stereotyping, prejudice, and discrimination. Also addresses approaches to ameliorating these problems. Primary focus social/organizational.

LDST 387 Leadership and Religious Values
Units: 1
Description
Study of how political, cultural, and religious leaders draw on and influence their respective religious traditions. Primary focus historical.

LDST 389 Research Methods
Units: 1
Description
In-depth examination of various research methods used in leadership studies. Consideration of issues associated with design of studies, collection of various kinds of data, writing research proposals and reports, and analysis of data.

Prerequisites
Leadership Studies 101 or 102 and admission to the Jepson School of Leadership Studies as a major or minor.

LDST 390 Selected Topics
Units: .5-1
Description
Topics developed by Jepson School faculty, visiting faculty, or faculty in other schools of the University that address particular issues in leadership studies. Examples may include leadership and psychology and literature and leadership. May be taken more than once if topics vary.

Prerequisites
Varies depending on topic.

LDST 399 Junior Honors Tutorial
Units: .5
Description
Juniors accepted to honors track (in fall of junior year) work with Jepson faculty members in this spring tutorial to develop thesis proposal and preliminary bibliography to be accepted by the course instructor and a Jepson faculty thesis advisor.

Prerequisites
Acceptance to honors track.

LDST 406 Summer Undergraduate Research
Units: 0
Description
Documentation of the work of students who receive summer grants to conduct research in the summer. The work must take place over a minimum of 10 weeks, and the student must be the recipient of a Jepson School summer research grant.
Graded S/U.
Prerequisites
Approval for summer research grant by Jepson School
Student Affairs Committee

LDST 450 Leadership Ethics
Units: 1
Description
Application of moral theory to the values and assumptions of leadership, focusing especially on the ethical challenges of leaders past and present, group behavior, and leadership theory. Topics include self-interest, power, charisma, duty, obedience, and the greater good.
Prerequisites
Leadership Studies 300. Restricted to senior majors and minors or by permission of instructor.

LDST 488 Internship
Units: .5-1
Description
Applied experience in field of leadership studies and accompanying seminar. Observations of leaders in government, corporate, or nonprofit settings. Students are expected to apply what they have learned in required courses such as Theories and Models. Majors only.

LDST 490 Independent Study
Units: .5-2
Description
Independent study allows students to pursue research on their own topic of interest under the supervision of a faculty member. Independent study proposals must be submitted to the associate dean for academic affairs at least two weeks before the beginning of classes for the semester in which the independent study is to take place. The independent research experience will culminate in a final written product.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

LDST 491 Collaborative Study
Units: .5-2
Description
Collaborative study provides students with the opportunity to conduct research collaboratively with a Jepson faculty member on a project of theoretical or methodological importance to the faculty member's program of research.
Collaborative study must involve more than providing research assistance to an ongoing project; rather, the student must take responsibility for conducting original research of scholarly value. Collaborative study will be grounded in rigorous methods appropriate to the discipline in which the student is working and will culminate in a final written project.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

LDST 492 Directed Study
Units: 1
Description
Group reading and discussion in a specified area of leadership studies under faculty supervision.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

LDST 495 Senior Thesis I
Units: 1
Description
Year-long engagement in independent research project under supervision of faculty advisor.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

LDST 496 Senior Thesis II
Units: 1
Description
Year-long engagement in independent research project under supervision of faculty advisor.
Prerequisites
Department approval.

LDST 497 Senior Honors Thesis I
Units: 1
Description
Year-long engagement in independent research to produce written thesis worthy of honors in leadership studies. See description of Jepson honors track for further details.
Prerequisites
Leadership Studies 399 and commitment of a faculty thesis advisor are required to register for 497; in December of senior year, upon oral presentation of research and proposal,
Jepson faculty verifies permission to enroll in 498.

LDST 498 Senior Honors Thesis II
Units: 1
Description
Year-long engagement in independent research to produce
written thesis worthy of honors in leadership studies. See description of Jepson honors track for further details.
Prerequisites
Leadership Studies 399 and commitment of a faculty thesis
advisor are required to register for 497; in December of senior year, upon oral presentation of research and proposal,
Jepson faculty verifies permission to enroll in 498.

UNIV 401 University Seminar
Units: .5-1
Description
Inter-disciplinary seminar team-taught by faculty from two or more schools of the University. May be repeated for credit when topic varies.
Prerequisites
Junior or senior standing
